The big fellow followed up the issue closely until Browell gained possession, then beat two men in succession and slipping forward to his ubiquitious mate—Dawson—he lifted the ball into the net far out of the reach of the gaolkeeper. From the kick-off Gardner went right through on his own but his good play was spoiled when a player got offsides. Half time Thistle 2, Quakers 1.

HALF TIME.

After a well-deserved respite from the broiling sun and minor toilet wash which was much needed, the boys lined up again for the fray with renewed vigour which was evident in the Quakers eleven as W. Curtis changed places with his brother. W. Logan and Scott going forward to make a peppy attack, in fact, the later was doing nothing else but taking corner kicks that were nullified by J. Wade's cranium that overshadowed the miniature attack.

Evened up the Score Again.

Time and again Tommy Williams received the ball as Edgar kicked the goal kick and it was from one of these poor efforts that the Quaker left winger made amends for his previous attempts. He changed his tactics lately to give Harry Curtis the opportunity to even up the score from close range. Quick as lightning he ripped the ball in below the cross-bar, Curtis saving after it had dropped inside the lawful line. The referee awarded a goal in spite of the protests lodged. Another raid saw Craig smash the upright. Corners galore in favour of the Quakers never gained any advantage to them except give Frank Wade more scope for his witty reply to his opponent's query.

Browell's Riping Shot.

It was a defensive game that the Thistle indulged in with an occasional rush that always looked dangerous. In this respect no other player deserves credit more than Jack Wade who held the attacks outside the danger zone. He also made many openings to lead attacks that looked dangerous. He held Gardner in mid-field, beat along the wing with Browell who sent a fast drive into the far corner of the upright, but Curtis made a spectacular save at the expense of a corner that was repulsed.

"Hold that Man."

As time rolled on the Thistle played the offside rule with accuracy which was enlivened with witty football answers from Frank Wade, who always shouted as an opponent was offsides "Hold that man!" or he would even step-aside and ask his opponent "Come on now, shoot!" This upset his assailant to his disadvantage as he punted up field. Near the end both teams were well shot. The Thistle players deserve great praise for their sportsmanship in playing eight men against eleven Quakers 2, Thistles 2.

The Township men led at the interval by 2 to 1. The second half was stubbornly contested; the Township men found the net once, the Massey made a great effort to get on equal terms; the defence of Dummer relieved the pressure, and they left the field with full possession of points by 3 goals to 1.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

All golfers presumably have encountered the term "Hands Leading." That means that the hands lead the golf club throughout the swing. Many players start the club away from the ball with the hands and then immediately lose the sense of hand control. The hands should maintain an absolute control of the club all the way through. I mean by this that you put the club back to the top, with the hands. At the top the club is held with the hands. From the top you throw the club forward, entirely with the hands. Your throw is for a complete circle of the club-head and sometimes it is a good idea to feel that the ball is not there at all. Too much consciousness often is spent on the ball, not enough on the idea of swinging the club with the hands.

Research Bureau Acts as a Clearing House For Civil Servants.

SOME TESTS.

What Constitutes Fitness in Applicants For Public

By WILLIAM HORHAM RICE, New York State Civil Service Commissioner.

Scientific attack on the problems involved in attracting, selecting and retaining competent employes in the public service is the task the National Assembly of Civil Service Commissions has set for itself. More than half of the 2,500,000 positions (excluding teachers) in the public service which require the full-time services of employes now are under the jurisdiction of civil service commissions. These bodies are taking concerted action to make available for all the combined discoveries and practices of ublic and private personnel administrators, psychologists, statisticians, political scientists, educators and other scientific workers.

The plan of attack amounts in effect to the pooling of resources and the establishment of a staff to carry on research work in personnel problems. This has been done through the formation of an organization called the Bureau of Public Personnel Administration, with headquarters at Washington. Funds for the work were provided by a public-spirited citizen. The bureau's functions are:

1. To serve as a clearing house of information for all the civil service commissions in the United States and Canada, a work which involves collecting information with regard to the organization, procedure, forms, tests and other work of each commission, and making the information available to every civil service commission either by publication, correspondence or visits from the staff members of the bureau;

2. To make special investigations or other research work where the answer to some problem of personnel administration has not yet been discovered or where the facilities of any one civil service commission are too limited to permit of its undertaking the necessary research work;

3. To publish in the form of a monthly periodical called Public Personnel Studies the results of the bureau' research and other work.

Facts From Many Sources.

The clearing house service given to civil service commissions through the bureau has in itself resulted in marked improvements in current practices during the two and one-half years that the organization has been in existence. Of course, every large civil service commission in the United States and Canada has technically trained examiners and investigators on its staff who from time to time make special studies of some personnel problem. The Municipal Commission of New York City, for example, some years ago made some careful studies as to the physical standards required of policemen and firemen and developed excellent medical and physical tests for determining whether applicants are able to meet these requirements.

The New York State Commission has made very reliable compilations of the number of civil servants in the State, city, county and village services, and of the size of the public payroll. The New Jersey Commission has done more than any other organization, public or industrial, in classifying positions (or, as it is called in industry, "job analysis") and in standardizing salaries.

More than ten years ago the Chicago Commission did a great deal of work in developing and installing service or efficiency rating plans; in discovering and bringing about the dismissal of incompetant employes and in reporting to the executive, legislative and budget authorities cases of bad organization or procedure in departments resulting in poor service to the public or unnecessarily large staffs. Civil service administrators without number have done painstaking research work in developing tests, and a number of civil service commissions have developed economical methods of keeping card and other records.

Before the establishment of the Bureau of Public Personnel Administration there was no regular channel through which any civil administrator could learn how his fellow-workers were meeting problems of this type. Civil service commissions throughout the United States and Canada have furnished this bureau full information with regard to their organization, procedure, methods, forms, appropriations and the like, so that a civil service administrator anywhere may, simply by stating his needs to the bureau, obtain facts with regard to the current practice, and may also, upon request, secure the opinion of the expert members of the bureau staff as to the best method of handling a local situation.

Queries Cover a Wide Field.

Nearly every civil service commission of any consequence in the United States and Canada, and a number of civic organizations interested in the public service as well have called upon the bureau at one time or another for information or assistance. Such requests cover practically the whole field of personnel administration. The bureau has been asked to aid in drafting new civil service laws or amendments to existing laws, to suggest amendments to city charters to meet some definite need, or to criticize favorably or unfavorably proposed legislation. The bureau does not act as a propaganda agent, but limits its efforts to advice as to what is technically feasible and desirable.

Another fertile field has been that of classification and salary standardization. In the public service, work of this kind has proceeded much further than in private industry. In nearly every large jurisdiction in the United States and Canada where there is a civil service commission, positions which are so nearly alike that they can be treated in the same manner in handling employment transactions have been grouped together under a common descriptive title. And in most jurisdictions a standard compensation plan has been put into effect.

Both the classification and compensation plans are constantly bieng improved as new departments and bureaus are created or old organization units are laid out along different lines, as existing positions are abolished, new positions created or the duties of positions changed. Nearly every month the bureau is called upon to give expert advice as to how new classification and compensation work can best be undertaken, or to give its opinion as to contemplated changes. In numerous cases it has been requested to supply data as to rates of pay for certain kinds of positions in other public jurisdictions and in industrial concerns, and in a few cases it has been asked to give a general estimate as to salary and wage scales, both for the rank and file and for the spervisory and administrative posts.

Selection Tests Prevail.

In selecting employes entering the service, as well as in making promotions, the practice of giving duties, performance, intelligence, physical and other tests is much commoner in the public service than in industry. These tests may be oral or written. Consequently civil service administrators throughout the country have availed themselves very freely of the test material the bureau has collected from public and industrial personnel administrators and of the facilities and experience of its expert staff. Most commonly, perhaps, the request has been for information as to the tests held in other places. Almost as frequently, however, the demand has been for better tests than any Civil Service Commission or any private employment manager has yet developed.

Another common type of request is for advice and assistance in developing service or efficiency rating plans. Unfortunately, neither public nor private administrators have been very successful in dealing with this perplexing problem. The bureau proposes during the coming year to carry on some original researches in the hope of finding an answer to the matters unsolved. In the meantime it has made a sedulous attempt to determine the best existing practice; has published a description of the most satisfactory system it has been able to learn about in any industrial enterprise, and expects to publish descriptions of some of the most successful plans in the public service.

Research work is of two kinds—that which may be called "adaptive" and that which is original. The purpose of the adaptive research work is to make available for personnel administrators, in a form ready for immediate use, the large body of principles, facts, methods and material worked out by psychologists, political scientists, personnel administrators and others interested in personnel problems but not yet generally adopted in current practice. The purpose of the original research work, is, of course, to make discoveries that will improve the handling of personnel problems.

What Makes a Good Policeman.

A good illustration of the adaptive research work of the bureau is found in the tests it recommends for Police Department patrolmen. These tests, described in detail in the July, 1924, number of Public Personnel Studies, are based in part upon experimental work carried on by the bureau experts, but consist in the main of the best material worked out by public personnel administrators and psychologists.

1—An intelligence test to make sure that policemen who are given wide powers with regard to the safety and control of others have sufficient intelligence to give reasonable assurance that they will exercise these powers with judgment and discretion. The use of the army alpha intelligence tests is suggested, and the bureau recommends that anybody making a score of less than 65 be eliminated from further consideration. The average score made by 1,750,000 white men drafted into the army was 63.

2—A test of accuracy of observation, to ascertain whether applicants have the ability to perceive facts which any good policeman ought to note. One of the tests of observation consists of a drawing of an automobile accident which the would-be patrolman is allowed to observe for three minutes, making notes if he cares to do so. The drawing is then removed, and he has an opportunity to answer the fifteen questions which are given under the drawing. In another test of observation an automobile license tag is shown for three seconds after which the applicant is asked to write down the number and other identifying marks. In all, ten tags are thus shown.

3—Memory tests for the purpose of finding out if the applicant can comprehend and remember orders of the kind given to policemen when they go on duty and can keep in mind the principal facts given in the description of a criminal.

4—Understanding of laws, ordinances police rules and regulations and othe police rules and regulations and other printed material of the kind which the police must in the course of their work read, understand, interpret and apply. A quotation from some of the simpler rules and regulations of the Police Department, or a section of some law or ordinance, is quoted in full and questions concerning its meaning and application are asked the applicant.

5—Questions on police duties. In this test relations with the public and with fellow-members of the police force are stressed, since a patrolman's success to a very large extent depends upon his ability to deal with others. In addition, the applicant is presented with definitions, more or less legal in form, of twenty-five crimes, and with brief written descriptions of ten actual committed crimes. He is asked to indicate in each of these ten cases with which one of the twenty-five crimes defined he would charge the offender.

7—A personal interview is proposed for each applicant in order to weigh such purely individual traits as speech, dress, capacity to carry on a somewhat controversial discussion with due regard for the amenities and to estimate the likelihood of his making a favorable impression upon others.

8—Medical and physical tests to determine the general health, strength and agility of the applicant.

9—An investigation of character, to give reasonable assurance that the person seeking to be entrusted with the enforcement of the law has in his own past life shown a reasonable regard for the law, and may be expected to be a fit representative of the authority of the State.

Setting Tests to Work.

The six written tests, including the army alpha intelligence tests, take a little less than three hours. The interview, of course, must be given individually, while the physical and medical tests must be conducted on a day other than that devoted to the written tests. The bureau points out, however, that even though more tests are recommended than are usually given by civil service commissions, and though the field covered by the tests is wider, the total amount of the applicant's and examiner's time required is materially reduced.

The tests as worked out were printed and made available for civil service administrators only last July; but already such tests have been given in whole or in part to almost 5,000 individuals in ten or more public jurisdictions where there has been occasion to provide for the appointment of policemen. Similar test material is being developed and published for one class of positions each month. Among the other classes of positions covered so far are food inspector, fireman, prison guard, hospital attendant, senior clerk, junior bacteriologist, janitor and senior library assistant.

Chauffeur Capacity.

A good deal of original research work is also being done in connection with the development of tests, as is illustrated by the chauffeur material now about ready for publication. One factor which ought to be known both in connection with licensing those who drive autos and in selecting those who seek positions as chauffeur in the public service is the quickness of the response made when the driver is suddenly confronted with a dangerous situation. The bureau, therefore, in cooperation with the Bureau of Standards and George Washington University, has conducted rather elaborate tests to determine the reaction time of various classes of people.

It was found as a result of the experiments that from the time the average person gets a signal covering a dangerous situation until he begins to apply the brake is a little more than half a second. At the same time, individual difference are very wide, some drivers reacting in about a third of a second and others taking as much as a second and a half. This means that if the car is going at the rate of thirty miles an hour the individual who reacts most quickly will have the brakes applied after traveling about fifteen feet, while the individual who reacts most slowly will travel about sixty-five feet before he even begins to apply the brakes.

It was found that there was no material difference in the reaction time of men and women, of young, middle-aged and elderly persons, or of those of different races, but that the experienced driver consistently reacts more quickly than the inexperienced. The standardized tests for chauffeur to be published within the next few weeks are based upon these and other experiments, as well as upon the best practice developed by public and private personnel administrators, psychologists and licensing bodies.

Another example of the original research work of the bureau is found in the studies carried on to determine the ability of personnel administrators, educators, business men and others to estimate intelligence from photographs and handwriting. In this case it was found, through extensive experiments, that such ability practically does not exist. A fifteen-year old high school girl was able to make better estimates than a majority of the business men, university professors and personnel administrators who submitted themselves to trials, yet her success, probably due largely to chance, was no greater than could be obtained in about a third of the trials by arranging the people in order through shuffling the photographs or samples of handwriting with the faces down, so that the features or the writing could not be seen.

Studying the Librarian.

A different line of original research is illustrated by the study being carried on by the bureau in cooperation with a committee of the American Library Association. In this case an attempt is being made to work out complete classification and salary standardization plans for the whole library profession. Individual questionnaires giving detailed descriptions of the duties of 5,000 positions in 135 different libraries, and of the education, experience and compensation of the individuals holding them have been collected. It is expected that the report of this study will be made at the meeting of the American Library Association to be held at Seattle early in July.

Rather elaborate precautions have been taken to assure high quality of the research and other work carried on by the bureau and of the psychological and statistical soundness of its findings with regard to tests. The bureau is housed with the Institute for Government Research in Washington and is under the general direction of the director of that organization, W. F. Willoughby. In addition, there is an advisory board of five which must approve all studies before they are undertaken and all publications while in manuscript form. This advisory board's Chairman is William Gorham Rice, a member of the New York State Civil Service Commission. Its other members are Charles P. Messick, Secretary and Chief Examiner of the New Jersey State Civil Service Commission; George R. Wales, a member of the United States Civil Service Commission; H. W. Marsh, Secretary of the National Civil Service Reform League, and R. S. Woodworth, Chairman of the Division of Anthropology and Psychology of the National Research Council. The expert staff of the bureau also has the benefit of the advice, counsel and criticism of a group of technical consultants, each of whom is a leader in his particular field and familiar with as well as interested in the problems involved in public personnel administration. These technical consultants are as follows:

"The Man Without a Concience," the latest Warner Bros. "Classic of the Screen" to play at the Regent Theatre, opened to-day for three days.

Rarely has a picture come to the reviewers' notice better cast. The players have been put into the roles with uncanny insight. There is Willard Louis, in the title part of the man whose conscience went dry and who engulfed a score of intimates in his ruin; Irene Rich, as the faithless wife; and June Marlowe, "the girl with soulful eyes," as the young fiance who is abandoned by the heart less Richard Mason when he comes to New York City and decided she would be more a handicap than an asset.

"BLUFF," WITH AGNES AYRES AND ANTONIA MORENO AT THE ROYAL.

Gowns, gowns and more gowns. You never saw so many and such beautiful creations in your life as are shown by Agnes Ayres in her role of a captivating designer of women's frocks, dinner gowns and what-not in her new Paramount picture, "Bluff," a Sam Wood production in which she is featured with Antonio Moreno.

There's a pleasing love theme running all through, of course, and there's bright comedy, a bit of gripping pathos and a dash of old-time gripping melodrama, too, with Miss Ayres and Tony doing more finished work than in either "The Heart Raider" or "The Spanish Dancer."

Moreno has the role of an attorney commissioned to put Miss Ayres in jail. Instead he puts an engagement ring on her finger.

"Bluff" has something for everyone, with a special appeal for young girls who are continually asking themselves, "If I went to New York could I win game, fortune and a handsome husband on my nerve and looks alone?" And how many of them haven't?

There's a supporting cast that makes Sam Wood production the big attractions that they are.

AT THE CAPITOL

POLA NEGRI STAR IN "THE CHARMER" FILM.

The story of a Spanish innkeeper's daughter, who comes to dance before Broadway's bright lights.

That's Pola Negri's role in her latest Paramount picture, "The Charmer," a Sidney Olcott production, which will be shown at the Capitol Theatre to-day.

"The Charmer," based on the British novel, "Mariposa," by Henry Baerlein, tells of Mariposa, a dancing girl, who comes to New York under the wing of a kindly theatrical manager. With her mother, who is a great comedy character, she becomes rapidly involved in a series of fantastic adventures.

Heading the supporting cast in the picture are Robert Frazer and Wallace MacDonald. MacDonald is a millionaire world-traveller; Frazer his chauffeur. They first meet Mariposa in Seville and from then on it is a hammer-and-tongs affair between the two for her affections. The chauffeur wins out in the end, when Pola discovers the real character of the other man.

Canada had, in 1924, 20,803,548 head of live stock, viz., 3,588,788 horses, 9,460,836 cattle, 2,684,743 sheep and 5,069,181 swine, totalling a value of $641,144,000.

TWO DEAD IN FIRE.

Blaze Started in Inn—Men and Women Leap From Windows.

QUEBEC, Que., July 13.—(Canadian Press).—Two men are dead as the result of a fire which broke out in the Neptune Inn here at an early hour this morning. The dead are R. Brown, a young Englishman, and Joseph Pickard, a retail lumberman. The former was suffocated in his room, and his dead body was discovered by firemen after the flames had been subdued. Pickard died in hospital from severe injuries he had sustained through jumping from a window. A number of other inmates were more or less injured. Men and women jumped from the windows when all other means of escape had been cut off. The fire is said to have broken out in the room of Mr. Pickard, but from what cause no one knows.

NO CHARGE YET.

SUDBURY, July 13. — (Canadian Press). — No charge has yet been laid against Mrs. Wm. Kossack, who is held at the district jail here in connection with the death of her two children, who were found in their beds shot through the head. The police state that the woman will be examined to-day by a jail physician, and it is possible she may be removed to Sault Ste Marie to await trial. Argolis, which is 234 miles north-west of Sudbury, and where the woman and two children lived, is outside of the jurisdiction of the Sudbury district court. Coroner Dr. Stoddard of Copper Cliff will conduct an inquest as soon as possible, but arrangements were not complete at noon to-day.

'ONLY 8 CITIES IN 900 HEALTHY'

Says Report of Provincial Health Officer, Who States Little Value Gained For Expenditure.

MUST BE UNIFIED.

TORONTO, July 13.—There is little value gained for the yearly expenditure of a million and a half dollars by Ontario municipalities for local public health administration with the exception of eight cities that have satisfactory public health systems, asserts Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Chief Officer of Health for Ontario, in a statement issued to-day.

Much of this expenditure is misapplied or wasted, he says, "there is no concerted effort to control such diseases as cancer, tuberculosis, or venereal disease, there is no adequate prenatal care of mothers, medical inspection of school children is only beginning, and health education of the public is sadly needed. In only eight of 900 local health governments in Ontario can there be said to be an efficient public health service." He suggests a remedy, the combining of various municipalities into one unit.

EUROPEAN LABOUR FOR PRAIRIE LAND

TORONTO, July 13. — (Canadian Press).—A picturesque, if somewhat rugged, atmosphere was provided at the Union Station for a few hours last evening, when several hundred laborers from Southern Europe, on their way to the Canadian West, passed through this city. Jackboots, sheepskin jackets and whiskers were the chief items in the attire of the new-comers, while a huge wicker basket stuffed to bursting appeared to be an indispensable article in the travelling equipment of each.

The party was composed largely of Czechoslovakians, Bulgarians and Roumanians, with a sprinkling of Germans.

30 CHINESE KILLED.

According to Reports to the British House—Number Indefinite.

LONDON, July 13. — (Canadian Press). — Foreign Secretary Right Hon. Austen Chamberlain told the House of Commons to-day that the number of Chinese killed in Canton on June 23rd, when British and French marines fired upon native demonstrators is not accurately known. He said reports indicate thirty Chinese were killed and seventy wounded, but added the figures might be larger. Only one foreigner, J. Pasquier, a French merchant, was killed. Four British subjects and one Frenchman were wounded.

KENT'S CHOICE

CHATHAM, Ont., July 13 (Canadian Press).—At one of the most successful conventions in the history of the Kent Political Association held here Saturday afternoon, Dr. James W. Rutherford, of this city, was unanimously chosen the candidate to contest the riding in the interests of the Liberal party in the next Federal election.

Kent County's noted surgeon announced his acceptance in an address in which he declared that his candidacy meant a determined fight to win the contest, and which brought to their feet in enthusiastic cheering, close upon four hundred accredited delegates from all polling sub-divisions in the county.

Most Urgent Wants

There's a world of interest in the Want Ads. They reflect the urgent desires of various businesses, households and individuals.

The Wants tell what is most needed. If the cook has left, if a worker is needed in the office or factory, if an article of value is lost or found, if there is urgent necessity to sell a piece of property, secure tenants, roomers or boarders—all such conditions are expressed and met in the Want Columns.

The Wants are close to the heart interests of its people. It is interesting to watch them carefully.

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Weather Causes Upturn As Rust Damage Feared

WINNIPEG, Man., July 13.—(Canadian Press). — Weather conditions played an important part in a sharp price advance on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Extreme humidity throughout an extensive portion of wheat-growing areas increased the danger of rust damage, according to trade. October led the advance, jumping 4c about Saturday's closing figure at $1.40 5-8. December also reflected strength, while July delivery was practically neglected.

Willys Overland Pounded Back For a 4 Point Loss

NEW YORK, July 13.—(Canadian Press).—Irregularity developed during the morning when selling pressure was directed against Willys Overland Preferred, which was hammered down four points, as well as a few other vulnerable issues. This served to restrain pool activities, although the general railway signal extended its gain to 10 points before noon. U.S. Cast Iron Pipe rallied from 143 to 148¼. General Electric advanced 3¼, and American Can. 3. The strength of Rock Island, which apparently was based on expectations of high current earnings this year as a result of unusually large corn crop, was soon counteracted by heaviness of other Western carriers. Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Great Northern Preferred and Chicago and North-Western all falling back a point or so. The Maxwell and Chrysler issues continued to hold selling pressure. Call money was renewed at four per cent.

Smelters and Sugar Lead Advance on Toronto Market

TORONTO, July 13. — (Canadian Press).—Consolidated Smelters continued to provide the centre of interest on the Toronto Stock Exchange, leading this morning's active market both in advance and volume of transactions. Stock advanced to 55¼, and noon close was 55, a further gain of 3¼ points. Other active leaders were Brazilian and Atlantic Sugar. The former strengthened a quarter at 57, but Sugar Common eased off a quarter at 31 3-4. Canada Bread issues were prominent but steady. Dodge Engineers gained a further half point at 30½, and Winnipeg improved half a point at 49½.

Standard Exchange Torpid With Fractional Movements

TORONTO, July 13 (Canadian Press) — Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was very dull this morning, transactions numbering 58,920 shares. Hattie Preferred advanced fractionally to 6 1-8 while Hollinger sold fifteen cents lower at 14.60. Teck Hughes and Crown Reserve were a point higher at 143 and 23 1-2 respectively. Canadian Lorrain also displayed strength at 29, 1 1-2 points higher. Mining Corporation was one point lower at 269 while Nipissing advanced three points to 93.

Humidity Affects Price On Chicago Grain Mart.

CHICAGO, July 13 Canadian Press)—Hot, muggy weather in the northwest, likely to promote black rust damage led early to higher prices today for wheat. One expert, telegraphing from Fargo, N.D., said indications were that the wheat crop in the Dakotas this season would be reduced 40 per cent from the Government July report. On the other hand the European crop news continued favorable and with Liverpool quotation today failing to reflect fully Saturday's advance on this side of the Atlantic, the July delivery here showed a temporary decline. Chicago opening prices were half cent off to 1 1-4c up, Sept. 149 1-4 to 150 and Dec. 150 to 150 3-4 were followed by an irregular advance to 152 1-4 for September and 153 1-8 for December. Favorable crop advices regarding corn had a bearish effect on corn and oats. After opening at 1-2 lower to 1-2c higher July 107 1-2to 107 7-8. The corn market underwent a general set back, September touching 106.

Oats started at 3-8c decline to 5-8c advance, Sept. 47 1-2. Later there were fractional declines all around In line with hogs and corn the provision market was easy.

ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE EXISTS

Prince Chichibu Says Spirit of Old Pact Still Lives.

LONDON, July 13 (Special by United Press)—The Anglo Japanese Alliance which lapsed in consequence of the Washington agreement still exists in spirit, according to an official interview with Prince Chichibu, the second son of the Emperor of Japan, who has arrived here for two years study at Oxford.

"It is true," he said, "that our alliance, which did such splendid work has ceased just when it was needed. In spirit, however, it exists. It is today as virile as ever and permeates the whole Japanese people.

"I am not here to talk politics but I just mention the subject of China to show how effective is the understanding between Japan and her former ally."

The Prince is interested especially in sport but despite this inclination he has been assigned to Dr. G. R. Oust as a tutor, whose official title is Assistant Editorial Secretary to the Medieavel Latin Dictionary Committee.

CONFERENCE GIVES POLICY OF CHINA

Says Chinese Government Must Provide for the Protection of Foreigners.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 13. —(Canadian Press.)— The United States' policy toward China will be governed by Washington Arms Conference committments, and will include an insistence that China also adhere scrupulously to the nine-power declaration of which she was the signatory.

This decision is the result of a two-day conference here, participated in by President Coolidge, Secretary Kellogg and Under-Secretary of State Grew. It was announced by Secretary Kellogg upon the conclusion of the meeting, and just before his departure for Washington late yesterday. Other points made by Secretary of State were:

China must take measures for the protection of foreigners.

Nine-power conference to discuss revision of Chinese customs will be called to meet in China within the next three months.

Gasoline Tax is Yielding Big Revenue, Hon. G. S. Henry Says.

TORONTO, July 13 (Canadian Press).—Revenue of a quarter of a million dollars from the three cent per gallon tax on gasoline is expected by the Ontario Government, Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways and acting Premier, announced today.

The government is taking steps to prevent persons on the St. Lawrence River buying gasoline in the United States for their motor boats, which might later be used in motor cars.

TENNIS PLAYERS WIN ALL EVENTS

Peterborough Makes Clean Sweep in Tourney With Port Hope.

Peterborough made a clean sweep in the tennis match against Port Hope last Saturday afternoon at the local courts. This is the first time in the history of the association that one team has won all the events, and is a very creditable showing for the local racquet artists as Port Hope fielded the same team that won three from Oshawa and two from Cobourg.

The big feature of the day was the fine showing of Mrs. Cruthers who won the ladies' singles quite handily, and then paired with Cranfield to win from Ryan and Miss Bennett in straight sets. Miss Mackenzie, a new-comer, paired well with Scott in the mixed doubles, and will be a great source of strength in the future matches. Mrs. Moore and Miss Kirn showed improved form as a ladies' double team and Donald Flood in his first league match did all that was expected of him.

Tea was served by the ladies of the club at the grounds.

Hewett and Webber beat Briden and Ryan, 6-2, 12-10.

Mrs. Cruthers beat Miss Grace Kinmell, 6-2, 6-3.

Mrs. Moore and Miss Kirn beat Miss Hambly and Miss Petrey 6-1, 7-5.

Cranfield and Mrs. Cruthers, beat Ryan and Miss Bennet, 6-2, 6-4.

BRITAIN AND CANADA INCREASED PURCHASES FROM UNITED STATES

U. S. Exports to United Kingdom for Eleven Months Exceeded One Billion, and to Canada $587,694,320—Favorable Trade Balance.

TARIFF NOT RETARDING U. S. TRADE

WASHINGTON, July 14 (Canadian Press).—The United Kingdom is the best customer of the United States and Canada is the second best, according to figures of the Department of Commerce. These figures show that for the eleven months ending with May, the United States exports to the United Kindgdom were valued at $1,007,759,970 and to Canada were $587,694,320. For the same period last year, United States' exports to these countries were, respectively, $845,877,767 and $553,846,988.

These figures of heavy exports to the United Kingdom and Canada are seized on by the American Protective Tariff League to show that the existing tariff law is not ruining this country's export trade, but, on the contrary, that export trade is increasing. The American protective Tariff League, pointing out that the import figures from both countries are much lower ,also contends that export trade does not depend on the amount of purchases by the United States from other nations.

HE STARTED SOMETHING.

Prof. J. T. Scopes, high school teacher at Dayton, Tenn., whose trial on a charge of teaching evolution is stirring all America.

PASTOR RESIGNS DAYTON CHURCH OVER EVOLUTION

Had Invited Modernist Minister From New York to Preach on Sunday.

AVOIDED SPLIT.

Believed in Evolution Theory But Did Not Preach It.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 14.—The feeling of bitterness, which has been growing under the placid surface of Dayton life, forced its way into the open Sunday and not only caused the resignation of the only preacher in town who believes in evolution but brought an open breach in the hitherto friendly relations between counsel for John T. Scopes and the State.

This was caused by Attorney-General Stewart repudiating the agreement made in court on Friday to permit, out of the usual order, the argument on the competency of scientific witnesses.

East Tennesseeans are naturally a taciturn people, despite their courtesy and hospitality, and they have carefully concealed from their out-of-town guests the tense emotional conflict which has been going on.

The first indication of the depth to which they have been stirred by the attack upon their simple faith came Sunday, when the Rev. Howard G. Byrd, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church North, admitted that he would resign his ministry rather than split his Church because of his invitation to the Rev. Charles Francis Potter of New York to occupy his pulpit.

Built Church He Gives Up.

"People who say they know the Bible from cover to cover, but don't act upon it cause the trouble in churches," said Mr. Byrd sadly, as he stood on the lawn in front of his little parsonage which he built with his own hands.

He is generally acknowledged the best preacher in town, and is extremely popular, because of his personality and industry. He is known as "the working parson." When he came here three years ago, his church was dilapidated, and, with the help of his congregation, he rebuilt it, painted it, repaired it, and then built himself a home beside it. He is a carpenter of sorts, and constructed most of the furniture, which his family uses.

Invited Potter to Pulpit.

When George W. Rappelyea, who persuaded Scopes to stand trial in order to test the anti-evolution law, was expelled from the Methodist Episcopal Church South, he went to Mr. Bryd's church and was made welcome. There was much talk then about the "infidel" preacher by some of the townspeople, and Mr. Bryd was criticized severely for his charity to Rappelyea. That blew over, and although there were occasional mutterings when it became known that the minister also believed in evolution, there was no direct attack upon him because he never preached it.

When Mr. Potter came here, however, Rappelyea asked Mr. Byrd if he would permit the New York Unitarian to preach Sunday. Mr. Byrd said he was to speak at the other Methodist Episcopal Church, and it seemed very fair to him that a Modernist minister should speak at the same time.

Rappelyea had the announcement put on the window of F. E. Robin-

CROP ESTIMATE SHRINKS UNDER EXCESSIVE HEAT

Prospects of Bumper Harvest are Modified, But Fair Yield is Expected.

WHEAT HEADING.

Manitoba Conditions Ideal —Cutting of Winter Rye Is Under Way.

WINNIPEG, July 14 (Canadian Press).—Prospects in Western Canada continue favorable despite the intense head which has prevailed during the past ten days, says the weekly crop report of the Canadian Pacific Railway Agricultural Department.

With the exception of Southern Alberta, where rain is urgently needed, growing conditions are reported to be good and the wheat in many districts is heading out.

Some damage has been experienced in scattered points as the result of hail, but loss from rust, the report states, has been negligible to date.

The weather in Manitoba ha- been ideal for growth and with ample moisture, early wheat is from 24 to 30 inches high and about 50 per cent. headed ut. Cutting of Winter rye has commenced at a few points and is proving a very fair crop.

Saskatchewan Promising

In Saskatchewan the prospects continue promising. Wheat shows a satisfactory stand and except in the Vanguard subdivision, without indication of rust. Oats and barley are looking well, with the latter crop promising to be well above the average.

Excessive heat has caused damage to fields in the Maple Creek and Empress subdivisions.

Growing conditions continue to be generally favorable in Alberta. Showers have been sufficiently frequent to keep the ground moist. The situation in the southern part of the province has been slightly relieved by intermittent showers, but more rain is needed. Early prospects of a bumper crop have changed somewhat, but a fair yield is anticipated, however.

Where Rain is Needed.

While conditions are promising along the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway, rain is urgently required. In some districts, drought damage already has been reported.

Dry, warm weather has materially promoted growth of field and fruit crops in British Columbia. Indications point to a crop half of last year's production.

Not Deadly—But Dead.

CHICAGO, July 14.—(Canadian Press). — When narcotic agents raided the flat of Mrs. McConnell they found not only opium, but also a bottle of ashes, which they felt sure was Yen-shee, the deadly residue of smoked opium.

They sent a sample to a chemist. The chemist said the ashes weren't Yen-shee. Then they decided to ask Mrs. McConnell what was in the bottle.

USELESS ANYHOW!

Doubt That Science is Any Nearer a Cure, They Say.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(Canadian Press).—The announcement made in London last night that two British scientists, Dr. J. E. Barnard of King's College and Dr. William E. Gye, member of the British Institute of Medical Research, had made possible perception of infective agent of cancer to-day, brought a claim from New York scientists that the British achievement was the result of discoveries previously made here.

Dr. Peyton Rous, of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, it is declared, had found that the tumors in chickens were caused by an ultra microscopic organism too small to be seen through an ordinary microscope.

With Dr. Hideyo Noguchi, also of the Rockefeller Institute, Dr. Rous perfected an instrument known as the ultra-microscope with which they found in a chicken transmissible sarcoma with a tendency to multiply through the body. From the sarcoma an emulsion was prepared. It was injected into the body of a healthy fowl and produced cancerous conditions, which in some cases resulted in death. In 1912, Dr. Rous exhibited some of the animals in which he had produced cancer by inoculation. They included not only chickens but rats and mice.

Doubting that science is any nearer a cure for cancer, Dr. Francis Carter Wood, Director of Cancer Research of George Crocker Special Research Fund, Columbia University, said: "Even the discovery of the germ cause of cancer in human beings would be no guarantee of a cure. It was in 1882 that Koch discovered the tuberole bacillus, but we are still waiting for an effective serum to cure that disease."

Discovery of Cancer Germ Hailed As Pre-eminent In the History of the World's Medical Research

LONDON, July 14.—(Canadian Press).—The account of the discovery and isolation of the germ of cancer by British scientific workers was printed here by the Daily Express under headlines extending across the first page. The evening papers made the news their principal concern last night. The importance attached to the discovery by the most eminent workers in medical research is indicated by the announcement that the London Lancet, the world's premier medical journal, which will print on Saturday the first account by the investigators themselves of their work, has arranged to issue simultaneously to the lay press a communique explaining the results in lay language. It will be the first time this ever has been done.

The two principal heroes of what may prove to be an epoch-making feat were run to earth by newspapermen to-day. Dr. James E. Barnard, microscopic wizard, would not speak of the cancer germ, but Dr. William Ewart Gye was more communicative.

"I can only say that we have made a discovery which we believe will enable us to better the case of cancer."

PREMIER TO OPEN EX. AND TURN SOD

Ferguson Fifth Provincial Leader to Perform Function at Famous Fair.

TORONTO, July 14.—(Canadian Press).—Premier G. H. Ferguson of Ontario will open the Canadian National Exhibition, 1925, on August 29 next. He is the fifth Ontario Premier to perform the function. Premier Ferguson also will turn the first sod for the half million dollar Ontario building.

The funeral of the late Rev. Edward Fraser Torrance, M. A., D.D., will take place on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Service will be held in St. Paul's church and will be in charge of Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings.

It is hoped that all the members of the congregation, past and present, as well as all friends of the late Dr. Torrance, will be present to pay their last tribute of respect to one, who for thirty-one years was minister of St. Paul's. Interment will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

TERRIFIC STORM IN MIDDLE WEST

Thirty-four Die as Result of Tempest and Heat.

CROPS DAMAGED.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Thirty-four persons are dead and property damage of more than $1,000,000 lies in the wake of wind and rain storms which swept the middle west Sunday and during the night, adding to the toll taken by an excessive heat wave.

Eight persons were drowned in Indiana, five in Iowa, four in Minnesota, while two were drowned and two died of heat here.

Eight were drowned in Michigan. Two deaths from heat prostration were reported in Nebraska. One person was drowned in St. Louis.

Property damage was most severe in Indiana.

Crops Damaged.

For five minutes at the height of the Indiana storm the wind blew 80 miles an hour. The mercury tumbled 30 degrees, bringing relief from the terrific heat which sent the hermometer up to 95 just before the storm broke.

Growing crops throughout the central part of the state were blown down and farm buildings in many places were damaged.

The wind broke windows, blew down huge advertising signs and completely demoralized telephone and telegraph communication in the outlying districts of Indianapolis.

Street car and interurban service was badly crippled, some interurbans arriving four and five hours late. Passenger trains from the north and west were also delayed.

Every piece of fire-fighting apparatus in Indianapolis was sent out as calls came in from houses struck by lightning. Firemen and police guarded high tension lines blown down by the wind.

WEATHER

Frequently the day on which the Orange celebration falls proves to be one of the warmest of the whole year. This year, however, ideal conditions prevailed. The highest temperature reached was 79 degrees. Lowest last night 59 degrees. This morning showed a particularly heavy dew, and already there is beginning to appear evidence of the approach of fall. For instance, the blackbirds, which are among the first to arrive, as well as the first to depart, are commencing to congregate in little flocks. In this connection a little verse comes to me:

"The spoken or the written word
May give you cause to rue,
But thoughts you keep from speech and pen
Will rarely injure you:
Then, ere you utter what you think
Or dip your pen to write
Consider how your words may stand
In reason's blazing light,
For, even now 'tis belching forth
Much brighter than before,
And is with wisdom welcomed in
At every open door;
Beneath its clear illuming ray
Some people will detect
In nearly all you write or say
An error or defect."

CARDINAL BEGIN SERIOUSLY ILL

85 YEARS OLD.

QUEBEC, July 14. — (Canadian Press).—The illness of Cardinal Begin, Roman Catholic Primate of Canada, took a serious turn last night. It is learned that His Eminence is suffering from uremia, that an operation has been performed, and that a pint of blood has been taken from him. The Cardinal is 85 years old.

The last rites of the Church were administered to His Eminence last night. Officials at the Archbishop's palace are extremely reticent concerning the aged prelate's illness.

The Cardinal journeyed to St. Nazier Sunday afternoon to bless a corner stone. The fatigue and heat of the day brought on the illness from which he is now suffering.

He was arraigned in Police Court Monday, along with Joseph Poeck, a Serd, and Hya Raitchanoff, a Bulgarian, who also were stowaways on the same boat and were found a few hourst out of Rotterdam. All three will serve a month in jail and then will be deported. Warnecke had no money and his only possession was a map of the United States, made in Germany, and marked with dots and crosses.

BURBANK SAYS BRYAN'S SKULL INDICATES NEANDERTHAL TYPE

MISTAKEN ATTEMPT.

Chart of Evolutionary Strains Puts I.W.W.'s With Idle Rich.

By William C. Etheridge
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

SANTA ROSA, Calif., July 14. — Religion and theology are sharply divided, with ardent disciples of the latter doing all they can to kill religion, Luther Burbank, world famous plant scientist, told the United Press in an interview at his home here to-day.

The attempt is not deliberate, Mr. Burbank believes, but it is being done mistakenly, through just such examples of narrowness as evidenced in the issues drawn at the Scopes trial in Tennessee."

"Mr. Bryan and his supporters may be sincere, but they are doing more to kill religion than are the avowed enemies of the Church," Burbank said. "They are not teaching the truth, but it always prevails sooner or later. In the meantime they are doing great damage to the cause of religion as represented by the Church in America."

Burbank, in private as in public, is an avowed follower of the evolutionary idea. On the wall of his private study is a chart — one of three in the world, he says, depicting what hereditary evolution means. This chart, made by E. T. Smythe, and soon to be published, traces the strains in mankind, and startlingly depicts the extremes in modern society. On one end is the I.W.W.'s, while next to him is the "Idle Rich" — "both parasites," Burbank explained. In the middle of the line lieth valued strains, the scientists, the scholars, the musicians and the public leaders.

As to Bryan and evolution, Burbank sums up the issue in these words: "Mr. Bryan is an honored personal friend of mine; yet this need not prevent the observation that the skull with which nature endowed him visibly approaches the neanderthal type."

PRAIRIES SCORCHED BY HOTTEST WEATHER OF SUMMER AS MERCURY MOUNTED BEYOND 100 DEGREES

CROPS SUFFERED

WINNIPEG, July 14 (Canadian Press).—Western Canada yesterday sweltered in the most oppressive heat wave of the season, the mercury soaring close to the century mark at many points. Throughout the Prairie Provinces generally heat records for 1925 were established.

Slight relief was experienced in Saskatchewan and Alberta from the week-end sizzling temperatures, while Manitoba was yesterday scorching under the torrid rays of the sun.

Estevan, Sask., was the hottest point in Canada on Sunday, 102 degrees in the shade being registered there. Regina, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Indian Head and Lethbridge recorded high marks.

Traced directly to the heat a large number of fatalities, principally drownings, were reported throughout the West during the week-end. The crops also were suffering in many parts of the country from lack of moisture.

While the official forecast indicates continuance of the heat wave, scattered showers have given temporary relief in some districts.

HOSTEL OF ST. BERNARD MONKS

Above show the hostel of the St. Bernard monks which for 1,000 years has kept open house to prince and pauper, depending on voluntary contributions to maintain it. The demands of the thousands of guests, however, has proven greater than their monetary remembrances, and the gratuities were insufficient to keep up the place. It is now becoming a hotel and all guests must pay set rates for accommodation. It is here the famous St. Bernard dogs are taught to rescue snowbound travelers.

JUDGE COGITATES ON SCOPES CASE

Retires to Consider Summary Quashing of Indictment Against Teacher.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 14.—(Canadian Press).—Judge John T. Raulston, presiding at the trial of John Thomas Scopes, on the charge of violating the law of the State of Tennessee, making it a misdemeanor to teach theories of evolution in public schools, retired to his chamber last night to study whether the indictment against the 24-year-old school teacher shall be summarily quashed. The judge carried with him briefs of half a score of points stressed by contending sides in the case, while ringing in his judicial ears were words from half a dozen oral arguments presented to the court during the day.

PRESENT COLOURS

On Haig's Visit in Toronto Presentation Will Be Made to Toronto Scottish.

TORONTO, July 14.—(Canadian Press). — A feature of the visit of Field Marshal Haig to Toronto on July 25 and 26 will be the presentation of new colors by a British soldier to the Toronto Scottish Regiment. As yet, the only official information on Earl Haig's Toronto visit is that he will arrive here on Saturday evening, July 25, and leave on Sunday evening for Montreal.

A LINE-O-TYPE.

Of course we may be wrong, but it looks like a case of sour grapes. You remember the story Well, Dr. J. E. Barnard and Dr. William E. Gye, after years of research, have succeeded in isolating the germ of cancer. Their announcement was made yesterday, and was hailed as an epoch-making discovery in medical science in every civilized country — save only one. Today, United States medical leaders claim they succeeded in doing this very thing thirteen years ago.

Sour Grapes?

An amusing part of the claim made today is the effrontery with which, after endeavoring to establish a claim to the discovery, its importance is sneered at.

Dr. Francis Carter Wood, director of the cancer research of the George Crocker special research fund of Columbia University, at the end of a long recital of the achievements of United States' medical men, adds that he doubts that science is any nearer a cure for cancer.

One hopeful feature is the unanimity with which the press has acclaimed the discoveries made by the British scientists. Certain sections of the press may become wrought up by different kinds of news, but the conservative old English papers do not lend their top-of-the-page "screamer" lines to broadcasting discoveries that mean nothing. And the leader among medical journals of the world, a London publication, is departing from precedent to give the layman a report of the find, so that the man in the street may understand the magnitude of the discovery.

Maybe this rushing into print to belittle the achievements of the British scientists is alright, but it looks like a case of sour grapes.

LAKEFIELD HAD AN OUTSTANDING ORANGE PARADE

Peterborough Lodges Took Part in Colorful Walk—Six Bands.

LOCAL SPEAKERS.

Resolution Proposed By Mrs. Staples Rejects Proposal to Change the Flag.

LAKEFIELD, July 14.—Ideal weather favored the celebration of the Glorious twelfth here yesterday. The lodges were busy all morning meeting arrivals by boat and train, headed by the Lakefield citizens' band. In the afternoon the parade started from Memorial Hall at 1.30, headed by three men mounted on white steeds, J. J. Cunningham, of Peterborough, County Master; Stephen Harrison of Lakefield, Deputy County Master, and A. J. Young, District Director. Following these came the ladies of Eastern Star L.O.B.A. of Peterborough in three Automobiles, then Nassau band, Nassau Juvenile Lodge, Nassau Wellington Lodge, 457; Colonel Sanderson Lodge 321 of Downer's Corners, with fife and drum band; Duke of Manchester' Lodge 50 of Peterborough, with its band; Campbellford Lodge 526 with band; North Dummer Lodge; Apsley Lodge 1072; Warsaw Lodge; North Smith, Wesley Lodge 419, with brass band; Lakefield Beresford Lodge 122, with Lakefield Citizens' Band. The procession formed up on the market square, marching out Albert street, east to Regent street, to Queen street, north on Queen to Colborne, to Chippewa avenue, to Strickland street, to Queen street, to Bridge, to Caroline, and along William street to Exhibition ground, where the ranks were broken.

The District Master is Roman McMaster of Young's Point. Among the old-timers in the parade were Alex. Fitzgerald of Peterborough, who joined the Lodge when he was 18; Thomas Hopkins of L.O.L. 80, Peterborough, who said he had "only been walking 62 years"; Isaac Lean, 79, of Apsley; Joseph Parkes, 74, of Apsley; and Thomas Wallace of Wellington Lodge. Among other visitors was a representative of L.O.L. 2722 of East End, Saskatchewan.

The Speeches.

The speeches were given at the Exhibition Ground, with Reeve Strickland in the chair. Reeve Strickland welcomed the orangemen to the village, assuring them of a welcome if they came back every year. Mr. E. A. Tanner, chairman of the finance committee of the Council, endorsed the welcome given by the Reeve, expressed his sympathy with the principles of Orangeism, and gave three reasons, the stand of Orangeism for civil and religious liberty, the open Bible, and the principle of British connection. "We are glad to remain under the old flag", he declared amid cheers.

W. H. Bradburn.

W H. Bradburn, M.P.P. who introduced himself as being the youngest orangeman in Peterborough in point of membership It was the first time he had had the honor to march with his own lodge, 50, he said. O rangeism, he declared, stood for religious liberty; Orangemen interfered with no one and brooked no interference, and he hopes to live up to the obligation.

Colonel T. D. Johnston, M.P.P. said he had read with pleasure the protest of Orangeism against any tampering with the British flag. He regards unity of thought and action as the only means by which the people can win through the present time of unrest. He would not want to interfere with anyone's religious belief, unless it runs contrary to the State. Then is the time for Orangeism to interfere.

Roland Denne disagreed with Mr. Tanner when he said Orangemen were not as much needed now as in the old days, saying had it not been for the Orange Order MacKenzie King would have changed the flag. Mr. Denne suggested that it the Union Jack is not good enough for Mr. King he should go to live under the Stars and Stripes.

Rev. Walter Cox of Lakefield spoke on the motto of the Orange Order, "Be Loyal—loyalty to country, and endorsed the program against any change in the flag. The principle of Orangeism is to find no fault with anyone's religion; it is non-sectarian and non-political. It unites to honor the King, who represents freedom, honesty and progress. He urged Canadians to stand by their country, which is a place for red-blooded men, not afraid to work. "Let us remember what we stand for," he urged, "the Fatherhood of God, and brethren all; loyalty to the Order, the country, and to God.

Rev. A. McLauchlin of Keene made a stirring speech, urging the Orangemen to stand by Protestantism, and not to forget what it stood for. The Orangemen owed a duty to their country, and to the problems of the country, such as land settlement and the school question. "The Puritans were the people who gave us the Open Book," he said, "and we should stand for Protestantism as men stand for what is best. Get in the van; put Protestanism still in the forward line."

Stand For Unity.

Rev. P. L. Jull of Lakefield, spoke briefly, drawing attention to the fact that the representative of King William on his white charger is up to date in the Lakefield celebration, eating an ice cream cone. He urged that the Orangemen stand for the things that unite and do not divide, the best Orangemen is the man who has caught the spirit of the Order rather than just the spectacular side.

Mrs. Staples, Worthy Mistress of Eastern Star Lodge, briefly expressed her pleasure in being present and advocated the formation of a ladies' lodge, promising the assistance of the Peterborough Lodges in organization. She closed by moving a resolution that Orangemen and Orange-women stand firmly for the British flag.

Miss Rose Sexsmith also urged the formation of a ladies' lodges and a juvenile lodge, and seconded Mrs. Staples' resolution. Reeve Strickland put the resolution, which was heartily endorsed.

Sports Programme.

While the speeches were in progress, the football match, postponed from the morning, was played between the North Dummer team and a picked team of Peterborough Orangemen. North Dummer won by 2 to 1. The referee was Norman Crowe.

The sports committee, Mrs. W. Bickell, an David H. Charlton presided efficiently. Several teams participate in the tug-of-war, L.O.L. 50 Peterborough pulling Campbellford 526, the latter winning; Nassau 457 vs North Smith 419, Nassau winning; Lakefield had a bye in the first round and pulled Campbellford the latter winning. In the final Campbellford won from Nassau. The personnel of the winning team was: William Melville, W. Archer, Victor Fee, W. McDonald, R. Melville, M. Sampson, Robert Biddy, Earl Turner, F. Hobbs.

Robert Cuffe of South Dummer won the "throwing the weight" contest after a tie with W. Archer of Campbellford. The winner threw the weight 14 feet, 2 inches. After the award, George Paudush of Hiawatha asked for the privilege of a try and threw the weight 15 feet, 6 inches.

In the hop, skip and jump the real contest as between C. Selkirk, George Paudash and David Charlton, the last two gaining 25 feet, 11 inches each. In a second trial Paudash won.

In the running hop, step and jump C. Selkirk won by covering 34 feet, 8 inches, with Paudash, Dobson and H. Munro as runners up.

The baseball game was postponed, and a concert and dancing closed an eventful day .

CRAZED BY LIQUOR.

Tried to Cut His Throat With an Axe.

PRESCOTT, Ont., July 14. — Canadian Press. — After attempting to cut his throat with an axe after a sudden fit of insanity near the village of Lonville on Sunday, Bartley McGarvey, aged 23, a native of New Brunswick, was arrested and committed to the St. Lawrence State Hospital for the Insane at Ogdensburg, N.Y., on Monday. The fit of insanity is alleged to have been the result of drinking poisonous liquor

CANADIAN ASSAULTED.

Beaten By Sheriff's Officers in Washington Town.

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 14. — Canadian Press. — Claiming that he was beaten and handcuffed by Sheriff's officers at Cleelum, Wash., and that he will make an international episode of it, and demand damages from the offenders, M. Watford Drucouer, secretary-treasurer of a British Columbia mining company operating in the Similkameen district, arrived in Vancouver Sunday night, accopanied by T. P. Larkin; also a mining man, and a son of Hon. P. G. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner in London.

According to the story told by Mr. Drucouer, he and Larkin left Princeton last Friday for Seattle by automobile and on reaching Cleelum decided to remain there over night.

Drucouer said he had walked around the town for a few minutes when he was stopped by a man who informed him the sheriff wished to see him.

Putting up a struggle, Drucouer claims that he was thrown to the ground, struck in the face and handcuffed, but was later released.

Issue Over "New York Infidel."

A woman of his congregation called on him Saturday and told him that if he permitted a "New York infidel" to speak in his pulpit the church would break up on Monday. "All right," said Mr. Byrd, "I'll withdraw the invitation and get out myself."

There was no strenuous objection on her part to that, he said, and it meant the termination of his ministry.

'I'm an electrician of sorts, not a very good one, and I can go back to that," he said. "I'll get a job on a switchboard somewhere and study until I can hold a better job. There is nothing wrong with my congregation. This is merely a sample of small-town mass psychology. It could not be helped.

"Infidelity inside the church is what hurts religion. Men like Darrow don't do any harm. They are honest, everybody knows how they feel, and they live true to their philosophy.

"The people in the churches who make believe they know the Bible from cover to cover and don't act on it are the ones who make the trouble. Back of this Fundamentalist wave are Calvanistic theologians using Bryan as their tool, and I don't believe he knows it."

Threat to Wreck Church.

Dr. Potter was unwilling to have Mr. Byrd leave his calling on his account and said that under the circumstances he would withdraw his acceptance of the invitation to occupy the pulpit. Then he put up this bulletin on the window of Robinson's drug store, the Fundamentalists' local forum:

"Dr. Potter has cancelled his evolution sermon at the Methodist Episcopal Church owing to the threat of the congregation."

He explained later that the "threat" referred to the visit of more than half of the congregation in a body last night to the parsonage where they told Mr. Byrd that if the New Yorker were to preach in the Methodist edifice they would "wreck the church."

Preacher's Resignation Regretted.

There was some dismay among the townsfolk when they realized the situation which has been caused by Mr. Byrd's renunciation of his ministry. Postmaster S. C. Patten, who is the principal member of his church, had nothing but kind words for Mr. Byrd, despite his liberal beliefs.

When Mr. Patten was asked if there would be an attempt to bring about a reconciliation between factions in the congregation and persuade Mr. Byrd to stay, he was noncommittal, and indicated that although he regretted what had happened, there might not be a serious attempt to persuade Mr. Byrd to stay.

Dr. John R. Neal, chief of counsel for Scopes, said he had been consulted by Mr. Byrd the night before and strongly advised him not to resign, at least until the trial is over.

THE REAL ISSUE.

Canadians as a whole are inclined to ridicule the Dayton evolution trial, many believing no doubt that it is chiefly inspired by publicity seekers, such as William Jennings Bryan.

But there is a very important principle at stake nevertheless, and that is the right of the individual to think.

The United States prides itself as being the land of the free—yet one of its States attempts to destroy the freedom of human thought.

That is the real issue in the Scopes trial, despite the silver-tongued Mr. Bryan, who, as one paper puts it, never thinks himself.

WHAT THE CAR HAS DONE.

While the bands and the banners and the regalia remain the same and Orangemen apparently have the same enthusiasm as their sires about the observance of the Battle of the Boyne, the celebration of the "Glorious Twelfth" is not what it used to be in one respect.

The motor car has made the same change in the Orange reunion as it has in many other activities.

The method of transportation has to a considerable extent been transformed, and nobody knows that fact any better than the management of the railways.

There are still special trains on the Twelfth, but not so many, and few of them are packed as they used to be in the old days.

Mr. Orangeman and his family no longer depend on steam, but "step on the gas."

Thus yesterday saw the roads leading to the different centres where "walks" were held alive with automobiles of all ages and types, filled with Orangemen and their families, gaily whirring along the highways to the scene of the day's celebration.

Thousands travelled by road yesterday, while twenty years ago the railways carried the great bulk of the Orangemen and their friends.

It merely illustrates one of the gravest problems with which the railways have to grapple—the ever increasing competition not only of the privately owned car but of the steadily improving motor bus.

MORE READING.

It was rather surprising to the Examiner and doubtless will be to its readers to find from the annual report of W. O. Carson, Inspector of Public Libraries in Ontario, that the patronage of these libraries is showing a steady year by year increase.

The advent of the radio and the popularity of automobiling and the movies would lead most people to think that there has been a gradually lessening interest in reading, but the figures show that this is not the case.

In fact, the use of the public libraries in this Province during the last ten years, we are told, has increased one hundred per cent.

The people are not only reading more, but, better still, the report shows that the quality of the literature read in the libraries of Ontario is steadily improving.

Library reports from all over the Province show that libraries are improving in their book selections, and the Inspector points out that the standard of librarianship, improving as it does from year to year, is playing an important part in encouraging an interest in better books.

Peterboro people, excellently served by the splendid local library, will be interested in knowing that, in spite of the new attractions that are always developing, reading is still increasing in popularity.

The result of reading more and better books cannot fail to be beneficial—and the report must be regarded as a most encouraging index of the conditions throughout the Province.

DR. McCULLOUGH'S STATEMENT.

Coming as it does from the Chief Officer of Health of Ontario, the statement issued by Dr. J. W. S. McCullough yesterday to the effect that very little value is gained for the yearly expenditure by the municipalities of Ontario for local public health administration of a million and a half dollars, should create considerable interest.

Dr. McCullough covered somewhat the same ground in an address not long ago before the Peterboro Rotary Club, but he is much more emphatic in his new statement, in which he declares that only eight out of 900 local health governments in Ontario can be said to have an efficient public health service.

The Chief Officer of Health is firmly convinced that the present system to which most of the municipalities, including Peterboro, pin their faith—that is, a part-time medical health department—is not producing the results deserved, and he is equally emphatic in his opinion that it would be good business for larger centres to establish their health departments upon a full-time basis and for a number of smaller municipalities to combine into one unit for health purposes.

His indictment of the present conditions should cause a stir among municipal authorities; it is certainly not a very satisfactory condition of affairs to have the Chief Health Officer of the Province tell us that most of the money we are spending on protecting the public health is being thrown away under present conditions.

GOOD ADVICE.

There is nothing which more worries the young person of school-leaving age than the choice of occupation he or she, as the case may be, shall make, says the Hamilton Spectator. There are so many openings, and yet so few which seem to offer the prospect of assured success. All avenues are crowded and it is natural to apply the test of financial returns when perhaps the decision should be founded upon quite other considerations. It is a difficult matter to decide, and the young person may well deliberate long and carefully before taking any definite action. Recently a young man, who not too modestly describes himself as "of more than average ability and ambition, with a good scholastic education" for his age, wrote to a recognized authority on the question of choosing an occupation. In reply to his letter, this gentleman expressed regret that he was not able to offer much advice which would be helpful to the choice of a satisfying position, but he gave him this very useful suggestion: "The problem is that of finding an occupation rather than choosing one and then accepting it." In finding an occupation there were three things to be considered—there was first of all the necessity for earning a decent living; secondly, the work should be such as would enable one to contribute his share to the material well-being of the community; thirdly, it should be of a character to "promote the social (that is, the intellectual, moral and spiritual) development of one's self and his neighbors."

How many would apply these three considerations to the task of choosing a position? The first is in most cases the only one of which note is taken; and for that reason many a young man and woman has made a mistake right at the beginning which it is difficult to rectify. And what is regarded as promotion? Merely extra pay, as a rule, but here is what this counselor has to say concerning this aspect of the matter: "Where circumstances do so hedge one about as to limit or restrict opportunities to select an occupation that seems desirable and agreeable, a good rule to follow is to take the one that is seemingly the best available and then 'whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.' That often opens doors otherwise closed or leads to open ones through which one may enter and go on and up. The 'up,' to a diligent man with good principles, means 'up' into the realms of noble living and usually 'up' among his fellows in superior service."

WHAT IS CHRISTIANITY?

The trial being staged at Dayton, Tenn., now known as the Scopes case, to determine the right of schools to teach evolution as opposed to the law of creation by the Almighty, is drawing some of the most noted legal minds in United States to present the case for the prosecution and defence. For the latter Clarence Darrow has been hailed from the seclusion which he stated was final when he succeeded in saving Loeb and Leopold from the gallows in Chicago.

The wide and even distant ramifications of the trial are shown in the way previous utterances of Darrow are being unearthed, especially his address at the trial of the infamous "Bill" Haywood, charged with the murder of ex-Governor Stunenberg of Idaho. Pleading for the life of one of the plotters, Orchard, Darrow made use of the phrase, "I don't believe in man's tinkering with the word of God." He went on to qualify his words by stating that he was not a professed Christian, but had a great respect for all the religions, even to the worship of idols if they tended to make men better.

The reply of Senator Borah, who was opposing Darrow in that trial, is also recalled, and is considered by many as one of his most masterful utterances. Taking up the same theme as Darrow, he told how early in life he read a book on Ingersoll, the atheist, but his father took it away from him. Senator Borah continued:

"I came to the conclusion that Bonaparte was a greater man than Ingersoll; the greatest genius in war or statesmanship that ever lived. I came to the history of his Egyptian campaign. I read how he took with him on that trip from Paris a number of philosophers, savants from the salons of Paris, learned men, wise men, men who were teaching in that day as some would vainly teach now, that there is nothing higher or more divine than the impulses and emotions of the human heart, nothing more God-like than the human intellect; men who taught there was no difference, as my eloquent friend now says, between the unlettered rbarian muttering at the foot of a black idol and the jubilant soul looking up to the God on Calvary, asking for guidance and direction.

"I read how one night these philosophers sat upon the deck of the ship and discussed in their puny way the mistakes of the Infinite; how they finally concluded that there was no such thing as religion, no God, nothing higher than man. At last they turned to Napoleon for an opinion, who, pointing to the firmament above, said: 'Tell me who made that firmament and I will then discuss this matter with you.'

"This was a revelation to me. Skepticism and agnosticism were things of the past. And I say to you tonight that I am not a religionist, neither am I a hypocrite, but it is too late in this the morning of the twentieth century, to write upon the divine brow of the one who died on Calvary 'Impostor,' too late to write above that bowed head 'False Prophet.' While some may not know, millions do know that their Redeemer liveth. It is too late to argue against the teaching of Him who said: 'This day thou shalt be with me in Paradise.'"

In connection with the same controversy, Dr. J. G. Machen, leading Presbyterian divine, of Princeton University, has written to the New York Times, a definition of what Christianity really stands for and the responsibility that rests on the church to proclaim it. He concludes:

"The world, according to our view, is lost in sin; the gospel provides the only way of escape; and the blackest guilt into which any Christian can fall is to deceive dying souls into thinking that some other way will answer as well. There is no permanent hope for society in the mere 'principles of Jesus.' It is found only in the new birth of individual souls. God has placed us in the world as witnesses, and we cannot, in the interests of ecclesiastical harmony, or for any other reason, allow our witness to become untrue."

If the Scopes trial, looked upon by many as nothing more than a well-devised publicity stunt, brings Christian leaders to the point where they have to state definitely what they believe and why they believe it, that will in itself justify the action. A clear enunciation of what Christianity means, and what is expected of those who profess it, held up before the church people of today, might be one of the best things that could happen to them. Churches have always made their most substantial development in the face of hard opposition.—London Advertiser.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The Editor of the Examiner

Dear Sir:

Much ado about the ole swimmin' hole up at Inverlea Park these hot days. Just because people are not permitted to swim there on Sundays. Naturally every one gets hot under their collars and want to swim. You never saw it otherwise did you?

No what about this swimming business any how. The poor factory man who has to work in a hot shop all day (really 8 hours) all the week is denied the opportunity of bathing on Sunday, the only day he has a chance. So the poor fellow don't get half a chance to keep clean let alone cool.

Where do you get that stuff? The factories close at 5.00 p.m. and there is day light till 8.00 p.m., every day in the week If he were forbidden to bathe after 5.00 p.m. week days wouldn't there be a proper howl go up As to the children they have six whole days in the week during July and August to tumble in the river to their heart's content, and through the kindness of the Kiwanis, hundreds can bathe and desport themselves in Jackson's park every week day.

Where then does the hardship come in if the bathing privilege is not available on Sunday?

There has been a long and strenuous struggle in this Canada of ours against the introduction of the European Sabbath. Our neighbors to the south have practically surrendered the day of rest to one of frenzied enjoyment. If the practice of yielding hese a bit and there a bit is to be introduced then we will before very long have lost our Sabbath in the same way. In spite of all that has been said and written about our City Council, are they not right in the attitude they have taken in his matter? Is there any real hardship incurred because the bathing beach is closed on the Sabbath?

ORANGEMEN PARADE.

Bethany Brethren at St. Paul's Anglican Church on Sunday.

BETHANY, July 14.—Over 70 members marched out to St. Paul's Anglican church on Sunday evening where Rev. M. Freiheller delivered a very eloquent service to the Orangemen. The Bethany Band also rendered splendid music for the march. The church was filled to the doors but owing to the intense heat several were turned away.

United Church.

Rev. A. Poulter, formerly of Thomasburg, preached his first sermon in Bethany United Church on Sunday evening. Mr. Poulter gave a very interesting talk and said he hoped to have the co-operation of his people and also extended a very hearty welcome to all those who are to join the United Church.

Canada has a flourishing Alpine Club, with several hundred members from several countries; it conducts annual camps and issues a yearly volume of great interest.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 13 — With a lighter run of cattle than last week, trade opened a little brisker. Prices were no higher, but holding fairly steady at the recent general decline. There was a moderate export demand, Rogers and Maybee taking about 500 cattle. Export steers, $7.50 to $8.25; stores, $7 to $7.25; bulls, $4.75 to $5. This firm will ship through to seaboard this week, 1,750 cattle, many of these bought in the country, billed through, or carried over from last week's purchases. The H. P. Kennedy Co. are also shipping through today for export about 500, mostly bought in the country and billed through.

The butcher trade opened fairly active with a good demand for the choice finished butcher steer or heifers. There was, however, a rather heavy proportion of half finished cattle in the market, and these added to 400 stale cattle held over from last week, proved a drag, and were only selling slowly at last week's drastic reductions of from 50c to 75c The choice butcher steers and heifers were steady at from $7 to $7.50, with a few extra choice at $7.75. Fair medium fresh butcher $6.75 to $7.

Fat butcher cows steady, but trade slow.

Calves steady to firm, $10 to $10.50

Lambs easy, $14 to $14.50.

Hogs 25c lower at $12.75, f.o.b., and $13.75 off cars thick smooths.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 13—Rapid new upturns in the price of wheat, 5 3-4c a bushel at the outside, went hand in hand today with enlarged general buying and reports that hot humid weather was heightening the danger of severe crop damage from black rust. According to one authority indications are that the wheat crop in the Dakotas this season will be reduced forty per cent. from the government estimate of July 1. Closing quotations on wheat were strong 2 1-2 to 5 1-4c net higher, Sept. 153 3-4 to 154 and Dec. 154 1-2 to 154 3-4. Corn finished at 1 1-2 to 2 3-4c up, oats at 7-8c decline to 1 5-8c advance, and provisions varying from 15c off to a rise of 7 cents.

It was deemed especially significant that much of the increased buying of wheat today came from the northwest, where the black rust fungus has been threatening the spring crop and where a crisis has apparently about been reached.

BELLEVILLE CHEESE AUCTION

MONTREAL, July 13 — At the United Dairymen Co-operative Auction Sale of Belleville Cheese held of the Board of Trade Monday the offerings mounted to 3,004 boxes of which 1,62 7boxes No 1 White sold at 21 5-16c per lb., 1,325 boxes No. 1 Colored at 21 5-16c per lb., and 50 boxes special colored at 21 3-8c per ment to Montreal. These prices per lb., f.o.b. cars at Belleville for shipwere 3-16c per lb. below those realized a week ago.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 13 — There was no change in the local egg market today, prices for all grades being firmly maintained owing to limited supplies. Demand was steady for small lots and a moderate amount of business was done with sales of specials at 42c, fresh extras at 40c, firsts at 36c, and seconds at 33c per dozen. GUESTS PROVIDE CHURCH SERVICE

APSLEY, July 14.—The congregation of St. Andrew's Church, Owenbrook, had a rare treat on Sunday morning when Mr. Hawthorne, tenor soloist of St. Matthew and St. Timothy Church, New York City, sang two solos during the service, Handel's "Largo" (Father in Heaven) and "O, for the Wings of a Dove," besides a duet with the Rev. Mr. Rutledge of St. Stephen's, Olean, N. Y., who also preached an inspiring sermon. The Rev. Leslie F. Chard, rector of St. Mary's Church, Gowanda, N. Y., read the lesson, the rest of the service being conducted by the Rev. C. A. G. Spence. It was a memorable occasion for the little back-country church of Owenbrook and its worshippers, and also for the New York visitors, whose kind and willing services were very greatly appreciated.

The local Orange Lodge held their annual church parade on Sunday afternoon to the United Church at Apsley, about 16 Orangemen attending the service which was conducted by the Rev. J. W. Ogden.

The Rev. C. Spence wishes to acknowledge with grateful thanks a donation of several articles for the jubilee picnic on Wednesday at Loon Lake. from Grafton's Clothing Store, Peterboro.

OBITUARY.

MRS. JOHN K. GALVIN.

(Contributed)

On Saturday morning, July 4, Mrs. John K. Galvin, Ennismore, aged 74 years, passed to her eternal rest and her death is sincerely mourned by her family and a wide circle of friends. Mrs. Galvin was a woman who ever gave her first interests to her home and family and yet found time and means for every charitable and religious activity. This most worthy woman had a great tribute paid her in the vast number of relatives, friends and acquaintances who came from Peterboro, Lindsay, Emily, Young's Point and the surrounding country to offer respect and sympathy to her and her family.

On Monday morning at nine o'clock the funeral cortege left the family residence for St. Martin's church, Ennismore. This beautiful new edifice was crowded to the utmost capacity. The impressive ceremony and blessing for the dead was conducted by Rev. Father McAuley, at the entrance of the church A solemn Requiem High Mass was sung by Rev. Father McAuley, assisted by Rev. Father Galvin as Deacon, Rev. Father Keough, C.S.S.R., as sub-deacon and Rev. M. K. Killen as master-of-ceremonies, Right Rev. Mgr. McColl, former pastor of Ennismore, attended in the sanctuary.

The clergy joined the mourners in the procession from the church to the cemetery and took part in the last solemn rites of the church. At the funeal, at the church, at the grave the same deep feeling was in evidence.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. P. J. Leonard, James Sullivan, John D. Sullivan, Victor Sullivan, Vincent Sullivan and Michael Crough, all nephews of the deceased.

Mrs. Galvin's death leaves a great blank in her once happy home for she and her husband have ever been noted for their wonderful kindness and their open house of lavish hospitality.

CONCEDING PUTTS IS MARRING GOLF

Suggested That Rule Demand All Putts Be Holed Out.

Over on the other side of the water there is being waged a war against the practice of conceding putts in match play, a practice which, it is claimed by many, is not only taking much from the game of golf but also giving rise to much bad feeling.

In almost every tournament it is no uncommon sight to see one player concede his opponent a three or four foot putt and the question invariably arises: "What will you give him for the hole." I hfis ball was within four feet of the hole after he had played three strokes, does he get a 4 or a 5? There is no doubt but that a four-foot putt is more often missed than it is holed, yet the putt was conceded and there is nothing to do except credit him with a 4.

It is this practice that may be held accountable for many of the low scores made in match play and it is a practice that is contrary to the definitio of the game of golf.

The code of the Royal and Ancient recommend that players should not concede putts. It would be a good thing for the game and for all concerned if there was adopted a rule which made it necessary to hole out all putts, no matter if there was only an inch between the ball and the hole.

It would tend to improve putting any at the same time it would relieve players from the embarrassment of being obliged to concede a putt that might easily be missed. There was one well-known golfer who used to have the reputation of conceding putts of three or four feet and then, all of a sudden, force an opponent to hole out one of six inches or less. There was a psychological reason back of it. Oftentimes it served to unnerve an inexperienced opponent. Many condemned the act as unsportsmanlike, yet it was simply using the privileges which the rules allow to best advantage. Having been conceded several putts of length and then being forced to drop one of less than a foot is disconcerting. Not only that, but it gives rise to bad feeling.

It would be a great help if the United States Golf Association were to make it a rule that in all tournaments held under its juirsdiction the game of golf should be played as the rules specify it should be played. This could be done by ruling that every putt, no matter how short, should be holed out, unless, of course, one player is so far out of the running as to render the holing useless.—New York Times.

BRIGHTON STREETS DECORATED TO WELCOME ORANGE BRETHREN FROM ALL OF NORTHUMBERLAND

Campbellford Had Three Lodges in Parade—Colorful Scenes On Route.

M. E. MAYBEE SPOKE.

Nothing Marred Celebration of Twelfth in Lakeshore Town.

(By a Staff Reporter).

BRIGHTON, July 14. — Brighton residents arrayed their pretty little village in holiday attire yesterday, decorating houses and business places, hanging out their brightest flags and most brilliant welcome and spreading across the leading streets streamers upon which were inscribed messages of hearty welcome to the Orangemen and visitors who gathered from all over the district to join in the annual celebration of the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. Nothing was left undone by the Brighton brethren, backed up by the residents generally, to make the event a success, and when the affair was over, the hosts of the day had the hearty assurance of their guests that their efforts had not been in vain. Not a single accident was reported all day, and though the crowd was large enough to pack all the leading streets over which the brethren marched in imposing parade, Constable J. M. Spencer was able to handle it alone and to keep the streets open for the marchers without difficulty. The watering cart was in commission all day, so that not a speck of dust arose from the well-kept roadways.

Campbellford's Fine Showing.

Campbellford sent three lodges and over 100 other residents to the celebration, the lodges being No. 36, under the leadership of J. R. Wilkinson, W.M.; True Blue Lodge No. 35, Charles Long, W.M., and the Ladies' Lodge of True Blues, 17 of the 25 members of which were in the line of march, with Mrs. George Phillips, Worthy Mistress, at their head. The members of No. 36, arrayed in their natty white uniforms in which they always appear at these celebrations, drew favorable comment from the spectators. For some years a prize was given for the lodge making the best appearance in the parade on the Twelfth, but this was won with such regularity by the members of No. 36 that the trophy was withdrawn from competition. The Campbellford ladies in the True Blue Lodge also wore white uniforms, and their Orange sisters from Trenton were similarly arrayed.

The other lodges from outside points were as follows: Castleton, 554; Wooler, 620; Codrington, 1,363; Warkworth, 180; Little Lake, 903; Trenton, 206; Frankford, 240.

The Procession.

The procession formed at 1.30 in the village park, with Brighton Lodge in the lead, following the Indian band of Alderville, which provided stirring music. Bro. Peter Peister, mounted on a handsome pure-bred white horse that any royal personage might well be proud to bestride, and who sat in his saddle gracefully and handled his mount with ease, was Grand Marshal of the day. The procession made a circuit of the principal streets and returned to the park, where the speeches were made from the band stand, Bro. R. J. Ross of Brighton Lodge acting as chairman. In a brief address, Reeve Baker of Brighton welcomed the visitors to the village.

Mr. Maybee's Address.

"I have often heard the question, 'How would you like to stand beside a steam boiler that had no safety valve'?" said M. E. Maybee, M.P., who was the first speaker, "and I have often heard the Orange Order compared to that valve."

Mr. Maybee said that Canadians are proud to be a part of the greatest empire in the world, but there is something that we grieve over to-day. The speaker then went on to speak of what he regards as the dangers that threaten this country and which he urged the Orangemen to combat. There is a propaganda abroad that would tear Canada from the British Empire and make this country independent. An attempt has been made to displace the flag and to substitute another anthem for God Save the King. Our public schools are in danger. Church holidays were observed by the Dominion Parliament but Dominion and Empire days were ignored. One of the functions of Orangemen, he said, was to stand up for these principles, religious and educational, that cannot be given up.

AT BRIGHTON.

M. E. MAYBEE,

M. E. Maybee, M.P., who was the speaker at Brighton's Twelfth Celebration Yesterday.

As an evidence of the growth of the principles of the order Mr. Maybee told how he had attended an Orange celebraton in Rochester on Saturday, the first ever held in that city. He found that the constitution of the American branch is the same as that of the Canadina with the single exception that the former own allegiance to a different country as they have a right to do. Orangemen, he said, are not aggressive and are not trouble makers. They simply stand for the civil and religious liberties which it is theirs to enjoy.

Grand Lodge Official

A. R. Hassard, barrister of Toronto, and an official of the Orange Grand Lodge, who is known all over Ontario as a temperance advocate, made a striking allusion to his favorite topic when he declared that the exalted position which the Orange Order holds today is due in no small measure to the fact that it was decided over 20 years ago to banish intoxicating liquor from the lodge room meetings. People opposed to the order can no longer say that the celebrations are debaucheries and women can now take part in them. Orangemen have nothing against any other denomination worshipping it as it may see fit but they do object to interference with their own civil and religious liberties.

Mr. Hassard declared that the members of a certain denomination are being shown favours by the Civil Service Commission who are giving them the majority of the appointents at Ottawa. He maintained that the Union Jack must be preserved as the national emblem of Canada, as it represents the flags of the three British races who did so much for Canada in her pioneer days.

Orangemen are constructive. They belong to different parties but they combined in 1873, in 1878 and in 1896, to overthrow Canadian governments, because convinced that those governments were not true to the principles for which the Order stood.

"The cross on the ballot," he declared, "is as effective as any crucifix of Rome."

Danger from Immigration.

With an eloquence that thrilled his large audience who hung on his every word Mr. Hassard drew a vivid picture of the future of Canada. This year the great North West is to be in a greater sense than ever the granary of the world. The wheat crop promises a record yield, while there is a shortage in Russia, in Argentina and the United States.

The glowing prospects in Canada are luring to her shores the populations of the dying nations of Europe, and there is no law to prevent them coming. Care must be taken that they do not displace the British race, that the Union Jack is not dragged down, and for it substituted the black banner of sedition or the red ensign of extortion and murder.

Short addresses were made by W. H. Ireland, M. P., of Trenton, Rev. J. W. I. S. Wilson and Harry B Phillips of Brighton. The latter gave to Chairman Ross the lion's share of the credit for the success of the celebration and in grateful terms complimented Mr. Hassard on his splendid address. During the afternoon and evening the young people enjoyed dancing in the village hall.

WORLD FACING WAR OF RACES

F. Britten Austen Fears Uprising in Asia Against the Whites.

FOMENTED BY REDS.

LONDON, July 14.—The events in China, Morocco and India are apparently the preliminary stage of an unparalleled war to the death between the white and colored races, with the Pacific as the central battleground, says F. Britten Austen in The Sunday Pictorial. He believes the world is rushing toward a struggle directed by a Bolshevist campaign, which will make the fall of the Roman Empire look like a small local affair in the destinies of the white nations.

"The shadow of a war cloud in the East is falling darkly upon the hitherto sunny world supremacy of the white race," says Mr. Austen. "It is unpleasantly possible that the cloud may be cloven to-day or to-morrow, but inevitably by the lightning flashes of war. The white man's prestige will disappear when the savage, barbaric millions from Africa and Asia can defy the white man.

"The white man has forcibly fed the ancient populations with the newest theories of education, politics and social custom. He has fatuously presented them with thousands and thousands of cinemas showing the white races in a contemptible light. He has committed the crowning folly of leading the colored races into battle against white men. In Africa, India, Indo-China and China tens of thousands of demobilized war auxiliaries have returned to spread the wondrous tale that the white man is not invincible.

"The colored races hate the white man with a hate whereof we have no conception. Moscow's one great reiterated hope is that the innumerable millions of colored races rise and massacre the white man. They have used feverish propaganda to accomplish this "They count cunningly on Japan. Although Japan is equal with the Western nations in the war of commence, the white man insultingly treats her nationals as an inferior race. Her populations are desperately overcrowded, but the white man denies them an outlet. Japan could fight a war against America or Great Britain, or both, with a reasonable prospect of at least temporary success. If she should, the whole world's colored race would seeth in fanatic excitement.

"The Bolshevist agitation is calculated to be carried out against Great Britain and Japan. If Great Britain acts alone to protect her nationals, Japan, as a protagonist of Asia, must protest. If Great Britain takes joint action with Japan as a wedge to drive into the Anglo-American friendship, the work of the Washington Conference will be undone and the yellow war on the Pacifis will see the two great white peoples disunited. If Japan takes separate action in China, the United States will assuredly intervene.

"Moscow is making the most of the material for a complete set of trouble in the Far East. The French entanglements in Morocco are at the best that the Bolsheviki could pray for. A spectacular success by Abd-el-Krim might easily bring a Moslem holy war throughout Northern Africa."

TWO DRIVERS HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Montreal Motorists Held Criminally Responsible By Juries.

MONTREAL, July 14 — In two separate coroner's inquiries, Alexander Kasatchenko and John P. Wegener were yesterday held criminally responsible for the death of two men killed in auto accidents here over the week-end. Both were drivers of the vehicles which caused the deaths.

Kasatchenko was found responsible for the death of Police Constable Frederic Chartrand, who was struck down while alighting from a street-car and died within ten minutes. Wegener was found responsible for the death of Francesco Vincelli who was run down on Friday night by a truck of which Wegener is said to have been the driver. Both drivers failed to stop at the time of the accident and were traced by the police later. Both were later arraigned on charges of manslaughter and later remanded, bail being fixed at $10,000 in each case.

SEAMEN STRIKE ON AUSTRALIAN SHIPS

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 14. — (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's).—A mass meeting of the Seamen's Union Monday decided to strike immediately and to force the ship owners to include a clause in the shipping articles providing for the same conditions as existed before the de-registration of the Union. All Australian ships will be made idle as they reach home ports, eventually affecting four thousand mariners. Much distress will be occasioned to thousands indirectly connected with shipping. Eleven ships are already tied up.

The Inter-State Ship-owners' Federation last week decided not to enter an agreement reached between the Commonwealth Shipping Board and the Seamen's Union. This agreement was the acceptance by the Shipping Board of the suggestion that the arbitration court's award with regard to wages and working conditions be accepted.

Orange Celebrations in Peterborough District

HON. DR. FORBES GODFREY SAYS ADDITION OF THE MAPLE LEAF TO UNION JACK IS ALLOWABLE

A GALA DAY

W. H. Nugents Calls on the Orange Order to Oppose Bolshevist Movement.

(By A Staff Reporter)

MADOC, July 14.—Nearly 2,000 members of Orange Lodges, marched in procession yesterday, at Madoc, in splendid weather in celebration of the "Glorious Twelfth." Thirty-two lodges were represented including 9 ladies' lodges.

The lodges were assembled at the Agricultural Grounds from which they marched through the village of Madoc and back to the Agricultural Grounds, a distance of 3 miles. The procession extended a mile and a half, and presented a pleasing and animated spectacle. One bystander remarked, "It was worth while letting the hay stand for another day for the sake of seeing a procession like this."

Wm. Hawthorne, County Master of Central Hastings was Marshal and his right hand man was Stan Haydon, District Director of Central Number 2, and his chief assistants were F. W. Reid, No. 1 District, Fred Sagar No. 2, Foster Wilson No. 3 and Clarence Carter No. 4. J. A. Potts of Madoc, 63 years an Orangemen, walked in his 61st Twelfth parade. Sanford Bowen of 392 Lodge Elliot, 84 years of age beat the drum in his 50th consecutive Orange walk. Despite his advanced age the veteran Orangeman covered the whole route, and on the return to the Agricultural Grounds gave much less evidence of fatigue than did many younger men. T. H. Matthew also in the march yesterday added one more march to his total of 50. At the other end of the scale Roger Ralston, 8 years old, was the youngest of the many drummers on parade.

As the procession filed its way through the streets of Madoc, the Sentinel Lodge of Pethicks Corners, all clad in immaculate white uniform with red stripes, elicited many expressions of admiration from the onlookers. Springbrook Lodge No. 442 also attracted a great deal of attention by reason of its trio of lady drummers clad in Highland costume. The order of the parade was as follows:

There were about 6,000 people in the Agricultural Grounds when the procession returned and lined up in mass formation before dispersing. The dresses of the ladies and the brilliant colors of the banners and regalias formed a magnificent kaleidescope of many hues, such as Madoc sees only on gala days. The lunch stall did a roaring trade and vendors of all kinds of notions and novelties, from gas balloons to ribbons erected stalls alongside the man who was offering prizes to those who could demolish his pyramid of earthware bottles. Very youthful youths in dazzling socks strolled around the ground with numerous amorous and endearing inscriptions on the bands of their straw hats. One of them, according to his hat legend, was single, but willing to be married. Another informed the world he was "looking for a wife." "Saving my kisses for you" and "I will, won't you" were greetings plainly inscibed but apparently there were no takers. The suggestion on the hat of a young man, whose badge proclaimed him to be a "Hootch Inspector" was, "Kiss me girls, I'm candy."

Splendid Addresses.

W. Hawthorne made a most effective chairman and between each address never failed to come across with a good story.

Rev. Mr. Struthers gave a short address on "our indebtedness to the pioneers of Protestantism", mentioning Wycliff, Huss and Luther, particularly in that connection.

W. H. Nugent, County Clerk of Hastings who substituted for the Grand Master of Ontario East, said when he accepted the invitation to address the gathering, he felt himself called to a task he could only perform very inadequately, but he was glad of an opportunity of being with them in celebrating the 235th anniversary of the signing of the peace terms that brought religious freedom. His ancestors were soldiers in King William's army and fought with him at the Boyne. In celebrating the great anniversary they were not out to fan hatred among those who differed from them in religious belief. Intolerance was repugnant to the Orange Order, which stood for equal rights for all and special privileges for none. There must be no perpetuation of bitterness. The true Orangeman was slow to take offence and gave offence to none. The speaker reviewed the events leading up to the coming of William of Orange to Britain in 1688 and the issue by the British Parliament of the Declaration of Rights with its cardinal principles enacting.

That the King might not suspend the law. That all subjects were free; that election should be free and held frequently; that no man should be brought to trial for utterance in Parliament. These principles, said the speaker, are embodied in our Canadian laws. Mr. Nugent traced the fortunes of the two contending monarchs from the seige of Londonderry to the Battle of the Boyne and the extinguishing of the hopes of the Stuart royal house. The object of recalling unpleasant historical facts was the repression of abuses that arise. In modern times there have been no cases of tyranny being suddenly imposed on a free people. One abuse was introduced after another until the people found themselves enmeshed in a net of bondage and only aftre great courage, fortitude and suffering were they able to bring about release.

The word Protestant was first applied to those who banded themselves together against abuses within the Roman Catholic Church. He believed the day was dawning when all branches of the Reformed Chruch would dwell together in unity, and work towards the attainment of their common ideals.

Denounces Bolshevism.

He wanted to mention one abuse of the present day—the Bolshevist movement. They must not misunderstand him; he was not referring to organized labor, the two systems were as wide asunder as the poles.

His experience led him to believe in organized labor, which had attained wonderful results in raising the standard of living, the standard of efficiency and in providing opportunities for the education of the children of the workers, fitting them for the best positions the land could offer them. But the Red movement was a system of robbery. It had brought great Russia to her doom, and led her to desert her allies, especially Britain who had entered the war to come to the aid of Russia. Bolshevism had ruined the nation, murdered intellect, made all the women common property, repudiated her just debts and tried to spread her doctrines among the people of the world. Against this influence the Orange Order must guard. He was pleased at the presence o the ladies in such a goodly number. When the Creator made man and was about to create women, the climax and perfection of all things, he first put man into a deep sleep. Conditions had been vastly improved throughout the world in modern days. Perhaps man had fallen into a deep sleep, but women were now taking part in that organization called democracy. The responsibility of woman was great, but she could rely on herself and be guided by her own intuition. He must again express his appreciation of the Orangemen of the district and of their County Master, who, he hoped, would be long spared to spread the principles for which Orangemen stood.

Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey.

The Hon. Dr. Martin was to be present, but was unable to come and sent as his substitute the Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey. Dr. Godfrey said he was at Madoc 56 years ago when his father addressed an Orange demonstration there. He had never been at Madoc since. His father was a Methodist minister. Would they have believed it? Orangemen were always good Conservatives. When his brother became a Liberal, his father read him out of the house, not permanently, of course. Dr. Godfrey said his brother ran as a Liberal candidate and went down by 500 votes, while he himself was elected by a 1,500 majority.

He had just returned fro Europe where he had attended an international Labor conference. Forty-five nations were represented there. The Tower of Babel had nothing on that. When he looked over the men who represented the Empire, speaking the good old English, he thought of the grand old Empire on which the sun never set, and the grand old flag they loved.

If Canadians wanted a new flag let them put a Maple Leaf just where the Crosses of St. Andrew and St. George met in the centre of the Union Jack. If any nation or dominion in the Empire deserved that right it was Canada. Our boys were the spearhead of the army at the front. He was talking to a German at the Labor Conference who asked him what he was. He replied "a Canadian." The German said: "Oh, I know all about those fellows. They, took me prisoner. If there was any rough part of the line it was where your men were." Yes, put a Maple Leaf in the Union Jack but let us have no hybrid stuff.. He was proud of the way the British Empire delegates, waited quietly while the Latins were blowing away. They just let the others blow away and then the Empire men had things settled as they wished. Why? Because the others knew, the Empire had the power behind it. He noticed that only three nations were not represented at the conference. One was the great Republic to the South, the others were Turkey and Russia. He urged Hastings to keep the old flag flying and they in York County would do the same.

Rev. A. L. Gain.

The Rev. A. L. Gain, Deputy Chaplain of British North America, asked the assembly if they were prepared to see the old flag that had braved a thousand years taken away from them. "No surrender," shouted his hearers. Some people said they should not celebrate the Twelfth. Why should they not celebrate a memorial of a great deliverance. Were not the Israelites commanded to observe the anniversary of the day in which God brought them out of the land of Egypt?

He gave the lodges some suggestion for future celebrations. He thought the marching could have been improved, also the music, and suggested the adption of a uniform dress for each lodge. The speaker announced that the prizes for best appearance had been awarded: 1st, Sentinel Lodge; 2nd, Springbrook; 3rd, Ladies Lodge No. 465.

Rev. Mr. White said Protestantism had to pass through three stages. The first was a protest against wrong within the Roman Catholic Church itself. The second was the construction of a theology resulting in varied churches. He hoped the third phase would be a union of those varied churches into one strong body.

The Rev. Mr. Foster of Madoc gave a short resume of the life or William of Orange from the time of his birth which happened while his father lay dead in his casket in an adjoining room, right to his accession to the British throne.

The Hon. Robert Cook, introduced as "Bob Cook," said he had been at two Orange celebrations this year and did not feel inclined to inflict a speech on them at this late stage. He called on them to give three cheers for Orangism and the British Empire, and three cheers for the King—and the day was brought to a close by the resounding cheers that followed his invitation.

SEVEN HUNDRED JOINED PARADE

Hon. W. H. Price Was Principal Speaker — S. M. Scott Acted as Chairman—Warden Gave Welcome — Big Sports Programme Ended Day's Activities.

(By A Staff Reporter)

OMEMEE, July 14.—Omemee had a gala day, in celebration of the twelfth of July, yesterday. The bright little village, its main street crossed by a large "Welcome" sign, was thronged with its own citizens and the visitors who came from the surrounding district, from Peterborough and Lindsay, Reaboro, Dunsford and Bobcaygeon, in company with the visiting lodges.

Under a warm sun, tempered to ideal weather conditions by a cool breeze, the Orangemen marched, in celebration of the three hundred and thirty-fifth anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. With fifes and drums sounding, with bright banners floating in the breeze, in a variety of suits that ranged from black coats and high silk hats to the colorful red silk blouses of the group from Bobcaygeon and the spotless white outfits and bright yellow bandoliers of the Juveniles from Peterborough, the assembled Orangemen made the tour of the little town on a parade that doubled back at the end of the asphalt paving and allowed watchers massed on the streets to see the parade a second time, and to hear the party tunes of the bands that accompanied the visiting lodges in many instances.

The occasion was almost like an Old Home Week re-union. The main street was lined on both sides with parked autos, and was dotted at intervals with refreshment booths, open to passers-by and gaily decorated with flowers.

In the long hall adjacent to the Union Church, dinner and supper was served by the Ladies' Aid Society, from tables covered with white cloths and decorated with flowers.

During the afternoon, a programme of speeches and sports with an exciting baseball game, was held in the Athletic Field, and Omemee closed its Twelfth of July celebration with the performance in Coronation Hall of a play entitled "A Dealer In Fish", put on by a group from Bethel.

A Large Parade.

A total of nearly seven hundred members of the Orange Order, including some sixty women and about seventy young people, marched in Omemee yesterday, led by S. Fisher of Omemee, and four men astride white horses. From Peterboro came the ladies, in white gowns with black hats, members of Vimy Ridge Lodge No. 244, and the Star of Bethlehem Lodge, also Diamond L.O.L. No. 80, numbering about thiry-five men, and the contingent of seventy boys and girls in Juveniles No. 3 Lodge.

Behind these came the other visiting lodges and Omemee's own quota, with its lodges, Nos. 113 and 114, Emily's No. 41 and the Queen's Own, No. 294, with No. 952 from North Emily, from Bethel and Reaboro and Lebanon, Dunsford and Bobcaygeon and Lindsay, which sent about sixty members, and was accompanied by Mayor Graham. The band of the Peterboro Rangers, engaged for the day, marched in the procession, which slowed down and played "Nearer, My God, To Thee," as a mark of respect when passing the home of an old member of the Order, John Malloch, whose funeral takes place today.

One member of the cavalcade, unaware, marched in the parade and went through the day sporting a little emerald green feather in the band of his straw hat.

At the Athletic Field, hundreds of people congregated to listen to speeches, to watch the ball game and take part in a programme of sports. The list of speakers included Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial treasurer, Drs. White and Carscadden of Lindsay, and R.J. Patterson, M.P.P. of Omemee. S. M. Scott of Lindsay, Master of Victoria County, acted as chairman.

Chairman's Address.

A brief address of welcome came from W. D. Stinson, Warden of Victoria County, who referred to the unfavorable weather conditions which marked the last Orange celebration in Omemee, twenty years ago.

Then the chairman, S. M. Scott of Lindsay, outlined the aim of the Loyal Orange Order in a short speech, defining them as being loyalty to British institutions and the upbuilding of Christian character among the members.

The British Empire is the most democratic institution of its kind today, bar none. We enjoy more freedom than the citizens of the United States, in our allegiance, not to a foreign monarch, but to a monarch of our own kind. It is a regrettable thing that there are those in our own membership who do not bear allegiance to the king of Great Britain, but to one who is a foreigner, and nothing else."

Loyalty to one king and to one flag," in these days when the destiny of the Union Jack is at stake, were teachings of the Orange Order.

"The Union Jack stands for equal rights for all and special privileges to none, one of the fundamental principles of the Orange Order."

One National School and Language

Emphasis on the absolute necessity for one national public school and one national language, the English, to be taught in that school, also was stressed. 'We have a great deal to contend with these days on the school question. We celebrate today an event that brought civil and religious liberty to the Empire. The pillars of civilization rest upon five cardinal points: home, school, church, citizenship and government. Separate schools or institutions of a peculiar secular nature are nothing but a special privilege to cater to a special class and propagate a spirit of separatism which is absolutely fatal to any nation. In secular relations, we believe in one organized method of instruction for the young. Just because by the British North America Act some of our fellow-citizens were given special privileges, they think they are entitled to more, and they have got a great many. Let them confine themselves to the pound of flesh allowed them in the British North America Act, but let them beware of taking even one drop of blood. If they do, they should be made to forfeit all the privileges to which they were entitled in the first place."

"Also, in respect to our loyalty, there is one national marriage law. There is one class in the land that is trying to upset this great fact.

Mr. Scott also referred to the Open Bible as a symbol of the Loyal Orange Order.

True Loyalty Defined.

Dr. J. A. White of Lindsay, the next speaker, said that loyalty does not always consist in simply raising flags and banners and in displaying bunting, but that true loyalty in its first principles is a deep and abiding love for country, for the principles of liberty and democracy, and also in a deep and abiding love for the laws of our country and a reverence for our religion. "We, as Protestants and Orangemen, will do more to spread our principles and get a following if we stand true to the principles taught in our lodges, reverence our religion and country and show a deep and abiding love for our fellow men. Probably one of the greatest hindrances to progress in our country is our suspicion of the other fellow. Let us be tolerant of those about us, even if we don't always know their point of view. Let us seek to live in such a way as to gain their respect for us."

"There is more work to be done by the Orange Order just now than there has been for many years, if we are going to keep firmly to the principles and standards we wish to maintain. If we want to have liberty in this great empire, we must see to it that we do our duty."

The Provincial Treasurer.

Hon. W. H. Price, treasurer of the province, said that an outsider viewing the days parade must be struck by the love of country and of principle shining from each countenance, and realize the driving force that has kept the Orange Order together for over three hundred years. "That is the thing we should be thankful to the Almighty for, that through the centuries we have stood fast to the principles for which the Order was founded. Tho Protestant bodies of our country should protest against the domination of any church or any society which overawes the State. We stand for liberty within the State."

"The Orange Order will never be so strong as when it is tolerant. It was never so strong as it is today. We should not recede from any of our principles, but let us put them forward in a gentlemanly and convincing way. Let us convince all our own Protestant bodies. Sometimes I think that some of them might stand up just a little stronger behind the Orange Order at times. (Hear, hear!). There is plenty of missionary work to be done within our own churches. No minister of the cloth should be ashamed to stand for what the Orange Order stands for. It is the greatest unifying force of Protestanism in the country."

Comparing Canada and its freedom with some other nations, Mr. Price said that if South America and some of the European countries which are racked constantly by revolution, if Italy and Spain and Portugal stood for the Open Bible and other principles of the Orange Order, they would be "prepared to evolve instead of revolve."

"At the Battle of the Boyne, said Mr. Price, "there was at stake the thing which we celebrate; liberty to all for Christian thought. It was the turning point which led to a Protestant succession in Great Britain. We do not celebrate today because we defeated the Roman Catholics in the battle, but because we won something for ourselves. I think if we put that viewpoint before people; that we want equal rights for all and that we resist outside domination, we will give a stronger outlook to everyone than in the past."

"Loyalty and love is written on one of our banners today. We must love our neighbors and the citizens of our country. If we go out every day with a curse in our heart against others, what can we expect when there is a war? I think it would be a terrible thing too if everyone in a country thought alike. We must inculcate in our children these things that we think are right. We must pray that our sons and daughters stand up as they did in the war, that you and I will never have to apologize for our British blood and stock, and that the day of the Orange Order will never be lost, but go on from triumph to triumph."

R. J. Patterson, M.P.P. for Omemee, was not a believer, he said, in the theory that civilization is on trial at the present time. He was glad that our postion in Canada is different from the countries over the water, where the read flag flies, and men think that the country owes them a living, instead of thinking that they owe love and allegiance to it.

Declining Birth Rate.

Dr. R. H. Carscadden of Lindsay spoke a few words, saying that the shouting of loyalty is not sufficient, but the practice of it is necessary instead. "That is a harder thing. Is it always done?" The speaker referred to one thing in Ontario that caused him concern, as compared with the Province of Quebec, and that was the declining birth rate, and the desire of people of this age for luxuries, instead of a simple mode of living.

Richard Abercrombie of Lindsay was called on as a veteran of the Order, appearing yesterday at the celebration with the identical drum he has used in such events for the past sixty-three yars, the drum itself having been manufactured in 1852. Mr. Abercrombie pleased his audience with the singing of one verse of an old song, "There was no one to welcome me home."

Sports Programme.

A programme of sports, run off under the supervision of a committee composed of the Rev. E. Rowland, and Messrs. H. Deyell, P. Lowes, and Wm. Howden, was entered into with enthusiasm. Prizes for different events were donated by Mssrs. T. E. MacPherson, L. Brooks, G. Tripp, M. D. Earl, T. C. Ivory, H. G. McGinness, D. Stinson, R. Morton, T. J. Parsons, A. Ford, R. Tate and R. Adams.

The hundred yards dash was won by Art Pogue the married women's race by Mrs. H. Jackson, of East Emily, the married men's race by W. Reid of Reaboro, the running broad jump, by Oswald Bryan, with sixteen feet, six inches as his mark, the running hop, skip and jump by Art Pogue, putting the shot by Cecil Pogue, the relay race by Art Cecil and Alvin Pogue The prize for the largest family on the grounds, a fifty pound sack of flour, donated by J. T. Beatty, went to Mrs. Wm. McConnell, with eight children present.

A baseball match between Mount Pleasant and Mount Horeb, with first and second prizes of $10 and $5, was won by Mount Pleasant, 14-8. The Mount Horeb battery was composed of Messrs. Reid and Deyell, the Mount Pleasant battery of Messrs. A. and J. Bryans. Players for Mount Horeb were Messrs. Reid, Grandy, Pogue, Deyell, Magahey, Hickson, Corneil, McGahey, Cook. For Mount Pleasant: Messrs. J. Bryans, Jamieson, H. Lowes, I. Lowes, Clifford McLean, Bryans, Bland, Boyd. Jack Murray of Peterboro acted as umpire, and Robert Adams of Omemee as bas umpire.

The only casualty of the day as far could be learned, was a collision between two cars east of Omemee, at Henderson's Corners, when Mrs. Richard Graham of Mount Pleasant, on her way to the celebration, had her arm broken.

VICTORIA LODGES AT FENELON FALLS

LINDSAY, July 14.—(Special). — Except the lodges in Emily and Verulam Townships, the Orangemen of Victoria County celebrated the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne in Fenelon Falls. The lodges from this county were augmented by True Blues and L.O.B.A. Lodges from Oshawa.

The village was gaily decorated for the occasion, and the gathering of the brethren was the largest in the history of the county outside, of course, the big demonstrations held in Lindsay every four years. One thing worthy of mention is the fact that for the first time in the history of Orange celebrations in Victoria County, no special trains were run to the two centres in which celebrations were held — Omemee and Fenelon Falls. The brethren took advantage of the regular trains to these points, but the great majority went by auto.

At 1.30 o'clock in the afternoon the brethren lined up at the market square at Fenelon Falls and marched through the main streets of the village. The line of parade was thronged by hundreds of people, and practically every lodge had its own fife and drum band. When the brethren returned to the square, speeches were delivered by Messrs. I. I. Thurston, M.P., J. R. Mark, M.P.P., W. Bro. G. A. Jordan, Police Magistrate; W. Bro. R. H. Baker, P.C.M., Minden; Wor. Bro. Ben. Sawyer, P.C.M., Maple Lake; Wor. Bro. S. W. Reynolds, County Master, Haliburton, and others.

It is estimated that there were fully 4,000 visitors in the village during the day.

The GRESSMAN Company Limited "The Store of Smiling Service"

"Why do the birds quit singing so soon?" That question was asked me by a commercial traveller in the lobby of the hotel in St. Catharines, not so long ago. I was on my way to Niagara Falls and was resting there in the cool lobby.

It is queer how travellers get acquainted. It was extra warm, and so we got acquainted. I learned what his business was and we talked a while about that, but when I said "My business is to watch birds and animals and tell folks about them," the coversation was all one way. He did the talking. I am very glad, for it was interesting.

He first asked me the question about the singing.

All I could tell him was about like this:— You know, when a fellow is courting his girl and he sends her flowers and brings her nice boxes of candy and sheet music with blah blah words and is all song and attention, and then doesn't do it so much after they get married? Well, it is about like that with the birds.

Then when I remarked that the Wild Canary, or Goldfinch, sings all summer, as he generally marries later than the other birds, and is still busy with the young ones in August, this traveller told me about a little girl, of whom he was very fond, and her wild canary.

This little girl saw a cat suddenly crouch and begin to creep toward the road. She saw what the cat saw, and made haste to save it—a dear little Goldfinch, caught in the mud of a pool at the roadside. How it got there is unknown.

She took the mud and water soaked little thing in to her mother and they scraped off the mud, with a damp cloth and a stick. Then they put the bird on the veranda rail in the sun to dry. In about half an hour, the bird began to work at its feathers, worked its wings and tail and finally shook the rest of the mud out as dust. It was in no hurry to leave, and gave a little "Tweeee" now and again. It finally flew away, but has returned for three years. They believe it is the same bird, for it seems to like the little girl.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

HOW CARE CAN REDUCE MIDDLE-AGE RISKS.

Old age and infancy have lost many of their terrors. Pure milk, cleanliness and regular medical inspection have cut the infant death rate amazingly. Better housing, reduced manual labor, and early attention to ailments which might become serious if neglected—these have added years to the expectation of life.

The efforts of health officials, doctors, nurses, hospitals, clinics, school teachers and enlightened homes have done much to make everybody's chances of long life more hopeful by far. In a half century the expectation of life has increased by a dozen years or more.

But alas! The middle age period is almost as dangerous as ever. Heart disease, diseases of the blood vessels, diseases of the kidneys, stomach and intestinal disorders—these are almost as prevalent today as they were fifty years ago.

When you buy a new automobile you go back to the dealer every day or two to get some minor defects, remedied. The oil is changed every two or three hundred miles to make sure no filing or loose metal are there to do the car harm.

But what about the period between newness and oldness? You run the car furiously. It goes day and night without thought, except of fuel, oil and water. You never look at the motor. You never raise the hood for an inspection of the engine. It runs, and that is all you care.

Isn't it just the same with human life? The infant and the veteran are looked after, but in middle life the machine runs by grace of its natural strength. You never think that the rushing, driving, strenuous demands of business and professional life or the strain of manual labor will make inroads on the reserve of strength and vigor. But they do.

The warning I have for you is a simple one. It involves nothing more than periodical visits to your doctor, the clinic or hospital to see if you are doing well.

I am not driving you into an operation or an extravagant waste of money and time. I am advising a course which will save you time and money. Early attention to any physical defect will keep you on the job.

If the great Steel Corporation from the head to the lowliest employee, should have periodic examinations of everybody, it would add years of useful service to the personnel of the organization. More than this, it would add to the happiness of every household related to that industry. It is easier to place smiles on the faces of unbroken families than it is to dry the tears of widows and orphans.

Periodic examinations and early attention to defects will insure longer life. This is the way, too, to increase the effective years.

FAMOUS "FIRSTS"

By Temple Manning

DIVING AS DEVELOPED FROM THE DAYS OF HOMER.

"Come on in—the water's all it should be!"

"Can't. I swim, but don't dive."

That, alas, is the plaint of most mortals who have conquered the art of swimming. The surface of the water holds no dread for them when they are on their stomachs, but viewed from above it appears as a black abyss too formidable to conquer. This probably explains the fact that while there are thousands of expert swimmers—people to whom swimming means no more exertion than mere walking—there are very few competent divers.

Diving as a sport is so old that no record of its introduction has been kept but diving as a business—its origin and methods—was considered so important that many books have been written on the subject. The earliest reference to this art occurs in Homer's Iliad, where Patroclus compares the fall of Hector's charioteer to the action of a man diving for oysters.

The development of whole squads of men for mechanical work under water is first chronicled by Thucydides about a thousand years ago. He tells how divers, during the siege of Syracuse, sawed down the barrier, constructed under water to damage or destroy any Grecian ships that might attempt to enter the harbor.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, JULY 15.

Generally propitious planetary conditions rule this day, both by lunar and mutual directions. The dominant influence is from the trine of the moon to Jupiter, and this, assisted by the lights in most favorable position, should bring success and prosperity to all undertakings, enhancing the opportunities, expanding the business interests and increasing the financial returns. The auspicious place of Uranus may lead to new openings through change or travel. Those in the employment of others are under excellent augeries for advancement or preferment. It may be well to be on guard for fraud and treachery.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of progress and success in all directions. Promotion seems assured and the finances are well protected. Advantageous change or travel may be looked for, but beware fraud. A child born on this day should be splendidly endowed as to character and talents, and may prosper in its undertakings, whether in business or employment, and should rise in life to a splendid position.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

Tilly Tumblebug Makes a Mistake.

"Move over, you ugly black hedgehog-looking caterpillar and let good-looking folks through," Tilly Tumblebug exclaimed, when the ball of mud she was rolling over the ground hit Mr. Black Caterpillar and stopped.

Mr. Caterpillar's eyes filled with tears and he could hardly see to get out of the way of the mud ball.

"I'm sorry I was in your way," he said. "I know I'm ugly and black while you and your sister are so pretty and brown. But," and Black Caterpillar sighed. "I guess I can't help being ugly and black," and he crawled over and hid under a leaf.

Black Caterpillar was so ashamed of himself because he was so ugly, he sat under the leaf crying softly, and there it was Johnny Grasshopper found him.

"Pshaw, why didn't you twist her foot for her, the mean thing," he chirped, when he heard what Tilly Tumblingbug had said. "I wouldn't cry if I were you. Some day you'll be better looking, I'm sure, when you get to be a Moth. I heard Mother Tree Toad tell Robin Redbreast that you would make several changes before became a Moth."

"Who, me!" Black Caterpillar exclaimed. "Me make changes? I sure hope I won't get any uglier than I am."

"No, indeed, that's the funny part," laughed Johnny Grasshopper. "I heard Mother Tree Toad say, first you would be black; then when you change your skin the next time you will be of a grayish-green color with jet black hairs and dots. Then, when you change for the third time, your suit will be green, with five rows of black dots, a few clear yellow spots and two splendid red spots that look like pretty red buttons. Why!!"

"Who, me?" asked Black Caterpillar "Do you mean, I will do all that?"

"Surely, you will," laughed Johnny Grasshopper. "And then, when you wear that a while, you'll change to a blue coat with red and green buttons. By that time, you will be old enough to spin a cocoon for yourself, and you'll put on your last coat, which will be a beautiful green with orange colored buttons. Then you'll spin your cradle, and when you awaken you'll be a great big Moth. Then you can fly around Tilly Tumblebug and her sister and laugh at her."

"No, I should never do that," said Black Caterpillar sadly, "for I should never want to hurt anyone's feelings. But I'm glad you have told me all this. I'll not worry about my looks, but get my work done so I'll be ready when the time comes."

Tilly Tumblebug never saw Black Caterpillar again to know him, for he began his changes that very day, and Black Caterpillar had his little joke all to himself. Even when he sailed over Tilly Tumblebug's head, he never told her who he was, nor did he make fun of her, for he knew what it meant to be made fun of. He just sailed over the meadows making folks happy and everybody, even Tilly Tumblebug loved the great big Moth.

CHINESE OPPOSED TO U. S. 'NOSTRUMS'

Plan, Hailed By Foreign Residents, Receives Lukewarm Greeting From Natives.

By Randall Gould
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PEKING, July 14. — The Chinese public is lukewarm to the proposed Customs conference under the Washington treaties which President Coolidge is supporting. On the other hand, foreign residents to-day hailed the plan as they realized that some steps were necessary to clarify the present situation.

The Chinese, long disappointed at the results of the Washington conference, now feel that the attempt to carry out its agreements may lead to further disappointment.

The Radical wing of the Chinese is opposed, and through its new organ, Minbau, speaks of the "American nostrums," adding: "Nationalist China is not prepared to barter its right to liberation and independence for tariff doles or for the abolition of extra-territoriality by evolutionary stages."

ATTORNEY DROWNS IN BRAVE RESCUE

Holds Girl Above Water Until Friends Take Her to Safety.

BRIDGEMAN, Mich., July 14. — (Canadian Press).—Realizing that either he or a girl must drown, J. Samuel Council, aged 36, prominent attorney, perished in the waters of Lake Michigan here Sunday to save the life of Miss Helen Covert, aged 25, of South Bend, Ind.

Council and Miss Covert were bathing when Miss Covert plunged into a deep step-off. Neither could swim. Unhesitatingly the man plunged in after the girl. Grasping her body, he held her head above water, while he walked on bottom of the lake with his own head several feet under the water. The girl was dragged to safety by her friends but Council was drowned.

His body was washed ashore twenty minutes later.

HAIG PASSES 'HAIG' NAME-SAKE TOWN

Field Marshal Unaware That Town Had Been Named For Him.

HAIG, B.C., July 14.—(Canadian Press).—As the Haig special came through here Sunday evening, Field Marshal Haig learned for the first time that a town along the Trans-continental line of the Canadian Pacific Railway had been named for him. He was sitting in his parlor compartment when a large red station bearing the name "Haig" hove into sight. When he leaned forward in his chair and looked at the name he was asked by a Canadian if he did not know that this town had been named for him several years ago. He said, "No, it is the first I have heard of it," and he looked very pleased. Countess Haig wrote two letters to their daughters in London to be sent back and posted at Haig, as souvenirs.

GERMAN TO TAKE ROTOR BOAT TRIP

Former War-Time Raider Will Circle Globe in New Craft.

By E. A. Mabis
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, July 14. — Count Felix Von Luckner, the German war-time 'Sea Devil,' who with his 'Seeadler' skimmed the oceans, raiding as he went, is about to set forth on a round-the-world trip in a rotor boat.

It will be the first such venture in history. Hitherto a rotor ship has only journeyed short distances. But Luckner, a big six-footer with an inbred love of adventure, is having his 'seeadler' transformed into a rotor vessel, equipped with a rotor sixty-nine feet high, with a diameter of 21 feet, and proposes to set out from Hamburg for America. His itinerary as now framed calls for skirting along the American coasts, down to Cape Horn and thence to San Francisco, whence he may head for Japan and the India ports.

He proposes to enter ports all along the American coast.

FEMINISMS

By Annette Bradshaw

HOW NIMBLE FINGERS STRETCH THE BUDGET.

THE SHOPPER: — "I wonder CAN I afford this leather hat and bat set if I made my frock instead of buying it. It should certainly be easy to make with these gorgeous bordered silks!"

Let's Talk It Over

IS THIS GIRL INFERIOR TO HER FIANCE?

"The educated, well-born and more or less 'coming' young man," who writes the following, wants to know if he will be committing a faux pas in marrying his inferior.

"Oh, the poor young man," says I to myself, "he's gone and fallen for some dumb Dora that can't even curl her bob without burning it, and don't know that Turner is Mayor."

And then I thought I'd read on and see what he has to say about this Inferior Fiancee of his. I find that though she is "charming, wholesome, witty and sweet as any girl who ever lived," she was "practically a servant girl for two years" and also worked in a candy store while putting herself through college—AND EVERYBODY knows it!

So that constitutes Inferiority. Ambition to have a college education—though she has to wash dishes for some prof.'s wife and sling choc-mash for her classmates to get it. Courage to carry on through four years of small-town snobbery—four years of scrimping and going without—four years of working while her friends were "lapping up college life."

Brains to win that sheepskin in spite of broken hours and restricted time for study. Bodily strength to hold down two jobs. And a sense of humor to keep her "charming, wholesome and witty" through it all! Inferior? Man, are you quite right in the head?

He has the nerve to say:—

Is a young man, educated, well-born and more or less "coming," wrong in wedding his inferior? Have been attracted to a young woman with whom I've come in contact in a business way. Her people are plain, though, as you will perhaps point out, I am not marrying her people. The girl is charming, wholesome and witty. However, here's the rub. She was obliged to support herself at an early age, and while attending college lived a part of the time in the home of one of the instructors, and though she attended classes, etc., she was practically their servant girl for two years.

For two years she worked in a candy store, and every one in the small town knew it. Now, I don't think less of this girl—to me she is as sweet as any girl who ever lived. But the fact remains that in one sense of the word she is my inferior, and living in the world one must abide by the world's decisions. Do you think marriage with this girl would hold me back? She would be the last one to want to injure me, and though I am fond of her, it has gone far enough to cause her unhappiness if we break now. I shall really be glad of your opinion.

JURISPRUDENCE.

I am even gladder to give you my opinion, Mr. Jurisprudence. But by the time the editor got through blue penciling it there wouldn't be anything but the punctuation marks. That being the case, I will restrain myself and ask you a few questions instead. Are you sure you are not her inferior? Could you have done what she did? Did you fight for your education? Did you work by day when your very soul wept for football? Did you study by night when your eyes were like burnt holes in a blanket and you'd have given almost anything for five hours' sleep? Could you stand alone, on your own merits, to-day? Could you get a job and hold it, make friends and keep them?

Yes, I understand you have a place in "society." So has the gum under the parlor davenport. Your grandpaw was a Leading Citizen and hers was a Nobody, but what has that to do with You? Your grandpaw is pushing up no better daisies than hers to-day. He's out of it. We're concerned with You to-day. Leaving grandpaw where he belongs, in the family vault, and poppa's rocks in the bank—Would You shine out because of Your ability, Your magnetism, Your wit, Your force of character?

Banks break, social positions fall—you may be on your own sooner than you expect. Will you make good? There's many a youth driving a high-powered car to-day who couldn't pay carfare on the Main street line—let alone get a job for punching nickels—if it were not for poppa's rocks. Never mind poppa. Take stock of Yourself.

Are You really a superior person—or Are You Just Dressed Up Like One?

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES AN UNUSUAL TUB SILK FROCK.

The little tub silk frocks that Madame has turned out this season are really the prettiest in town, I'm sure.

To-day I said to her:

"Madame, I know I could recognize your tub silk dresses anywhere, even if I weren't one of the manikins; that is, if I had become familiar with your type of frock before."

"I'm glad to hear you say that" Madame responded. "I like to feel that my frocks have a stamp of individuality that makes them recognizable anywhere as my own."

"Oh, there are many way of knowing your things," I assured her. "In the Winter I would always recognize your coats by the tiny lines of bright color put on about the linings."

"And in the summer?" Madame queried.

"Of course, the earmarks vary with the seasons," I replied. "This Summer I think I should know them by the button trimming and the use of flat appliques of contrasting color."

"Don't you think this the most effective tub silk in the world?" Gaby asked.

The dress was white tub silk with cross bars of blue, making a sort of plaid. And the blue was such a heavenly light shade.

"There are my buttons," I commented, noticing the row of plain bone buttons that went around the waist of the dress.

"And the appliques you mentioned are generously applied," Madame remarked.

She referred to the white georgette lattice treatment that was applied flat down the front of the frock, and to the points of georgette that extended up from the hemline.

"The organdie collar and cuffs edged with embroidered net are what catch my eye," Gaby remarked.

"I'm glad you girls approve," Madame assured us. "I'm going to work immediately to design some more. I do pride myself on my tub silk frocks."

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

WHAT AGE WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE?

What ten years of your life do you like better; or what ten do you think you are going to like?

From fifty to sixty for mine, thank you.

No more love affairs to tear your heart to tatters, no more desperate hope, no more cruel disappointments.

Books, friends, music, flowing, the sunrise and the sunset, the silver glamour of the moon, the song of the bobolink in the meadows, the loving voices of little children—the fire on the hearth—the memories sweet and not so sweet—yes, from fifty to sixty for me.

From one to ten isn't so bad either—Do you remember your first pair of skates—and your first parasol with the scalloped edges—and your first pair of real gloves?

How good things tasted from one to ten—the gingerbread—umh!—Can't you smell it baking in the oven?—Doughnuts, cookies and there wasn't anything particularly wrong with a slice of bread and butter with sugar on it.

And oh, the lilacs in the Spring and the first snow in Winter, and the snow man you made in the garden and how you laughed when Rover barked himself almost to death at the snow man—Yes, they were happy years, but they had their troubles—the first day at school in the new neighborhood—the time they called you "Teacher's Pet"—and eight times eight makes how many—you never could seem to remember.

From ten to twenty—not quite so good—You were trying to find yourself then and make up your mind whether you were pretty or plain stupid or clever, good or bad—No,—you thought about yourself too much from ten to twenty, and no one is every happy who thinks about himself.

From twenty to thirty—fine parties, picnics, romances, quarrels, makings-up, pretty frocks, a new way of doing your hair—the One Man the engagement ring, the wedding day—Yes, twenty to thirty is a terrible time. The time of life when you were most beautiful, perhaps.

Certainly the time when you were most beloved. The years when you were most magnetic.

And alas the years when you attracted troubles along with the joys by the very intensity of your living.

"I had rather be twenty-seven than any other age" declares one wife. "The children were old enough for me to begin going out again, and it seems to me that I really bloomed forth for the first time."

Thirty to forty—a little better or a little worse—It depends upon you and the kind you are.

Home and children, the new house and the new furniture, the husband getting on in the world and you not keeping up with him, or you getting on in the world and husband not quite keeping up with you.

Measles, whooping cough, croup, baby specialists, busy days, from thirty to forty.

Forty to fifty—The terrible years Too young to settle down, too old to "step."

Restless, discontented, youthful, the peace of age not yet arrived—oh, yes, that's easy enough.

The ten terrible years—they come from forty to fifty—Hennaed hair, a little too much rouge, the strictest attention to corsets, a sudden realization that its all no use. Whatever you do take away the ten terrible years and help me and mine through them with home and love and a thankful heart.

And that's what I say.

Son of Highly Respected Farmer Chided For Waywardness.

MILADI WEARS A FRILL FOR FASHION.

The flair for frillings and ruchings as trimmings this season make some of the daintiest accessories for pretty frocks. Perishable-looking georgette and net frills extend in many instances from top to bottom of the tub dresses of this summer.

One of the latest novelties in the stores is the jabot of cream net and lace, sometimes dotted with small black satin buttons, that extend either to the waist line or all the way from the neck to the hem, and the plastrons of net for the front of a blouse.

"Tab" collars are another new item for the summer wardrobe, little tabs of embroidered net joined to make a rounded neckline.

Scarfs are as a rule startling in their color combinations. One sees vivid huge checks in reds and yellows and green and red figures on a bright blue ground. Coinspots are popular in scarfs too. One new importation in the neckwear line had long ends of yellow silk tricolette, finished with heavy silk fringe, and a middle section, directly around the neck, of light brown fitch fur. The new "Highland" scarfs are a contrast to their gay brethren, coming in soft mixtures of silk and cotton, in cream and mauve and grey mixtures.

Above their elbows the girls are wearing single armlets of bright enamels. Broad bands studded with rhinestones are popular too. Little hat ornaments come in pearl-topped pins or gilt daggers covered with red stones. For the kiddies, there are enamel "Mother Goose" bobbettes and wristlets, the famous pigs that went to market and the family of shoe children outlined in colors on the smooth surfaces.

Weddings

BYERS—McMULLEN.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of the bride's grandfather, Mr. J. T. May, Allandale,, when Hazel May, public school teacher in King Edward school, Toronto, and only daughter of the Rev. J. S. and Mrs. McMullen, was united in marriage to Mr. Douglas Fergus Byers, Phm.B., of Toronto, son of the late Lewis and Mrs. Byers, Baileboro, Ont. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a score of the immediate relatives and friends of the family by the bride's father, Rev. J. S. McMullen, assisted by Rev. S. M. Beach, of Bellefair United Church, Toronto. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Cecil E. McMullen, public school principal, Belleville, looked charming, gowned in maize georgette and carrying a shower bouquet of butterfly roses and lily-of-the-valley. The groom was attended by Mr. Ivan Gray, of Peterborough, and the bride by Miss Della McFadden of Toronto. The bridal music was rendered by Miss Josephine McMaster of Havelock. After a buffet luncheon, the happy couple left on a short motor trip to Muskoka, the bride travelling in a smart ensemble suit of sand and navy with a satin and silk striped navy ribbon hat and wearing a red fox fur, a gift of the groom. The popularity of the bride was seen in her valuable presents, notably an upright piano and a walnut bedroom suite from her parents. On their return from their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Byers will reside at 990 Broadview avenue, Toronto.

NEW DEVICES FOR HANDLING YOUR FOODS.

The housewife is certainly the manufacturer's best friend and he has her interests constantly at heart. Labor-saving is the watchword in the modern home, and everything that can further the idea, coupled with efficiency and economy, is worthy of consideration.

It is always a problem to keep vegetables fresh in city kitchens or pantries. A little vegetables box has appeared on the market, that has two wire basket shelves, deep enough to hold quite a supply. The box stands about the height of an upright tin cake box, and sells at about the same price. There are holes around the top and bottom of the box and across the door that insure a circulation of air over the vegetables. The box may be used in a small kitchen, pantry or even on a porch safely.

For the woman who does a lot of baking, the heavy aluminum baking molds will have a strong appeal. There are those joined together that are used for the finger rolls so popular for dinner use. Then there are the groups of five hearts and five stars for the little cakes, that when frosted are used with cream. And the molds for making the shells for creampuffs and eclairs. The molds are inexpensive and nice to own.

The aluminum pie plates solve the problem of deep, shallow, large and medium sized pies. There are some new individual plates designed for wee fruit pies or deep tarts. Speaking of pies, there is a new little contrivance that does the job at a single stroke of cutting the crust around the edge of the pie and sealing it at the same time, so that not a particle of juice will run out in the oven. There are several pie cutters, but this one seems to have the advantage of the others in making the sealing perfect.

There is a new aluminum potato masher that is built on good, practical plans, and is light to handle, while it does the work perfectly. Its companion is a new double egg-beater, also of aluminum, that working after a new motion plan, does the beating more thoroughly and quickly than any yet used.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a man twenty-five years of age and go about with a girl three years my junior.

I have asked her to marry me, but as I am the only support of my aged mother I cannot do so for at least three years. I have explained this to her, but she will not accept me this way. She is now going with another man and I am very envious of him.

Please advise me what to do.

TROUBLED.

TROUBLED: I am sure you realize that long engagements are both impractical and embarrassing—at least, for the bride-to-be. Under these circumstances, I would advise you to continue your friendship with the young lady, without, however, becoming engaged. This will give both of you the opportunity to meet and see other friends and at the same time learn to know each other more intimately. Then, when you are really ready and free to marry you can propose again. If the young lady is sincerely fond of you she will, of course, say "yes."

Getting quick heat from an electric range is not difficult—if you use enough electricity.

But to get it without using more electricity than the ordinary range is an accomplishment.

Here's the secret of its quick heat: The open element, and the scientific arrangement of the coils. They effect an unusual saving in electricity, giving it unusual speed in heating.

Any Beach dealer will explain these features to you and point out the many other features that make the Beach electric the foremost electric range on the market.

TRIBE'S SPIRIT

Rochester Register Eighth Straight Victory and Eleven in Last Twelve.

TORONTO, July 14.—(Canadian Press).—Toronto beat Jersey City here yesterday in both games of a double-header, the scores being 14 to 0 and 1 to 0. The Skeeters were helpless before the brilliant pitching of Smith and Stewart. Joe Kelly hit two homers in the opener and also reached over the fence to deprive Holt of one with two men on the bases in the seventh. In the second game Carlyle shared the honors with Stewart by hitting a homer in the grounds and by making one of the greatest catches of the season to rob Simpson, last man up in the seventh of a four-base clout. The scores:

First game:

Jersey City	000000000	0	2
Toronto	00402521x	14	1

Faulkner, Sloan and Freitag; Smith and Manion.

Second game:

Toronto	000010x	1	0

Syracuse	000000103	4	2

McNamara, Young and McCarty; Boyd, Frankhouse and McKee.

Baltimore	000000230	5	2
Rochester	51011701x	16	1

Hyman, Henderson, Roser, Harwood and Cobb; Horne and Lake.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 81 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

When the hands correctly lead the golf club the body naturally follows. This action is instinctive and the only thing that interrupts it usually is some effort on the part of the player to do something that is not called for at all. In shifting the weight over to the right leg as the club starts to wind up in the back swing, the player should be careful, for instance, to simply let his weight go without too much conscious effort on his part. Stand squarely on the right heel and brace against the tendency of the body to move to the right, so that the right leg absorbs the weight and the right heel, say, becomes the center of the entire action. The main thing, however, is to see to it that the club does not at any point get away from definite hand control of it.

Ruether Suspended And Walter Johnson Is Sick

Word of Ruether's suspension was received here late Monday by the Washington Star, from St. Louis, and was looked upon as another blow to the Senators' pitching staff, already crippled by the absence of Walter Johnson, who has been suffering from tonsilitis.

ST. LOUIS, July 14.—(Canadian Press).—Home run clouts, one by Manager George Sisler in the ninth with the score tied, gave the St. Louis Browns a 5 to 4 victory over Washington here yesterday. Harry Rice, Browns' outfielder, who also obtained two other hits, accounted for three of the home team's runs. Catcher Hargrave of the locals also hit for the circuit. The score:

CHICAGO, July 14. — (Canadian Press).—Chicago bunched hits off Hoyt yesterday and made it two straight from the Yankees, 8 to 4. Faber pitched in fine form, having only one bad inning when two singles and a home run by Gehrig netted three runs. A base on balls and three pinch-hitters in the ninth inning pushed over another run for the visitors. Johnny Mostil, in addition to hitting safe in his sixteenth consecutive game, stole his twenty-ninth base of the season. Score:

Athletics 4, Detroit 1.

DETROIT, Mich., July 14.—(Canadian Press).—Quinn held Detroit to five hits yesterday and Philadelphia defeated the Tigers 4 to 1 in a fast game. The former Boston hurler, claimed by Philadelphia via the waiver route, held the Tigers well in check except in the first inning, when the home team scored its only run.

Hale was the star player of the game, rapping out a single, triple and a homer in three trips to the plate. Score:

Philadelphia	011200000	4	1

Boston	500020122	12	4
Cleveland	013341000	11	2

BISLEY SCORES.

Donegall Challenge Cup Won By Hamilton Man.

BISLEY CAMP., July 14 (Canadian Press Cable).—Lieut. H. E. Rowlands, 13th Royal Hamilton Regiment, Hamilton, Ont., yesterday won the shoot-off for the Donegall Challenge Cup. He made three successive bulls eyes.

In the shoot for the Donegall Challenge Cup last Friday Lieut. Rowlands, Sergt. G. M. Elmslie, 48th Highlanders, Toronto, and three others each had possibles, 50; and it was decided that the shoot-off should take place today. It was a squadded competition at 200 yards, 10 shots per man, the first prize being the Donegall Challenge Cup, the Donegall Gold Badge and £10.

In the Daily Graphic squadded competition, open to all comers, 200 and 300 yards, seven shots at each distance. Sergt. G. M. Elmslie, Toronto, made a possible 35 at the first range and Sergt. G. H. Tyers, Ottawa, made a possible 35 at the second range.

Canada has 400 golf clubs, and the number is rapidly increasing.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

The Central Ontario League will soon be in the home stretch. Fifteen of the twenty-four scheduled games have been played by each club, and with only nine fixtures to be pulled off and one game separating three of the four teams, the battle should be red hot from now until the finish. No club has succeeded in working into a safe lead, although everybody but Belleville has had a turn in heading the procession. The Railroaders, although likely to make plenty of trouble for everybody, have only an outside chance of climbing into a play-off, but so long as even that chance remains the Easterners will give everybody a fight.

"Toots" Ward has not been in the Oshawa line-up for several games. Morrison has been moved over to the difficult corner, Rowden shifted to short and Ted Saunders, the rotund ex-Kingston Pony, is covering second.

* * * * * * * * *

The Central Ontario League pitching records, including those of Saturday's games, leaves Cairns, the Ponies' left-hander, at the top of the heap, with six wins in seven games, while Frank Whitehouse, the Petes' southpaw, is right at his heels with five victories in seven starts, and Al. Heckman is third in the list with four out of six. The records:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Cairns, Kingston	6	1	.857
Whitehouse, Peterboro	5	2	.714
Heckman, Peterboro	4	2	.667
Dainty, Oshawa	5	4	.556
Jeffrey, Belleville	3	3	.500
Lennox, Oshawa	2	2	.500
Breckenridge, Oshawa	1	1	.500
Goyer, Belleville	2	4	.333
Young, Kingston	1	2	.333
Gallagher, Kingston	1	4	.250
Cherry, Kingston	0	1	.000
Hardill, Peterboro	0	2	.000
Keon, Belleville	0	3	.000

* * * * * * * * *

The Kingston Standard, which is always talking about other club's having a one-man pitching staff, should not fail to notice that if Cairns' record were taken out of the above list there would not be many Kingston victories left.

* * * * * * * * *

Tomorrow's game at Kingston, with first place as the prize, should be an interesting clash, and it will bring together the two pitchers who are leading the Central Ontario parade. Cairns, who will work against the Petes, has won two out of three games from the Johnstonites, while Frank Whitehouse, who will do the gunning for the league leaders, has beaten the Ponies three times in four starts.

The local association has lost a very valuable legislator in the person of William Anderson, who has had considerable experience as administrator of fair play as a soccer official in the city and in the Old Country, where many important decisions have been settled amicable. He decided, last evening, to hand in his resignation as an official of the Board of Directors; also acted in the capacity of Secretary pro tem.

Frank Dyer scored six goals in the Turner cup tie, and James is next with two, but the former has never scored a goal as yet in the league because he was always on the defense. James leads the league and Abraham next.

Local soccer has a "big brother" association in the persons of Stan, Alf and Norman Maker; then comes the Mitchell family, with one in each company. Bill and Harry Curtis are associated with the Quakers; then follows the Wade boys—Frank and Jack—who are chasing the pigskin for the Thistle; also the two brothers Downer in the clever aggregation of the C. P. C., and one brother, Newt Downer, for the DeLaval juveniles.

David Menzies handed in his resignation because "they break the constitution every night," also "it is a night wasted."

New net upright posts are to be purchased to replace the ones that have been stolen from the grounds a fw weeks ago.

Yes; a player—junior—can participate in three games irrespective of how many teams he may have assisted. Rule: Transfer of player (e) A junior player may play three league games for a senior club but must first receive permission from his club. (c) No player can be transferred after the 1st day of September in any year.

PIRATES' RALLY ROUTED ROBINS IN NINTH INNING

National League Pace-makers Rushed Three Runs Over Cluster of Hits.

GIANTS WIN, TOO.

Terry's Home Run Broke Up Pitchers' Duel With Cubs.

BROOKLYN, July 14.—(Canadian Press).—The Pirates rallied in the ninth inning yesterday and scored three runs to defeat Brooklyn, 4 to 2. Wilbur Hubbell, who pitched for the Robins, weakened in the final session when three singles, two sacrifice flies and an error by Stock produced the winning runs. Fournier hit his thirteenth home run of the season in the sixth. Score:

New York 3, Chicago 1.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(Canadian Press).—New York turned back Chicago yesterday, 3 to 1. Terry's home run with Kelly on base in the 7th inning decided the issue. Kent Greenfield allowed the Cubs only four singles and held them hitless for the first six innings. Cooper let the Giants down with six hits. Score:

Chicago	000000100	1	0

Philadelphia 3, St. Louis 2.

PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—(Canadian Press).—Philadelphia defeated the St. Louis Cards in ten innings here yesterday, 3 to 2. The visitors tied the score in the ninth inning, but a double and two singles in the local half of the tenth settled things. Hornsby hit his twenty-third home run of the season in the eighth inning. BOSTON, July 14. — (Canadian Press).—Bases on balls and errors were chiefly responsible for the defeat of Boston by the Cincinnati Reds yesterday, 4 to 1. In the seventh inning two hits and three base on balls, one of the latter forcing in a run, gave the visitors two runs. Score:

ROYAL OAK BEATS PETERBORO' 67-41

Fielding, Bowling and Hard Drives Feature Game of Winners.

An enjoyable match was played at the Exhibition Grounds on Saturday afternoon between the Peterboro C. C. and the Royal Oak C. C., ending in a win for the latter club by 24 runs. The Peterboro team was weak, having several of their best players away on holidays, but all credit must be given to the Royal Oak players, whose bowling and field ing was very good, and, thanks to some hard hitting by Duggan, Jr., their score mounted to 67 runs.

Fox and Monkman were the only Peterboro batsmen to offer any resistance to the good bowling of the Royal Oak, Dyer bowling Dr. Hewitt and Thorpe with splendid balls. Chenhall of the Peterboro team made a splendid catch in the outfield in disposing of Malsch, and Nichols was smartly run out by Thorpe. Both teams are looking forward to the next match, which is being played on August 1st. Following are the scores:

RECORD CROWD KEEPS TWELFTH AT MILLBROOK

General John Hughes Visits the Scene of His First Walk.

MANY VISITORS.

Appeals For Loyalty to Flag Marked Speeches in Afternoon.

MILLBROOK, July 14.—The first Orange celebration to be held in Millbrook in eighteen years took place on Monday, July 13, with a record crowd in attendance. From about 7 a.m. the music of fife and drum was heard, and by train, cars, and truck loads the people arrived.

Streamers, flags, and bunting decorating streets, stores, and houses, gave the village a gala appearance, and the weather was everything that could be desired. From first to last no hitch in the programme of events occurred, and the celebration was undoubtedly a success in every particular. T. H. Aiken, as chairman of the committee in charge, with Major A. V. Thorne, secretary, and ex-Warden A. J. Henderson, treasurer, were indefatigable in their efforts to make the days proceedings run smoothly, and prove both profitable and enjoyable.

The Durham Regimental Band, of Orono, twenty-four members strong, under the leadership of M. J. Tamblyn, was early upon the scene, and their services throughout the day, concluding with a band concert in front of the town hall at 7 p.m., added much to the pleasure and success of the occasion.

Booths, under various auspices, were at intervals along the main street, and on the grounds, and yielded good financial returns. Hot dinner and supper was served by the Ladies' Aid Societies of the United Church and of Grace Church, the former finding suitable quarters in the skating rink, and the latter in their church basement. Six hundred people were served at the noon hour by these two organizations.

Citizens generally gave the use of their lawns, and supplied hot and cold water to family parties who had brought their lunch with them, and evidently the spirit of hospitality prompted the most thoughtful treatment of the town's guests during the celebration.

At 1.30 p.m., the parade, fully one mile long, lined up at the Exhibition Grounds and, headed by Worshipful Brother J. H. Paul, Grand Marshal, with County Master Jas. Roddy, and District Master Harry Roddy, all on horseback, proceeded to march to the east end, turning round and proceeding along King Street at McBride's Corner, and so back to the starting point.

The Lodges represented in the procession were: Peterborough (three), Blackstock, Purple Hill, Burketon, Devon, Enniskillen, Kendall, Tyrone, Port Hope, Perrytown, Bewdley, Garden Hill, Elizabethville, Pontypool, Bethany, Lotus, Cavan, Frazerville, Carmel, Bailieboro, Newtonville, Millbrook, Fallis Line, Janetville, Bethany, Orono, Coldsprings. Three ladies' lodges, "Pride of Hope," from Garden Hill, the "Pride of Durham," from Port Hope, and "Vimy Ridge" from Peterborough, were in the parade, and presented a fine appearance. The Durham Regimental band, which the local lodges had engaged for the day, with the Bethany and Port Hope bands, furnished music, and among the several fife and drum bands, the one from Coldsprings was probably the largest. Brother Archie Reynolds, of Peterborough, marched with the Frazerville Lodge, to which he formerly belonged, and was one of the oldest Orangemen in the parade, receiving congratulations upon the fact that the kept up with the younger members in the lengthy route the procession took.

The banners, and regalia, of all the lodges were most attractive, and pride in their appearance was a justifiable feature in each case. About five thousand people gathered at the grounds for the speeches, and sports' programme. Councillor P. Stinson was chairman of the sports' committee, and with the other members, H. A. Fallis, J. A. Vance, A. J. Henderson, R. J. McKnight, R. Hunter, J. N. McGill, P. I. Bentley and L. C. Russell, saw to it that the list of events promised was carried through successfully in every particular.

A large truck served as platform for the speakers. T. H. Aiken being chairman. Reeve W. T. Wood gave the address of welcome, noting the fact that it is probably nearly one hundred years since Millbrook L.O.L. No. 79, received its charter, "and it is still going strong." Referring to the presence on the platform of General John Hughes, Mr. Wood recalled his brothers "Jim and Sam, who helped to make the Millbrook lacrosse club famous in their younger days."

Had opportunity offered itself earlier in the day, Reeve Wood intended presenting the keys of the municipality to the head officials of the Order, but had not found it possible to carry out this item.

General John Hughes.

A band selection was followed by an address from General John Hughes, who, in common with all the speakers, congratulated the committee in charge on the excellent arrangements made, the splendid appearance of the parade, the numbers present, and the perfect weather which favored the occasion. He especially remarked on the decorations of the homes, stating that in most places he had visited the people seemed loth to hang out the flag, and make their houses attractive.

"Well, sir, we're not, in Millbrook," interjected the chairman.

"And it is to your credit to have it so," responded the General, adding that he had first joined the Orange Order in Cavan district, and the first celebration he had ever attended was in Millbrook, fifty-three years ago, as a member of Springville Lodge, "and I have not been here on a similar occasion since."

General Hughes spoke strongly on the need in Canada to-day of urging loyalty to our British connection, "because talk of annexation to the United States is heard in more than one province." "There is no more loyal township in the Dominion than Cavan has been since its earliest settlement—keep it so."

The practical assistance given by the men of Cavan in the various times of need, down to the world war, was traced by the speaker, who concluded his remarks with an urgent appeal to "howl against changing our flag; it is the emblem of freedom, liberty and justice."

Advertise Wares.

Rev. J. W. S. Lowery, of Toronto, Grand Chaplain of Ontario East, spoke on "Canada, Our Home," and in referring to the suggestion that a new flag be chosen for the Dominion, added: "Is the old one worn out?" Six members were on the committee appointed by Parliament for the purpose, and not one of them was a Protestant. "Keep up the propaganda for Protestantism and loyalty; we will have to advertise our wares a little more."

The French Canadians, the speaker said, by raising large families, are making a peaceful conquest of the Dominion, in a perfectly legitimate way. "Canadians for Canada," is a good slogan, "and I hope the young men will stay in their own country, and make the dear old farm the happiest, and sweetest place in the wide stretches of the Dominion."

F. W. Bowen, M.P., dwelt on loyalty and patriotism as embodied in the Orange constitution, and Rev. R. M. Paterson, Grand Chaplain of Ontario East, spoke of the significance of the day from the religious standpoint, emphasizing the fact that men of high vision are needed in business, politics, and in social life.

A. J. Falls, M.P.P., said he was standing for the first time upon an Orange platform, and though not a member of the L.O.L., was interested in its work. What would happen if we had no churches, no Christian ministers, and quite pertinently, we might ask, what would happen if we had no Orange Order?" The significance of the gathering was outlined in the speaker's remarks.

A game of soft ball between the girls of Millbrook and Bailieboro with A. McCorry and R. Deyell as umpires, resulted in a score of 15-12, favor of Bailieboro. The line-up was:

Elizabethville and Janetville were matched for the first game of baseball, Ross Edmunds acting as umpire, and the score being 15 to 3 in favor of the latter team.

The Janetville nine were: Jackson, p; B. Syer, c; N. McGill, 1b; F. Phelp, 2b; R. Staples, 3b; C. Phelp, 2b; R. Staples, 3b; C. strong, cf; W. Heaslip, ss.

Millbrook and Kendall then took the field, the former winning by 14 to 3. Walker was umpire.

Millbrook.—F. Russell, p; A. McCorry, c; E. C. Richards, 1b; R. Hutchison, 2b; Ross Edmunds, 3b; Nattrass, ss; Ingram, lf; H. Lancashire, cf; R. Shaw, rf.

A dance in the Armouries, which was well patronized, brought a most enjoyable and successful day to a close.

TIMELY TIPS

Some folks will tell you of certain lakes that contain small-mouth bass where you can't catch them unless you use live bait.

Furthermore the bass live on food found in shallow water.

Work in the rushes and along the shore.

CANADIAN TEAM WINS KOLAPORE CUP AT BISLEY

Ninth Rajah of Kolapore Challenge Cup Won By Dominion.

BRITAIN SECOND.

Close Contest Won By a Mere Two Point Margin —Victors Cheered.

BISLEY CAMP, July 14 (Can. Press Cable).—The Canadian Bisley team today won the Rajah of Kolapore's Challenge Cup from Great Britain by two points after an exciting finish. Canada led at the 300 yards' range, fell back at the 500 yards, but won out in the 600 yards. In the last shoot, the rival marksmen scored bullseye for bullseye or dropped point for point, but during the last half dozen shots the Canadians maintained their string of bullseyes and made an aggregate score of 1099 out of a possible 1200. Great Britain's score was 1097. Rhodesia was third with 1089. The British team loudly cheered the winners. This is the ninth Kolapore Cup competition won by the Canadian team.

TRIAL IS FARCE.

Had the violation of the law against teaching Evolution in Tennessee been the sole issue of the trial it would not have excited the interest of the whole world, as it has done. But Bryan said "The issue is whether there is a God or not."

Darrow will defeat him, or ought to defeat him, on that point, because neither Bryan nor Darrow can settle that question. Why then did Bryan make such a statement? Because like many there and here of the same stripe, he has gone crazy with self righteousness and conceit. He thinks he is a god.

Evolution or development teaches that man and woman were not made as the Bible apparently says, but came from a different source, just as the frog comes from the tadpole. This view of it assumes that the Bible meant that all varieties of man were made in the physical image of God; whereas the Bible certainly refers to the spirit image. God is a spirit, not a body, and those made in His image would clearly be of the spirit.

The trial thus becomes the grand climax between the Fundamentalists and the Modernists, as well as between those who think that liberty means a right to do as everybody likes, and those who think that it is only the right to do as they themselves think.

Evolution and religion have then quite plainly nothing to do with each other. One is physical, the other spiritual. But Bryan, and all the know-alls following him, insist that it has.

The trial is really a huge farce and like the idea of all those humans who will alter the way of nature and of God's world's, according to their own plan, it will blow up and "bust." The extraordinary fact, and one apparently overlooked by both sides is that if the human race ceased creating itself, and if babies ceased springing, and "evolving" the race would become extinct. Therefore, clearly God has decreed that nature springs in this way. But what has this to do with the spiritual nature of man? Nothing—absolutely nothing.

COURT OF JUSTICE NOT MEETING HOUSE

Scopes Defence Objected to Session Opening With Prayer—Objection Over-Ruled.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 14.—(Canadian Press). — As the court was about to open for the Scopes evolution trial this morning, Clarence Darrow of the defence counsel filed a formal objection to opening the session with prayer in the presence of the jury.

"I do not object to anyone praying in private, but I do object to this court being turned into a meeting house," said Darrow. Judge Raulston responded that he had uniformly followed his custom of opening court with prayer when a minister was available. "I believe in prayer," said Judge Raulston. "I practice it on the bench and off. I therefore overrule the objection." Rev. Mr. A. C. Stribling, pastor of Dayton Cumberland Presbyterian Church, then offered prayer, and the court was formally opened. Mr. Darrow, who yesterday made a two-hour speech on a motion to quash the indictment against the school teacher, and declared that he would continue to-day, announced that after going over his notes on yesterday's address, he had decided he had made his position plain and would not continue to-day. Judge Raulston then announced that he would need several hours to prepare his decision on Mr. Darrow's motion.

The Weasel.

An animal for whose relative scarcity all poultry-keepers are thankful, is the weasel. He is the very incarnation of relentless pursuit and insatiable bloodrust, and the great majority of people hate him—and fear him a little—without ever seeing him in their lives. Yet his cast-off clothing becomes the garments of kings. For one species, the long-tailed weasel, in winter puts on shining white fur, except for a jet-black tail-tip, and becomes the ermine.

The reputation of the weasel as a hunter runs back to the Middle Ages at least, as that very old folk-song, "Pop Goes the Weasel," would indicate. And "Pop" he does go, without any question, for his lithe, slim, muscular body is a collection of living springs. He is, for his size, the finest jumper in the animal world. Naturalists state that he has even been seen to leap into the air and capture low-flying birds.

Mostly, however, the weasel hunts by scent. Once on the trail of a luckless fnimal he follows him remorselessly a ate, and sooner or later surely over takes him.

CROWN HEAPED FRESH CHARGES AGAINST PEPALL

Say That Accused Gave, or Agreed to Give, Bribe To Peter Smith.

NAMES OF WITNESSES.

TORONTO, July 14 (Canadian Press) — An additional charge was made by the Crown when Andrew Pepall appeared in police court today on charges laid in connection with the Ontario treasury bond scandals. The new charge is that Pepall unlawfully gave, or agreed to give, $12,500 bribe to Peter Smith, then Provincial Treasurer. The charges against Pepall are of stealing securities to the value of $368,000, of obtaining securities to the value of $381,000 by false pretences of unlawfully giving or agreeing to give $150,000 to Peter Smith and of unlawfully giving or agreeing to give $12,500 to Smith. Crown Attorney McCruer withdrew the charges of receiving securities valued at $381,000 and of accepting a bribe while an agent of the Ontario Provincial Treasurer, because there is doubt as to whether these charges were upheld by the California Court in granting extradition. He reserves the right to include them in the indictment later if it is found in order to do so.

Evidence Disclosed

For the first time in a Canadian court, evidence taken in camera here and successfully used in the extradition proceedings in Los Angeles which resulted in Pepall's deportation, was released to the public as the result of an agreement between Mr. McCruer and A. G. Slaght, counsel for the defence. They had decided that in order to materially shorten the case the evidence of the eleven witnesses whose testimony was in the record of the extradition proceedings should be read into the evidence of the court today in Toronto. The names of the witnesses were Aemilius Jarvis, Jr., Reginald Martine, Albert E. Nash, Charles F. Bulmer, Charles H. Sproule, John Hamm, Norman J. O'Flynn, George L. McHattie, Mary L. Larkworthy, Albert Victor Young and Harry L. Wills. The hearing today did not commence until shortly after noon and at one o'clock an adjournment was made for lunch. The case was commenced in a special court room before Magistrate Jones so that the ordinary routine of the police court might not be interrupted.

RUSSELL T. SCOTT IS IN DEATH CELL

Former Toronto Financier Closely Confined to Prevent Suicide.

CHICAGO, July 14. — (Canadian Press). — Russell T. Scott, former Toronto financier and writer on business ethics, sentenced to hang on Friday for killing a drug store clerk in a holdup in 1924, has been placed in the death cell of Cook County Jail.

The action of the jail authorities which set a precedent over the custom of confining doomed men in the death chamber only on the eve of execution was taken to prevent any suicide attempt. Meanwhile Scott's attorneys prepared to appear before the State Pardon Board in Springfield to ask for commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment. Thomas Scott, his aged father, and his wife said they would appeal to Governor Small to save him from the gallows in the event the plea for commutation was refused.

Police Court Slow, But Prisoner Was Speedster

Things were slow in the Police Court this morning. Even the clock was stopped. There was no gallery and only one case, that of a young man who was charged with driving a car at the excessive rate of twenty-three miles an hour. The accused, who is nineteen years of age and is married, pleaded guilty to the offence and could give no stated reason for his reckless speed. There were no girls mixed up in the case, therefore he wasn't "showing off," and he said "I don't drink" so positively that the magistrate and everyone else appeared to believe him at once, so the fine was put at $5 and costs of $3.50, with Saturday night, weekly pay night, as the limit for ist payment.

DOCTORS HOPE FOR RECOVERY

Prelate's Condition Satisfactory Statement Made By Physicians of Cardinal.

LITTLE IMPROVEMENT.

QUEBEC, Que., July 14. — Canadian Press. — "The Cardinal's condition is satisfactory at present, and there is little improvement."

This was the statement made this morning by Dr. Edwin Turcot, who with Dr. Achilles Paquet is attending His Eminence, Carinal Begin.

The venerable prelate passed a peaceful day yesterday, which was followed by a quiet night, and the doctors have hopes that he will recover from this illness, which overtook him after his return from a day of travel and religious ceremonies at St. Nazaire, Dorchester, where he went on Sunday for blessing the corner stone of a projected new church of that parish.

The Cardinal is suffering from uremia. He received the last rites of the church last night.

CANDIDATES FOR UPPER CHAMBER

According to rumor, Sir Lomer Gouin (RIGHT) and M. Lucien Cannon (LEFT), MP. for Dorchester, are the two latest candidates for the upper chamber.

THEATRES

POLA NEGRI IN "THE CHARMER."

Cast in a role a great deal different to those in which she starred on her first appearance in this country, Pola Negri is the interesting heroine of "The Charmer." The vivacious Polish actress has become ladylike in this picture, that is, she has one of those parts in which a lady in unladylike surroundings is depicted. She is Mariposa, the Spanish dancing girl, headlight of a Broadway success, "The Charmer."

Pola Negri, who used to be content with delineating somewhat spicy roles, does a new type in this production, which is really entertaining because of her appearance in it. She is as beautiful as ever, and makes a splendid type as the Spanish danseuse.

The story revolves around her adventures in New York, and their ultimate outcome. The tale should appeal to the romantic minded, for in it the lady discards a wealthy suitor, minus character, for a poor chauffeur. However, Dan, played by Robert Frazer, is a very handsome chauffeur and very faithful, and virtue triumphs finally when Mariposa turns to him from the erring philanderer, the rich Ralph Bayne (Wallace MacDonald), who does not love the lady sufficiently to give up family connections for her.

The brilliant Pola, with her superb acting, her dark hair and eyes and attractive gowns, is always a centre of interest. When she projects herself into the role of a beautiful Spanish dancer, with a wealthy man and a poor one being for her favor, in a story that has its setting in New York, she makes a very worthwhile evening's entertainment. — Jeanette.

AT THE ROYAL.

"BLUFF."

"Bluff," the new Sam Wood production for Paramount which was shown for the first time in Peterboro at the Royal Theatre yesterday, is a story of a pretty young gown designer, who goes to New York to earn a living. She does so. Her method is bluff. Agnes Ayres and Antonio Moreno are featured in the production which was adapted to the screen by Willis Goldbeck from the magazine short story by Rita Weiman and Josephine L. Quirk.

Miss Ayres plays Betty Hallowell. She is down to her last dime and has a brother invalided in an automobile accident on her hands. Betty searches without results for work when she hits upon the bright idea of impersonating a certain internationally famous beauty, Nina Loring, whom she greatly resembles. Now the contracts for her gown designs fairly come pouring in, while as Betty, the modistes wouldn't even favor her with an interview.

But Nina Loring is wanted in London for embezzling Red Cross funds. Betty is arrested, but Robert Fitzmaurice (Antonio Moreno) attorney for the people in London, sees through Betty's bluff, and although he does not know her game, is sure it is nothing crooked. He takes over her defence, bluffs a politically controlled deputy police into his way of thinking—but that would be telling too much of the story. The picture will be held over at the Royal until Wednesday night.

LIQUOR HUNTERS CAUSE TROUBLE

An Armed Craft Fires 16 Shots and Searches Pleasure Boat For Rum.

NIAGARA-ON-TH-LAKE, Ont., July 15 (Canadian Press).—Pleasure boat renting, one of this old town's sources of revenue, is said to have been practically ruined by the activities of American armed craft in this vicinity. Boat owners declare that patrons have been frightened away. S. S. Richardson, commodore of the Toledo Yacht Club, has sent a vigorous protest to Washington against the action of an armed craft which fired 16 shots over his pleasure boat en route from Alexandria Bay to Niagara River in a chase from Charlotte to Olcott, where his launch put in and was searched for liquor.

MR. BURNHAM APPEALS.

Asks Dayton Court to Allow Devil to be Represented in Trial.

The Examiner is informed by Mr. J. H. Burnham that he has written the court of Dayton, Tenn., U.S., on behalf of the devil, demanding that the latter be represented in the trial now stirring the whole world, there. The devil used to be acknowledged in the the matter of al levil and was attacked accordingly, but of late there has been a disposition to ignore that fact, and to attack specific evils instead. It is absurd to forget the cause, and the sole cause at that, of all our troubles. If we can wipe Satan out, our object will be attained, but of course he must be a party to the suit, thinks Mr. Burnham.

Around The City.

Chief of Police Newhall is in receipt of a communication from Mrs. W. Harris, 50 Erie street, Camden, N. J., asking for information as to the present whereabouts of a woman whose maiden name in 1889, when she resided in Peterboro, was Margaret Lewis, but who has since married. The lady, who would now be about 50 years old, was a granddaughter of Melvina Lewis, who lived here half a century ago, and had an aunt named Melvina Harris.

The results of the local Normal School examinations will not be available for publication until the return to the city of Mr. D. Walker, late this week.

Philip Bosley, 181 Westcott street, was fined $50.00 and costs in the police court yesterday on a charge of being intoxicated in a public place. A charge of having liquor for sale was withdrawn, owing to a lack of sufficient evidence.

Stephen W. Woodcock, a member of a recent convivial party at Bosley's place, was fined $10.00 and costs on a charge of being drunk in a public place.

FISHED ALL DAY THEN FORGOT FISH

Peterborough Party's Outing Spoiled by Somebody's Absent-Mindedness.

A party of local anglers, equipped with enough rods and lines to catch sturgeon, let alone the trout that abound in the northern part of the county recently journeyed to Eagle Lake and spent a day's fishing, expecting to swing a mean fork and blade when they arrived home with their catch. After hours of angling they were delighted to land three fine trout and everything was as merry as a wedding bell—until they had motored nearly home when it was discovered that they had left the fish on the shore of the lake.

CARNIVAL WILL SET NEW MARK IT IS EXPECTED

Rotary Frolic at Exhibition Grounds to Attract a Huge Crowd.

TICKETS GOING.

Children in Contest Find No Difficulty in Disposing of Pastboards.

The plans for the Rotary Carnival on Thursday are working out smoothly and the event should set a new standard of success for outdoor functions of this kind. The ticket competition presages a large attendance for the boys and girls in the contest and sold 1300 tickets before Monday and yesterday and today sales are reported very brisk, one girl who secured one hundred last night being back this morning for fifty more.

The programme is full of good things. The day's doings start with a parade from Central Park in charge of Rotarian Geo. A. Gillespie and as soon as this arrives at the exhibition grounds the afternoon's events will start. There will be a race for children, horse races, four classes will compete in the horse show, there is a soft ball tournament with the Lindsay, Oshawa, Port Hope, Cobourg and Peterboro Rotary clubs already entered, and a hard ball game between Rotary Midgets and Kiwanis. The midway with a variety of attractive games and luring prizes will be in full swing. At 5 o'clock the senior classes of the Y.W.C.A. will give an exhibition of interpretive dancing on the dance platform and from 5.30 to 7.30 the Rotary Annes will serve tea in the Manufacturer's Building.

At night the midway will entertain thousands, there will be dancing in charge of the Rotaryannes and plenty of music and other entertainment.

It will be a real frolic for everybody and with many visitors from all over the district the carnival should be a record-breaker.

Buy your tickets in advance and help the children who are taking part in the contest.

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Toronto Market Active With Smelters Leading

TORONTO, July 14 (Canadian Press).—The market on the Toronto Stock Exchange continued active this morning, with Consolidated Smelters still the market leader. Smelters showed an easier tone however today, selling down to 94 1-4, but rallying to 95 by noon, with a half point loss. Canada Bread "B" Preferred continued prominent, and at 88 1-4 it showed a gain of 1 1-4. The general tone was firm, and City Dairy and Winnipeg each improved a quarter point while Canners Preferred gained a half and Twin City three quarters of a point. Atlantic Sugar sold down a point at 31.

Dozen Issues Reach Peak Savage Arms At New Low

WALL STREET, July 15 (Canadian Press).—Prices pointed upward throughout the morning. Marking up of call money with renewal rate to 4 1-2 per cent. failed to bring about any further liquidation, professional trades apparently regarding it as a bullish factor on the theory that it reflected an expanding commercial demand for funds. The resumption of pool activity on a broad scale was based in part on the belief that the summer lull in business would be of short duration. With freight car loadings during the week of the fourth, largest of any corresponding period on record, new buying was drawn into railroad shares with southern and southwestern carriers making the best showing. About a dozen issues attained new peak prices before noon, the list including Sears-Roebuck, Weston Electrical Instrument, Timken Roller Bearing, and Wheeling and Lake Erie Common and preferred. Oils continued unresponsive to another increase in gasoline prices in mid-western territory. Savage Arms was one of few weak spots, sinking to a new 1925 low around 50.

Activity Limited To-day With Teck-Hughes and Oakes Up

TORONTO, July 14 (Canadian Press) — Market held firm on the Standard Mining Exchange today, but the activity was very limited. A few gold leaders registered good gains but on the whole the market showed little change. Teck Hughes with a five point gain at 149 and Tough Oakes up two at 36 were prominent.

Wheat, After Early Drop, Rallies On Upward Trend

CHICAGO, July 14. — Canadian Press. — Although wheat prices had a downward slant at the opening today, the early declines were soon much more than overcome. The announcement that black stem rust was prevalent in Southern Manitoba and was also attacking wheat in Saskatchewan, did a great deal to give the market a fresh upturn. On the other hand cooler weather in spring wheat states, lagging quotations at Liverpool and opinions that considerable damage to crops had been discounted by the recent sharp advance in values, were explanations given of the initial weakness of the market. The opening which ranged from 3-5c decline to ¼c advance, September 152 to 152 3-4, and December 154 to 155, was followed by Numerous minor change and then by an irregular rise all around, with September touching 155 3-4 and December 156 1-8.

Corn and oats were easy, influenced by more favorable weather. After opening at ½c to 1 3-4c decline, September 108 1-8 to 103 3-4, corn market sagged a little further, but then rallied.

Oats started at ¼c to ½c off, September 47 1-8 to 47 3-8; reactions that ensued failed to hold.

WEST REQUIRES SYMPATHY FROM TRADE LEADERS

RATES GRIEVANCE.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 15. — (Canadian Press).—Tuesday morning's session of the conference of Western Mayors and other civic officials was featured by an able and exhaustive address on the Western rates question by G. C. McGeer, K.C. Among those who were in attendance were D. C. Coleman, vice-president of Western lines, Canadian Pacific Railway; Premier Greenfield Senator Griesbach, D. D. Warner, M.P., and other prominent local men.

Mr. McGeer went into the matter of alleged discriminations in railway rates against Western Canada and asserted the reason was that the railways and financial institutions of Canada were largely controlled by men whose sympathy and knowledge was not of the West. It was by building up a strong Western sentiment, united in its demands, that this could be met, he asserted, and it was in this line that the present conference might have its greatest result.

Cited Sugar Rates.

As a specific example of the discrimination in railway rates, he instanced the case of sugar which was brought from the East over greater mileage at lower rates than could be carried to Alberta from Vancouver. The direct result is that Vancouver cannot get into the Winnipeg market which is controlled by the Halifax refineries. If that is a fair and impartial basis of justice, it is something new, said Mr. McGeer, who declared that the time has come when such conditions will not be acceptable either to the people of the East or the West.

Later in the session Mr. Coleman spoke briefly in regard to Mr. McGeer's address. The latter, he said, had marshalled all his arguments with the skill of the able advocate, but Mr. Coleman pointed out that the resolution passed at the recent meeting of Parliament gave power to the Railway Commission to fully investigate the question of rail rates and make rulings. In view of this he thought that it was unwise to attempt to prejudice the situation beforehand.

120 Passport Dodgers Are Held For Trial Over Line.

WINNIPEG, July 15.—(Canadian Press). — Awaiting trial for violation of the passport law, more than 120 persons from Winnipeg are in the custody of the United States immigration authorities, according to information received here Tuesday.

All of the party will be tried by a grand jury of the district in which they were arrested, and while it is expected that the majority will be deported, some are likely to be given jail sentences.

A large percentage of the violators are of foreign descent.

STORM WRECKED INDIAN VILLAGE

Fisherman Killed And Three Companions Injured On Lake Winnipeg.

REFUGEES FLED.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 15.—(Canadian Press).—From out of the wilds of Berins River Indian Reserve, on Lake Winnipeg, comes a story of a terrible storm that left death and destruction in its wake last week. News of the gale reached civilization, when the lake steamer Wolverine docked at Selkirk.

One Indian fisherman was killed by a bolt of lightning, while a companion and two squaws were seriously injured.

Such was the fury of the storm that the small settlement was almost levelled, trees uprooted and boats unloosed. When the storm abated, the Indians driven by fear and superstition, fled from the scene in the remaining rowboats. Despite the rough conditions of the lake, the refugees did not stop rowing until they reached Berin's River, where the injured were treated.

BELIEVED DROWNED.

Man And Son Hired Boat, Later Found Empty.

PORT ARTHUR, July 15 (Can. Press). — An unconfirmed report here last night was that C. W. Symons and his young son were drowned during the afternoon on the Nipigon River. Symons hired a boat at Virgin Falls and later the empty boat was found in the river. Trainmen have brought the news into the city.

ACCIDENT VICTIM.

HAZEL EZETTA CHAMBERS the victim of one of Peterborough's saddest shooting accidents. Her home was at 270 Reid street, and she had been working in Toronto.

MINERS REFUSE ALL PROPOSALS

Will Neither Accept Court of Inquiry or Owners Negotiations.

UNANIMOUS.

SCARBOROUGH, Eng., July 15. — (Canadian Press). — The Mine Workers' Federation to-day unanimously adopted a resolution refusing to accept the Government's court of inquiry into the mining dispute and refusing the coal mine owners' proposal for negotiations until the latter have withdrawn their notice terminating the present working agreement.

AN ANCIENT TALE IS REVIVED AGAIN

So Get Your Coal Collected And Laugh at Striking Miners.

OTTAWA, July 15. — (Canadian Press). — The Canadian consumer will be well advised to get in a sufficient supply of whatever fuel he proposes to use next winter without loss of time. This is the advice given by C. A. McGrath, who was Fuel Controller during the war, and, as a member of the Federal Advisory Fuel Committee, had much to do with arrangements looking to the protection of Canada's interests in the big United States hard coal strike of 1922. "Seldom has the fuel outlook seemed so threatening as at the present time," says Mr. McGrath in a statement which he issued to-day. He points out that coal miners are on strike in Eastern and Western Canada, that there is a possibility of trouble in the British coal field, and that there is every possibility of a bitter fight in the Pennsylvania coal region at the end of next month.

FERNIE, B.C., July 15.—(Canadian Press). — Dense crowds of smoke drifted over Fernie Tuesday from a big forest fire which is burning fiercely three or four miles east of Michel, near the Crow's Nest Pass coal company's lumber camp number two.

The fire assumed alarming proportions Monday afternoon and a large number of men were sent to fight the flames.

Yesterday morning all available men from Fernie and Michel were rushed to the fire in an effort to get the blaze under control.

SACRED HEART CHURCH SOCIAL

Fifteen Hundred on Grounds Entertained by 200 Workers.

BIG SUCCESS.

The annual social of the Sacred Heart Church was held yesterday afternoon and evening and was a splendid success. A crowd that approximated fifteen hundred or more people assembled on the grounds adjacent to the church, a large number of them partaking of the bountiful supper which was served from long tables decorated with flowers.

Willing workers among the men and women of the parish, numbering over two hundred in all, took part in the serving of the supper and in the different booths for light refreshments scattered about the enclosure. The lottery booth was the central attraction in the evening, with Messrs. T. DeForge and T. Turcotte of the Cathedral Parish energetic workers, who disposed of surplus stocks in short order.

A feature of the decorations, as usual, was the excellent illumination of the grounds by means of overhead lines of electric lights. During the evening, illuminated balloons were sent up at intervals.

STAMP FOREIGN GOODS, BRITISH MEMBER'S PLAN

BEING CONSIDERED.

LONDON, July 15. — (Canadian Press Cable).—Sir Robert Vaughan Gower, Conservative member for Central Hackney, in the House of Commons Tuesday, urged that, in view of the necessity of encouraging the sale of British-made goods in Great Britain, legislation should be introduced requiring that all advertisements of goods manufactured or produced outside of the Empire should expressly and conspicuously state that such goods are foreign-made and that no such goods shall be exposed for sale without being prominently labelled 'foreign-made.'

Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, president of the Board of Trade, replied that the question of the compulsory indication of the country of origin of imported goods had been under consideration by the various trade interests concerned, but these have been unable to agree with regard to a definite policy in connection therewith. While it is impossible to pass legislation at this session of Parliament, he said he agreed that the question deserved and was receiving careful consideration.

A. V. Alexander, Labor member for Hillsborough, asked if it would not be preferable to arrange a scheme for the identification of Empire produce.

Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister said the Imperial Economic Committee was already giving attention to that matter.

PRISONER'S DIET GIVES CONCERN

Inquiry Will Be Made Into Cause of "Porridge Rash" By Secretary.

SPECIAL CASES.

TORONTO, July 15 (Canadian Press).—An inquiry will be made into diet at Toronto Jail, Hon. W. H. Price, provincial treasurer and acting provincial treasurer, stated today. The purpose of the inquiry is to determine whether a proper diet is necessary in special cases. Attention of the secretary's department has been called to the fact that prisoners held there are liable to suffer from "porridge rash," a skin disease thought to be caused by faulty diet.

The next convention, in 1926, takes place in Sarnia Ontario, and Fort William and Port Arthur are candidates for the role of host to delegates in 1927.

Montreal Banquet Sounds Note of Allied Friendship.

MONTREAL, July 15.—(Canadian Press). — France's national holiday, "Bastille Day" was celebrated here yesterday at a luncheon under the auspices of the Union National Francaise. Representatives of Canada, France, Great Britain and the United States attended. The friendly relations which exist between all these countries was stressed in the speeches made and the hope was expressed that they would continue to work in one great entente cordiale.

Baron De Vitrolles, Consul General for France, and officers from the French warship "Ville D'ys," were the guests of honor. The former responded to complimentary speech of Ferdinand Rinfret, M.P. for St. James.

COOLIDGE ACTIVE.

Assumes Direct Charge Of Negotiations With Powers on East.

SWAMPSCOTT, July 15 (Canadian Press). — President Coolidge has assumed direct charge of negotiations with other Powers, and is attempting to create a situation in China which will warrant and make possible an early conference on both custom duties and surrender by the Powers of extra territorial rights.

In clarifying further the method by which the Chinese issue is being approached, a spokesman for the administration issued an official denial that an understanding has been readhed by the United States, Great Britain and Japan on a plan of joint action in the Far East.

TEAR-GAS ADOPTED FOR POLICE BILLYS

Modern warfare methods recently have been adopted for use by police departments in several large cities of the United States. Tear-gas bombs, grenades, maces and billys now are being used for attack and defence.

One of the new weapons, a gas mace, it is claimed, will enable a single officer to accomplish more than 20 men equipped with the old type of night-stick. As described in Popular Science for August, this mace shoots out a sufficient volume of gas to fill an ordinary room. The weapon has the same size, shape and weight as the standard police night-stock. When pointed at a man or group of men, and a button pushed, a cloud of tear gas is projected for a distance of from 20 to 30 feet.

The hand grenades are said to be particularly effective for breaking up rioting mobs and driving barricaded criminals from retreats. Huge crowds can be set to weeping by the blinding gas and the tears and smarting of the eyes continue for from two to five minutes after exposure to the gas. One hand grenade, it is claimed, will stop a mob of hundreds in an 80-foot street. Rifle grenades also are built along the same lines.

At a number of army posts soldiers are acting as instructors to policemen, showing them how to handle the new tear gas equipment.

THIRD MAN DEAD.

Succumbed To Scalding On C. P. R. Vessel.

NELSON, B.C., July 15.—(Canadian Press).—D. A. Davies, Nelson, a deck hand on the Canadian Pacific Railway steamer Kuskanook, died yesterday in the hospital at Kaslo from scalds received when the water trap on the steam pipe feeding the engine of the vessel exploded on Monday.

ELECTION FORMS BEING PRINTED AND RETURNING OFFICERS NAMED

OTTAWA, July 15.—(Canadian Press).—Although the Government Printing Bureau is now printing forms required under the Dominion Elections Act, and although the work of appointing permanent returning officers is going on, neither of these things are sure indications of a general election this fall. Under the Act amended at the last session of Parliament, the chief electoral officer is required to see that the necessary forms for the holding of an election are in readiness before the Act becomes effective. When he gives a certificate that all is in readiness, then the Act becomes effective. Failing his certificate, it does not come into effect for three months from the date it was approved.

The new Act provides for the appointment of permanent returning officers, who will, however, be paid only in the event of an election taking place. These men are being appointed.

The Cabinet meets to-day, but it is not expected that there will be any announcement in regard to dissolution or the election. This will probably not come until a full meeting of the Cabinet, which will be held later on in the month.

KU KLUX KLAN NOT CONNECTED WITH CANADIAN MASONIC ORDER SAYS ONTARIO GRAND MASTER

W. J. Drope Warns Masons To Consider Well Before Joining Klan.

SCORNS DISGUISE.

HAMILTON, July 15.—(Canadian Press). — An emphatic declaration that the Ku Klux Klan had no connection in letter or in spirit with the Masonic Order in Canada, was one of the outstanding features of the address of W. J. Drope, Grand Master of Free Masonry in Ontario, at the seventieth annual communication of the Grand Lodge of Canada in this Province, which opened its sessions here to-day. The Grand Master, owing to illness, was unable to be present to deliver the address, which was read in his absence.

Continuing on the subject of the Ku Klux Klan, the Grand Master said: "It is perhaps not within my province, nor do I deem it necessary at the present time, to express any opinion or make any ruling on the question of members of the Masonic Order becoming members of the Klan, but I venture to suggest that members of the oldest and most honorable fraternity in the world will do well to consider seriously before associating themselves with an organization, which in a country where the franchise is universal and the freedom of speech assured to all, finds it necessary to conceal the dentity of its membership behind a hood or mask."

In his report on Masonic offences, the Grand Master said that the very existence of Masonry depended upon its maintaining a standard in its membership. If at any time there was hesitation in purging the Order of unworthy members who dishonored it with their actions, regardless of what rank or position they might hold in the state or community, Canadian Masonry would soon forfeit its proud and honorable position, he said.

The progress of the Order in Ontario, numerically and financially, was reported. Lodges in this province now number 546, with a membership of 107,000, an increase of 4,000 from last year. The Grand Lodge income for the year approximated $150,000, of which $108,000 had been spent for relief and charitable work. Seventeen new lodges were dedicated during the year.

QUEBEC SURPLUS.

Another Million Predicted in Annual Statement.

MONTREAL, July 15.—(Canadian Press).—A despatch from Quebec City to the Montreal Star says that when the Provincial Treasurer, Hon. Jacob Nicol, presents his annual financial statement today, it is expected that he will show that the province has a surplus of about $1,000,000. Included in this will be earnings of the Quebec Liquor Commission last year.

In the last four years, the surplus of receipts over expenditure in the provincial finances has averaged from $900,000 to $1,000,000.

BETTER LIGHTING.

Last winter with the object of improving the lighting system of the city 58 old lamps of 60 watts, were removed in the north end and replaced by 52 of 200 watts. The old lamps averaged $9 each a year, but the cost of the new lights has not yet been determined.

The ideal at which the Utilities Commission is aiming, says Ross Dobbin, is that of a uniform lighting system and the whole question of the standard of lamps to be used hinges on the consideration of the respective costs of the lighting of the city by the higher or lower powered lamps

MAY CARRY LIQUOR.

British Ships Not Stopped By Rum Treaty with U. S.

NEW YORK, July 15 (Canadian Press).—British ships may continue to bring liquor into American ports under seal for the use of passengers Europe-bound, as allowed by the rum treaty between United States and Great Britain, under a ruling by Federal Judge Mack yesterday.

On the ground that Federal courts have no power to compel prosecuting officers to enforce the law, Judge Mack declined to grant an injunction which would have restrained the port officials and prohibition authorities from recognizing the rum treaty provisions.

Dangers In Bolting Food.

Largely Responsible for Increase in Cancer in United States.

The common habit of bolting your food is an extremely dangerous one, according to Dr. J. D. Osmond of Cleveland, O., who declares that it is largely responsible for the increase of cancer in the United States. When a man under nervous strain, swallows his food in chunks, he says, it tends to be retained in the gullet instead of going on to the stomach. This irritates the gullet and frequently causes cancer.

STABLE POUND CUTS IMPORTS

EXPECT DECREASE

British financial experts point out that the greatly increased stability of the pound, which, though it preceded actual return to a gold basis, was largely due to the expectation that the return was imminent, has now begun to exercise a modified influence on the excess of imports over exports, which in the last year had grown so much. According to advices received by Bankers Trust Company of New York, by its British Information Service, it is not easy to explain the enormous increase in the adverse balance in the second half of 1924 in any other way than as a function of the overvaluation of the pound. In January 1924 dollar exchange was quoted at 4.26, and the Board of Trade index number of commodity prices at 165.4. The Board of Trade number steadily declined until in July it stood at 162.6 while the exchange rate advanced until in July it stood at 4.37. From that month the exchange rate and the Board of Trade number advanced together, until in January 1925 the exchange rate stood at 4.77 and the Board of Trade index at 171.0. Since then, while the exchange has advanced practically to parity of 4.86, the Board of Trade index number has turned down and at the end of May was 159.0.

It is pointed out that the rise in the exchange last year took place almost entirely in the second six months of the year, rising above the purchasing power parity between the pound and the dollar, and that it coincided with a per[iod] when gold pieces in general were rising. It was natural that British importers should buy more heavily abroad when foreign goods were becoming cheap relatively to British goods, and at a time when prices were rising generally and expected to rise still further. When in January the exchange became almost stable, prices began to fall. This was not only because the relative cheapness of foreign goods began to disappear, but that with the disappointment of expectation of a continued expansion of trade, the buying of raw materials for manufacture was discouraged. In the opinion of the British authorities, these two influences have not yet exercised their full effect upon the trade balance, but the May trade figures, which yield the smallest adverse trade balance for the year, they believe suggest that their effect is now becoming visible. It is expected that in the coming months the excess of imports will shrink still further.

Neck Retires in Favour Of Limb Says Advance Costume Dictates.

NEW YORK, July 15.—(Canadian Press).—More of lower limb and less of neck will be on view next fall if the conception of autumn modes for women prevails as revealed at the showing of the National Garment Retailers' Association. Skirts 15 or 16 inches off the floor were not unusual at the showing last night, while collars were invariably high.

The waistline was suggested more definitely than in recent seasons.

MUSIC BOX IS BIG HELP TO MISSIONARIES

Cobourg Young People's League Receives Letter of Thanks.

ATTRACTS ADULTS.

W. E. Smith Tells of Crowds That Gather to Hear Music.

COBOURG, July 15.—For several years Rev. Dr. W. E. Smith, who was the first missionary to go to a foreign field under the auspices of the Young People's Leagues, of what was then the Methodist Church, was supported by Peterboro and Cobourg districts. Several years ago, however, the young people of the Cobourg district took over Dr. Smith's entire support, and Peterboro district undertook the support of another missionary.

A year ago, when Dr. Smith was home on furlough, the young people in the Cobourg district presented him with a victrola, to take the place of a small organ which they previously gave to him, to assist him in his work, and which his late wife used to play. The curiosity which this latter gift awakened among the Chinese is the theme of an interesting letter which Dr. Smith has written to Leaguers here, and which is as follows:

I sent you a copy of my annual report, but omitted a very important item, which it is necessary you should know. I refer to the splendid work done by the wee portable talking machine, called the Cecilian, that you purchased for me last year. Believe me, you made a fine contribution towards collecting crowds of listeners in our street chapels. Then the hundreds of happy wee faces of school children peering into the machine tell the story of the joy experienced from listening to the music. Until after mid-summer, I only used the machine in my Tzeliutsing home, to entertain students and friends from the country. Perhaps I should tell you that sometimes in my lonely hours I played Harry Lauder, and enjoyed every one of his jokes.

In June our pupils from the country schools come to the central station to write on their examinations, and how they enjoyed listening to the talking machine! It was new and wonderful to them, and the people back home all heard about the clever little box, that could speak, laugh and sing in both English and Chinese. They could follow the English hymns, of the tunes they had been taught in school.

At Out Stations.

I was soon flooded with invitations to bring my machine to the out stations. I took it first to Shuantan, a big town where our mission has had a chapel and conducted a school for some years, but has never succeeded in getting the parents or grown-ups to take much interest in the church or to attend the services. I arrived on Saturday and commenced to play in the chapel to our school boys and girls. Soon others came and it was not long until the place was crowded. We held a service and invited all to come back at night, but an invitation was not necessary. The parents of the children crowded into the place and we had an opportunity of preaching the Gospel, and explaining the object in conducting schools. The next morning, long before Sunday School time, the place was again crowded. The audience listened to several addresses by our helpers, sandwiched in between the Cecilian selections. Thus this old town received three services of three hours each which I have no doubt formed an important topic of conversation for many days afterwards and we are praying that the Spirit did His work in the hearts of some who heard.

Crowds Rushing.

In every town and in the city of Fushun the chapels were crowded and the streets in front blocked with people trying to get into our places to hear the talking machine. We always took advantage of it and had our helpers ready to preach the Word, but it is very difficult to preach to such a mixed congregation. However, it did not seem to worry my Chinese preachers as it did me. They seemed to enjoy having the bustling crowd; it was a change from empty benches at least.

I arrived in the town of Whagia, a very busy mart on market days but on other days it is a very dead, sleepy old place, with small children playing on the streets as usual, old women turning their spinning wheels, and the idle rich eating opium, drinking wine and playing mah jong with piles of money constantly changing hands in the gambling game. I commenced to play some good Chinese Pekin selections for the school children in our chapel and soon the street children and the old women came flocking into the place. Then they ran back to tell others about "the wonder" in gospel hall. Even the gamblers were attracted and inside an hour the gambling tables were vacated and all were listening to the Cecilian. This afforded a good opportunity to explain the evils of gambling and opium smoking.

Thank you, friends, for the Cecilian. I assure you it was a good investment. I could tell you twelve different stories of towns captured by the talking machine.

I hope this little note may be of interest to you, but I cannot tarry to write any more this morning for my men are waiting to carry me to Longwhei Dzen, one of the outstations, and from there I hurry on to our Chinese annual conference meeting in Chengtu. It is five long days' travel by sedan chair from here to Chengtu. We have to leave our inn every morning by the lantern light this time of year, reaching the night stopping place after dark, using lantern light again to enter the city and inn. We have to carry our own bedding and all our food except rice.

OBITUARY.

BENJAMIN EWING.

(By A Staff Reporter)

BRIGHTON, July 14. — The funeral of the late Benjamin Ewing who died at his home here on Sunday, and whose death marks the passing of Brighton's oldest resident, was held to Warkworth yesterday afternoon.

The late Mr. Ewing, who lacked only two weeks of being 90 years old, was born on a farm at what is known as Dartford Corners, a short distance from Warkworth, one of a family of six brothers and six sisters, all of whom with one exception has now passed away and every member of which attained an advanced age. The father of the family, the late Benjamin Franklin Ewing, was one of the pioneer of Percy Township and for years was Justice of the Peace for that district, a position which won for him the title "Squire" by which he was known all over the country.

The deceased resided all his working life—about 50 years on the homestead—retiring 40 years ago when he took up his residence with a brother, Franklin, who died last April in his 86th year. Benjamin was never married. He enjoyed good health up to the time of the death of his brother, since which event he appeared to lose all interest in life and pine slowly away. In religion he was a Presbyterian.

The only surviving member of the family is Miss Elizabeth Ewing, a sister who resides in Clare, Mich. and who is in her 86th year. P. S. Ewing, clerk of Percy Township, is a nephew and another nephew is Ben Ewing, Division Court Clerk at Cobourg.

Champion Checker Player.

The deceased was the acknowledged checker player of Ontario and was an honorary member of checker clubs in all parts of the province, retaining his skill up to a few months before his death. Early last spring he offered to play for the championship any man in Ontario who had reached the age of 80 or over or to take on any younger man for an exhibition game. A match was arranged between him and Michael O'Donohue of Campbellford and although each was eager for a trial of skill the health of both aged experts prevented a meeting neither being able to undertake the 22-mile journey.

HINDENURG SPREADS.

Plans Addition To Military Entourage. Will Have Chaplain.

BERLIN, July 15. — (United Press).— President Von Hindenburg, according to unconfirmed newspaper reports is planning to enlarge his military entourage by adding three lieutenants. The same sources reports that he is also planning the addition of a "presidential chaplain" and has a former court chaplain in mind for the post.

THREE MEN DIE OF GAS POISON IN SILK PLANT

Pocket of Sulphurated Hydrogen Overcomes Three In Repairing Tank.

UNEXPLAINABLE.

Two Suffocated in Attempt To Rescue Comrade. Two In Hospital.

CORNWALL, Ont., July 15—Three men lost their lives from sulphuretted hydrogen gas poisoning here yesterday at the artificial silk plant of Courtaulds Limited of London and Coventry, England. They are: Horace Mackenzie, aged 42, late of Coventry, England; Hiram Hollister, aged 57, and William Villeneuve, aged 23, of Cornwall. Two others are in the hospital.

Mackenzie was the plant foreman and he lost his life in a heroic effort to rescue Villeneuve from the bottom of the death tank.

The men's deaths are due to the unexplainable presence of a pocket of deadly gas fumes at the bottom of an acid vat to which alterations were being made.

A plumber named Meldrum, who is now in the hospital, with K. William Villeneuve, a helper, went down into vat No. 1, which had been previously cleaned. The first intimation that anything was wrong came with the reappearance of Meldrum in a corridor outside the vat room in an apparently weak condition.

With another employee Mackenzie descended into the vat in an endeavor to rescue Villeneuve. But Mackenzie was promptly overcome by gas fumes and Woodward forced to retreat.

In numerous successive attempts to rescue both other employees of the company, Hiram Hollister was also overcome, with fatal results.

The bodies were removed from the tank by means of a rope and hook.

DOWNEYLILLE OLD HOME WEEK

also one of the emigrating party from the Old Country. Peterborough was the headquarters of the emigrants, as was also Port Hope.

Building Houses.

The following were the methods used in building houses or shanties as they were then called. A few men were employed by the Government to go with the new settlers and to help build their homes. These were rather rough in appearance but for a time were all right. These shanties were built on high knolls or high ground if possible, and where the timber was not very heavy, so that three or four men could carry the logs away, three or four rods from the building, so that in the first year some had a garden of potatoes and vegetables.

After the first year or so many of the young men would earn enough money to buy a cow or a pair of steers, and bring them back to the new farm, and so it went on, and the settlers became self-sustaining.

Now, to show that education was not lost sight of, the schoolmaster, Patrick Barragy, taught school in his shanty three days a week. In the year 1829 preparations were made for building a schoolhouse, the old log schoolhouse on the north-east corner of the present school grounds. After a few years it was kept going on a much better scale with a very large attendance. Every family had four or six children in attendance. It did not take a very highly educated man to be a teacher in those days. There were no lady teachers. Reading, writing, grammar and arithmetic were the subjects taught and a beech rod six feet long was the correction cane. In 1835 the old log church was built on the clergy-reserved lot at the old cemetery. Mass was said every few weeks by a priest from Lindsay or Peterboro, who came on horseback. This continued for many years. In 1852 the first resident priest, Father Burke, came. He had a room upstairs in the hotel kept by Mrs. Collins, later Mrs. Drennan. I served Mass every morning for him there. He had Downeyville and Ennismore to attend to. About the same time the first priest's house was erected on the hill on the Lebane Farm in front of the Costello Farm, the parish having purchased 5 acres of land there, as that was supposed to be the centre of the parish. Father Burke lived there until his death on August 12, 1857. He was succeeded by the Rev. Father Coyle, who lived there many years.

Building the Church.

It was in the centre of the parish where the church was to be built. The timber and most of the material for the church were on the ground on which it was to be erected, but the parishioners on the west of the parish were not satisfied. It was said the hill was too bleak a place for the teams to stand in during the winter, and there was shelter for man and beast at Downeyville, as there were three hotels at the Cross, as it was then called. As Father Coyle was satisfied, the materials were moved up to the present place, and the church built where it now stands. John Scully, Sr., bought 2 acres of land from old Mr. Downey for $200 and paid the cash down. All the parishoners west of Downeyville were to pay a share. Father Coyle bought one acre of land, where the sheds are now. Father Coyle lived in the parish 20 years. He had a large parish in those days, Emily, Ennismore and Galway, and as far as any Catholic settlers lived in the north country. On one of his trips, a sick call, his horse was shaved, tail and main clipped, and his harness cut to pieces. Father Coyle was succeeded by Father Hogan. He was to stay until a resident priest could be procured. In 1879, Father Connolly took charge of the arish. It was during his time the present presbytery was built. The parish should be proud of it, as it is one of the best in the diocese. He was 15 years parish priest. He was followed by the Rev. Father Bretherton, who was parish priest for 11 years. It was during his time the church was veneered with brick and the interior decorated as you see it now. Father Bretherton made many improvements. He had the sheds changed to their present position. He also planted the cedar grove to the west of the church and made many other improvements.

Separate School.

He was succeeded by the Rev. Father McGuire, who was instrumental in arranging our separate school of which the parish is proud. He also secured the land for our new cemetery for which the parish should be thankful. While in the parish he kept everything in first-class shape and order. He was 12 years in the parish. After him came the Rev. Father Galvin, our present pastor. To his ardor our parish hall is due, also his attention to the schools must be mentioned. Father Galvin started the Holy Name Society. We are 25 per cent. better Catholics morally, socially and intellectually since Father Galvin came to us.

ARTIFICIAL FOODS MADE FROM GASES

Ultra-Violet Light Expert Sees "Vegetable Factories" For Future Cities.

Instead of planting vegetables and tilling the soil, shall we eventually get our food from factories that will actually manufacture produce from its chemical constituents in the heart of great cities in which it is to be consumed?

Fantastic as such an idea may seem, factory-made food already is an accomplished fact, according to Norman C. MvLoud, who, in the August issue of Popular Science Monthly, reports his observations of the remarkable achievements in this direction of Daniel Berthelot, one of the world's most distinguished scientists.

In his laboratory at Mendon, near Paris, France, says Mr. McLoud, Professor Berthelot already has produced foodstuffs artificially by subjecting gases of the air—the same gases that nature uses in producing vegetable foods—to the influence of ultra-violet light. In an amazingly simple way this French scientist has succeeded in duplicating processes of nature that wise men for centuries have considered beyond the power of men to fathom.

"Each unit will be a large room with a low ceiling. The floor will be occupied by glass tanks of great capacity. Each tank will have inlet pipes for the introduction of gases—the same gases that nature utilizes in the production of vegetable foods. Entering at the top, these gases will flow downward, and across the tank. Suspended from the ceiling will be lamps producing the rays of ultra-violet light.

"In this weird, powerful flood of energizing rays, the gases will be converted into vegetable material while we watch. The process will be dramatic. Through the glass walls of the tank we shall see something in the nature of a gentle snowfall which will accumulate on the floor of the tank in the form of powder that will constitute our finished product—vegetable starches and vegetable sugars created in faithful reproduction of the works of nature.

"The records will show us that the day's output has been equivalent to the output of a farm for an entire summer and that the tanks have given forth the starches and sugars that would come from the wholesale cultivation of beets and cane."

Professor Berthelot is famous throughout the world for his scientific acrievements, especially in the use of ultra-violet light. He is a member of the French Academy of Sciences, president of the French Society of Electrical Engineers, and holds the chair of professor in the famous Sorbonne of Paris.

The group has formerly fought for France.

CANADA'S NEW BUILDING.

The current issue of "Canada," containing a number of splendid photographs of the exterior and interior of Canada's new building in London, which was opened on Dominion Day by His Majesty King George, will serve to strengthen the feeling of pride in the hearts of Canadians that at last this country has an official home in the heart of the Empire worthy of Canada.

A superb building in Trafalgar Square, Canada's new headquarters are a veritable showground of the Dominion in London, and Canadians visiting the metropolis need no longer feel ashamed of the home of their country.

The old dismal offices that were the former Canadian headquarters caused the Canadian colony in London to hang their heads, and the resentment was increased when Australia erected magnificent offices in Aldwych costing five million dollars and South Africa secured a site in Trafalgar Square.

As Canada points out, the delay has been worth while, for Canada has now taken the predominant position to which its size and population entitle, and all Canadians who see their new official domicile will agree that the fine result was well worth watching for.

SAFETY FIRST SUGGESTIONS.

The Ontario Safety League has just issued an important list of ten suggestions for the guidance of swimmers, bathers and canoeists that should be carefully observed. They are of peculiar importance in this Province with its wonderful lakes and rivers attracting thousands of visitors during the summer months.

The five suggestions to swimmers are summarized as follows:

1. Learn the prone pressure method of resuscitation.
2. Where possible, bathe only in protected areas.
3. If you have heart trouble, do not go in swimming.
4. Wait two hours after eating before going into the water.
5. Be sure there is some one along able to rescue you, and that the water is deep enough before diving.

In regard to canoes there are five points to remember.

1. Stay out of a canoe (a) unless you can swim, (b) unless you can keep a cool head.
2. Keep the seat you took when starting.
3. If you have a passenger who wants to "rock the boat," put him ashore.
4. You take a fool's chance if you ride the waves of a steamboat. The chance-taker is the accident-maker.
5. If upset, lay your hands on the canoe or a paddle; either will keep you afloat until help arrives.

BRITISH-BORN ENTERING THE STATES.

The average United States consul in Canada finds that he has become a glorified immigration official since the passing of the quota law by that country, and he has much of his time taken up with matters that formerly did not come under his jurisdiction.

Several cases have happened recently in this district, which takes in seven counties, to show that people here do not understand the working of the regulations, and their lack of knowledge has worked what might appear on the surface to be a hardship.

In one instance, a woman from a neighboring city decided to go and live with relatives in United States, because she was alone here. She was fairly well off, too, and by the time she had disposed of her property, had a neat competence, so there was no danger of her becoming a charge on the State in which she intended to reside. Her friends gathered and made her a farewell presentation, and after she had cleaned up all business and financial matters, and packed her belongings, she came to London to call at the office of the U. S. consul to secure permission to enter United States.

It was not until then that she found that there was no chance at all of her doing so. She had been born in England, and the quota for that country, along with Scotland, Wales and Ulster, is only some 34,000 per year and of this number about 100 are allotted to London, Ont., district, or about 15 to each county, including the cities. It may be a matter of six years before she has an opportunity to go and live with her relatives in United States. It is easy to imagine her feelings when she had to return to the place where she had sold her house, and where friends had presented her with a farewell gift.

The consul in London admits that she would have made an ideal resident for United States or any other country, but he had nothing to do with the making of the law, and in the case of British citizens in Canada he has to get his quota number from the British authorities in London, Eng., they in turn receiving them from Washington.

We mention this because there have been several cases of a somewhat similar nature, and hardship has actually resulted in a number of them because the persons involved were not acquainted with the law. There have been so many changes made in the regulations of various countries that it is advisable that those contemplating a change should become versed in them before making arrangements for a move that may be impossible.—London Advertiser.

EVOLUTION.

Tennessee's great fight over evolution is away to a good start. In publicity it is rivalling presidential inaugurations, King Tutankhamen's tomb, the Franks case and any one of a dozen other famous sensations. It is the battle of personal rights and science against the entrenched forces of reaction. And entrenched they are, to an amazing extent. Cash contributions have rolled into Dayton from New York, California, Florida, Illipois, Ohio, Indiana and Tennessee, to help the prosecution. When people give their money to a thing, they either believe in it or they support it because they find it impossible to believe anything to the contrary.

All of those people are implacable foes of the evolution theory. They don't believe in it, and they don't mean to allow themselves to be convinced. Therefore, they fight it at the only convenient source. Evolution, like the church and the movies and the dance, finds its sternest critics among those who do not patronize it. Therefore, the Tennessee fight cannot reasonably be expected to throw much light on the accuracy of the theory itself, for that would be compromise. And there is no compromise at Dayton. The Fundamentalists are determined to throw evolution out, lock, stock and barrel. They will fail, of course.

The hearing reflects a mixture of stern, cruel faith, of comedy and of sublime egotism. So intent on the issue are the principals that they have come to believe "civilization is resting" on the outcome of their preposterous trial. But other countries look on, as at a play, and applaud the entertainment. Civilization is in the head and the heart, and not in the statute books. So the world is safe.

Meanwhile, the inevitable has happened. Bishop Frank H. Rice, head of the Denver Liberal Church, whose Bible is modern science and law, declares Mr. W. J. Bryan has done more to popularize evolution than its own supporters. That may be true. Thousands are reading Darwin and Haeckel and others today who never thought of them before. In fact, a renaissance of evolution learning might be achieved by absolutely banning it. Stranger things have happened.

Happy are we in Canada; but let us laugh with care. We have had some narrow escapes from the extreme in fatherly laws. Zealous Commoners have conceived "don'ts" almost as brilliantly stupid as the anti-evolution statute of Tennessee. But they have not become law. Give the Senate its due for that.—Border Cities Star.

TOMORROW'S CARNIVAL.

In case you fail to read the programme that will be presented to you at the Rotary Carnival tomorrow, the Examiner herewith presents a very important extract from the appeal made by the Rotary Club in the official programme:

Your part in the world is to help, not to hinder; to push, not to pull back; to build up, not to tear down.

The extent to which you play that part determines how much of real happiness will be in your life.

This is a chance for you to play that part and play it well. The Rotary Club has arranged this Carnival to raise money for its charitable activities. Every ten cents you spend here will help bring a smile to the face of some unfortunate child. If even one such little one were made better able to face the battle of life because you helped, it would be worth while, wouldn't it?

We never stop to consider when parting with our money from selfish motives the amount of good might otherwise be done with it.

Today the Rotary Club asks you to spend your money freely, not for them, but for those they are trying to help.

The more you spend the more fun you'll have, and every dollar you part with will increase the satisfaction of your heart in having helped the little ones to find life worth while.

This is your chance!

We recommend the Carnival to the support of the people of Peterboro because we are satisfied that the activities promoted by the Rotary Club and for the financing of which the proceeds of tomorrow's event will be devoted deserve community assistance, seeing that they are of undoubted community service.

Because we are certain that the citizens generally will appreciate a chance to assist in looking after crippled children and in giving under-privileged boys a better opportunity to triumph over the difficulties of life.

Because Rotary is doing a splendid work and should not be asked to carry the whole burden.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The apple prospects this year are said to be excellent, but the consumer will probably have to pay 5 cents a piece for British Columbia fruit next winter just the same.

Earl Haig has discovered a town in British Columbia named after him. A case of Haig and Haig.

The fall fashions are already being announced, which means that summer is rapidly drifting past.

If you believe in helping crippled children you will attend the Rotary Carnival.

If you want to give the under-privileged boys a chance Thursday will find you at the Exhibition Grounds.

And if you happen to be one of those individuals who are not interested either in crippled children or under-privileged boys, but are principally concerned in having a good time yourself, you cannot afford to miss the Carnival anyway.

A THOUGHT.

IT'S ALL IN THE FOLLOW THROUGH.

People are always wishing [illegible] come along like a THE[illegible] or a shower to relieve [illegible] they are like those [illegible] pray to get well and refuse to do anything to help themselves. Great men pray and hope, but they follow their hopes and prayers through with a little faith and plugging. Just like swinging a golf stick—it's all in the "follow through."

RETAIN TARIFF.

Australia Advised To Protect Farm Machinery.

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 15.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters)—In the house of representatives Tuesday H .E. Pratten, minister of trade and customs, presented the tariff board's report regarding the effect of the tariff on the prices of agricultural machinery. The board unanimously recommended the continuance of the protective duties in imported machinery.

The report says there is no need to import duitable agricultural implements as the Australian manufacturers are able to meet all reasonable demands for farm machinery.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

WANTS SPECIFIC CASES

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: In your edition of Monday, the Rev. Dr. Rose is reported as having said in his sermon on Sunday evening: "Four-fifths if the money received for the support of Anglican Clergy and Schools was at one period forced from the pockets of Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians and others who did not share their views. This injustice is still going on in England and many other countries." Such a sweeping statement ought certainly to have been supported by specific facts. Will the Rev. Dr. be kind enough to give your readers some information as to how "Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians and others" are to-day being forced to contribute to the support of Anglican clergy "in England and many other countries." Regarding Anglican schools, "Anglicans ..... require Baptists and others to support their schools," and for such Anglicans stand condemned. Is it too much to ask Dr. Rose to qualify such a statement by specific facts and figures? Yours,

J. L. HUGHES.

INDIAN CHIEF.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to explain the position of a band chief while remaining in office during the three year term. Such a Chief should possess honesty, temperance and morality, under the regulation as set forth in the Indian Act. If he does not behave himself while holding the office of Chief during his term, the honorable position he holds may be forfeited at any time without finishing the said 'term' of three years.

According to regulation of the Indian Act, that any elected Chief who is found in the state of dishonesty, intemperance and immorality, while being the Chief of such Band, may at any time be deposed by the Governor-in-Council at Ottawa, and cannot be eligible to hold such office exceeding six years.

The term of this section of the Indian Act regulation applies to our band.

I highly praise Ryerson Whetung of being a candidate for Chief at the recent election, which he did pretty good for the first time. He is a man of good standing personal qualities and he is certainly qualified for the position any time. If he was elected on the 12th of June, no doubt we would have good government of the band for the coming three years. I must say he has no debt with any business men in the City of Peterborough, where he is well known, with a good reputation, although he has been having hard opposition in the Reserve since he started the store business. But his motto is "Honesty is the best policy," and I must say again it will not only be his own supporters that will have the best advantage of the welfare of the band, but all members alike. That will be the policy of Ryerson Whetung when he is elected Chief next time, to govern right the population of two hundred and seventy-five members of the Mud Lake band of Indians.

From one of the members of the Mud Lake Band of Indians, Supporter of Ryerson Whetung at the Recent Election.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 14 (Canadian Press). With some lessening of high temperatures northwest and with reports conflicting as to the amount of crop damage so far, the wheat market today averaged lower, despite announcement that black stem rust had spread into Southern Manitoba and into Saskatchewan as well. Wheat closed nervous at 1-2c net decline to 1-4c advance, Sept. 153 5-8 to 153 7-8, and Dec. 154 1-4 to 15 1-2. Corn finished at 1-2 to 2 1-4c lower, oats 5-8 to 1 1-8c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 15c.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 1.—Trade very quiet today. Cattle wanted are the light, handyweight choice quality butcher. A few in this class are offering, but the supply is short, and prices are steady. The bulk of the offerings consist of coarse, unfinished grassers, and are little in demand except at substantially lower prices, and at that, moving out very slowly. There was a heavy holdover from yesterday, making a total offering of about 3,000 cattle.

Export trade was quiet. Rogers & Maybee's total purchase yesterday was 750 exporters. A few stores and fat steers were picking up today for export at $7.50 to $8.

Choice handy butcher steers and heifers from $6.75 to $7.50. Medium and common rough grassers easier and slow at from $6.50 to $5.25.

Fat cows steady, but trade slow.

Calves half a dollar easier at $10 tops.

Lambs firmer with light run, at $15 to $15.50 tops.

Hogs easier, packers bidding another 25c lower at $12.50 f.o.b., and $13.50 off cars.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 14 (Canadian Press).—A firm feeling prevailed in the local egg market today, and prices showed no important change. The volume of business in a wholesale jobbing way was moderate. Sales of specials were made at 42c, fresh extras at 40c, firsts at 36c, and seconds at 33c per dozen. Receipts were 2,110 cases, as against 1,778 for the same day last week, and 2,084 for the corresponding day a year ago.

The market for cold storage dressed poultry was without any special feature, prices being maintained for all lines under a steady demand for small lots and a fair trade was done with sales of 10 to 12 lb. turkeys at 40c to 42c per lb, 5 to 9 lb. birds at 32c to 39c per lb., milk-fed chickens at 35c to 40c per lb. Selected chickens at 34c to 36c per lb., selected fowl at 18c to 28c per lb., selected ducks at 24c to 26c per lb., and selected geese at 18c to 22c per lb.

There was no change in the market for honey, business being still very quiet and prices unchanged with No. 1 white clover honey in comb quoted at 22c to 23c per section. No. 2 grade at 17c to 18c per section, white extract honey in 60 lb. tins at 11c per lb, 10 lb. tins 11 1-2c per lb., and 5 lb. tins at 12c per lb.

Butter Market.

Receipts of butter were 3,378 packages, as against 5,161 for the same day last week, and 1,822 for the corresponding day a year ago. The feature of the trade was the renewed demand from foreign buyers, and as cables were stronger at advanced prices some business was done. There was also a better demand from spot buyers for export account and purchases of some round lots of Western No. 1 pasteurized creamery were made at 37c per lb., while sales of Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery were reported at 36 1-2c to 36 3-4c per lb., No. 1 creamery at 35 1-2c to 35 3-4c per lb., and No. 2 creamery at 34 1-2 to 34 3-4c per lb. On the whole the market was active and the undertone firmer.

Receipts of cheese were 12,809 boxes, as compared with 16,915 for the same day last week, and 13,720 for the corresponding day a year ago. Owing to further improvement in the demand from English importers a stronger feeling prevailed in the spot market and prices advanced 1-8c to 1-4c per lb. The volume of business transacted was fair and sales of Western No. 1 white and colored were made at 22 1-8c to 22 3-8c per lb., and Eastern No. 1 white and colored at 21 7-8c to 22c per lb.

On the local curb market there were 2,000 packages creamery butter, and 2,500 boxes cheese offered for which there was a good demand and all sold. BRITISH BARE SOVIET PLOTS

Convince Japanese And Americans of Moscow's Schemes In China.

LONDON, July 15. — The British have finally induced Japan and the United States to accept their viewpoint with regard to China, and are now agreed that China must afford ample protection for foreigners before there can be any discussions of the abolition of the extra territoriality.

The British have convinced the United States that Bolshevist propaganda is playing a large part in the situation in the Far East, and that this is not the time to succumb to his propaganda, which would facilitate the schemes which Moscow has set her heart on. Evidence has been provided to ensure the effect but what the reaction will be in Moscow it is difficult to see at present.

Rakovsky had a 40-minute interview with Austin Chamberlain Monday and declared after the meeting that he was pleased with the reception, but it is understood that Chamberlain told Rakovsky bluntly that the British had ample evidence of Russian intrigue against them in the Far East, and that constituted a violation of the trade agreement and must be stopped.

Immediately Rakovsky promised to convey Chamberlain's remarks to Moscow, where it is most likely to provide the most vigorous denial by the Soviet that they have control over the actions of individual Russians in China.

DEPORTEES FROM U. S. AT MONTREAL

Criminals, Insane, And Indigents Get Ocean Voyage.

MONTREAL, July 15.—(Canadian Press).—Four insane, ten criminals, 25 public charges and 32 who crossed the border without proper papers, composed a party of deportees brought to Montreal Tuesday by the United States immigration service. They will be sent back to the various countries from which they came to Canada for the purpose of entering the United States. They were collected at different points all along the border, from Washington State to New York State.

They are the Canadian contingent of deportees collected by a special train which started at Seattle on July 8, and collected them at Grand Forks, Minneapolis, Chicago, Cleveland, Denver, St. Louis, Detroit, Niagara Falls and Buffalo. Altogether the train picked up 250 aliens, and the remaining 179 were taken to New York for deportation. Of the party brought here, 61 were adult males. Some of them have served jail terms in the States for entering the country without proper papers.

FUTILE DAY IN TRIAL.

Fight Over Prayer Was Biggest Feature in Dayton Court.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 15 (Canadian Press)—Yesterday was another futile but fascinating day in the trial of John T. Scopes. In the morning it was fought over the opening of the court with prayer, to which the defence objected, and in which they were over-ruled.

In the afternoon they had a second chapter of the prayer controversy, defence asking this time that others besides the fundamentalist clergyman be invited to officiate in asking Divine guidance for the court, which judge also withheld, instead saying that he would leave the matter to the local pastors' association which is almost, if not completely, fundamentalist.

The judge was to have read his decision as to the validity of the indictment and the constitutionality of law, but learned that some of the afternoon newspapers were printing its purport, and so postponed the reading until today.

CAMPBELLFORD TOWN COUNCIL ISSUES $55,600 DEBENTURES AND PREPARES FOR ELECTION

Debenture Debt is Now $218,231.15—Latest Issue for Sewers.

MEETING MONDAY

CAMPBELLFORD, July 15.—The Town Council at a special meeting on Monday night passed by-laws to provide for a sewer debenture issue totaling $55,600, these to run for 30 years and to bear interest of 5½ per cent. In the by-laws the present debenture debt of the town is given as $218,231.15.

There will be two debenture issues, one for $8,000, to pay for the sewer on Front and Major streets and Oliver road and these debentures will be sold locally. Included in the issue is a special levy of $300 to pay for the cost of putting these streets in proper shape with the new road machinery.

The remainder of the issue $47,600 is to pay for the sewers that have been laid during 1924 and the current year on the west side and to improve these thoroughfares the issue includes $1,500.

Call For Tenders.

Clerk McGregor was instructed to advertise for tenders for the construction of the proposed sewer on Market street and Oliver road, these to be opened at noon on August 4th. According to the estimates this sewer will cost the property owners benefited $1.40 a foot as there is no rock to be excavated and the water main is already laid.

Deputy-Reeve Palliser and Councillor Kingston moved that vetrified pipe be used but an amendment by Councillors Moore and Cole, that the cement pipe now on hand be put in, was carried.

Some time ago tenders for this sewer had been put in by J. Hall who offered to do the work for $4,638, he to supply the pipe. Henry Redden also tendered, his figures being below those of Mr. Hall but said nothing about furnishing the pipe and the Council assumed that he intended the town to bear this expense. Mr. Redden, who did not include a marked cheque with his bid, has since stated that his failure to mention the piping was entirely an oversight and that he was ready to include this outlay in his tender as sent in. Neither of the bids was accepted at that time and Mr. Hall's cheque for $500 was returned to him. He now says that he is willing to stand by his original offer which is considerably below that of the engineer's estimates.

By-Election In Sight.

Another by-law passed provides for the holding of a by-election to elect a successor to R. S. Southworth, who resigned as a member of the Council just before leaving for Vancouver. The nomination will be held in the Council Chamber next Monday and the election—if a poll is required—one week later.

In ordinary municipal elections two polling places have been provided in Wards 1 and 3, but one in each sub-division is considered sufficient for a by-election. This will save the compensation of two deputy-returning officers and as many poll clerks. Those retained are the same as officiated at the last election and are as follows:

Ward 1—A. C. Wilson, deputy-returning officer; Victor Brunelle, poll clerk.

PACIFIC COAST FISHERIES MADE GAIN LAST YEAR

Salmon Catch Alone Increased In Value More Than A Million.

REPORT FOR 1924.

Nearly 6,000 Persons Engaged in British Columbia Fish Industry.

OTTAWA, July 15.—(By Canadian Press).—British Columbia's fisheries production shows a total marketed value of $21,256,965 for 1924, an increase over the preceding year of $461,042, according to a report just issued here by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in co-operation with the Department of Marine and Fisheries.

The two chief fisheries are the salmon and the halibut.

The salmon fishery shows an increase in catch in 1924 over the previous years of 450,394 hundredweight, and in increase in marketed value of $1,089,034. The pack of salmon increased from 1,341,677 in 1,747,397 in 1924, last year's pack being the largest in the history of the industry. The halibut fishery shows decreases of 3,149 hundredweight in catch, and of $344,451 in marketed value.

The value of the product of the salmon and halibut fisheries together comprised eighty-seven per cent of the total value of the fisheries production in British Columbia for the year. The other principal fish, those having a product valued at $100,000 or over, were herring, cod, clams, quahaugs and black cod.

Capital Increase.

Capital represented in the vessels, boats, nets, traps, piers and wharves, etc., engaged during the past year in the primary operations of catching and landing the fish was $5,595,494, compared with $5,760,272 in 1923; while the number of men employed in these operations was 9,274 in 1924 and 8,734 in 1923.

One hundred and twenty-eight fish canning and curing establishments were in operation last year, comprising 59 salmon canneries, 4 clam canneries, 57 fish curing establishments and 8 whale oil and fish oil factories. Decreases of one each in the number of salmon and of clam canneries, and an increase of one in the number of clam canneries, and an increase of one in the number of fish curing establishments, are shown for 1924; while the total value of the capital investment in fish canning and curing establishments was $14,234,0009, compared with $17,817,716 in the preceding year.

The report points out that this decrease is due chiefly to the items comprising materials, products and supplies on hand, which shows a decrease of nearly three million dollars.

Approximately 5,899 persons were employed in fish canning and curing establishments last year.

GOOD CONCERT AT LAKEFIELD

Inadequate Advertising Responsible for Poor Attendance.

PETERBORO TALENT

LAKEFIELD, July 15. — The concert given under the auspices of Beresford L.O.L. No. 122 on Monday night was one of the best given in Lakefield for several years and unfortunately was poorly attended, owing probably to inadequate advertising, several counter-attraction and the fatigue which naturally follows a strenuous day. What the audience lacked in numbers was, at least partially, made up in appreciation as each number was much enjoyed. Miss Hodgson's dancing was much appreciated especially her rendition of the Sailors' Hornpipe which was encored vigorously. Mrs. Bingham's appearance was enthusiastically greeted, and all her numbers, grave and gay, made a genuine hit.

The last number, 'Song Pictures,' was original and pretty with its old-world setting and the combination of recitation and song. "The Floral Dance" given as an encore was one of the prettiest numbers in the entire programme.

The programme with its pleasing variety, Miss Cuffe's voice in solo and duet numbers, Mrs. Bingham's charming versatility, Miss Hodgson's dancing, the poetry of motion, Miss Turner's piano selections and Mr. Laing's black face comedy, afforded a most enjoyable evening.

Part 1

Vocal duet, "Rule Britannia"—Mrs. McKee Bingham and Miss Cuffe.

Piano solo—Miss Marjorie Turner.

Reading, "The Passing of the King"—Mrs. McKee Bingham.

Vocal solo—Miss Cuffe.

Comic sketch — Mr. Norman Laing.

Solo dance, "The Sailor's Hornpipe"—Miss Hodgson.

Reading, "The Sewing Machine"—Mrs. Bingham.

Part 2.

Piano solo—Miss Turner.

Reading, "Entertaining Sister's Beau"—Mrs. Bingham.

Vocal solo, in costume—Miss Cuffe.

Solo dance, Spanish Dance—Miss Hodgson.

Song pictures, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine"—Mrs. Bingham and Miss Cuffe.

Rev. Walter Cox, who filled the post of chairman, expressed to the artists the thanks of the audience for their delightful evening's entertainment.

DOWNEYVILLE OLD HOME WEEK OPENED BY READING HISTORY

John C. O'Leary, 86, Gives Story of Districts Development.

BY ROBINSON.

Settlers of Section Came From Ireland in First Immigration.

DOWNEYVILLE, July 15. — Old Home Week opened last night at Downeyville with a reception to returning old boys and girls, and speeches of welcome.

The principal feature of last night's proceedings was the reading in the Parish Hall of the history of the early days of the parish of Downeyville, compiled by John C. O'Leary, 86 years of age, the oldest man in the district. Mr. O'Leary himself read his story of which the following is the text:

In the year 1825 the first Irish Catholic settlers came in the month of May to Downeyville and district. They came through the woods by a blaze marked on the trees on the surveyed roadway.

This emigration scheme was controlled by one Peter Robinson, hence it was called the Robinson emigration. Now the conditions laid down by the emigration agent of that day was what the Irish emigrant had to subscribe to, and was as follows:

He had to have, first, a recommendation from the landlord of the estate on which he had lived in Ireland. Secondly, from the doctor, where he lived, as only healthy people were wanted. Thirdly, a recommendation from the parish priest, so that the Irish Catholic settlers were of the very best class.

The following were the conditions of settlement. Every male emigrant 21 years of age got 100 acres of land free, and one year's provisions also free. He had to clear from 3 to 5 acres of land per year for 5 years.

The emigrants that came to Emily were mostly from County Cork.

Among that party were farmers, laborers and men of different trades. There was a blacksmith, a tailor, a shoemaker, a carpenter and a schoolmaster. All the party did not come to Emily on that date. Some of the young girls got employment along the front townships. Also all the young men who could be spared went to work. Some went to the States and saved money to help at home. Some of the Irish girls got married to young men of the front townships. Such names as Redmond, Gaynor, Calverts, Hawkeys, Boumes and others. Most of these kept the faith pretty well under the circumstances.

The first mass celebrated in the parish was at the home of Dennis Houlahan, by Father Crowley, then a resident of Peterborough. He was

HARVESTERS READY

Early Preparations Being Made for Garnering Western Wheat Crop.

MONTREAL, July 15 (Canadian Press).—Early preparations are being made this year to cope with the situation in the West as far as harvesting of the wheat crop is concerned. From early spring it has been realized that the 1925 crop would be considerably in excess of that harvested last year, and now, while no definite estimates can yet be made, it is expected that the crop will approximate 375,000,000 bushels. If anything approaching this figure is reached, it is apparent that it will be necessary to import a large number of harvest workers into the West to help handle it.

Already several preliminary meetings have been held between railway officials and government representatives, with the result that it is now estimated that between 45,000 and 50,000 harvesters will be needed in the Prairie Provinces in addition to those available locally.

If any reader of Nature Lore has a desire to have some particular bird dealt with in an interesting but correct way, please do not delay in asking the newspaper to send on the request. The summer season is well on now, and the Fall migration will be on soon, when all our time will be taken up in more varied nature happenings.

This is the time of birds, so let us watch them while we may.

The reason of this suggestion is a matter of a note I just received through the mails, from a school teacher on her holidays, up in Muskoka. She describes a bird that comes around the cottage, wants to know what it is, and also if I will have it appear in Nature Lore.

As she says: "This little bird is kind of grey, sits on a branch, like a phoebe, acts like a phoebe and looks like a phoebe, but I positively know it cannot be a phoebe, for it is different in several ways and I know the phoebe call, but this bird calls a different way and sometimes cuts it off short, as though it had been satisfied and let the song die down unfinished."

It is hard to say positively that the bird in question is a wood pewee, but I am quite sure it must be, for the wood pewee is a first cousin to the phoebe, looks like one and is hard to tell from a phoebe.

The phoebe always waves its tail in a balancing sort of manner, immediately upon alighting on a perch, and continues the habit off and on. The Wood Pewee does not do this.

The Wood Pewee calls "pee-a-weeeee," slowly, several times, and some times ends the call half way, by calling "pee-aaa" and letting the ending die down. It is a flycatcher and has the same habits as the phoebe.

The Wood Pewee nest is altogether different, and if our school teacher will watch these birds, she will doubtless see them taking moths and flies away high among the branches of some tall tree. Get a pair of opera glasses and watch. You will see them go to what looks like a knot on the limb, but that is the nest. If you find it, you are enjoying what few folks see.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

TEACH ALL YOUTH HOW TO LIVE PROPERLY.

Recently I saw some very interesting figures relating to child health. These were founded on the physical examination of more than half a million school children.

Such statistics always make me sad, because they show that healthy persons are in the minority. The vast majority of all children should be enrolled in the army of the strong, vigorous and normal. But it isn't so.

This particular survey shows that only 40 per cent of the children examined can be considered as normal in health. You may be surprised to find the city children in materially better condition than the children from the farms.

This was the experience of the medical examiners of the medical draft boards during the war. The city men made a much better showing than the country lads did.

It is gratifying that lung trouble among the school children was not found in large numbers. There were only three thousand cases among the half million examined. Of course, this is a large number, but as percentages go it was small, showing improvement in the prevalence of lung trouble.

The reason why city folks are better off physically in spite of the overcrowding and poverty is because of the greater popularity of public health instruction in the cenetrs of population. A city like New York spends more than almost any nation of the earth in educating its citizens to the importance of the natural methods, simple living, the value of sunlight and fresh air and proper eating.

There can be no universal high standard of health among city and country children until every child is taught how to live. There is no more important lesson than the lesson in hygiene.

Living is not an untaught and unheralded thing. Apple trees left to themselves run to suckers, shaggy bark, decay at the heart and all sorts of bacterial and other infections. Any lovely flower bed would be choked with weeds and come to an unlovely end if it were not for the practical application of protective measures.

Why should we expect the lowly flowers of the human garden to thrive without care and lots of it?

Parents, teachers, school boards, common councils, supervisors, mayors, citizens—none of them can escape his personal responsibility in the matter of child health. Without child health there cannot be adult health. What we do for the little folks, we do for the race. We can make this the greatest people in the world if we do our duty in giving a healthy body to every child in the country.

End Catarrh Germs In Three Minutes

Chronic catarrh, no matter how bad, and cases of bronchial asthma now yield instantly to the amazing discovery of a French scientist. This druggless method called Lavex eliminates the germs in three minutes, yet is positively harmless to the most delicate tissues. Your head and lungs are cleared like magic. Sufferers are relieved in a single night.

To prove it and to introduce Lavex to ten thousand sufferers in one month, I offer to send a treatment free and postpaid, to any one who will write for it. No obligation. No cost. If it banishes your Catarrh you can repay the favor by telling your friends—if not, the loss is mine. No matter what you have tried, just send me your name and address for this generous free treatment and prove that you can be rid of catarrh.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, JULY 16.

According to the rather weak sidereal aspects this day may be a routine one. There may be some minor annoyances or financial anxieties and it is urged that all speculative enterprises be avoided. There may be complications as to the financial end of contracts or agreements. Those in the employment of others may counter petty annoyances and should be careful not to give offence to those in authority over them.

Those whose birthday it is are under a sway that may bring petty cares and annoyances during the year. It is urged that speculation be avoided and there may be no entanglements as to contracts or documents. Those in employment are warned not to give annoyance to superiors. A child born on this day may have fairly satisfactory talents but will probably find it difficult to succeed financially.

PRAYER: We glory as believers O God, in the privilege of daring with Thy help to seek the impossible, and be perfect as Thou are perfect.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DICKY CHANGES HIS MIND ABOUT DOGS.

"Get out of here, you hound!" Dicky cried, tossing a stone at the stray black dog that was hanging around his gate. "Get out, you good-for-nothing dog!"

"There, there, there," said a merry voice, and Dicky looked up to find Gocomeback, the wee Travel Elfin, standing beside the dog, his hand on its head. "Don't ever stone a poor old doggie, Dicky."

"Pshaw, he isn't good for anything," replied Dicky. "We have one little dog and he's not good for anything either."

"He may not have a chance to show what he's good for," said the elfin kindly. "Why, I know a little boy that would give most anything for this dog. He would soon show you what he was good for," and before Dicky knew what was happening, he and the stray dog were flying through the air beside Cocomeback. It didn't take them any time before they settled in a strange land. Gocomeback took Dicky's hand, telling the dog to stay close beside them.

"This is Holland," he told Dicky. Just then a dear little boy in a loose blouse and great loose, baggy pants that came almost to his wooden shoes, came running out to shake Gocomeback's hand. "Hans, this is Dicky, from America, and this is Dicky's friend, Dog."

"My, what a fine dog," cried Hans, patting the black dog's head. "He would be a good one to help me. Come and see my dogs," and he led Dicky and Gocomeback over to a pretty little white house with a red roof, and, clapping his hands, called out his dogs. Two great big fellows bounced out and wagged their tails. "You never saw such workers in all your life," and Hans hugged his woolly friends. "You know, in Holland dogs have to work for their food just the same as little boys do. Now, every morning I hitch these dogs to my milk cart and carry the milk around to Mother's customers for her. They can pull a cart as well as a horse and seem to know just what you say to them. Then, after the milk is delivered, I carry around vegetables and sell them. Then we come home and I give them a good feed and a nice rest, then we go down on one of the canals."

"You wouldn't have believed it, Dicky," laughed Gocomeback, "but when the wind stops blowing, the boats can't sail, then the men and dogs pull them down the canals to where they want to go."

"You don't want to sell that dog, do you?" asked Hans, running his hand over Black Dog's head. "He would make a dandy dog for pulling he's such a big fellow. Want to sel him?"

"Don't believe I do," laughed Dicky, winking at Gocomeback. "I think I can make use of him myself," and before you could say scat Dicky found himself standing beside his own gate, the dog at his side. "Come on in, old fellow, and I'll find you something to eat."

Dicky gave the dog a nice big dish of milk and bread and a lovely bone. Then he made a harness from some rope, and that night when Dicky delivered his papers Black Dog pulled his little red cart filled with papers around for him. Dicky was the envy of the neighborhood, and he soon found out that Black Dog was one of the best friends he had.

Three-Minute Journeys

WHERE WOMEN USE GREASE INSTEAD OF POWDER.

There are, in the backwoods of the Philippines some 20,000 pigmies, the survivors of a race that once inhabited all of the Philippines. For centuries they have been driven out and persecuted by invading Malayans, until now they have only the most inaccessible portions of the land to themselves.

They are a wandering race. They know no permanent home. If they should happen to plant a crop, they will most likely feel the urge to move on before it is ripe. They live plentifully on the fruits and tubers that grow in the jungle and, when they are ambitious they can catch fish or shoot a deer.

For dishes they use a banana leaf and for pans they use banana tubes. So you can see that the business of moving would not be difficult for them. They have no need of beds for they sleep on the ground and, when the weather is cool, they sleep in the warm ashes left from their fire. They have merely to take with them their bows and arrows, blow-guns and bamboo reeds which serve as musical instruments.

So when it becomes a bit difficult to catch a goodly supply of fish or to shoot sufficient game, there is no hesitation about the business of moving on. They simply pick themselves up and move to the next promising spot.

In this land of plenty, such spots are not hard to find, for the jungles are teeming with life and plants sufficient to keep life in humans.

These pigmy tribes might well be called the Gypsies of the Islands, for they are constantly on the move. Home ties mean nothing to them. When food gets short—and that to the pygmies is the most important item of existence—they simply move on to a place where they think they will be able to live better for a time. Constantly on the move, frightened, shy of strangers, these children of a once mighty race are fast becoming extinct.

Yet, in spite of the seeming informality of their lives, they have certain rules of fashionable procedure and dressing which are as rigidly observed as those of the most conventional of our own ladies. The woman Negritos must shave their eyebrows and the hair from the front part of their heads. What is more, they must have their teeth pointed whether nature so decreed or not. The teeth are either filed or broken to points.

For clothes they wear strips of ratten around their wasits and arms. The rattan is colored brightly. And fresh flowers always contribute a decorative element to the whole.

The really attractive woman among these pigmies, however, is the woman whose skin shines and gleams like a well polished mirror. Not for her the dulled, velvety skin which civilized women strive to possess. To use powder in an effort to dull the brilliance of her skin would be unthinkable. Instead, she employs every bit of grease that she can procure in giving her skin a more telling shine. And the shinier they are the more certain they can be of the admiration of their suitors.

YOUR GARDEN

WATERING WINDOW GARDEN PLANTS.

One of the most important factors in the care of this class of plants is providing the moisture. An incorrect supply of water is responsible for by far the greater number of diseases and sicknesses of plants. An occasional 'dry spell is far less dangerous than keeping it continuously moist.

It is, of course, essential that plants be watered when they are dry, and they must then be adequately supplied. When the soil is light gray in color and loosens itself from the walls of the flowerpot, water is required. When really dry enough to require watering, the pot will ring hollowly when tapped with the knuckle or sharply when lightly struck with a knife, key or some light steel article. On the other hand, moist soil is dark gray in color, and when the pot is tapped the sound will be dull and heavy.

Surrounding conditions, such as the temperature of the air, its moisture content, heat, etc., will largely govern the question of how often a plant must be watered. The origin of the plant and its natural habitat are also factors.

In summer, the plant is in full foliage and receiving plenty of fresh air, so should be given water morning and night. At other seasons, however, when the plant has less foliage, once or even every other day, will prove sufficient. Avoid watering under any condition, when the plant is in the bright sun at noon.

NONE OF CZAR'S FAMILY ESCAPED BOLSHEVIKI PRINCESS DECLARES

Denies Rumour That Grand Duchess Anastasie Is Alive In Berlin.

"ALL NONSENSE."

MONTREAL, July 15—(Canadian Press).—Reports that the Grand Duchess Anastasie, daughter of the former Czar of Russia, is alive in Berlin are "all nonsense," it was asserted here yesterday by Princess Zizianoff, widow of a Russian general who was related to the Romanoffs. She is here from New York on a visit.

Giving a graphic description of the execution of Nicholas the Second and all his family, Princess Zizianoff claimed positive knowledge of the circumstances. An order from Bolshevik headquarters when the revolution broke out to "put the family away in case of danger from the Czecho-Slovak Army" was interpreted by the guards who were in charge of the Royal Family at Ekaterinburg, to mean that the Romanoffs were to be killed, and the execution followed. The Bolsheviks had meant to keep the Romanoffs as hostages and as a means of extorting considerations from the European powers, she said.

Princess Zizianoff is en route to Western Canada for a visit there. She has founded an employment bureau for Russian refugees in New York.

Princess's Story.

The late Czar was bayonetted in the detension house at Ekaterinburg soon after the cryptic order had come to his guards from Moscow. The Empress, who had been kept in separate quarters, was not aware that the Czar was dead, when she was invited by the guards to bring her children to the automobile shed in the basement of the building, ostensibly to embark for her country home, Princess Zizianoff said. There the Czarevitch, Alexis, too weak to walk, was laid upon chairs by his mother and sister. There was some delay, and about midnight, while the Empress and her children were dozing and waiting, the chief guard came in an abruptly shot Alexis. The Empress threw herself upon him to protect him, but he was already dead. A second shot then despatched the Empress. Two more shots were aimed at the screaming Princesses. Tatiana fought with the guard, and when she backed into a corner, she hugged a cushion to her. It hindered the bullet sufficiently to save her from instant death, and she fell unconscious. When she recovered a little she begged to be let free, and some of the soldiers were for releasing her, but the chief guard ruled that all of the Romanoff brood must go, and a final shot put an end to her sufferings

Bodies Burned.

The bodies were thrown into a well, the Princess Zizianoff asserts. Oil was poured over them and they were set afire. They burned badly, and finally earth was thrown over the corpses. Two years later the guards who executed them were arrested on the borders of Finland, where the United States representative, Judge C. L. Hagey, of Kansas, learned from them details of the shootings. Later the American relief in Siberia, under Herbert Hoover, caused the ground to be dug up at the spot described by the guards. Remains of bodies, jewelry and clothing confirmed the story.

Princess Zizianoff claims that she was imprisoned for some time by the Bolsheviki, who finally released her because there was not sufficient grounds for the death sentence that had been imposed on her being carried out. The Grand Duchess Elizabeth, however, who was imprisoned with her, and the two sons of Grand Duke Constantine, were taken to the edge of an abyss and shot. Then they were rolled down a steep bank and left in a declivity for two days until they died of thirst and wounds.

CHURCH PARADE

District Orange Lodges Attend at Millbrook on Sunday.

The annual parade of the District Orange Lodges to attend Divine worship took place on Sunday evening to Grace Presbyterian Church, Rev. J. W. S. Lowery, Grand Chaplain of Ontario East, preaching to the Order.

Over one hundred of the various lodges gathered at the L.O.L. rooms and, headed by the Millbrook band under the leadership of G. A. Duncan, marched to the place of worship, where the entire centre seating was reserved for their accommodation. The ushers were Howard Lancashire and J. Thompson.

The congregation filled the church to capacity. Special music was furnished by the choir, including two anthems, "Bless the Lord," with duet by Misses Anna Hawthorne and E. Hunter, and "God of Our Fathers," Messrs. C. Thorndyke and E. Hill taking the obligato, and a solo, "Abide with Me," by Miss Kathleen Lancashire. Miss Ethel Richardson was leader of the choir, and Miss G. Clarry presided at the organ.

Rev. Mr. Lowry chose his text from Exodus xii., 22: "What mean ye by this service?" stating that the question was a fitting one to ask in relation to any religious service of more than ordinary significance. "There are twelve twelfths in each year, but there is only one twelfth, singled from among them all, and this service is in commemoration and gratitude to the Most High God for delivering our Protestant forefathers from the galling yoke of Roman despotism and medieval darkness."

"Time makes people forgetful, and a generation has arisen which fails to understand the tremendous debt we owe to the Reformation forefathers, and to later religious leaders," he said, urging in closing a spirit of charity to other Christian bodies.

AQUATIC MONSTER FROM LITTLE LAKE

Some men buy varied and complex equipment, travel far into the wilds, rent expensive boats and hire Indians, paddle miles and miles through mosquito bitten wilderness, and finally, arriving at the trysting place, attempt ardently, vigorously, profanely and often futively, to ensnare the wily denizens or lake or stream.

Albert Odette has a different method. He goes and gets him a 15 cent line and strings it on his trusty rod, shoulders said rod, and trudges to Jackson's Point, a locality not far from George street, city.

Last night he dropped the line into Little Lake in a desultory fashion, and after a fifteen minutes wait information was telegraphed that something of considerable moment was on the hook.

Odette played the monster for 15 minutes and at the end of that time extricated three feet four inches of solid and excessively liv· fish, aggregating twenty pounds, which was not bad, considering ever thing, and goes to prove that sport is where you find it.

Crowding 3,000 miles into 24 inches for the study of transoceanic cable transmission has been accomplished through a remarkable chemical ocean" of a few quarts, recently perfected in the electrical research laboratories of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. ROTARY CARNIVAL STAGE ALL READY

Big Programme of Sports. Every Dollar Goes to Help Children.

The stage is all set for Rotary's Huge Carnival — the Community event of the year. The Committees who have had charge of the different features have completed their work to the last detail.

The booths are up, the dancing platform erected, the manufacturers building turned into a dining hall, the race track is in splendid shape, the teams in the district soft ball competition are all ready and on edge to win. The advance sale of tickets has been exceedingly satisfactory, the boys and girls are working hard for the splendid prizes offered.

The Rotarians have put forward their best efforts to make the 1925 Carnival an even greater success than last year. The fact that every dollar raised goes to help some crippled or under privileged child, should have a very real appeal to the citizens of Peterboro. The administration of these funds is in the hands of the Directors of the Rotary Club, which is sufficient assurance that they are placed where they will do the most good. If there was ever any doubt on this score the result of Rotary's work with crippled children from the funds received from last years Carnival will provide a satisfactory answer. A number of cures have already been effected and numerous others are on the way to recovery.

Many worthy causes have been put before the people of Peterboro at different times with splendid results. None of them have been more worthy than this. Rotary confidently expects the wholehearted support of the citizens.

Some of the Sports.

A special soft ball game has been arranged between the Canadian Woollens and the Otonabee Woollens Girls Soft Ball Teams and they will play to-morrow evening at 7 o'clock. The club is giving a pound box of chocolates to each player on the winning team, so this should make the game interesting Mr. Tom Turcottee, manager of the Canadian Woollens has been instrumental in arranging this game and both teams will be up to strength.

There will be soft ball games between the Rotary Clubs af the District in front of the grandstand and Alex Kay will be in charge of these games.

The Kiwanis and Rotary Midgets play their schedule game at 4.30 p.m. and there will be something doing every minute.

The Horse Show will have an Open Saddle Class, Gentlemen's Open Saddle Class and Ladies' Open Saddle Class. Miss Peggy Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Alexander of Oak Orchard, will ride as well as the Misses Parson, Miss Kelley and a couple of other entries. There will also be two harness classes.

The two Trotting Races will cause lots of excitement for the horse fans and all the local owners are putting in their best horses to make the races a success.

The boys and girls will have a chance at the races as there are eleven events to be run off and the prizes are on display in Rotarian Jack Primeau's window.

MISLEADING SIGNS AT BATHING BEACH

Wording Conveys Wrong Idea in Two Cases at Inverlea.

Two notices have been recently posted at the bathing beaches in Inverlea Park, both of which are apt to convey a wrong impression. The first one reads:

"Dressing rooms to rent, 5 cents each. The city is not responsible for lost or stolen goods." As a matter of fact the City Council has no authority to impose a charge for the use of the dressing rooms, and probably does not mean what the notice says. The 5 cents is only for the use of the lockers, and those who do not hire lockers can still use the dressing room free of charge.

The second notice states: "This bathing beach is open from 9 a.m. to 12 o'clock noon, and from 1 o'clock until dark of each day of the week except Sunday, and on Sunday the dressing rooms are closed and supervision withdrawn."

Readers of this notice must not assume it absolutely forbids bathing as it is merely a notice putting into effect the Council's dicision to close the dressings rooms and disperse with the superviser on Sundays. The beach is open every day.

PREDICTS USE FOR SMOKE

Fine Dust From Chimneys Will Soon Be Utilized.

Fine dust from chimneys will, in the near future, find commercial use in the industries either as filler for paint, fertilizer, or other products or as a base for some building material according to Prof. A. G. Christie of Johns Hopkins University. Much work now is being done to develop methods of catching the fine particles which fly up the chimney with the flue gases.

HE'S THERE.

Ambassador Schurman, U.S.A.'s Canadian-born representative in Germany, has now arrived and made his bow, to whjch President Hindenburg replied with half a column of pleasant nothings.

"HIS" FIRST LETTER

By Mary Lawson

The thrill of a lifetime—the first letter from the one to whom she has given her heart! How she watched and waited for the postman and finally when the letter was in her hands, the kisses and conjectures as to its contents! For there never was a girl in the world who, when she received that first letter, didn't smother it with kisses and hold it against her beating heart and read and reread the address and trace each letter out with her finger, because HIS hand had penned the lines. Was there ever such another happy moment? Only Dan Cupid who has watched the same thing happen over and over again can answer that question. But to every girl this rapturous moment comes and each thinks that no one ever, ever could have had just the same thrill. Perhaps not, but Love is ever thus—to each different, yet ever the same.

PETERBOROUGH FANCIES

By Jeannette.

BE LOUD OR BE QUIET—AND YOU'RE IN STYLE.

This is a very plainly dressed season, and also a very loudly dressed one. Which sounds paradoxical. But it's true.

The lady who wants to be well dressed can go in for pure whites from head to toe, without one relieving touch of color, or she can deck herself in materials that shriek with color and loud designs. In either case, she will be a la mode.

The fuji cloth dresses are lovely in the pure white. Fuji cloth looks like a fine linen, with a silk finish, and comes also in printed designs. It is made up usually in plain effects, with possibly a touch of the bright red that is popular this season, or a silk tie with large dots.

As an illustration of the range of colors in the printed goods is a frock shown in one of the store windows. It has a deep hem of pure black, topped by a plain portion of dark purple, then figured sections that end at the neck and shade all the way from mauve to green and grey and blue. A little round collar of dark tan silk, edged with lace, finishes the gown.

A dress that caused several feminine heads in its neighborhood to turn for a second glance was seen on George street recently. It was a straight-line frock of silk broadcloth, in apricot shade, with a hem and sleeve finish of light bands, embroidered in poudre blue conventionalized flowers.

The ginghams that were so very popular for several seasons past seem to have dropped definitely into the background this year. One seldom sees a gingham dress. Nor are the broadcloths worn to a very great extent either. Voiles and crepes have the preference, with linens for sports wear. The range of colors in the linens is peculiar. They have the appearance of light goods just newly dyed and come in odd half shades of green and pink. Swiss dotted muslins seem to be good also, many of them with crisp organdy collars, edged with lace and little patch pockets at either side, topped with little bows of black ribbon.

IN THE KITCHEN

By Jeanette Norton

A Popular Porch Supper.

The charm of eating outdoors makes the porch supper a delightful meal. While the cold supper is general in its appeal, still there are many who insist on at least one warm dish. The warm dish, if served at the last minute, will keep warm for the first serving, and if placed on a hot-water plate will keep warm indefinitely.

Many of the cold dishes for the supper may be prepared in the morning, and may be quickly and easily served when the time comes.

Tomato Bouillon, Jellied.

To a large can of tomatoes add a sliced onion, a few stalks of celery, a few sprays of parsley, a half bayleaf, a half slice of bacon, pepper, salt, a tablespoonful of sugar and a cupful of white stock or chicken broth. Stir gently for forty minutes, then add a half package of powdered gelatine that has been softened in lukewarm water. When melted and blended, strain into wet bouillon cups and stand to harden, or place in a bowl to set. Then, before serving, break it up with a silver fork. This destroys the jelly-like look which many people object to. If desired, a few capers may be dropped into each cup before putting in the jelly just for decorative purposes.

Strawberry Whip.

Wash and top one basket of ripe strawberries. Place them in a saucepan with a cupful of water and a half cupful of sugar. Stew gently until the berries are all soft, then add a tablespoonful of cornstarch that has been dissolved in a quarter of a cupful of water. Stir until slightly thickened, then strain. Serve with whipped cream, garnishing the tops of the cups with halved or quartered fresh berries.

GOOD MANNERS

On the hall table in every house there should be a small silver, or other card tray, a pad and pencil. The nicest kind of pad is one that when folded makes its own envelope, so that a message need not be left open.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am a girl in my teens and am keeping company with a young man of a different religion. My mother doesn't approve of it and as I like him very much, shall I take my mother's advice or suit myself?

DIMPLES.

DIMPLES: This is one of the most difficult of all problems to put up to an outsider, Dimples. I think, if I were you, I would wait until I had passed my 'teens before deciding to combat the advice of a mother, who has lived in this world a great deal longer than you. Won't the young man change to your religion? Or could you change to his? Think it over. You may be darning socks for this man and listening to murmurs about his backache for many years after the moon of honey is over. What if the sordid realities of life are complicated still further by religious difficulties? If you are a Roman Catholic, for example, do you think you could love him well enough to cook meat for him every Friday in the year, and watch him holding up little Johnny to cheer the boys with the yellow sashes as they pass by on the glorious Twelfth?

Dear Annie Laurie:

Whenever I go out with a boy friend or if one accompanies me home, they generally try to kiss me but I object to these kisses excepting one of them and he told me he loved me and I really like him. Do you think it was wrong of me for letting him kiss me. Please tell me.

BUDDY.

BUDDY: No I dont' think it is wrong for you to let him kiss you, if you like each other, but it might cheapen you to a certain extent. You know, some young men make a practice of finding out just how many girls they can kiss and then sometimes talk about it. A sarcastic classification of men puts them in two categories; the sort who kisses and tells and the other sort that kisses—and rides away.

I certainly wouldn't allow every escort to kiss you, in any case.

The other side of this kissing problem—the man's side, is not often heard. It is well illustrated in the viewpoint of the young man who took a new girl to the theatre, bought her a box of candy, a supper afterwards, and then took her home in a taxi. She is reported to have asked him to kiss her, just before leaving, and he wanted to know if he hadn't done enough for her in one evening.

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am twenty-eight and in love with a girl nine years older than I am. Do you think the difference in our age will have anything to do with our happiness? I love her better than anything in the world and she is the only girl that I have loved well enough to ask her to be my wife.

HONEST.

HONEST: As a rule, a woman ages more quickly than a man, and consequently her interests and tastes differ. But in your case, if you are certain of your love for this young woman, and if you think you will be happy with her, don't let the difference in your ages stand in the way of your happiness.

Corn Colored Satin and Black Lace Are Combined in This Simple and Youthful Dance Frock.

Satin in a delightful corn tint is the material used for this youthful dance frock of simple design.

The dress is made straight, except for a slightly circular inset at one side. The only trimming is of fine black lace, which dips down from one shoulder to cross the back and extend up to the shoulder again. In this way it forms one sleeve of the frock.

HOME TOWN RECIPE.

3 eggs (beaten separately)
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons sweet milk
2 teaspoons baking powedr
Lemon flavoring.

Beat the yolks with the sugar and sweet milk. Beat the whites to a stiff froth, then thoroughly with the yolks and sugar. Mix the flour and baking powder and add to other ingredients. Flavor with lemon and bake immediately in moderate oven.

While hot remove from pan and lay on cloth rung out in cold water. Sprinkle a little sugar on cloth and while cake is warm spread with jelly and roll quickly, putting your hands under the cloth. This helps to keep cake from cracking.

A physician's formula for excessive perspiration

SOMETIMES Nature's wisest provisions become a source of keen distress. Perspiration, for instance—a wonderful means of regulating the body temperature.

Yet it is a very common thing, even in the healthiest persons, for this function to become so extreme in certain parts of the body as to cause great discomfort and embarrassment. This is due to a local irregularity of the sweat glands which physicians call Hyperidrosis.

Medical authorities agree that this condition should be corrected by local application.

For this very purpose Odorono was first formulated years ago by a physician. It has been brought to scientific perfection by years of laboratory research and study of abnormal perspiration. Physicians and nurses recognize its value and use it in hospitals as a safe, scientific corrective.

The regular use of this clear, antiseptic liquid just twice a week gives complete relief from the discomfort of excessive moisture; keeping your clothing fresh, dry and unstained. And, most of all, you may have absolute assurance that you will never offend with that unpardonable lapse of personal daintiness—underarm odor!

3,000,000 people now depend upon Odorono as their one safeguard against disagreeable perspiration moisture and odor. You may enjoy perfect relief in this harmless way which physicians recommend. Odorono is obtainable at all toilet counters, 35c, 60c and $1, or sent by mail postpaid. Address The Odorono Company, Ltd., 107 Duke Street, Toronto.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

With the Central Ontario League operating at Riverside Park nearly every Saturday, there has not been much of an opening for lacrosse, but the absence of the Petes in Oshawa on Saturday will give Canada's national game its innings, and the match between the Campbellford-Hastings combination and Peterboro should attract a big crowd. Lacrosse experts declare that the present Peterboro team is the strongest this city has had in years. Irvin Bailey, the hockey star, is one of the shining lights, and his fellow-hockeyist, Ranger, has developed into a clever exponent of lacrosse. Other young players are showing steady improvement, and the Peterboro team is confident of a victory over the combines.

* * * * * * * * *

In addition to the lacrosse match, there will be a rattling good juvenile ball game to entertain Saturday visitors to Riverside Park with the Knights of Columbus and Kiwanis teams clashing. The youngsters are playing clever baseball, and Saturday's game will be an eye-opener to those who have not seen them in action.

* * * * * * * * *

Lennox, the Oshawa southpaw, stopped the continuous hitting record of Del Cherry of Kingston on Saturday after he had made at least one hit in every game of the fourteen played by his club up to that time. Cherry's mark was one game better than that of Hap Harrison, who was set back by Goyer of Belleville in his fourteenth game.

* * * * * * * * *

Tris Speaker may not be succeeding as a manager, but he's telling the world with his bat that he's not even thinking of being through as a player. The grey-haired Indian pilot's answer to his critics is a batting spree that has sent him up to third place in the American League list and that threatens to shoot him out in front of the whole parade.

* * * * * * * * *

It has been said before, but baseball is a queer old game. The weather-beaten Jack Quinn, waived on by other American League clubs, is picked up by Philadelphia and promptly holds the slugging Tygers to five hits and beats them easily.

* * * * * * * * *

The Central Ontario League race is so close that a defeat at Kingston today for the Petes and an Oshawa victory at Belleville would leave the three teams tied for the leadership. On the other hand, a Peterboro victory in this evening's fixture would shoot the Ponies down into third place, two games back of the Johnstonites. And there is the chance, too, that Belleville may spill the beans for Oshawa.

* * * * * * * * *

The Petes' next two games are with Oshawa, in the Motor City on Saturday and back here for a twilight game next Wednesday, commencing at 5 o'clock.

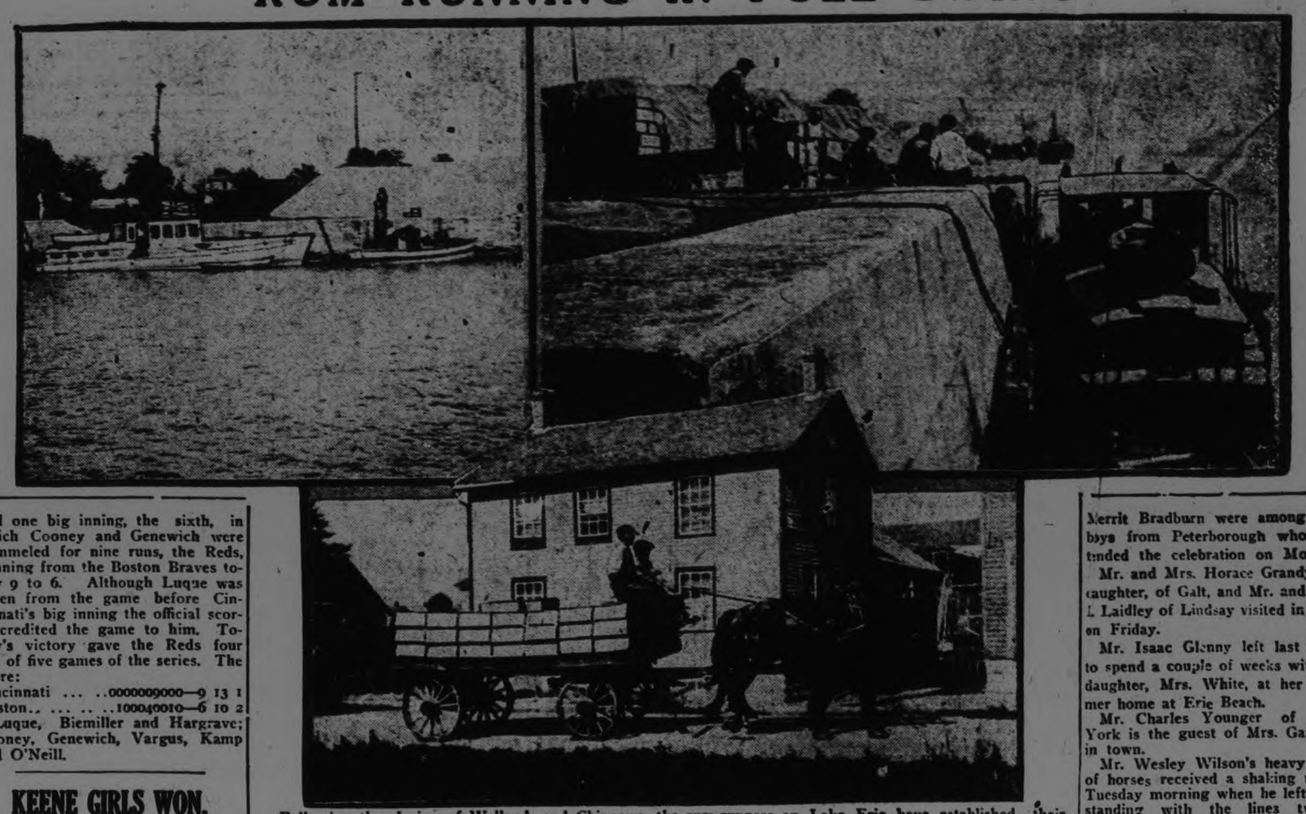
RUM RUNNING IN FULL SWING



Following the closing of Welland and Chippawa, the rum-runners on Lake Erie have established their headquarters at Port Colborne. From this point at the mouth of the Welland canal they run the liquor across Lake Erie to Buffalo and other points. In addition, it is said some of the cargoes find their way back into Ontario. Of five rum boats which attempted to land their cargoes in Buffalo, one was captured and lost 400 case of alleged whiskey, valued at $30,000; a second was intercepted by the coastguard and forced to return to Canada, while the remaining three were chased by American government boats. Photographs of the activities in Port Colborne are reproduced above. The boats are seen lined up along the canal wall while above are the loading gans. Also seen is a team and wagon trucking down a load of whiskey to the waiting vessels.

UNITED CHURCH SCHOOL PICNIC

Mr. Charles Younger of New York is the guest of Mrs. Gardiner in town.

Mr. Wesley Wilson's heavy team of horses received a shaking up on Tuesday morning when he left them standing with the lines twisted around the hub of the wheel. The horses commenced backing up, with the result that they were pulled backwards down the steep bank at the river on top of the wagon. The horses received a few cuts and the waggon was badly damaged.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

In the back swing hand action and wrist action blend together in such unison of action that it is hard to say which is one and which the other. One good point to observe is that the breaking upward of the wrists should not take place quickly in the back swing. Delay wrist-breaking as the club starts away from the ball, and at the same time promote hand action — that is, have the club very definitely in the hands at this starting point. Then through the hands reach outward with the club rather than upward. When you have reached outward a pull against the shoulders will be felt. Then let the body turn and at the same time let the wrists and arms elevate the club upward to the top. If the wrist action is too soon in the back swing the club will go up directly and not have the wide, sweeping effect that takes the ball so crisply.

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Slight Gains in Trading On Toronto Mining Etocks

TORONTO, July 15 (Canadian Press)—Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange is quiet with the bulk of trading in the penny stocks. Lake Shore advanced ten points to 595 and Teck Hughes also went up one point to 150. Wright Hargraves was strong at 490, an advance of 5 points. Castle Trethewey sold at 88, one point higher.

After Advance on Opening Fine Weather Caused Drop.

CHICAGO, July 15 (Canadian Press)—With indications of cooler, clear weather in the north west, likely to minimize crop damage, wheat averaged lower in price today during the early dealings. Reports of black stem rust attacking spring wheat continued both from South and north of the Canadian boundary but according to trade authorities the weather was the paramount factor atthe moment ,the thing most needed being high temperatures, high humidity and high winds. Trade was active, but buying was mostly evident as set-backs in the price. The opening, 1-8 to 1 1-2c lower, after September 153 to 153 1-2 and December 153 to 153 3-4 was followed by a moderate upturn and then by a drop that carried September down to 151 7-8 and December to 152 1-2.

Corn and oats reflected the changes in the wheat market. After opening unchanged to 1-4c off, September 108 to 108 1-4, Corn scored slight gains and then it underwent a material decline.

Oats started unchanged to 1-4c lower, September 46 7-8 to 47c, advanced a little and then sagged all around.

In line with the hog market provisions were firm.

American Can. at New High While Arms Continue Drop

WALL STREET, Noon, July 15 (Canadian Press)—Lowering of call money rate to 3 3-4 per cent after renewals had been quoted at four per cent encouraged general resumptioi of pool activity and prices continued to swing upward throughout the forenoon. One of the outstanding features of trading with a rise of more than 4 points in American Can to record high price at 201. When this stock was listed on New York exchange about 25 years ago, it sold as low at 2 3-8. Popularity of public utility shares also marked the early dealinfis Profit-taking cropped out in spots, but it was absorbed without making any serious inroads although Nash Motors yielded 3 points and Savage Arms wats forced down to new low for year at 48 1-2. Western Maryland second preferred assumed leadership of low priced rails, moving up about 2 points to 24.

Dominion Canners Feature On Toronto Stock Exchange

TORONTO, July 15. — Canadian Press. — Dominion Canners provided the feature of this morning's session of the Toronto stock exchange, advancing steadily to 104½ and closing at noon at 104, for a gain of 3 1-2 points. The list on the whole was firm, but Consolidated Smelters, one of the leaders, lost some of its recent advance, when it sold down to 93 3-4, a loss of 3-4. Bread "B" preferred continued prominent, but eased off a quarter at 88 3-4. Brazilian was also active this morning, and at 57 1-2 was half point stronger. C.P. R. improved 3-4 of a point at 142 and Twin city was fractionally stronger.

THREE FACTORS INSTRUMENTS IN PUBLIC HEALTH

Little Money Allotted Health Purposes Used in Cure Rather Than Prevention.

EDUCATION LACKING

Municipalities Should be Combined That Organization be Maintained.

Mr. Nevill Chamberlain, the Minister of Health of England, in speaking of the local administration of public health in that country, refers to the "obsolete, cumbersome, illogical, wasteful and unjust" character of the machinery whereby such work is carried out. The remarks of the Minister might, with equal truth, be applied to the system of local health administration in operation in Ontario and the measures designed for improvement of this work in force in England, might with certain modifications be employed to advantage by the local governments of the province.

The Ontario system is briefly as follows: Each city, town, village and township has a local board of health and a medical officer of health. There are upwards of 900 of such local health governments in Ontario. In but eight of these, including the principal cities, can there be said to be an efficient health service. In all the others the organization consists chiefly of a part-time medical officer of health, who is a practising physician, with, as a rule, but small renumeration and subject to the various, well-known disabilities of such a local officer. Little money is provided for public health purposes and what little is expended is frequently used at the wrong end, in the cure, rather than in the prevention of unsanitary conditions. The public receives little or none of the instruction so necessary to the advancement of sanitary measures.

There are, of course, notable instances where the local health officer, despite the difficulties under which he labours, gives a much better service than might be expected. But as a rule the administration is poor, the funds for public health work scanty and the personal application of the principles of hygiene neglected. The former chief medical officer of the Local Government Board in England in speaking upon this subject in reference to England and Wales, says "The inefficiency of the smaller sanitary authorities has been frequently exposed. There are in England and Wales 1727 sanitary authorities not including 82 county boroughs. The total of 1809 compares with 317 education authorities and 635 boards of guardians. No one has suggested that the efficiency of the work of either educational or relief authorities is lowered by the relatively large areas and population served by them, and every line of evidence points to the opposite conclusion."

In Ontario, in dealing with the subject of local school management of which there are often as many as a dozen to 20 in a rural municipality the Premier (as Minister of Education) has struck the keynote in his recommendation that local school areas should in the interest of efficiency and economy be combined. The same principle holds true in respect to local public health administration. Opportunity should be allowed for the local units of a county to combine for sanitary purposes.

The townships, towns and villages of Ontario annually spend in the aggregate considerable sums of money for this purpose, without much to show for it. The figures for the year 1924 show that there is spent on the salaries of part-time medical officers of health about $100,000.00 and for public health work in places with part-time organization about $200,000.00 or a total of $300,000.00. For places with full-time health organizations the salaries of the medical officers of health aggregate about $44,000 00 and for public health work apart from this salary bill the sum of $1,053,696.00.

The total for local public health administration part-time and full-time in Ontario reaches the sum of approximately one and one-half millions of dollars ($1,500,000.00).

Outside the eight cities with satisfactory health administration, there is, with certain exceptions, little value gained for the expenditure of this large sum of money.

Much of this expenditure is wasted or at least misapplied. There is no concerted effort to control diseases such as cancer, tuberculosis or the venereal diseases. There is no adquate pre-natal care of mothers and infant mortality and the incidence of tuberculosis range high. The medical inspection of school children is only beginning and education of the public in the principles of hygiene, without which no administration can successfully operate to the best advantage, is sadly needed. Government expenditures, for example, in the care of the tuberculous poor is steadily advancing being higher by $125,000 for the last year than that for 1923, despite the fact that year by year the government spends increasing amounts in the work of the Department of Health.

To return to the question of how local health administration may be improved. The experience of England, Wales and Scotland and of the United States has shown that the small town, village and township health unit is too small to bear the financial burden of a full-time public health organization and these countries are rather rapidly adopting the plan of combining muncipalities for public health purposes. In Great Britain the unit is called a "combined area". In the United States the county is usually the unit. In Ontario where many of our counties are large in area one-half of a county might form the unit, or, where adjacent counties are small two or more might be combined. The advantages of such a plan are apparent. The aggregate funds now spent might be utilized in the employment for the area of a full-time organization. A notable example of such a combination is to be found at Windsor (Essex Border Municipalities), where under the direction of an energetic, well-trained medical officer of health there may be seen one of the most efficient health departments to be found on the continent and where a couple of years ago virulent smallpox, instead of spreading, as it did in other communities, was limited to 67 cases.

Little legislative amendment is needed. Permission might be given to counties to substitute county control for the existing municipal health administration using the combined resources of the municipalities for this purpose. Instead of an army of 900 or more health officers, we would eventually have perhaps 60. These men would embrace public health work as their daily business and give to that business the supervision and enthusiasm at present lacking, and which is necessary to the success of any undertaking.

The work of public health depends chiefly on three factors, viz., sufficient funds, competent management and a receptive public. Health and thrift lige other qualifications for good citizenship are virtues which have to be appreciated, strived for and acquired by each individual for himself. But there must first be trained and competent management to lead the way, and the provision of reasonable funds for expenses. Public Health is purchasable.

THE EVOLUTION TRIAL.

No. 1.

(At the request of The Examiner, Mr. J. H. Burnham will give a short account of the Dayton evolution trial).

The trial at Dayton, Tennessee, is the outcome of a feeling in the U.S. that one side of any view or the other must win and rule the loser. There is no room for difference of opinion or liberty of thought. It is a case of "Do as we think or go to gaol or worse." It is because we have this same feeling in Ontario that it especially interests us.

The facts are: (1) A law of Tennessee declares that evolution must not be taught in the schools. The defendants represented by a Mr. Scopes argue that such a law should not have been passed. Clearly the people had a right to pass the law because it is something they desire, but whether they ought to have passed the law is another thing, and one which nobody but the Supreme Being can decide, although Bryan and all similar people there and here think that they are just as good as the Deity, if not better, in that particular. At any rate, they will not leave these questions to God Who allows the Devil to go about as he likes, let alone theories of evolution and whiskey.

Bryan and Darrow, for the prosecution and defendant, are just now entering the ring. I will deal with the fight so far as it has progressed in my next.

NEWS FROM DOURO.

About Examinations.

The County Entrance results are very disappointing, though in most of the local schools where the pupils were recommended by the teachers, they made a good showing. Miss Weatherhead, in No. 1, sent six pupils, five of whom passed, one taking honors. The pupils of No. V. and No. IV. also made a good showing, though only two were sent from No. V., and one from No. IV. The other schools also did well considering the difficult papers submitted. In the city almost 70% passed and in the county less than 50%, and yet, when city and rural pupils come into competition in High School the latter almost always lead the classes. City pupils are passed on the record of their year's work, country pupils are not given hat chance and often a hard year's work of pupil and teacher is lost when a too difficult or freakish test is submitted at the end of the year.

Misses Gertrude Tobin, Peterborough, and Viola Pluard, Hall's Bridge, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Allen on Monday evening.

ROYAL TO SHOW "WINNING THE WEST" A HOOT GIBSON FILM

A courageous but inexperienced Easterner going through the trials of ranch life in an effort to gain a proper perspective of life is the plot of Hoot Gibson's picture, "Taming the West," a Universal-Gibson Special coming to the Royal Theatre tomorrow.

The story is an adaptation of "The Range Dwellers" an original story by B. M. Bowers. It deals with the curious experiences and humorous episodes in the life of an Easterner who has gone to live on a ranch in search of character.

The Easterner, played by Hoot Gibson, is a jazz-mad youth who injects into ranch life the ball-room pep, much to the amusement of the cow-punchers. Gibson strives unsuccessfully to ride a bronco and is bucked unmercifully to the ground. He is jeered for the performance but in fisticuffs with one of the cowboys shows that he is far from helpless.

Incidentally Gibson falls in love with the daughter of a neighboring rancher and wins her over heavy opposition. The part of the attractive girl is acted by Marceline Day. Others in the cast are Morgan Brown, Edwin Booth Tilton, Herbert Prior, Louis Hippe, Albert J. Smith, Francis Ford and Frona Hale. Direction was by Arthur Rosson with Jack Sullivan assisting.

ANDY GUMP AT ROYAL

Tomorrow the Royal will introduce the first of a series of new Andy Gump Comedies, "Andy Gump in Hollywood." Patrons who followed the last series know that they are crowded with hearty laughs and, owing to the many requests, this new series has been booked.

Contracts have also been signed for a series of Buster Brown and his dog, Tige, Comedies for the kiddies.

AT THE CAPITOL

MacLEAN FOREMOST SCREEN COMEDIAN STARTED AS DRAMATIC ACTOR

Douglas MacLean is said to be the only screen star today who has graduated from heavy drama into comedy.

Every other prominent screen comedian has risen to more dignified comedy from the ranks of slip-stick.

Charles Chaplin, dean of comedy was once but a lowly buffoon in a London music hall. Buster Keaton earned his laurels through the vaudeville stage, where he played with his parents in the famous "Three Keatons" troupe. Harold Lloyd started as a movie extra and later created mirth for many a two reeler slap-stick comedy.

Each of these has risen in turn to his own individual place in the hearts of the public. But it took Douglas MacLean to earn his own particular place in comedy through entirely different channels. Mr. MacLean a one time played the most serious of roles upon the legitimate stage. In his first successful years opposite Maude Adams he obtained a basic knowledge of the drama which, by a peculiar twist, he was table to turn to tremendous advantage in screen comedies.

In his new comedy success, "Introduce Me," which comes to the Capitol theatre tomorrow he is said to reach the very pinnacle of hilarious fun on the screen.

Douglas MacLean has fashioned success from that old adage: "It's a short step from the sublime to the ridiculous." His dramatic training has taught him how to skate on the thinest ice, close to the sublime yet never reaching it, thus striking the keynote of true comedy.

DECLARES SUNBURN MAY CAUSE DEATH

Brooklyn Physician Warns Of Dangers That Lurk in Exposure of Skin.

Although few persons realize it, a severe case of sunburn actually is a dangerous affliction that not only causes excruciating pain, but may permanently affect the health cause chronic skin disease, and even result in death.

This warning is given by Dr. C. F. Pabst, a well known physician of Brooklyn, N. Y., who in the August issue of Popular Science Monthly explains some of the dangers to which summer vacationists subject themselves when they deliberately burn their skins in attempts to acquire "a coat of tan."

July and August are the dangerous months for sunburn, Dr. Pabst points out, for then the sun delivers the most ultra-violet light, the invisible part of sunshine that burns the skin.

Sunburn is caused when ultra-violet light is stopped in the skin cells. The light causes a chemical change. A poison is manufactured that enters the blood, causing fever and headache. The chemical burn kills the skin. Some of this dead skin has to be absorbed by the blood and this process adds to the poisoning.

All this means extra work for the blood. Large supplies of blood rush to the burned surfaces with consequent disturbance of the circulatory system. This may be followed by congestion of the lungs and inflammation of the kidneys. Sometimes, not always, sunburn is followed by protective pigmentation—discoloration of the skin—the familiar "coat of tan." Sometimes this pigment, instead of being distributed evenly, collects in spots that we call freckles.

When you lie in the sun for hours at a time, exposing skin that has been protected all winter, you are inviting trouble; for the skin cannot enough or in large enough quantities to protect you from burns.

Dr. Pabst says that burns may be considered in three classes—first degree, when the skin is simply inflamed; second degree, when blisters are formed; and third degree, when charring takes place. A burn of the first degree, covering the entire body, probably would result in death. A blistering burn on half the body, equally so. That is a superficial burn is as serious as one that blisters, if covering twice the area.

One of the best and simplest treatments for shock from sunburn, he adds, is to get into a tub of lukewarm water into which a pound of bicarbonate of soda has been dissolved. A physician always should be called, since heart stimulants may be required to prevent collapse. Any sore of fat helps to sooth sunburn. Either lard or butter can be used in an emergency.

A LINE-O-TYPE.

(Joseph Addison in the Spectator, May 5, 1711).

There is one Consideration which I would earnestly recommend to all my Female Readers, and which, I hope, will have some weight with them. In short, it is this, that there is nothing so bad for the Face as Party Zeal. It gives an ill-natured Cast to the Eye and a disagreeable Sourness to the Look; besides that it makes the Lines too strong, and flushes them worse than Brandy. I have seen a Woman's Face break out in Heats as she has been talking against a great Lord, whom she had never seen in her Life; and indeed never knew a Party Woman that kept her Beauty for a Twelvemonth. I would therefore advise all my Female Readers, as they value their Complexions, to let alone all Disputes of this Nature: though, at the same time I would give free Liberty to all superannuated motherly Partizans to be as violent as they please, since there will be no danger either of their spoiling their Faces or of their gaining Converts.

CONDITION SERIOUS.

Very Little Hope Now Held For Recovery of Cardinal Begin.

QUEBEC, July 15. — Canadian Press. — The condition of His Eminence, Cardinal Begin, who is suffering from an attack of uremia, was declared to be very serious this afternoon, and very little hope is now entertained for the recovery of the venerable prelate.

The official bulletin issued by the Archbishop's palace, read as follows: "The condition of His Eminence, without being absolutely hopeless, is extremely serious."

His Eminence is said to be still able to recognize the few visitors allowed to see him by his doctors, but his voice is very weak, and has been since he collapsed on Sunday evening.

UNIONIST LEAVE BURNBRAE CHURCH

BURNBRAE, July 15.—An important meeting of the Unionist group of St. Andrew's, Burnbrae, was held in Lamb's Hall, Menie, on Monday evening. It was called for the purpose of taking some definite step regarding the situation in the local congregation. Mr. A. Hume acted as chairman, and after the opening prayer by Rev. Robt. Fry, the meeting was open for discussion. Several expressed opinions and all were agreed that the strong resolution adopted by the non-concurring members, left (as the chairman expressed it) no loophole for negotiation.

A unanimous resolution from the board of the Seymour Circuit United Churches, extending a cordial invitation to any who cared to make their church homes with this circuit, was read, and, on motion, a vote of thanks was tendered to the board for its kindness. Verbal invitations were also extended from St. John's United, Campbellford, and Wellman's United in the Rawdon Circuit.

On motion, it was decided to give anyone who wished the privilege of signing a form requesting the withdrawal of membership certificates. This action was taken by about forty members, while some others not present have signified their intention to sign. The form will be in the hands of the secretary of the meeting, Mr. Geo. Anderson, for a week at least for the convenience of any who wish their names added.

The Women's Missionary Auxiliary, which was disbanded at the 10th of June, in the belief that the congregation would be independent, was re-organized and will carry on with the same officers as before, under the name of the Burnbrae United Auxiliary. The first meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. S. Milne on Thursday evening, July 23, and meetings will afterwards be held the third Thursday evening of each month at the various homes of the members.

Rev. Mr. McKenzie, pastor of the Burnbrae congregation, expressed his regret at the necessity of the Unionists leaving, but he could at present see no possible way in which the ladies could work together without one side or the other sacrificing their principles and belief.

No definite action was taken regarding the acceptance of any invitation as a body, as it was thought best to allow each family to attend the church most convenient for the sake of the children of Sunday School age. It is probable, therefore, that some will attend each of the churches extending invitations.

FUNERAL HELD DR. TORRANCE

Nearly Five Hundred Attended Service in St. Paul's Church.

FORMER PASTOR.

The funeral service of the late Rev. Dr. E. F. Torrance was held this afternoon in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. The address was delivered by the Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings, who was accompanied in the pulpit by the Rev. G. I. Craw, Springville, and Rev. James Ross, Peterborough.

A son of the late Dr. Torrance, Edward Torrance; a son-in-law, Mr. Delreis were present. The pall bearers were Messrs. W. H. Hill, W. W. Johnstone, A. J. Johnson, Robert Morrison, R. R. Hall and Sheriff Hall. John Crane, manager of the Dominion Bank, who was organist of the church during the ministry of Dr. Torrance, presided at the organ.

The service opened with the singing of the 19th Psalm, Rev. G. I. Craw read Psalm 90, after which Rev. Mr. Ross led in prayer.

Rev. J. A. Thomson took as the text for the day's meditation, Chapter 23 of the Book of Numbers, and part of verse 10: "Let me die the death of the righteous and let my last end be like his."

"We all want to die," said Mr. Thomson, like the righteous, even if like Baalam, who uttered these words, we have not been living the life of the righteous."

Baalam was referring to the death of Jacob, whose end as recorded in Genesis was a benediction—the angel that redeemed me bless the lads." Baalam was thinking of this scene when he said: "Let me die the death of the righteous and may my last end be like his. To die the death of the righteous we must live the life of the righteous. God's gifts are conditional, and we must obey his will in all things."

Consider, O man, what the Lord hath shown thee, for what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God. These three things he asked of us if we would inherit the promises. We are building for eternity and we must see that our foundations are sure. We must build on the rock, and not on the sand. We must build on Him.

Again, we want to die in safety. "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord. They rest from their labors and their works do follow them. Not all the blessed are dead, but only those who die in the Lord, Those who remained outside the ark were unsafe. The manslayer fleeing to the city of refuge was not safe, even at the gate of the city. He must be inside. Those who die in the Lord are safe from condemnation.

The end of the righteous man is a peaceful end. "Being justified by faith we have peace with God through Jesus Christ our Lord. The only legacy that Christ left was His peace, 'My peace I give unto you'."

We think of him who was 31 years in St. Paul's, the best part of his life. He was the second minister here. It is surely a tribute both to people and pastor, that the church has had only three ministers in 92 years.

Dr. Torrance was a superior man in every respect. His house was ever open to ministers and others. Boundless was his hospitality at all times. He was a man of refinement, high ideals, and scholarship, and was at all times a close student of the Book. He never preached a sermon that was not preceded by several hours of prayer. At the Assembly of 1916 a missionary, in telling of his conversion and call to the mission field, related that they arose out of the hearing of a sermon by Dr. Torrance in Peterboro. He knew that was not the only conversion that followed Dr. Torrance's ministry. He believed there were many in the kingdom to-day as a result of the labors of Dr. Torrance.

Since coming to Peterborough, he had heard a rare tribute which came from a Roman Catholic, who said: "Every time I met Dr. Torrance, I thought of the Saviour."

Dr. Torrance had now heard the "Well done, good and faithful servant. Enter thou into the joy of the Lord."

He asked the people to remember the words of the text, "Let me die the death of the righteous and let my last end be like his." Dr. Torrance had died the death of the righteous, and they were all assembled together to pay his mortal remains all the respect they could. At the end of the address the congregation sang, "Shall we gather at the river." The organist rendered the Dead March in Saul, and the congregation filed around the bier to have a last look on the remains of their dead pastor.

BIG BOOTS EARN AN UNDYING FAME

Earl Haig's Visit To Canada Has Renewed Historic Memory.

Earl Haig's visit to the Dominion has aroused peculiar memories of a pair of boots in the mind of one young Canadian. Perhaps the Earl himself may remember the kicks in question.

It was during the 1917 Christmas rush that two mammoth parcels arrived for Private Buchanan. In each one was a beautiful knee boot, size 11.5. They fitted perfectly, and were called the gravel crushers. The owner was exceedingly proud of them, as well he might be. They were unique.

In the spring of 1913 Field Marshal Haig reviewed the 4th Canadian Division in the little town of Houdain. Among those present were Private Buchanan and the boots.

Upon reaching the field, the commander and his staff dismounted, received the salute of the commanding officers, and at once commenced a detailed inspection of the units.

Suddenly the field marshal stopped his eyes focussed on one lanky youth. Here was a man from a country which produced young giants.

"What's this?" snapped the commander. "How many pairs of socks and puttees are you wearing? Your legs and feet are much too large."

"One pair of each, sir," was the reply.

"Are they issue?"

"No, sir."

"My man, I refer to your boots—not your feet."

"No, sir; my boots are not issue. They're top boots sent me from Canada."

"Colonel," said Earl Haig, "see that this man is provided with issue equipment," and the incident was closed.

But so affected was the warrior in question when he thought that his gravel crushing abilities had been publicly pointed out by the head of the army in front of 8000 men that he swapped the footwear for a couple of instalments of chips and oeufs.

The boots are gone but their fame will never die.

MARITIME PROVINCES TO DRAFT BILL OF RIGHTS FOR SUBMISSION AT ALL-CANADIAN CONFERENCE

Committees To Study Eastern Problems and Report at Charlottetown Meeting.

THEN MOVE WEST.

Greetings Exchanged Between Western and Eastern Inter-Provincial Conferences.

MONCTON, N.B., July 16. — Canadian Press. — The Maritime Economic Conference met here yesterday with the expressed purpose of dealing only with national problems in a national way, and decided to appoint committees to make intensive studies of transportation, industrial development, imigration and the economic status of these provinces under the confederation agreement.

The committees will report at a future meeting in Char'ottetown when a definite case concerning these problems as seen in this part of Canada will be drawn up for submission to a national economic conference planned for Winnipeg this fall.

This latter conference according to telegrams of good will from many sections of Canada read yesterday, is considered assured.

An inter-provincial meeting of mayors of British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan is in session in Edmonton and when the local meeting heard of this a telegram was despatched as follows:

"Maritime Provinces Conference on Economic Situation in Canada extend greetings to inter-provincial conference in Edmonton. Yours for a better understanding throughout Canada."

Unanimously Adopted.

Wednesday's decision to appoint committees was made in resolution

SHEPHERD HIT BY CHAUFFEUR

ESTATE BATTLE.

CHICAGO, July 16 — William Darling Shepherd yesterday fought what he hoped would be his last court battle for possession of the $1,000,000 estate of his foster son, Billy McClintock.

Witnesses were summoned in probate court to uphold Sheupherd's contention that Billy of his own free will signed a will leaving everything to him save an $8,00 annuity to Miss Isabelle Pope, the beautiful society girl that was to have been Billy's wife.

Opposed to these witnesses were attorneys for nine of Billy's cousins, who insist that Shepherd used "undue influence" to have Billy sign the will. Miss Pope, according to her testimony has entered into an agreement with the cousins, whereby she will get one-half the estate if they succeed in breaking the will.

Meanwhile Louis Kles, formerly a chauffeur for Shepherd, was under bond of $500 until he shows cause for not being in contempt of court. Kles struck Shepherd on the point of the chin just outside the court room late Tuesday.

"You killed Billy, you dirty dog!" Kles shouted as he sprang at Shepherd and delivered two sharp blows at the chin.

Servant's Testimony

Court bailiffs grappled with Kles and finally quieted him.

Kles was one of the most important witnesses against Shepherd at the coroner's inquest, but he was not called to testify in Shepherd's trial for murder. He maintains that Shepherd owes him $55 for back services.

Two household employees who witnessed Billy's signature to the will were Shepherd's chief hope of proving that the will is proper. They admitted, under cross-examination however, that they did not read the text of the will carefully and that pages might have been substituted.

DAVIS PLEADING FOR NEW TRIAL

LIFE SENTENCE.

MONTREAL, July 16—(Canadian Press).—Leo Davis, former Newark, N.J., newsboy, has decided to appeal to the Federal Minister of Justice to intervene in his appeal against a sentence of life imprisonment passed upon him when he was convicted of complicity in the death of Henri Cleroux, bank messenger, killed in a holdup here in April, 1924. Davis has exhausted all the steps possible in the Provincial appeal courts and, through his counsel, Henri Gagnon, now will ask the Minister of Justice to order a new trial or to exercise his prerogative to remit the sentence passed by the trial judge. Counsel states that he is in possession of considerable new evidence gathered since the trial, and the file of documents he will send to Ottawa will justify the Federal Department intervening in the matter.

The appeal will be based on a statement made by Adam Parillo, now serving a life term for his connection with the holdup, that he never saw Davis, and also on a statement by Louis Morel, who was hanged for the crime.

CARDINAL DYING.

Condition Was Worse Last Night—Prayers of the Faithful Asked.

QUEBEC, July 16.—Completely paralyzed from head to foot on the right side of his body, and almost unable to speak, Cardinal Begin, Roman Catholic primate of all Canada, is dying in the Archiepiscopal Palace here. Stricken with uremia on Sunday last, the 85-year-old prelate is aided only by his sturdy, pioneer constitution in his fight for life. The meagre reports of his condition given out at the Palace stated that his condition was very serious and last night that he was a little worse. It is not expected that he will survive the week, and the prayers of the faithful throughout Canada and the United States have been asked on his behalf.

His Eminence was in good health and was active in the duties of his office until Sunday last, when he journeyed to St. Mabaire to bless a corner stone. Returning to his palace in the afternoon he collapsed.

MUST MARRY TO CLAIM FORTUNE

Bequest of $50,000 Awaits Montreal Scot Provided He Is Married.

APPEALS TO GIRL.

MONTREAL, July 16. — Canadian Press. — A girl in Ottawa will be asked to help a Scotsman claim a fortune of $50,000.

When Alexander Ferguson, three months out from Scotland, heard last week that an Australian uncle had left him that much if he married right away, he announced that he would not be married out of hand, fortune or no fortune.

Yesterday he admitted to newspaper men that he was going to Ottawa to talk the matter over with a girl he met when he came to Canada three months ago, a girl he liked so much that it only needed this providential release from poverty to make him anxious to marry her.

Ferguson's pockets are filled with letters from women offering to become the wife so carefully stipulated by a dour Australian Scot as the one thing needful to Ferguson's inheritance. Some of the applicants claim ability to cook, and some have gold mines and oil wells awaiting working capital. But Mr. Ferguson firmly announces his intention to choose for himself; and there the matter rests.

Though our passage through this world be rough and troublesome, yet the trouble will be but short, and the rest and contentment of the end will be an ample recompense. — Atterbury.

WOMAN BLAMED FOR DEATH OF COLOURED MAN

Hamilton Coroner's Jury Finds She Stabbed Him With Knife.

NOT SORRY.

Witnesses Testify to Seeing Blood-Stained Knife in Her Hand.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 16. — After hearing evidence last night on the slaying of Edward Taylor, who met death on the morning of July 8, when stabbed with a pocket knife, a coroner's jury blamed Louise Taylor, otherwise Lily White, for the crime. Taylor was colored and so is the woman. She lived with him as his common wife. She will likely be charged with murder.

The driver of the taxi which drove Taylor, the woman and another man from Taylor's home to the Jockey Club about five o'clock on the morning of the murder, Charles Richard Brown, also colored, said there was no quarrelling among the trio on the way out to the track. He did not know who the other colored man was who accompanied Taylor and the woman, other than that he worked for some racing stable. Brown said the three appeared to be in unusually good spirits. He overheard nothing that would indicate a quarrel. Upon reaching the Jockey Club a horse-owner engaged him to go up town to a druggist to purchase some liniment for a lame horse. When he returned he learned that Taylor had been murdered.

Robert Barlow, Bruce Williamson, Donald McDonald and several other working men who were waiting for a street car, told of witnessing the murder.

Had Blood-Stained Knife.

They said Taylor and the woman were quarrelling in a heated manner when the woman struck him on the chest and Taylor fell to the sidewalk. A blood-stained pocket-knife clattered from her hand to the sidewalk. She stood gazing at the body and remained thus until the police came with the ambulance.

That the Taylor woman was not sorry for her rash act was related by Constables Myers and Nesbitt, who were in charge of the ambulance. They asked her why she had stabbed Taylor and she replied, they swore, that Taylor had made her heart bleed and said she was not sorry and hoped he would die. Taylor did die on the way to the General Hospital.

Nearly Severed Artery.

The knife wound almost severed a main artery near Taylor's heart, according to Dr. Deadman, who performed a post mortem examination. Such a wound, he said, usually resulted in quick death.

Constable Roughead told of visiting Taylor's home on July 2, when he was sent there to remove a white girl. The conditions he told of were sordid. He was admitted by a squaw, and found another white woman drunk on the back door steps. Taylor was drunk upstairs in bed, and the Taylor woman was raving mad. She had come home unexpectedly and found the women in the house. She had been released from jail the day before after serving a sentence for conducting a disorderly house here. Taylor, according to Constable Roughead, appeared to be afraid of the woman, and said he believed he would have trouble with her.

Remarkable Triumph Over His Lowly Birth Shown By Recent Discoverer of Cancer Germ

LONDON, July 16. — The life story of Dr. W. C. Gye, who, with J. E. Barnard, has just discovered the cancer germ, reveals a triumph over the lowly condition wherein he was born.

Dr. Gye was born of poor, working class parents and, one of his medical colleagues revealed here yesterday, worked when in his 'teens as a railway porter at a little Midland station for $2.50 a week. He had determined, even at that time, to become a doctor and devoted every penny he could scrape up to buying books and studying in his spare time to improve his general education.

Eventually, he saved enough to come to London and take his degree as Bachelor of Science. Then he taught in small schools in the Midlands, studying hard at the same time and saving for his medical education.

After two years of teaching, Gye began his medical studies at Edinburgh. There, by means of coaching other students and through prizes and scholarships, he earned enough to pay his fees. He qualified as a doctor in 1912 and the following year took his M.D. degree.

During the war, Dr. Gye served with a mobile laboratory in France and Italy. After the armistice, he joined the Scientific Medical Research Council, where he has been ever since.

NOW BRAIN MACHINES

Two Inventors Perfect Mechanical Thinkers for Work on Difficult Problems.

Two different types of "mechanical brains"—machines that perform the most complicated mathematical problems automatically — recently have been perfected separately by two young inventors, Frank P. Gage of Boston, Mass., and Stuart C. Dodd, a graduate student of Princeton University. Both machines are expected to prove of great importance in psychological and educational research and in industrial statistical work. They are said to complete, within an hour or so, problems that usually require many hours or even days.—Popular Science Monthly.

As soon as the boys reached here they proceeded to the Athletic Grounds, where they had a softball game to limber up after their sail from Sodus Point, to which they first went from Toronto.

NEEDS OF WEST ARE OUTLINED

Edmonton Conference Stress Transportation Facilities in Resolution.

EDMONTON, July 16.—(Canadian Press).—Resolutions submitted to the conference by committee named to bring in recommendations formed the principal topic of discussion at the morning session of the Western Mayors and other civic officials at the Memorial Hall yesterday. Five were presented and all were given unanimous endorsation, although there was some objection raised by different speakers in the discussion.

The resolutions which were defined as part of the assertion of a bill of rights for the West, declared for fair and equitable freight rates with no discrimination to any part of the Dominion, expressed the opinion that it was the duty of the Dominion and Provincial Governments to get an adequate rail outlet from the Peace River to the Pacific coast, approved the immediate completion of the Hudson's Bay Railway, favored the building of an all-Canadian highway, using the abandoned railway west of Edmonton and carrying it on through Edmonton and Saskatoon to Winnipeg, and supported the principle of inter-Provincial co-operation to the end that Canadian transportation facilities and ports be equal to competitor nations.

The amount was fixed at $150,000. In addition Pepall himself must provide bonds for an equal amount.

Mr. Boyd, who is an elderly man, is also confined to bed, and is in a highly nervous condition.

ALBERTA MENACED BY FOREST FIRES

CALGARY, Alta., July 16 (Canadian Press).—Four great forest fires were burning on Tuesday in the big triangle of country that has its corners at McGillivray, Sparwood and Loop, it was reported by the forestry branch in Calgary Wednesday.

Flames were shooting high and cold be seen through the smoke from an altitude of seven thousand feet, at which airmen from the High River Station were flying.

The last report received from the patrol was to the effect that the fires while burning fiercely, were confined to a sction southwest of Michel and there was no immediate danger of a spread into the Alberta Reserve.

Crews are being organized by the forestry branch and are prepared to give battle if the flames threaten to break over the main barrier of the Rockies and enter Alberta as they did in 1910 and 1922.

VIRGINIA MAN PRAISES CITY

Says Peterborough Has Everything To Attract Tourist From the U. S.

SHOULD ADVERTISE.

That Peterborough only requires to make its attractions better known in the States to ensure a greatly increased influx of visitors from the South, was the opinion expressed by G. M. Rumble, himself a tourist from the States at present staying at the Empress Hotel. Mr. Rumble, who is a lawyer in Norfolk, Virginia, has been an annual visitor for many years, and has long been an admirer of Peterborough and district. "I came here several years ago with a friend," he said, "and have been unable to keep away since."

"I was just thinking today, that I shall soon be going out to the woods and everything that I am going for I can get without stirring out of the city. Fishing, boating and swimming—why I can get all these things in Peterborough. In this district there is every that the tourist wants. Here you have the water, the hills, the comfort and the sport. You have a playground that is the best in North America. Peterborough should certainly take steps to advertise its attractions in the States as a holiday resort."

Mr. Rumble was inclined to [illegible] several complains of the heat. "As for me I find this place very comfortable," he said. "In Virginia we often have the mercury up to 102 in the shade, so that today I feel quite cool and easy."

Mr. Rumble is leaving for Loon Lake, where he is spending the holiday with some friends.

WEATHER

Yesterday was St. Swithin's Day; no rain fell, therefore the heavy showers of this morning can not be considered as No. 1 of the legendary forty days of rain. Highest temperature yesterday 84 degrees; the preceding day 85 degrees. Some very warm weather has prevailed through out the prairie provinces during the past week. Temperatures of from 90 to 95 degrees have been common More moderate conditions now prevail. To those who take an interest in such matters I might say that the heavy shower this morning gave a total of exactly three-fourth of an inch on the level.—W.P.

NO MENTAL PROGRESS

Level of Today Below That of Greeks and on a Par With Babylonians.

A group of scientists in the University of California, after many years of study and test, have decided that the human race has made no mental progress in 3,000 years, says Popular Science Monthly for August. They have concluded that we know about as much today as the people who lived in Babylon, and not as much as the Greeks did 2,000 years ago.

PROHIBITION VOTES STAGGER REICHSTAG

Local Option Seekers Attempt to Place Germany in Dry Column.

BERLIN, July 16. — (Canadian Press).—Yesterday 466,000 votes for prohibition were placed on the table in front of the speaker's stand of the Reichstag by promoters of local option who are seeking an enactment of a law which it is hoped will eventually place Germany in the dry column. The unique petition with which members of the Reichstag were bombarded comprised 46 bundles, each containing 10,000 individually signed cards.

PRESENTATION MADE AND ADDRESS READ

Relatives and Friends Gather as Well Wishers For Happy Marriage.

One hundred and ten relatives and friends gathered at the home of Alex. McGregor, Smith, for the purpose of making a present to Alex. McGregor, Junior, and Mrs. McGregor, on the occasion of their marriage.

A chair was presented to the happy couple, after which the Rev. W. S. Edgar read to them the followng address:

Mr. and Mrs. McGregor: Please accept this chair as a small token of the esteem and respect of the members and friends of the Gilmour Memorial church, and also of your neighbors and well wishers in this community, on this the happy occasion of your wedding.

There are many present to-night to whom you have given a splendid lead which I hope they will have the courage to follow.

We wish you both much joy, true happiness and real prosperity in your married life.

May you be long spared to each other.

Sometimes the question is asked: "Is marriage a failure?" and from the record number of divorces across the line, one might be inclined to believe that it is, but that depends entirely on the couple themselves. Any husband or wife can make their marriage a tragic failure by refusing to consider one another, and by continually insisting on their individual rights; or a brilliant success by consideration for one another, and by mutual helpfulness. And from what we know of you our, guests of to-night, I feel sure you will work well in double harness so that your marriage will be a real success. With you both tugging at the oars your matrimonial bark will sail smoothly over the sea of time.

We have only known you, Mrs. McGregor, a short time, but in that brief period we have formed a high opinion of you, and feel sure that you possess many of the qualifications that go towards making a good wife.

We have known you, Mr. McGregor, ever since we came into this district, nearly three years ago. You and your brother Gordon, were the two that met me at the station on the night of my arrival. You gave me a very warm welcome to Peterboro on a very cold night. Ever since then we have been more or less in touch with you and we have always found you to be a steady, industrious and obliging young man and we are confident that nothing will be lacking on your part to make this matrimonial venture upon which you have entered an unqualified success. May the Good Lord bless you both, cause His face to shine upon you and give you peace.

W. S. EDGAR, Pastor.
J. K. MOORE.

Refreshments were served and the rest of the evening was spent in games and singing.

MINES CONFERENCE TO WORK IN SHIFTS

Will Attempt to Speed Up Proceedings and Reach Decision.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 16.—(Canadian Press).—The battle for public support in the coal strike, which both sides now look for on September 1, came into the open yesterday, when operators and miners attacked each other for delaying disposition of demands of the United Mine Workers, and then agreed to speed up proceedings that have been dragging for months.

Under this agreement, members of the conference will work two shifts, beginning to-day. The next week conference will meet twice, if not three times, daily, beginning on Tuesday.

ARRANGE PROGRAMME.

Field Day to be Held at Warkworth on July 29.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

WARKWORTH, July 16.—The committees arranging for the programme for the field day, which will be held on July 29th under the auspices of the Percy Agricultural Society, have decided to offer $400 in purses for three horse races, $150 for the free-for-all, $150 for the 2.30 and $100 for the 2.30 class. There will be a soft ball tournament with teams from Campbellford, Peterboro, Havelock, Cobourg and Warkworth, competing for a silver shield. Besides these events there will be athletic sports of all kinds for which liberal prizes will be given. The music will be furnished by the brass band of Frankford consisting of 18 pieces and the celebration will wind up with a minstrel shown at night in the Town Hall.

The Tug of War.

One of the main events on the programme will be a tug of war, the teams that have prominsed to take part being Percy, Seymour and Haldimand and Alnwick, the latter townships sending a team made up of residents from both.

New conditions have been laid down by the committee for the contest. The use of spiked shoes is prohibited and none of the contestants are to be allowed to dig holes in the ground to give them a foothold. To make sure that this latter regulation is observed, just before the word is given, the contending teams must step three paces to the right or left so that the contest will take place on level ground.

There has been a long standing rivalry between Percy and Seymour Townships for the tug of war championship. The team from the latter township that has never yet met defeat have always dug themselves in when engaging in a contest, a method to which Percy men have always objected.

The members of the winning team will each receive a pair of work shoes valued at $4. The second prize is a box of cigars.

C. H. Curtis has been chosen as trainer and manager of the Percy team, and practice for the event will start at once.

PLUCKY BANK MANAGER ETC.

shot. There may have been more than one. I could not be sure, for then there was a scuffling and fighting noise and so much excitement that I thought only of jumping up.

"I grabbed a revolver that was lying on the ledge of our sleeping porch. As I ran through the dining room and kitchen I noticed that the floor was wet with blood.

"I could hear them fighting out on the back balcony and ran in that direction. When I neared the balcony door, I saw Mr. Rodger wrestling with a man. The man had a revolver in his hand and my husband had grabbed him by the wrist.

"I could easily tell which was which because my husband was clad in pyjamas while the other man was wearing some kind of a black coat and khaki trousers.

Bullet Took Effect.

"I pushed open the door, saw the robber was on top of Mr. Rodger and pulled the trigger.

"The man fell back on the balcony and let go his grip. He tried to get up then but my husband had grabbed the gun and covered him and made him stay where he was.

"Meantime I ran down and tried to 'phone for help but could not get any number so I ran outside and met our neighbor, Mr. Woodruff, who had been attracted by the shooting and was on his way over to our place.

"Mrs. Woodruff meanwhile was standing upstairs with some kind of an old gun and was ready to stop the robber if he tried to get away.

"Mr. Woodruff went to our place and then the police came along and that was all there was."

Rodger Twice Wounded.

Mrs. Rodger noted that one bullet fired by the would-be burglar had grazed her husband's head, inflicting a painful scalp wound which bled profusely. He also had received a less painful wound on one of his fingers.

She added that Mr. Rodger had been well prepared for marauders, having had three revolvers around the bank premises and apartment.

She said she knew nothing about firearms herself and regarded it as more a matter of instinct and luck that she had held the gun right end forward when she pressed the trigger.

Kolidee Died in Hospital.

After the shooting, Sergeant Atkins, of the Provincial Police, arrived on the scene and later High Constable Alf. Zimmerman and Provincial Constable Joseph Nelson, of St. Catharines, were called.

They took the wounded man to the St. Catharines hospital, where he arrived at 7.30 yesterday morning, and where he died an hour later. The bullet had penetrated his lung.

Previously in Tottingham.

W. R. Rodger, manager of the Imperial Bank of Canada at St. Davids, Ontario, who at the risk of his own life prevented a robbery from taking place, has been connected with that institution for the past twelve years.

Mr. Rodger joined the bank as a junior in Belwood, Ont., in 1913. With the exception of a year spent in the army he has been employed by the bank ever since. Previous to his appointment as manager of the St. Davids branch he served in branches in Tottingham, Ingersoll and St. Thomas. In April, 1923, he was appointed manager of the branch in St. Davids and has been there ever since.

This is the second time that an attempt has been made to rob the St. David's branch, the first attempt [illegible] made some years ago, also being frustrated by the courage of the bank manager, at that time a Mr. Wilson, now manager of the branch at Ingersoll.

Mr. Rodger joined the Royal Air Force during the war, but was prevented by an accident from going overseas. He is a man of about thirty years of age.

St. Davids has been something of a storm centre. Several times attempts have been made to rob the bank and there have been hold-ups.

The village is located in Lincoln County between St. Catharines and Niagara Falls.

'NO ELECTION YET,' SAYS PREMIER KING

Purpose of Meeting to Dispose of Routine After Cabinet Respite.

OTTAWA, July 16 (Canadian Press) — Premier Mackenzie King said last evening that there would be no decision in regard to an election for some time to come. The prime minister made a statement at the conclusion of the cabinet meeting which in additon to himself was attended by Right Hon. George P. Graham, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Hon. James Murdock, and Hon. A. B. Copp.

Mr. King said that the meeting had been called for the purpose of disposing of a number of routine matters which have accumulated during the ten days respite of cabinet. When asked whether there had been any decision in regard to the calling of a general election, Prime Minister laughted.

"You may be sure of one thing, that there won't be any decision in regard to any election for a good time to come," he replied.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM McKNIGHT.

MILLBROOK, July 16.—The late William McKnight, whose death occurred on Saturday, July 11, was born in South Monaghan Township sixty-eight years ago.

His parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKnight, were members of pioneer families who come to this country from County Down, Ireland, and it is almost a century since they settled in South Monaghan. Mrs. McKnight's family name was White, and a number of her relatives still reside in Monaghan Township. She could relate many interesting incidents in connection with the voyage, by sailing vessel, across the Atlantic, the journey occupying nine weeks, and the boat being towed by oxen up the St. Lawrence River as far as Montreal. Her marriage to Mr. McKnight took place some time after arrival in Canada, and their first home was in Monaghan. Fifty-three years ago they removed to Cavan Township, where they established a homestead on the Seventh Line.

The family, consisting of five boys and one girl, were all born in South Monaghan. Three brothers, John of Millbrook, Samuel of Saskatchewan, and Rev. Robert of Regina, survive their parents. The only daughter died about eighteen years ago, and besides the son, recently deceased, one other boy, David, passed away at Oxbow, Sask.

It will be forty-eight years next October since the late Mr. McKnight was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Hampton, also of Cavan, and the forty-sixth anniversary of their wedding-day was made the occasion of a special family gathering, when suitable gifts were presented to the "bride and groom" of almost half a century, and a delightful re-union was enjoyed.

Deceased was a Presbyterian in religion, a staunch Conservative in politics, and a faithful member of the Orange Order, being connected with Frazerville Lodge No. 46. He was also at one time a member of the Independent Order of Foresters.

Failing health manifested itself some twelve months or more ago, becoming more acute during the last three months particularly until death finally brought relief.

Besides his bereaved widow, the immediate surviving relatives are: three sons, Robert J., Cavan; William, of Vancouver, B.C.; John, of Fallis Line; and two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Armstrong, of Cavan, and Miss Ethel, at home. One son, David, predeceased his father some eight years ago.

The large gathering, representative of the entire community, which assembled at his late residence for the funeral on Tuesday, July 14, and the many beautiful floral tributes, including wreaths from the Orange and Rebekah Lodges, which covered the casket, were practical evidence of the high esteem and affection in which deceased was held.

Rev. G. Ingram Craw, Acting Moderator of the Peterboro Presbytery, had charge of the services at the house and graveside. Worshipful Master Brother Fred. Lewers, of Frazerville Lodge, and County Master Brother Jas. Roddy, taking the Orange ritual.

The pall-bearers were brother members of the Orange Order, and included: Jas. Roddy, J. H. Paul, J. L. Byam, S. Fallis, P. Stinson and A. J. Henderson.

Interment was in the family burial plot in the Presbyterian Cemetery.

THURSDAY, JULY 16, 1925.

A CHANCE TONIGHT.

Hundreds of Peterboro citizens who sympathize with the objects for which the Rotary Carnival is being held today, and who were unable to attend this afternoon, are reminded that the chance to assist Rotary's activities is still theirs.

The Carnival will be continued tonight with a programme that will provide plenty of entertainment.

The midway attractions will all be operating, probably much more busily than this afternoon.

These games, operated by Rotarians and Kiwanians, the latter generously assisting their sister service club, are offering splendid prizes, and those who fail to win will have the satisfaction of knowing that every five cents they expend will be used in bringing brightness into the life of some Peterboro youngster who up to the advent of such activities has not had a proper chance.

There will be music and dancing, bright lights and plenty of refreshments—in short, the opportunity is offered of a night's solid fun, enhanced by the knowledge that the entire proceeds will be devoted to making the crippled youngsters and under-privileged boys of Peterboro healthier, happier and more useful citizens.

Peterboro should move en masse to the Exhibition Grounds tonight and ensure the complete success of Rotary's Second Annual Carnival.

NOT MUCH CONSISTENCY.

The Ontario Government should call together its taxation officials with a view to arriving at a policy that is consistent—a description that cannot be applied to the present methods of collection.

Obviously the principle involved in the amusement tax and in the beverage tax is identically the same, but there seems to be a wide variance in the application of the two levies.

An official from the Amusement Tax Department who visited Peterboro recently found fault with the method used in collecting the amusement tax at ball games, the club making allowance for the passes issued and remitting the tax on these.

The inspector insisted that the patron who secures admission with a pass must pay the tax himself, and the regulations bear him out in that contention, so that there can be no complaint on that score.

But the beverage tax, which is supposed to be paid by the consumer, is in some cases been absorbed or partly absorbed by the manufacturer, in other cases wholly or partly absorbed by the retailer, and in still other instances the consumer not only pays the 6 cents per gallon tax but also gives the retailer who increased the price of his beverages a handsome profit on the transaction.

No wonder there is confusion as to just what is expected of people in connection with these new fangled taxes.

WHY NOT PETERBORO?

[illegible] those [illegible] almost complete failure of Canadians to celebrate fitting Dominion Day, there will be a measure of comfort in the announcement that plans are going forward for a pageant of Canada to take place in Montreal in 1927 to commemorate the diamond jubilee of Confederation.

There will be a general hope that the pageant will be a success, but all Canadians cannot visit Montreal for the celebration.

Why could there not be an effort made, therefore, to have the sixtieth anniversary observed throughout Canada in a fitting manner?

Why could not Peterboro, to get down to our own neighborhood, seize upon this opportunity to stage a worth-while celebration of Canada's natal day?

For years the anniversary has been neglected in this city.

A few citizens remember to hang up flags, and all who can get out of town for the holiday do not stay upon the order of their going.

The diamond jubilee year provides an opportunity to have a worth-while celebration of Dominion Day in 1927.

The Examiner hopes that the idea will be kept in mind by local organizations, and that something will be arranged before long that it may be stated definitely that Peterboro intends to make the sixtieth anniversary of Confederation a memorable day in the city's history.

MR. BRYAN IS WRONG.

William Jennings Bryan, politician, real estate promoter in Florida, hero of a thousand well-paid lecture tours, and now prosecuting counsel against the theory of evolution in the Scopes trial, has at least a good opinion of the importance of the trial at Dayton and the part he is to play in it, says the London Advertiser.

A few days ago he said, "If evolution wins in Dayton, Christianity goes, for the two cannot stand together. Christians will fight evolution as their only great foe. If they are wrong they will, of course, be defeated, and in their defeat they will be compelled to abandon the Bible as the word of God."

It is as though Mr. Bryan had laid aside his duties as promoter of huge real estate deals in Florida and stepped into the place once occupied by Elijah at Mount Carmel, where he fought it out with the prophets of Baal. The parallel could be carried even farther, for Mr. Bryan has reached over and borrowed the note of despair that prompted Elijah, even after the victory, to cry out "I, even I, only am left."

Mr. Bryan takes himself and the Dayton spectacle too seriously. The whole affair, as it progresses, looks as though it were being run for the benefit of those who have hot-dogs and fried onions for sale. It has not the earmarks of a gathering where men are seeking after light, but it has been caught up by the spirit of material gain that always stalks around where many thousands of people are away from home.

The wail of the silv--tongued orator that the Bible will have to go if the court at Dayton decides against it is so far from the truth that it goes over and pitches its tent with the ridiculous. The Bible has been the most attacked book in the world; it holds that position today, it has held it for hundreds of years, and it will continue to do so. Men and even nations have decided that it would have to go, but it has remained, and will continue to remain the world's greatest Book and the world's greatest seller. If its continued existence had depended on the puny defence that could be rushed to its aid by the finite and short-lived mind and intellect of man it would have long since perished. All the wisdom that is centred at Dayton can neither add to it or take from it.

THE DAY OF THE MOTOR BUS.

Financial Post: With the Peterboro Radial Railway showing a deficit, the Hydro Commission, which is operating the system, proposes a bus service to give a service which will meet public demands and build up revenue. Evidently the Hydro is coming to realize that radial railways have a real competitor in the motor bus. And it is only a couple of years ago that the Hydro did its best to plunge the Province into a program of radial building that was estimated to eventually involve a couple of hundred million dollars.

Ontario taxpayers can thank the Drury Government for one thing at least—it had the courage to appoint the Sutherland Commission which exposed the ridiculous unsoundness of the Hydro radial railway project.

PROBLEMS OF GREAT RIVERS.

Patriotic speeches delivered on the Fourth of July seldom say anything new, which is perhaps as well if we are to conserve those institutions for which the celebration stands. Some of the recent speeches were important, from the position of the men who delivered them, and it need hardly be said that the general tone was conservative. It should have been possible to expand the list of blessings which we owe to a political structure once established by the fathers. It is an open question whether we do not owe some to our geographical position, but we may cede them the benefit of the doubt. There are two acute questions in other parts of the world which bring out the enormous advantage we enjoy through the solidarity of a nation extending over half a continent. If we consider the problems raised by the river Danube, in which half a score of countries have rights of one kind or another, and the simpler but equally vexatious problem of the Nile, concerning, as it does, self-governing Egypt, the British Sudan and other smaller interests nearer to its source, we can appreciate what might be called the American parallel.

Let us suppose, as might have been easily possible, that the Mississippi had taken its rise in a colony of France and pursued its course through independent states, only American from New Orleans to the Gulf. What interminable problems might we not have had to face? In discussing the Eastern question people seem to think in terms of Asia Minor. But the Eastern question is largely the Danube. For political purposes the mouth of that river is not in the northwestern corner of the Black Sea, but at the Hellespont and the Dardanelles. It is guarded by the Peninsula of Galipoli, of tragic memory. It is, in a way, international, and we can imagine what an internationalized Mississippi might be. Through the blessings of the Rush-Bagot Treaty the St. Lawrence is part of our own unfortified northern frontier. It raises international questions in our relations with Canada, but they have never been military questions. If we are wise, we will take good care that domestic matters like Prohibition shall never set up military conditions on the great waterway which we now share peacefully with our neighbor.—Barron's, New York.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

L.O.L. NO. 1175 CELEBRATION.

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear sir:

Permit me to respectfully draw your attention to a slight error in your issue of this date, wherein you state that Millbrook had "Vimy Ridge L.O.B.A." of this city as one of the representatives of Peterboro at that celebration.

Through some error not yet explained, the "Vimy Ridge and Eastern Star" Lodges failed to receive the invitation extended them to join us, with the result that neither one of the aforementioned Ladies' Lodge shared the good time which was shown us at Millbrook, but, we were favoured with the assistance of "Quenellsba L.O.B.A. No. 486" of Keene, who with Worshipful Mistress, Miss Laura Richardson, and Guardians, Mr. R. McLauchlin and Mr. Jas. Grattan in charge, threw in their lot and helped us along considerably.

This ladies lodge made a splendid impression in the parade, and on behalf of L.O.L. No. 1175, I wish to tender them our many thanks for the wonderful showing they made, and trust that we may again be favoured with their company at some future date.

We were also fortunate enough in having with us "The Orange Young Britons", Past Master E. Hatcher, Past Master J. Johnston, Past Master J. Ball, Past Master C. Luffman, and our genial Mayor, J. J. Turner and Past Master R. Hendry.

In conclusion, I desire to thank all those, members and otherwise, who helped to make this celebration the success that it really was for L.O.L. No. 1175.

Yours truly,
W. G. HOWARD,
Worshipful Master.

But knowledge must be caught.

How best can we be taught?

That fills a crying need.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 15 (Canadian Press).—Cooler weather predictions pointing to likelihood of a check to damage to the Spring wheat crop gave a decided set-back to wheat values today, largely as a result, the closing in the wheat market was heavy, 1 5-8 to 2 3-4c net lower; September 151 3-4 to 152, and December 152 1-4 to 152 3-8; with corn 1 3-8 to 1 5-8c off, oats 3-8 to 1c down, and provisions varying from 30c decline to 12c advance.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, July 15 (Canadian Press).—Sterling closed on the local exchange today: Demand $4.85 3-8, cables $4.85 7-8.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 15. — Sales of cattle at the Union Stock Yards on Tuesday did not bulk very large, being only 993. There are now in the market upwards of 3,000 head and the demand does not appear heavy enough to absorb them unless prices are made attractive. Receipts today are 71 cars, 844 cattle, 511 calves, 1,606 hogs and 369 sheep and lambs. The large offering of butchers' cattle are not the kind wanted. Many thin plain butchers unfitted for anything but canners. Baby beeves sold well.

Stockers and feeders are a drag at present as most farmers are too busy to give them attention. A load of fairly good Ontario feeders, nearly 1,000 lbs. each are going out today, at $5.40 a cwt, and several loads of Western stockers are still on hand without a bidder. Rogers and Maybee are desirous of accumulating export cattle for next week and have little on hand at present. They are buyers today of any that can qualify at all for the Old Country market.

Any fat butchers are selling fairly well from $7 to $7.50 a cwt., but those only well warmed up are $1 a cwt, below this. One load of 1,200 lb. steers was taken for export at $7.75 a cwt., but mixed handyweights for overseas were bought from $7 to $7.40 a cwt. Export bulls cost from $5 to $5.75 and export cows $5.50 to $5.75 a cwt., Butchers' cows are selling easy, the bulk of the good ones going at $4.50 to $4.75 a cwt. All the good butchers' cattle will be sold today and the only left-overs will be unfinished cattle which should not have been sent in.

Buffalo has weak ened perceptibly on calf prices and this market is not too good. The majority of good calves were sold at 9 to 9 1-2 cents a pound, and good mediums were 8 to 8 1-2 cents.

The run of lambs up till today was apparently over-discounted and prices are now firm. Mixed ewes and bucks sold at 15 1-2 to 15 3-4 cents a pound. Straight choice ewes were 16 1-2 to 17 cents and bucks were two cents a pound lower.

Salesmen of hogs had to meet the buyers on Tuesday and all tickets were marked $12.50 a cwt. f.o.b., and $13.50 off cars. This is also the price today and is expected to be so for the balance of the week.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL July 15 (Canadian Press).—Owing to very warm weather the demand for eggs has been curtailed in the local market and the volume of business is small. Prices were fully maintained today with sales of specials at 42c, fresh extras at 40c, firsts at 36c, and seconds at 33c per dozen. The receipts yesterday were 1,420 cases, as compared with 1,468 for the same day last week, and 2,176 for the corresponding day a year ago.

A fair amount of business continues in cold storage dressed poultry. Stocks on spot are being steadily reduced and prices rule fairly steady with sales of 10 to 12 lb. turkeys at 40c to 43c per lb., 5 to 9 lb. birds at 32c to 39c per lb., milk-fed chickens at 35c to 40c per lb., slected chickens at 34c to 36c per lb., selected fowl at 18c to 28c per lb., selected ducks at 24c to 26c per lb., and selected geese at 18c to 22c per lb.

Receipts of butter today were 2,367 packages, compared with 6,235 for the same day last week, and 468 for the corresponding day a year ago. Business was quieter in all directions, but the undertone to the market was firm and prices were maintained with Western No. 1 pasteurized creamery quoted at 37c per lb., Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 36 1-2c to 36 3-4c per lb., No. 1 creamery at 35 1-2c to 34 3-4c per lb., and No. 2 creamery at 34 1-2c to 34 3-4c per lb. The trade in a wholesome jobbing way was reported steady, there being a fair demand for small lots to meet immediate wants, and sales of finest creamery were made at 38c per lb in solid packages, and t 39c pear lb. in 1 lb. blocks.

Receipts of cheese were 11,056 boxes, as against 8,327 for the same day last week, and 11,210 for the corresponding day a year ago. The demand from foreign buyers continues steady for supplies and as the prices bid in most cases were in line with exporters' views a very fair volume of business was done and the market was moderately active with a firm undertone. There was also business done on spot in Western No. 1 white and colored at 22 1-8c to 22 3-8c per lb., and in Eastern at 21 7-8c to 22c per lb.

TENNESSEE CONCLUDES ITS CASE AGAINST TEACHER OF EVOLUTION

Prosecuting Attorneys Oppose Admission of Evidence For Scopes By Scientists — Jury Excluded While Point is Argued.

DEFENCE RENEW THEIR CLAIM TO-DAY.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 16.—Argument as to the competency of scientific testimony in the Scopes case was begun in the court room here to-day, a development eagerly expected by participants and lookers-on in Dayton. The State had expected its case and one scientific witness, Dr. Maynard M. Metcalf, former professor of zoology at Oberlin College, Ohio, was on the witness stand for the defense when court adjourned Wednesday.

His testimony, however, has not yet been made a part of the record of the case, for prosecution attorneys voiced objection when questions concerning evolution were asked him and the jury was retired from the room. With the jury out of the court room defense attorneys were permitted to ask Dr. Metcalf a number of questions concerning the subject which he has made his life study.

The defense hopes to prove by Dr. Metcalf and other scientists that there is no conflict between evolution theories and Christianity. One of the questions asked the witness yesterday afternoon concerned his church affiliations. He testified that he is now a member of the Congregationalist church and form-erly was a member of the Presbyterian church. He has taught two Bible classes, he said.

The case moved rapidly after reaching the stage of actual testimony. The first witness took his place on the stand at the second session of the court.

The more or less neglected jury was brought into the court room after an extended period of exclusion. A plea of "not guilty" was entered for John T. Scope by one of his attorneys.

FILAMENTLESS LAMPS

Inventor Claims That New Bulbs Will Cost Less and Burn Longer.

Through the invention of an electric light bulb that requires no filament, Conrad Schickerling of Newark, N. J., claims that municipal lighting bills may be cut in half. A 500-watt lamp of the new type, he says, will burn twice as long as filament lamps and consume less than half the current now required. The inventor also has made lamps of two-watt size for use on signs, and auto lamps of two candlepower and higher, without filaments, says Popular Science Monthly for August. Still another of his inventions is a vacuum tube filament or grid, designed especially for alternating current rectification in radio B-battery eliminators.

PLUCKY BANK MANAGER AND HIS WIFE TO RECEIVE REWARD FOR FRUSTRATING ROBBERY OF BANK

May Be Cash For Woman Who Shot Gunman Attacking Her Husband.

MAY BE PROMOTION.

Mrs. W. A. Rodger Seeks Rest and Quiet After Thrilling Experience.

TORONTO, July 16.—That Mrs. W. A. Rodger, wife of the manager of the Imperial Bank branch office at St. Davids, will be eligible for the standing reward offered by the Bankers' Association for the capture of bank robbers, is the opinion held by officials of the head office of the Imperial Bank.

Secretary More stated yesterday that he confide[illegible] that recognition would be forthcoming from the Canadian Bankers' Association to Mrs. Rodger for her plucky act.

He said that the reward was fixed at a maximum of $5,000 and that circumstances governed its allotment, all the facts being taken into consideration before the amount was definitely fixed and sent to the person entitled to it.

The Imperial Bank has not yet taken any official action in this matter. Such action is pretty sure to come in the next few days, however, for the executives feel that both Mr. Rodger and his plucky wife are deserving of substantial recognition.

This may take the form of accelerated promotion and perhaps transfer to a more important centre than St. Davids.

TO RECOVER FROM SHOCK.

ST. CATHARINES, July 16.—Canadian Press).—After having frustrated the robbery of the Imperial Bank at St. Davids and probably saved the life of her husband, the manager, by shooting to death Mat Kolidee of Hamilton, a gunman with whom he was battling unarmed, Mrs. W. R. Rodger left with her husband yesterday afternoon for Ingersoll, a former home, for a rest after her thrilling experience.

Mrs. Rodger happened upon the scene after her husband, aroused by the presence of an intruder in their living apartments over the bank had been ordered to hold up his hands, but instead put up a defence. Mr. Rodger, although beaten on the head by the butt end of a revolver and shot through the finger, had succeeded in getting the gun-man out of the house on to a back balcony, twenty feet from the ground, over which Kolidee was trying to throw him, when she appeared with a 38 calibre revolver and shot her husband's assailant through the shoulder. The bullet pierced Kolidee's lung, and he died three hours later in the St. Catharines General Hospital. Coroner Currey opened an inquest yesterday afternoon.

In describing the events of Tuesday night, Mrs. Rodger said yesterday:

"On the second floor of our home in St. Davids there is both a back balcony and a side balcony. My husband and I are accustomed to use the latter as a sleeping porch.

"Last night we had retired at about the usual time, but around 11 o'clock, we were wakened by the barking of our collie dog 'Rover.' Mr. Rodger got up and went down to see what was wrong. He found the basement door open and, accompanied by the dog, went down the cellar, but found everything apparently in order.

"Following that, however, I did not sleep as soundly as I had been doing and around four o'clock in the morning or shortly after, I wakened and saw that our little grey kitten had come into the room and climbed up on the bed.

Heard Revolver Shot.

"Knowing that the kitten had been previously locked out, I woke up my husband and said, 'How did the kitten get in?'

"He did not know, but got up to put it out, going through the dining room and kitchen to do so. As he was coming through the dining room on his way back somebody shouted out, 'Hands up.'

"Then before Mr. Rodger could have had time to put up his hands or to do anything else, there was a

7,000,000 Damage By Hail In Alberta This Season

EDMONTON, Alta., July 16—More than seven million dollars damage by hail has been done to grain crops in Alberta this summer, according to information received by the Provincial Department of Agriculture. The department has been investigating the situation and has been getting reports from all the hail insurance companies and the municipal hail insurance boards, which go to show that about 3,000 claims for damage by hail have been received to date.

Hon. George Hoaley, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, points out that at a fair average of 100 acres per claim and on the basis of tota lloss, as usually figured by the insurance companies with an estimated value of $1.50 per bushel of wheat, there will be a loss of $25 per acre, or $7,500,000, as a total loss to be deducted from the province's grain yield.

MARITIME PROVINCES

form as presented by a resolutions committee and adopted by the meeting unanimously. The committee will be chosen after general discussion of the resolution, which will take place at an evening session.

A. D. Ganong, St. Stephen, who presented the resolution, said he felt it embodied all the things which had been proposed in more extended form in the tentative agenda with perhaps the exception of one reading: "Rearrangements of tariff to equalize application to different provinces." It also covered, he thought, one presented yesterday by the Maritime Section of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, asking that special committees be appointed, representing various interests to make an exhaustive study of the matters in the agenda and that experts be employed if necessary. The resolution actually adopted reads:

"Resolved that the following subjects be discussed at this meeting and that these subjects after discussion be submitted to select committees for reports and recommendations to be presented at an adjourned meeting to be held in Charlottetown: Transportation, industrial development, immigration and economic status of the Maritime Provinces under the Confederation agreement."

The resolutions committee consisted of J. Fred Fraser, M.P.P., Halifax; C. H. Reid, Amherst; J. W. Hyndman, Charlottetown; F. R. Burke, Alberton; J. B. Palmer, Fredericton; A. P. Paterson, Saint John; A. D. Ganong, St. Stephen, and F. Maclure Sclanders, Saint John.

Promote Local Prosperity.

A keynote was given to the meeting shortly after its opening by A. M. Belding, Saint John, who said in part:

"While we represent the Maritime Provinces, we meet also as Canadians anxious to promote national unity and believing that what we will submit to representatives of other divisions of Canada will make for national as well as local prosperity and unity.

"If, however, anyone among us entertains a thought of introducing politics I am sure you will all agree with me that his train is waiting.

"No time should be wasted in discussion of past rights or wrongs, but the discussion should be devoted entirely to ways in which our economic conditions may now be improved by the co-operation of the rest of the country.

"If a second conference is held, as I believe it should be, it ought to be held in Charlottetown where in 1864 another famous conference adopted a policy which brought about the conditions that now bear so heavily upon our people."

In conclusion, Mr. Belding said: "The eyes of Canada are upon you—asking the fair question, 'What do you want?'"

Opportunity in West Indies.

H. J. Logan, M.P., Cumberland, in an address, pointed to the West Indies as the land of opportunity for Maritime trade and laid the responsibility upon the business men of these provinces, if they did not take advantage of the recent West Indian treaty and profit by the immense southern trade which hitherto has been cornered by the United States.

Dr. Murray McLaren, Saint John, dealt with the opportunities the West Indies offered.

J. W. Hyndman, president of the Prince Edward Island Associated Boards of Trade, said the next conference in Charlottetown, could be held in the same room in which the Fathers of Confederation met, and assured the delegates a hearty island welcome.

M. E. Agar, Saint John, vice-president of the Maritime Board of Trade, expressed gratitude for the stick-to-it-iveness of the Maritime Board, regretted that the hearty co-operation of the Provincial governments had not yet been secured but believed that this would come in the future, and impressed upon the meeting that the Maritime provinces must be firm in their demand for Canadian trade through Canadian ports.

H. P. S. Paisley, Sydney, said the Board of Trade of that city was in hearty sympathy with the problems of the rest of the Maritime provinces although having itself to contend with problems which were largely peculiar to it.

Matthew Lodge, director of the Canadian National Railways, believed the conference the most important held in years.

Dr. Hamilton Wigle, Sackville, referred to the immense potentialities residing in almost every acre of the Maritimes.

Premiers Absent.

The three Premiers were unable to be present, Premier Veniot of New Brunswick, sending his regrets by telegram, that press of other matters prevented, but expressing his good wishes; Premier-elect Rhodes, of Nova Scotia being unable to come, because of the incoming of his government to-morrow; and Premier Stewart of Prince Edward Island, being detained by the ceremonies incident upon the "old home week" in progress in his province.

MOUNTED POLICE SEIZE BOOKS OF FRUIT JOBBERS

Combines Act of Canada Invoke Against Winnipeg and Calgary Wholesalers.

DOCUMENTS TAKEN.

Raid Follows Recent Report of Duncan Commission Alleging Fruit Combine.

WINNIPEG, July 16 (Canadian Press).—Armed with a search warrant, issued under the Combines Act of Canada, a squad of Royal Canadian Mounted Police invaded "Fruit Row," in the wholesale business section of Winnipeg yesterday and seized documents and books or several fruit companies, and took complete possession of the offices. Four Nash Brothers' establishments were taken control of—Stirling Fruit Co., Rogers' Fruit Co., Dingte and Stewart, and Bright-Emery Co.—while the offices of the Mutual Brokers, Nash Shareholders, and Mutual Purchase Company, all connected with the Nash Brothers' business, were visited.

The "raid" was in connection with the Duncan Commission Report covering fruit distribution in Western Canada.

Business is allowed to go on in the warehouses, but the book-keepers are not allowed to handle books, and no transactions of sales are being made. Numerous documents were seized, and will be taken to the police barracks.

J. C. McRur, K.C., who will conduct the prosecution under the Combines Act in connection with the Duncan report, visited Winnipeg a few days ago, and conferred with members of the Provincial police.

Mounted police also visited the business offices of three establishments in Calgary, and took control of the books and business papers. The firms are: Mutual Brokers, Acme Fruit Company, and Mitchell Fruit Company, all affiliated with the Nash interests.

Officials of the Company, protesting that they could not carry on business if all their books were removed, applied through thir counsel to get a ruling on the matter.

No books were removed from the Calgary offices.

PURSUES HIS EWE; LOSE RECORDS TOO

Man Catches Bull Pup and Rescues Sheep, But Pedigrees Gone.

MELVILLE, Sask., July 16. — (Canadian Press).—Troubles, it is said, never come singly. D. C. Jones, a prominent sheep raiser of Bangor, Sask., believes it. Just as he had loaded his exhibit sheep at the station here recently, a bull terrior seized a yearling prize ewe, and ran off with it. Mr. Jones finding a valise he was carrying hampered the pursuit, dropped it. After a spirited chase, he caught the dog and recovered the lamb; but not the valise. It had disappeared with all his valuable records and pedigrees.

WHEAT TRAFFIC SET RECORD ON CANALS IN 1924

The Welland Canal Registered 99,813,360 Bushels of Wheat Last Season.

OTHER GRAIN, TOO.

Iron Ore Traffic Through Sault Locks Decreased 28 Per Cent.

OTTAWA, July 16 (Canadian Press).Canada's canal traffic during last year was featured by the large increase in grain shipments down the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals, according to a report just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and prepared in collaboration with the Department of Railways and Canals. The total traffic on those canals was materially increased beyond that of any previous year.

On the welland Canal, the grain shipments aggregated 3,644,330 tons wheat amounting to 2,994,419 tons or 99,813,960 bushels. This was an increase over 1923 traffic of 24,495,430 bushels of Canadian wheat and 11,472,439 bushels of United States wheat.

Another feature was the movement of Canadian wheat from the head of the Lakes to Buffalo, N.Y., where it was transferred to Welland canal boats and forwarded to Montreal. During the year, 16,645,000 bushels were shipped in this manner, the average freight rate for the season on this route being 8.79 cents per bushel, which was slightly lower than either the through rate to Montreal or the combined rate of wheat transhipped at Port Colborne.

Iron Ore Traffic Less.

The Iron ore traffic, which is the predominating traffic through the Sault Ste. Marie canals, showed a decrease from that of 1923 of 16,856,306 tons or 28 per cent. It should be noted, however, that the iron traffic of 1923 was exceeded only by that of 1916, 1917 and 1918.

During the season, thirteen cargoes, consisting of seven pulpwood, two peebles, two iron and steel, one sugar and one china clay passed up the St. Lawrence Canals from English, European, Newfoundland and United States Atlantic ports.

Two vessels brought up five cargoes of pulpwood, while five of the vessels were on their way up to enter the grain trade and three of them made only one trip.

CLEMENCY PETITION FOR GAMEKEEPER

States That Crossen Was a Faithful Servant and Was Guarding Property.

COBOURG, July 16.— Petition blanks are being circulated in Cobourg and district asking for clemency for William John Crossen, gamekeeper, who was tried on a charge of manslaughter at the Cobourg Assizes last year, and sentenced by Mr. Justice Wright to six years imprisonment. The petition is said to state in part:

That Mr. Crossen was a faithful servant and at the time of the casualty was guarding his employer's property, at night.

That while Mr. Crossen contends that the casualty was an accident, the jury upon evidence given, found accused guilty of negligence and consequently manslaughter.

That the public have now been sufficiently warned by the sentence imposed upon Crossen that firearms are not to be used indiscriminately and carelessly, while other reasons are also brought forward.

It will be remembered by the public generally that in the early hours of a Sunday morning in the spring of 1924, Byron McCrodan of Toronto was fatally shot, succumbing to his injuries about a week later, and Edward Rowe of Cobourg, was wounded in the leg, at a private fishing preserve near Baltimore.

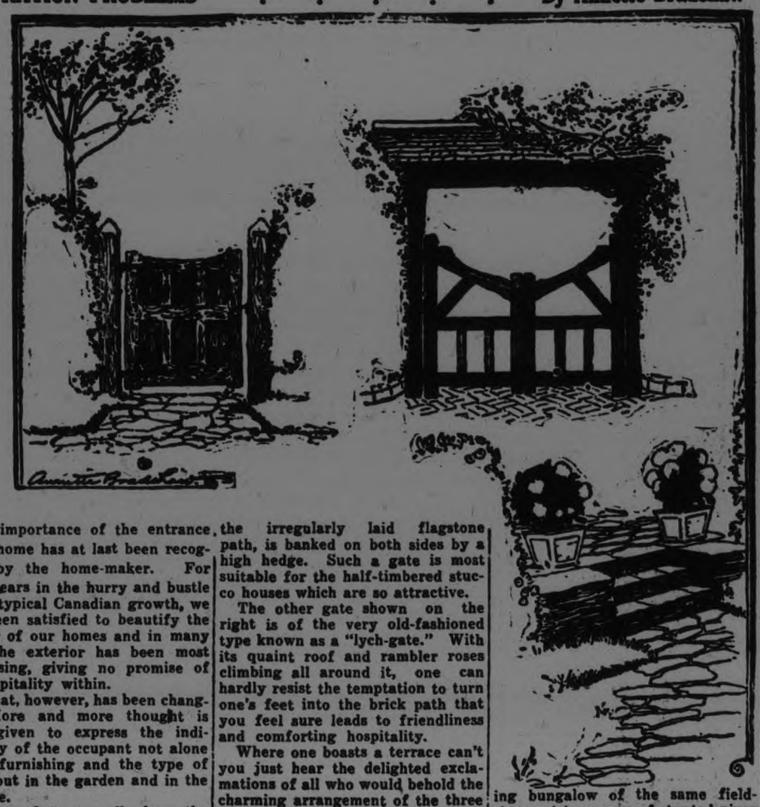
DECORATION PROBLEMS

By Annette Bradshaw



The importance of the entrance to the home has at last been recognized by the home-maker. For many years in the hurry and bustle of our typical Canadian growth, we have been satisfied to beautify the interior of our homes and in many cases the exterior has been most unimposing, giving no promise of the hospitality within.

All that, however, has been changed. More and more thought is being given to express the individuality of the occupant not alone in the furnishing and the type of house, but in the garden and in the entrance.

It is good to see all along the roads the many homes that are having gates—real gates with posts and lanterns—to welcome you.

In the sketch are two that particularly appeal. The old weather-beaten oak gate on the left with its wrought iron hinges and the irregularly laid flagstone path, is banked on both sides by a high hedge. Such a gate is most suitable for the half-timbered stucco houses which are so attractive.

The other gate shown on the right is of the very old-fashioned type known as a "lych-gate." With its quaint roof and rambler roses climbing all around it, one can hardly resist the temptation to turn one's feet into the brick path that you feel sure leads to friendliness and comforting hospitality.

Where one boasts a terrace can't you just hear the delighted exclamations of all who would behold the charming arrangement of the three field-stone steps with their quaint tubs of hydrangeas standing guard on either side? The field-stone is also utilized as a path to the house—not a prim straight path, but one of those that just seems to wander at will, without losing sight of its destination—in this case a charming bungalow of the same field-stone set in a mass of stunted pines and cedars, with gay borders of old-fashioned flowers. And the living-room would boast a fireplace of field-stone set across the corner with a kettle that would cheerily purr at the first sign of cold weather.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES AN IDEAL COUNTRY CLUB FROCK.

Miss Miller came into the shop today, dressed in the trimmest of dark silk street frocks.

"Why, what are you doing in town in such hot weather?" I asked her.

Miss Miller goes down on Long Island in the summer, and she seldom comes into town unless something urgent brings her.

"Oh, dear, the clothes question is what brought me up on a train at dawn," she answered, stifling a yawn.

"I suppose you want to consult Madame?" I queried.

"Crazy to put my problem before her," Miss Miller replied.

"Oh, dear, I thought I had piles of summer clothes when I left you last, but here I am for another frock," Miss Miller announced to Madame.

"What kind of frock?" Madame asked her.

"I need a sort of semi-evening affair that I can wear to the Country Club dances when I don't want to wear real evening clothes," Miss Miller explained.

"Let me see," Madame mused to herself.

Then she looked up and asked:

"I didn't make you anything of organdie, did I?"

"No," Miss Miller answered.

"Then you shall have an organdie Country Club frock, and it will be of corn color," Madame announced.

"I rather like the sound of that," the client replied.

"You'll like the simplicity of it," Madame told her.

"Then it won't be a fussy organdie?" Miss Miller asked.

"My dear young girl, I know how you hate what you term fussy clothes, and I [illegible] inflict such a frock on you for the world," Madame assured her.

The next step was to send me to model a pale blue organdie we have in stock. It is one of the newest numbers, and Madame proposed to make Miss Miller the same thing in corn color.

I slipped into the straight little sleeveless dress with its fagotting dyed to match and its slightly fulled tunic skirt.

"That is a dream!" Miss Miller commented, as I came out upon the little stage.

This Corn Colored Organdie is Trimmed with Fagotting and French Flowers.

"You will be delighted with the corn tinted organdie, I'm sure," Madame said. "I'll send immediately to have some fagotting dyed to match, and we'll have field flowers of [illegible] lovely color for [illegible] ornament in the waistline."

Miss Miller was all smiles, and declared that her trip to town had turned out most successfully. She said:

"It means I've found what I know I shall like, and I'd travel miles to find [illegible] frock I really enjoy wearing."

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1925

To Fool the Censor

NEW YORK, July 16.—(United Press).—

The bathing suit is short and cute
Though censors can't abide it
So one must wear a bathing cape
And there try to hide it.

The beach cape is one thing. The bathing cape another. One is worn merely as adornment whereas the other is worn to the edge of the water and hastily donned again after the dip before the censor can measure the length of ones bathing skirt.

Suits are as short as possible this year. And censors are out with tape-measures and magnifying glasses. Just how long a suit must be to escape the scorn of the censor seems to be a matter entirely up to the censor. He gages by limbs and not by inches. Many a fat woman displays more than her alloted share of netherlimb without his disapproval. But let a cute little slender limbed flapper show a pound more than she should and he's after her.

Hence, the bathing cape, which many girls trail into the water with them. These are made of rubber, rubberized silk of Turkish toweling, in vivid colors harmonizing with the suit. Rubberized capes in batik designs combining two or more colors are numerous and these vary in-experience. Rubberized silks in high colors, especially in orange shades, are very bright spots upon the beaches. Turkish toweling capes printed in cretonne designs are easily made and act as towels as well as beach wraps. There are capes of transparent rubberized silk similar to the transparent raincoats and many girls wear these, their figures showing through them in silhouette effect.

Of course, cretonne capes need [illegible]. Most of them are made to match the cretonne bathing suit.

Let's Talk It Over

HALO OF THE GENTLE SEX IS SCRUTINIZED.

I'm a woman. I like my sex. It's exactly the sex I would have chosen had I had my choice. But that doesn't mean that I am laboring under any delusion about myself or my sisters. We're a fine gang, taken as a whole, and the world couldn't get along without us. But we're a long way from qualifying for angels, and most of us know it. So when Doctor Charles Gray Shaw stands up and says that women have more morality and individuality than men, I grin to myself and think what a lot a man may NOT know and still be a Doctor of Philosophy..

So right here in the coarse but efficient phraseology of the day, I'm going to "spill the dirt" on this super-holiness-of-women tradition. I am not going to do it because I have a grudge against Ella and Milly and Sally and Kate. I'm going to do it because Us Girls are fed up on that tradition and tired of paying surtaxes on a lotta bunk. I dont' know when that tradition started. It certainly didn't start with Adam. That bird wasn't hampered by any ideas of chivalry. At the very first sign of trouble he blamed Eve, so it's plain what he thought of the ladies. Most of the early fathers seemed to have shared his ideas, judging by the little ways they had of stoning and hamstringing the female of the species, selling them as slaves or leaving them to starve on the desert. But somehow along in the middle ages, a bright idea struck the John Henrys.

"We will invent chivalry," they cried. "We will put women away up on a pedestal and worship her and give her a lot of talk about her being cleaner and finer and—" Then they began to whisper among themselves and snicker. So they invented chivalry. For a while every thing was jake—it made a wonderful hit. The ladies liked it, they swallowed it, bait, hook and sinker. After you've been kicked around for a couple of million years and been sold for a slave and hamstrung, it feels pretty nice to sit on a pedestal and listen to love songs. Moreover, you're not human if you don't take readily to the information that you're better than anyone else. The idea almost sells itself.

So women sat on pedestals and heard how much better they were, and believed every word of it. Most of 'em believe it yet. But gradually a few of them began to put two and two together and make a mean seven out of it. They saw that, although Algernon and Percival and Lancelot caroled of women's purity, they didn't feel obliged to change their daily program because of it. No, indeedy. Instead, they raised even more Cain than hitherto, and when Mirandy remonstrated, they retorted that "men couldn't help themselves," for they were born that way and women weren't. And that was that! Also on the pretence that woman was too pure to meddle in gross affairs, they hogged most of the fun of living, passed laws restraining her that would have been resented by any self-respecting cow, and gave her the neck of the chicken generally.

Naturally, that sort of graft couldn't last forever. Along about the beginning of the twentieth century it struck a large leak, although, as I have before stated, most of the ladies are still clinging to it pretty hard. And the men are still passing it out, as per example Dr. Charles Gray Shaw. Maybe Dr. Shaw believes it, and maybe he's so used to saying it that it's automatic. But, at any rate, it's the truth.

WOMEN ARE NOT BETTER THAN MEN.

THEY ARE JUST AS FOOLFISH—JUST AS CRUEL.

AS HATEFUL—JUST AS SELFISH—JUST AS GREEDY—JUST

I doubt whether Us Girls have more individuality than men.

HOME TOWN RECIPE

A hot weather drink that is described as having more "body" to it than the ordinary water sherbet is a milk sherbet, made from a recipe furnished by Mrs. H. B. Dean, 114 Hunter street:

To 1 quart of milk add the well-beaten whites of two eggs, and to 2 cups of sugar add the juice of 3 lemons. Mix all together, stir well, to avoid curdling, then freeze.

WILL YOU HAVE A MOONLIGHT FROCK?

An ensemble dress makes an effective costume. A model in black georgette over printed silk crepe is lovely. The crepe, in black and white design, is really a sort of slip, with the overdress of georgette attached at the waist and the cuffs of the sleeves, which are long. The long loose coat of the georgette is knife pleated, with steel buttons as trimming.

It has as a neighbor a shimmery moonlight dance frock, with a greenish tinge to the combination of poudre blue georgette over bright yellow crepe. The front is inset with a cream lace panel, bordered by tiny lace ruchings, with a low waist line defined by a double row of tiny French buds, and hanging streamers of pale pink and yellow ribbon.

A plain canton crepe in olive green has an effective skirt drapery of shower-dot knife-pleated crepe in the same shade, with a simulated handkerchief of the dotted material attached to the left slit pocket.

Here too is a linen frock that looks like a pink and white and blue striped candy, and one of the silk broadcloths in mauve and white stripes, the upper portion, reminiscent of a smock, having the stripes placed vertically, while the skirt has them in horizontal lines.

A row of little, almond-shaped steel buckles extends from the neck to the hem of another frock that is developed in bright cerise crepe, with the same little adornments heading the pleated side panels on the skirt.

The vogue for patterned goods is apparent in a dress whose entire body, with the exception of a deep hem of plain material, is of rust crepe, with a Paisley design, the front trimmed with jabots of the plain goods.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am a girl about sixteen years of age. The boy friend whom I like shows preference to my dearest girl friend. Shall I forget him and prove true to her?

WILL-O'-TH'-WISP.

WILL-O'-TH'-WISP: If he likes your friend better than you, hand him over to her immediately. And if the situation becomes uncomfortable for you, get another girl chum. At sixteen years of age, the world lies all before you, with any number of boy and girl friends whom you will meet on the way.

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am 22 years of age, and have been "keeping company" with a young man for four years. He says he loves me, and he shows it in every way. I liked him and we were engaged not long ago. About a month ago I went away on a visit. There I met another young man. We have fell in love with each other and now I like him better than the other young man. Which shall I choose, and how can I tell my betrothed?

Please advise me what to do.

UNDECIDED.

UNDECIDED: If you have been "keeping company" with one man four years and have known the other only about a month, are you quite sure that the second man will wear as well as the first has evidently done? However, I notice you say that you "liked" the first suitor and that you are "in love" with the second. By all means, marry the one you love, if he really loves you. We know of a case where a romantic girl gave up a solid, if somewhat uninteresting man for a visiting cavalier whose ways were very beguiling. The second gentleman sent her an announcement of his marriage to a Toronto girl a month later.

When you have made up your mind, tell your betrothed at once. Tell him all the circumstances. He will hardly want to hold you to your promise if you are not in love with him. If he is sensible, he will in all probability find someone else to console him in time. There is a somewhat ironic but truthful saying which puts it so, "Men have died through the ages, and the worms have eaten them, but not for love."

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am a girl in my teens and dearly love a young man a few years older than myself.

How can I find out whether he loves me or not? ANNA.

ANNA: It is not your place to broach the subject of love, my dear, and for the present you will have to content yourself with this young man's friendship. Perhaps, later on, when your friendship has reached a more sympathetic stage, he will muster up enough courage to tell you of his love. But until then meet your other friends, have a jolly good time and try not to brood over the problems of love which come your way.

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am a young man about twenty one years old and am in love with a girl three years younger than I. She says she loves me, but it seems as if she doesn't care much for me, although she won't go out with anyone else.

Would it be advisable for me to continue my friendship with [illegible]

B. H. O.

B. H. O.: If this young lady has refused the attentions of other young men, there is no doubt of her affection for you, Mr. O. If you enjoy her company and are sincerely fond of her, you most certainly should continue your friendship with her.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of The Examiner and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office. Owing to the number received there may be a few days delay. Be patient.

USING A CLOCK ON THE HOUSEHOLD TASKS.

As one housewife to another, what do you do with your time? Have you ever stopped to consider why some women have time to do the things they want to do, while you do not? It is because they have acquired the mastery of time.

There are just so many things to do each day and just so many hours to do them in. If we watch the clock we will know just about how long each task takes. If we find that we have no time for other things besides work, there is something wrong with our system.

The old-fashioned method was: Monday, wash; Tuesday, iron; Wednesday, clean silver, windows and do the odd jobs; Thursday, clean upstairs; Friday, clean downstairs; Saturday, clean kitchens and pantries and bake; Sunday, cook the necessary things and do as little else as possible. The plans were good and there were but few of the many helpful conveniences that we have today to lighten the labors. Today for Monday we have the washing machine of some good make. It does the wash in a quarter the time that it used to take. The electric iron smooths the things that have been dried in a drying room, over radiators, on a roof or in a sunny yard in record time.

Fashions have changed and clothing is simplified, shirts are sent to a laundry in most cases, tablecloths have given place to mat sets, and petticoats are not worn.

In the city there are men who wash windows, clean floors and rugs. This may be done while you clean silver with modern polishes that do the work well and in half the time it used to take. With the vacuum and its attachments, up and downstairs may be cleaned in a day, with all the polishing and extras. Saturday baking and cooking has also become simplified in most households w[illegible] bread a[illegible] are bought at the [illegible] is also made easy by keeping the place orderly daily.

That "Kruschen" Feeling!

Welcome Everywhere

Wherever he goes, Grandpa is the life and soul of the party.

His merry laughter is infectious. Nobody can resist his endless flow of high spirits. He has even been known to make a tax collector smile.

His breezy good-humour and amazing energy both spring from his unfailing good health; and the source of his unfailing good health is the tasteless pinch of Kruschen he takes every morning in his breakfast cup of coffee or tea.

As Grandpa is so fond of saying, "It's the little daily dimeful that does it."

Profit yourself by his experience. Don't allow your energy to be sapped, your constitution undermined by the indoor life you are forced to lead, with insufficient fresh air and exercise, business worries and hasty meals. You can wipe out the ill effects of these conditions if you follow the Kruschen Way to Health.

Every little pinch of Kruschen is a combination of just the six salts your body needs every day for its health. Nature would supply you with these six salts if you led a natural life in the open air and indulged in no errors of diet. It is in supplying the daily deficiency of these vital salts, caused by modern conditions of life, that Kruschen is invaluable.

What the "little daily dimeful" does is clear your system of all the clogging waste matter that has been lowering your vitality, and to send pure, refreshed blood coursing through your veins. In a few days you feel a new being — braced in body and in mind, ready to tackle your work and your play with an unwonted zest and capacity.

Get a 75c bottle of Kruschen now and begin to test for yourself the virtue of the "little daily dimeful." Continue taking it after you've acquired "that Kruschen feeling" of fitness and cheeriness, for your body is in daily need of the good that Kruschen does.

Half a cent a day is the cost of insuring your health and happiness. Isn't it worth while?

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

NATURE LORE

By WALLACE HAVELOCK ROBB

What we think of wild animals and birds, of their comical ways and their habits, is certainly interesting, but did you ever wonder what they think of us?

Not long ago, I read in a scientific natural history magazine, a statement to the effect that birds have no human reasoning power, that they have no human intelligence, such as we dreamers and nature lovers claim for them, and all that sort of thing.

Well, all I can say is this: the person who says that wild things have no intelligence akin to our own, has a lot of explaining to do.

Listen folks:

When I used to go hunting ducks, and ducks are supposed to be stupid, I could not get anywhere near them. I remember going up a little river, in a flat bottom boat with an outboard motor. I knew there were mother ducks and young ones up there and I would surely corner them.

I went up, gun and all, to shoot ducks. That was my idea before I had knowledge of them.

When I got up the river, I spotted an old black duck with seven young ones. I gave chase and they made for some submerged stumps. They reached the stumps, separated and hid. Then when I approached, they would make off, dodging behind every stump they passed, keeping these in line with me, so that I could not have fired had I wanted to.

Now, I do not claim that this was brains. Maybe it was instinct of self preservation, just hiding. But listen again: No ducks ever came near my place, a little island, when I was a gunner, though I never shot any there, but now, I can go out in a motor boat and chase all about, heading right for the old girl and her young ones, but she brings them right back to our place before long, acting in a manner that convinces me she has more intelligence than some humans.

I chase an old duck and young, with a motor boat, and they disappeared for good. It was dangerous. Now, I chase them like mad, they scatter, and the next morning they are preening their feathers on my dock. Nothing proved yet. Wait till to-morrow.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A TWO-MEAL REMEDY FOR GASTRIC ULCER.

Either because it really is more common, or because we recognize it nowadays, gastric ulcer has become a fashionable disease. Almost every day we hear of a friend who has it.

The stomach has a lining of mucous membrane which is just like the mucous lining of any other part of the body; for instance, the mouth or the throat. It is liable to damage and ulceration and to other diseases.

If you ever had an obstinate canker sore in the mouth, you know just how painful and hard to heal it was. The lining of the stomach is liable to have similar ulceration.

During the process of digestion, the walls of the stomach are in constant motion. Their muscular movements produce a churning and mixture of the stomach contents. You can readily imagine that this activity and repeated contraction of the stomach structure makes it difficult, almost impossible, indeed, to heal an ulcer in this region. In consequence, stomach ulcers—gastric ulcers, as the doctors call them—rarely heal without medical treatment.

The common location for a gastric ulcer is at the pit of the stomach, at the place where the stomach is joined by the intestine. This portion of the intestinal tract is called the duodenum and it is this duodenal end of the stomach which is most likely to be ulcerated.

An operation may be necessary to bring about healing. The duodenum is severed and sewed into a slit in the stomach, away from the ulcerated area

I need not tell you that this is a severe and serious operation, called "gastro-enterostomy." Any method of treatment which promises a cure without the operation is an evidence of welcome progress in medicine.

A few days ago I read a report of a Canadian physician, who believes he has worked out a method of dealing with gastric ulcer without operation. It is simple. Here is what the doctor said:

"The patient has only two meals in the day and these are spaced five or six hours apart. Absolutely nothing but water is allowed between meals. The intention is to obtain fourteen continuous hours of physiological rest for the stomach and duodenum."

This sounds to me like simple and valuable advice. There can be no doubt that we eat too much anyhow, but in case the stomach or intestine is ulcerated, there is little hope of cure if the parts are kept in constant agitation, as they are when food is taken.

Ulcer or no ulcer the system requires nourishment. Indeed, if there is ulceration it may be due to under nourishment.

The plan of the Canadian doctor provides for ample food, but for rest between meals. It is worth trying.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

S. P. Q.—How long can a patient live with diabetes ,provided he remain on a strict diet? The patient is over sixty.

A.—That would depend upon the patient's general condition. If the diet is kept up rigidly it is possible that the patient will die of old age.

* * *

MRS. S. Q.—Do all children have weak hearts after having diptheria and how can one tell?

A.—Sometimes diptheria will leave an individual with a weak heart. It would be well to consult a doctor and have him advise you in the matter.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DORIS HAS A CHAT WITH RUFFY CANADA LYNX.

"Well, well, of all things," Doris laughed, as she stepped up beside the pen where Ruffy Lynx lay doxing on a log, "if you aren't a whiskered fellow, all right."

"Go on and laugh at me," growled Mr. Ruffy Lynx, "I'm used to that. Most all of the youngsters either think my short tail, or the stiff hairs that stand up straight on the tips of my long ears or my whiskers around my face are funny. So go on and laugh; it won't hurt me in the least."

"I suppose if I had ever seen an animal with whiskers before, it wouldn't look so queer," said Doris, sobering. "I'm not making fun of you at all. They just look queer. You know, you look a great deal like a wildcat."

"I'm a cousin, all right," and Ruffy Lynx yawned lazily, got up and came over nearer Doris, "but wildcats never have this ruff around their faces like my side of the family do. I rather like it—white with a black border makes me look dignified, even if my feet are terribly big."

"I just noticed your big flat feet," said Doris. "You are like a peacock—you can't boast of pretty feet."

"I'll say they are not very pretty," laughed Ruffy Lynx, "but useful. My, I couldn't ask for more useful feet. Do you know, up in the Far North where I live, I couldn't get along with small feet. You probably won't believe me, but it's true, just the same. I can scoot over the snow and never break through where some of my friends with smaller feet sink right down. Big feet act like snowshoes, I guess. Do you like the grayish-brown mottled suit I wear? You'd be surprised how I blend in with the shadows in this suit. It helps me when I'm hunting food. Folks can't see me quite so plainly. Some folks say I'm a fierce-looking fellow, but the truth is, I never fight unless I'm forced to."

"Do you ever get homesick and want to go back to your northern home?" Doris asked.

"No, I can't say that I've ever been homesick for the northern forests at all," replied Ruffy Lynx. "You see, in the winter time I have a terrible time finding food, and here I never have to worry. In summer time I don't have any trouble at all. I can most always scare up some kind of a meal. Then you'd be surprised to know that I can go a long, long time without food. My wife and I used to hunt together, and what she couldn't find I would. You see, we eat the smaller animals that live around in the forests, but I'd much rather live in the Zoo. Folks are not after my fur here and I don't have to be on the watch for enemies. Here comes my supper now. Come back and see me again some day."

"Folks Are Not After My Fur"

Doris promised and ran on down the wire fence to chat with the other animals while Ruffy Lynx ate his supper.

SOME ANCESTORS OF THE MODERN CHAIR

Walk through you own home and count the number of chairs in it. You will be surprised to find that the chair is, perhaps, the most indispensable piece of furniture in the housekeeping scheme. If you live in a large city and must content yourself with an apology for a kitchen—the modern kitchenette—you may have two or three enamel chairs in it. It is doubtful whether the people can seat themselves simultaneously in your kitchenette with any degree of comfort—but "it looks homelike," you say, and the chairs remain. Your living room is the haven for all the antique (and sometimes freak) chairs you have ever picked up in "that dear little shoppe in the country." When a visitor steps into your living room you proudly point to your imitation Duncan - Phyfe dining chairs. You pull out that little French stool which grandmother gave you. And when you have completed the history of each chair in your home your visitor murmurs a polite farewell.

But have you ever thought of the origin of this common household necessity? It hardly seems possible that there was a time when chairs were not in use. And, as a matter of fact, they are of such high antiquity that no record of the very first chair is at hand.

So far as we know, the most interesting chair in the history of furniture belonged to the sage of the seas—Abraham. The Jewish rabbis tell us that the entire chair was made of ivory. Among the many servants of the patriarch was one enormous fellow. Og by name. Despite his size and strength, the giant was in such mortal fear of his master that he trembled every time Abraham spoke. In a fit of timidity one of his teeth fell to the ground. Abraham, noting its size and quality, ordered it to be scraped and cleaned. Then he fashioned out a huge seat with his own hands, scooping out the inside of the tooth with rough implements. The seat was so large that some rabbis claim it was used not as a chair, but as a bench.

The earliest Oriental chair—which is still preserved—is a very elaborate affair. Although it has no back, the legs are tastefully carved and the seat adorned with the heads of rams. The cushions attached to the seat are made of heavily embroidered tapestries bound in silver and gold brocade. Frequently the legs of these Oriental chairs were strengthened by a cross bar and ended in the feet of a lion or the hoofs of a bull.

Although these sumptuously designed chairs gain our attention because of their antiquity, those chairs which have a legend attached to them are vastly more interesting.

The chairs in which Shakespeare was rumored to have sat are always the object of widespread attention. Each year hordes of tourists visit the house at Stratford-on-Avon, where the bard lived with his father until he was married. "In the corner of the chimney," says Mr. Ireland, who visited it in 1792, "stood an old oak chair, which has for a number of years received nearly as many adorers as the celebrated shrine of the Lady of Loretto." This relic was purchased in July, 1709, by the Princess Czartoryska, who made a journey purposely to obtain intelligence relative to Shakespeare.

Washington Irving, whose chair in New England is itself the center of much curiosity, visited the home of Shakespeare in 1820, and tells how each visitor makes it a point to sit in one of Shakespeare's chairs. Whether this is done with the purpose of imbibing some of the genius inspiration, is not old. But the habit has become so prevalent that the chairs have to be new-bottomed at least once in three years.

YOUR GARDEN

CUTTING ROSE BLOOMS.

Although the roses have been in bloom for some time, a hint or two as to cutting the flowers, to most benefit the bush, may be in order.

When gathering a flower, cut the stalk at a point within two inches of the branch which bears the flowering shoot. This usually leaves two good eyes which will later produce more flowers. Such severe cutting will build up a well branched plant, which will give better flowers than one which is allowed to make a tall scraggly growth of light wood, as the quality of the bloom is in proportion to the strength of the stem which carries it. Plants thus pruned in the process of cultivation, will usually require little pruning the following spring, except the cutting back of the heavier canes. On the other hand, there is a disadvantage in cutting blooms with short stems, for as a rule too many buds are allowed to remain which will produce flowers of poor quality or shoots which contain no flower buds. Allowing the flowers to remain until the petals fall and then removing the old head is detrimental in that it does not force new growth.

Insuring the keeping qualities.—Cut the blooms early in the morning while the wood is cool and firm. The stems will become a little wilted after the sun has been shining upon them for a few hours, and they will not do so well. Also the colors of the flowers will start to fade in the sun.

Rather than place the flowers in vases for display as soon as they are cut, it is much better to plunge them into cool water and place in an icebox or cool cellar for four or five hours. Also, a rose cut just as the outside petals start to unfold, if put in a cool place will generally develop to a larger size than if left on the plant.

MISHAPS AT APSLEY

Family Escapes Twice Within a Few Days From Serious Accidents.

APSLEY, July 16.—St. Andrew's church picnic at Owenbrook on Monday, July 13, was a great success, the event which attracted a big crowd being the return match of soft ball between Purdeyville and Apsley on July 1, when Purdeyville was defeated by one run, the score being 19-18. Apsley's victory was repeated with a larger margin on Monday, when a fast game ended with the scores Apsley 30, Purdeyville 21. As the Purdeyville team are more at home in the hard ball game, which the Apsley boys have not played for two years, the opposing teams agreed to play a match of the latter variety. In this case Purdeyville exhibited their superiority by defeating Apsley 22 to 17. From now on, the soft ball game will be in the discard in Apsley, the boys being determined to wipe out their defeat in a return match to be arranged in about three weeks time. The sum of about $65 was realized at the picnic and the ladies who contributed so much to its success by their baking and work cheerfully and voluntarily rendered, were warmly thanked by Rev. C. Spence.

What might have been a very serious accident occurred on Sunday night on the Burleigh Road when Mrs. George McKibbon and her sister, Miss Cicely Spence, were thrown out of their buggy by a collision with an automobile when returning home from church. They had drawn to the side of the road on seeing the lights of a car approaching, and were standing still. The car swerved just as it reached them, the hinder part hitting the front wheel of the buggy, throwing it over and pitching the ladies to the side of the road. Beyond a few bruises and nervous shock they escaped unhurt apparently and were [illegible] The buggy was completely wrecked. For the second time within a few days the Nesbitt family have had a narrow escape from injury. The first time ocurred last week when Mrs. Nesbitt was driving into Apsley with her five children. Coming down Wolf Hill the steering gear locked, and the car turned turtle. Though the car was damaged considerably, all the occupants escaped without a scartch. On Sunday afternoon without a scratch. On Sunday afdriven by Ivan Nesbitt, it ran off the road, smashing the windshield and breaking a wheel, and again all those in the car were unhurt.

SEES PROCESS OF EVOLUTION AT CLOSE RANGE

Professor Crampton Watched Emergence of Novel Race of Snails.

VISITED SOUTH SEAS.

Has Made Thirteen Trips to the Tropics in Eighteen

By LOUIS RICH.

From the brush-covered valleys carved out of the sides of the ancient volcanic mountains of Polynesia, Professor Henry Edward Crampton, of Barnard College, has brought what is regarded as proof that evolution is an observable, contemporaneous process, and that in our own time new forms of organisms are being evolved from older types under natural conditions.

Professor Crampton has found at least seven species where until 1907 only three were definitely known to exist. His evidence indicates that the new races have grown out of the old, two of the new species having made their appearance within the last four years.

His discovery came after eighteen years of study of land snails belonging to the family called Partula, and after thirteen trips to the tropics, eight of which were devoted entirely to the examination of the snail fauna of Oceania. Hundreds of thousands of specimens of different species of the snails, representing every stage of growth from embryo to adult, collected in 280 different valleys, furnished the material for Professor Crampton's field and laboratory labors.

Working for a time under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History, and as an associate of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, the Barnard professor covered more than 30,000 miles in exploration voyages to seven groups of Pacific Islands, including Society, Cook, New Zealand, Tonga, Samoa, Fiji and Hawaii. His last trip in the summer of 1924, was his fifth visit to the Island of Moorea of the Society group, which yielded the most striking and abundant evidence.

Proofs of evolution have been sought by scientists in various processes initiated in the laboratory or at experiment stations under artificial conditions The majority of the results obtained in cross-breeding among domesticated animals, for example, are the outcome of such investigations.

Misconceptions of Evolution.

In the opinion of Professor Crampton, the average mind conceives evolution as a thing of the past. Most people's nearest approach to the subject is the belief that man is descended from the ape. They see one generation give birth to another. That is evolution; yet they don't think of it as such. They know that there are no two living beings alike. That is variation, a concomitant of evolution; yet they overlook its importance. They see one type develop and transmit to its offspring its characteristic qualities. That is heredity, another essential part of evolution. They see one type compete with another for sustenance, for influence, for power. That is struggle for existence.

That evolution is something which not only has taken place years ago, but is actually occurring now and will continue in the future, is rarely considered by the average man. Scientists on the other hand, have been so pre, occupied with speculation about evolution and with the hastening of its stage that they have devoted most of their time to anticipating nature by forcing her to show her trends under prearranged conditions.

Professor Crampton has devoted himself exclusively to the study of series of related forms of living organisms in their natural surroundings. He has searched for evidence of changes under conditions not affected by man, his special aim being to find out the relative values of inborn and environmental factors of organic structure.

Origin of Species Problem.

In the general study of life nothing is so small or insignificant as to remove it from the chain of relationships that constitutes the thread of evolution. An examination of the circumstances of the snail's existence, made from the standpoint of geographic distribution, variation and descent, may throw light upon the problem as to how species in general arise, which is the cardinal problem of evolution. Any knowledge that one may glean from the study of the life-career of the snail may help to reveal the nature of the evolutionary process which involves all living creatures, including man. The actual tracing of new species from stock with which science is familiar would be an added confirmation of the assumption that evolution goes on in the present in the same measure and the same manner as it is supposed to have done in the past.

It is believed by many scientists that the study of evolution from this particular angle can be best pursued in isolated localities, in regions hundreds of miles away from continents and which themselves are as old as the continents. These places are the oceanic islands, which are believed to be of volcanic origin and are separated from the mainland by large bodies of water of enormous depth.

Oceanic islands as a rule contain peculiar species. The only plausible explanation of the growth and persistence of distinctive types of animals on such islands is offered by the theory of evolution. It supposes that these peculiar animals are modified descendants of parental stock which in the past had been transplanted to the islands by chance. In the case of oceanic islands the great depth of the sea dividing them from the nearest mainland acted as an insurmountable barrier to the passage of the lower forms of life. Only birds could have flown across the gulf, while only insects and land shells could have been transported to the islands by floating debris. Once arrived at the islands, the immigrant individuals became isolated and followed a divergent path of evolution in accordance with the laws of heredity. Isolation therefore becomes an important condition of evolution under which the birth of a new species may take place.

This is what Professor Crampton sought to establish in his many trips to the South Sea Islands. He chose the Partula genus of land snails because their distribution and isolation on oceanic islands offered the best opportunity for studying the development of species. He also thought it best to confine his investigations to the Partulæ because an extensive study of this particular variety had been made by Andrew Garrett during the years 1861-1888. This served as a basis for the American naturalist's own study. He began where Garrett left off.

The partulæ are shell-covered mollusks or slugs that live in moist, wooded valleys on the foliage of trees and bushes. They avoid the dry lowlands along the shores and the higher and, therefore, colder regions inland. The snails hide during the day on the under side of the leaves of the wild banana, ginger, screw pine, orange, caladium and other tropical plants and crawl out from their hiding places to feed during the night. On rainy days they descend to the ground to feed upon decaying vegetation.

From 1906 to 1909 Professor Crampton made trips to the territory covered by Garrett and verified the findings reported by that scientist. He confirmed the latter's description of the Partula snail as forming colonies of a distinctive type in each of the groups of the islands visited. Within the boundaries of a single group the snails differ according to the locality which they occupy. Each valley is inhabited by a colony different from that found in the adjacent valley. The further the distance between two given valleys the greater the difference in the variety of snails inhabiting them.

Variation in Shell Spirals'

In 1919 he again visited Garrett's territory and found that since his previous surveys in 1907-1909, the species studied by Garrett had extended over larger areas and had produced new varieties. Surprised at this discovery, which Professor Crampton was reluctant to admit as definitely established, he returned to the island of Moorea in 1923 and 1924 and went over the whole field again. He thus had a chance to compare his present findings with those of Garrett and also with the results of his own surveys from 1907 to 1909 and from 1919 to 3944.

Instead of the three separate species definitely classified by Garrett, he now found seven. One of the three varieties originally found had spread over the entire island of Moorea. Its different valley colonies had become greatly diversified in size and color, presenting types unknown to Garrett. In the latter's time all the members of this species had their shells twisting toward the right. Out of 50,000 old and young individuals of this type collected by Professor Crampton in 1923, two had their shell spirals turning toward the left. These reversed snails are believed to have developed by "sporting" a year or two previously. Another of the older species showed an even more obvious spread over adjacent territories.

But the most remarkable feature about the numerous varieties now was that in their new areas of occupation the snails, instead of having their shells twisted exclusively to the right, as had been established by Garrett, had their coils turning to the left. The few sinistral exceptions noted by Garrett had by now become an ever-growing army of invaders conquering new regions. Those which had remained in their original habitat, barred by mountains and dry highlands from crossing over to new territory, had not changed very much.

The third Partula species, found in very small numbers by Garrett, had grown to 80 per cent. of the total snail population in certain valleys. It had also developed new banded individuals unknown to Garrett or to Professor Crampton up to 1919, but of which numerous specimens of all ages were collected in the same territory by the latter in 1923 and 1924. The prevailing coiling in this species was left-handed, so to speak; but one right-handed individual had been found that bore in its brood-pouch two left-handed young. In another instance two right-handed young had been dissected out of the brood-pouch of a normal left-handed parent.

In surveying the old and new territories of the older types, Professor Crampton discovered four new entirely unlooked-for species. None of them was mentioned in Garrett's thorough investigation of Society Islands. The first of the four came to light in 1907 in a restricted locality. In subsequent years, however, it was found in increasing numbers in several adjacent areas. Their shells twisted to the right, with a few significant reversals.

The second new species was discovered in 1909, living on trees and shrubs of large size in areas from which it had previously been entirely absent. The coils of the species were left-handed. The third varietal division, very sparse in number, was found in 1919 in but a single area in Moorea. The fourth and most recent discovery of a new species was made by Professor Crampton during his trip to Society Islands in 3943. A few hundred individuals were gathered in a small valley not more than 400 yards in length and 700 to 900 feet above sea level.

Congenital Factors Most Vital'

Professor Crampton believes that the most important evidence yielded by his researches as far as evolution is concerned is that indicating that in the rise of a new species internal or congenital, factors play a determining part. The differentiation of a new varietal type is apparently not due to the influence of environment, since nowhere are environmental conditions more nearly uniform than on the islands he explored. Isolation helps to bring out the inborn tendencies and peculiarities of the segregated individuals and, by interbreeding of mutants or divergent types, it may favor the evolution of an entirely new species.

"The fortunate outcome of my study I owe entirely to a combination of favorable circumstances," said Professor Crampton. "What I have endeavored to do is to study living forms in their natural surroundings at intervals of time. In this way any change in the biological types can be detected and evolution as it takes place in nature can be studied. My investigations in the Society Islands undoubtedly show the evolution of several new races of snails, two of them coming to light within the last four years, so far as my observations are trustworthy. The significant thing is that I caught this emergence of new races just about when it occurred. I have thus been fortunate to observe a stage of evolution at its very beginning, so to speak.

"This same method can be applied in the study of other living forms. It would be interesting to trace the contemporaneous evolution of any other series of forms or unusual types, such as the white English sparrow in New York City or the English starling recently imported into this country.

"The facts found in the Partula survey of the Society Islands will be of some use to future naturalists, just as Garrett's study has been of use to me. They will be able to compare their own findings with those of the past and will be in a better position to draw their conclusions."

CIVIL WAR BREAKS IN CHINA PROVINCE

Honan Forces Enter Shen-si and Advance on Sian-fu.

PEKIN, July 16. — (Canadian Press).—Civil war has broken out in the Province of Szechuan, where the Government General, Yang-Sen, is attacking rival generals near Chung-king. Honan forces have entered the Province of Shensi, and are advancing on Sian-fu.

YOUNG MR. FLYNN SHOULD DO WELL

Young Mr. Flynn lifted the mattress on a couch in his home and found there the sum of $248 which Grandpa Kelly, who doesn't believe in banks, had deposited there. Young Mr. Flynn put the money in his pocket and gathered a pair of friends, Mr. Eddie Faircloud and Mr. Barney Kelly, a cousin of young Mr. Flynn.

Young Mr. Flynn then proposed that the party take a journey to North Bergen and purchase the Columbia Amusement Park there. Three half-fare tickets were purchased, and the adventurers sallied forth. They were unable to complete negotiations for the purchase, of the park, but decided to enjoy themselves thoroughly. They passed up the merry-go-round and rode on real horses which were not fastened down by iron rods and had no brakes. They ate and shot a wide variety of chutes.

But this variety of amusement was not pleasing to young Mr. Flynn. The boy wanted to be a participant in pastimes which held out hopes of some reward. The three lads tackled games of what might almost be called chance, winning a doll and a mirror—just the thing for young Mr. Flynn's lady friend—as well as a pair of blue spectacles. They also accumulated candy, fountain pens which write when dipped, pencils, perfumery bottles luckily unopenable, and other treasures.

At this point Officer Roes of the local force approached the lads and asked them if they had robbed a bank. Frightened, they confessed, and were carted away to the station house, where the sergeant, being a gentleman of arithmetical tendencies, discovered that the five and a half hours of dissipation immediately preceding, including train fares, meals and a suitcase which had been purchased for some unknown reason, had only cost Grandpa Kelly the sum of $8, the rest of the roll being intact.

Yes, Young Mr. Flynn should certainly go far in this world. He has undoubted abilities. He is aggressive and he has a talent for organization. As far as worldly things are concerned, he is well equipped and his commercial instinct is good. He displays imagination. While he is no miser, yet he seems to manage to husband his resources and have a good time in the bargain. Mr. Kelly should certainly get on.

There are those who would view this escapade as nothing more or less than an example of juvenile crime. They are both right and wrong. Had this affair not happened, Mr. Flynn's future would have been much more uncertain. Mr. Flynn until this date lacked one rather important quality which he has now been taught by experience, a policeman, a sergeant, two more policemen, Mama Flynn, Papa Flynn and Grandpa Kelly. That quality is an appreciation of the value of honesty.

Petes, Ponies and Oshawa Tied - Athletics Leading Again - Giants Gain on Pirates

POOR GUESSWORK BY UMPIRE DELL BIG FACTOR IN DEFEAT OF PETES BY KINGSTON TEAM

Official Missed a Play at First Base and His Failure Cost Two Runs and the Ball Game.

PONIES WON BY 5 TO 4.

One Unlucky Inning Spelled Defeat For Johnstonites, Who Are Still a Tie For First Place, However.

(By F.D.C.)

The biggest factor in the Petes defeat at Kingston last night when they were nosed out 5 to 4 after a fine battle was a bad decision by Base Umpire Si Dell who lost a play at first base and made a poor guess the arbitrators mistake giving the Ponies two runs.

Blaming the officials is an old alibi but this mistake on the part of the Oshawa umpo was on a play that was not even close—and it was very costly to the Petes.

Last evening's game was a battle between the league's two leading pitcher's Cairns and Whitehouse and both pitched fine ball all through.

Whitehouse was beaten because of one unlucky inning—the fourth—in which the Ponies scored all their runs. An error by McPherson and his hesitation in fielding a bunt helped in the disaster and Umpire Dell's bad decision put the climax on the inning. With Arniel on first and two out Cairns hit a fast roller to Johnston who fumbled and lost a chance to force Arneil at second but threw to first well ahead of Cairns. Dell expected the play at second and swung around too late, calling Cairns safe and the decision meant two more runs for the Ponies when Teeple singled immediately after.

For the balance of the game Whitehouse showing nice speed and a fine curve held Kingston safe while the Petes kept pegging away at Cairns, picking up four runs before the battle was over.

It was the best exhibition the Johnstonites have given in Kingston this year and they were unlucky to have lost out. They were without the services of their two leading hitters, Wolfe being unable to make the trip while Swanston was out of the game with an injured finger sustained in Saturday's fixture. Bob Ross went behind the bat and caught a nice game while Ash played centre, the youngster contributing two useful hits.

The Petes behind 5 to 0 at the end of the fourth made a gallant effort to pull the game out of the fire, creeping to within one run of tieing the score and putting up a splendid fight. It was anybody's game until the final out.

Both teams played snappy ball afield and the game one of the best of the season.

Story of the Game

The Ponies also went out in order. Ross made a fine catch of Teepel's foul fly, Halbert grounded to Harrison. Batstone was thrown out by Johnston.

Somerville first up for Kingston got a lucky single when Whitehouse misjudged his pop fly back of the box. Cherry forced him at second, Johnston to Rose. Whitehouse picked Cherry off first. Purvis lined to centre for a single. Nickle popped to centre for a single. Nickle popped to McPherson.

Ross lined to Somerville in the third. Ash rolled to Batstone and Somerville threw out Whitehouse.

For the Ponies Arneil fanned. Cairns singled on a drive to Whitehouse. Teepel hit into a fast double play, Johnston to Rose to Harrison.

Legon starter the fourth with a fly to Cherry. Johnston rolled to Somerville. Rose singled over Halbert's head but was forced at second by Harrison.

The Bad Inning

Kingston won the verdict in their half. Halbert started it by looping a hit into centre. McPherson fumbled Batston's roller. Somerville bunted and was safe when McPherson hesitated whether or not to make the play at third. That filled the bases. A passed ball scored Halbert and Cherry singled past third to score Batstone and Somerville. Cherry stole second. Johnston tossed out Purvis. Nickle hit to Whitehouse who threw to third and McPherson was slow in tagging Cherry who was called safe. When Nickle started to steal second Ross caught Cherry off third and he was out at the plate. Arniel was hit. Cairns hit to Johnston who fumbled but had the hitter easily at first. Harrison rolled the ball into the diamond figuring it was the third out but Ump Dell called the runner safe. It was a costly break for Teeple singled into left, scoring Nickle and Arneil. Halbert up for the second time fanned.

The Petes got two back in the fifth. Hall drove to right, the ball bounding away from Teepel for a triple. McPherson popped to Halbert. Ross doubled to centre, scoring Hall. Ash singled to right, Ross going to third. When Ash started to steal second Arneil threw down and Ash crashed into the shortstop who was knocked out and dropped the ball, Ross scoring on the play. Whitehouse flied to Teepel and Legon popped to Somerville.

In the sixth Johnston struck out. Rose singled through short. Harrison walked. Hall flied to Cherry and McPherson forced Harrison at second on a grounder to Halbert.

Whitehouse struck out Purvis and Nickle and after Arneil had tripled to centre, fanned Cairns.

Making It Close

The Petes added another in the seventh. Ross flied to Halbert but Batstone threw wide on Ash's roller giving the batter a life. Whitehouse singled to left. Legon flied to Cherry. Heckman batted for Johnston and doubled to centre scoring Ash. Rose was thrown out by Halbert.

In the Ponies' half Teeple flied to Hall. Halbert was tossed out by Whitehouse. Batstone singled over second. Somerville was thrown out by Holyman who had replaced Johnston at short.

In the eighth Harrison flied to Teepel in right. Hall was hit and Helson, batting for McPherson, singled through short. Ross struck out. Ash singled centre, scoring Hall. Whitehouse rolled to Somerville.

Cherry popped to Helson. Purvis rolled to Helson. Nickle walked; Arneil singled to centre, Nickle going to third.. Arniel stole second.. Cairns fanned.

The ninth wound up quickly. Legon rolled to Halbert, Holyman popped to Purvis. Rose was called out on strikes.

LACROSSE GAME SATURDAY BILL

Sport Fans Offered an Interesting Change Following City League Games.

LACROSSE AT 3.30.

The Peterboro Lacrosse Club's first home game at Riverside Saturday with the Campbellford-Hastings combined team is attracting the interest of sport followers throughout the city and district. Encouraging reports have come from those who have been selling tickets, and it is confidently expected that the Peterboro team will have the support of many fans in this opening League game. The team will be picked at Central Park Friday night, and all the players are requested to turn out.

Campbellford asked for a postponement early this week, but the bills and tickets had been printed and distributed. The Petes will include Irving Bailey, captain, and Wilfrid Ranger of last season's hockey team, who have just about rounded out into the condition that should carry them through the whole game. The Petes are not underestimating the Trent team and are making no promises, except that they will do their best to win fairly and without any of the interference from spectators, which seems to be inevitable in some of the towns in this district.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

When the golfer learns to lead his club with hands he almost always avoids rolling of the forearms, which is bad in golf swing. Usually the forearm rolls to the right, opening up the face of the club too much. If the roll in the forward swing is not in exact proportion the clubhead may be so dragged across the ball that slicing will result. Then there is the habit of rolling the left forearm forward, toward the ball, as the clubhead is taken back, which can result from trying to keep the club low. When this forward roll occurs the face of the club is toed inward at the beginning of the back swing and remains that way through out the swing, so that an annoying persistent hook results.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

The Central Ontario League race is all tied up again, as the result of yesterday's games; the Petes losing at Kingston, and Oshawa trimming Belleville, leaving the standing as follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Peterboro	9	7
Kingston	9	7
Oshawa	9	7
Belleville	5	11

The Petes got a tough break at Kingston. Umpire Dell's failure to see a play at first base because he forgot Billy Evans' advice, "Always keep your eyes on the ball," was fatal, as it made the difference a 4 to 3 victory and a 5 to 4 defeat.

Shiner Johnston is still hitting 1000 as a picker of pinch hitters. He sent Heckman and Helson in for himself and McPherson in last evening's game, and both came through with a hit.

Fred Ash, graduate from last year's Lakeviews, played his first full game with the Petes last evening, collecting two clean hits in four times up.

They'll have to get a lassoo on Del. Cherry, or he'll run out of the park one of these days. The big outfielder was picked off first base, caught off third and nipped stealing second.

The Petes will have to win at Oshawa on Saturday to stay up at the top of the heap. A victory Saturday will be very useful, for next week the Johnsonites have two home games and should improve their position in the race.

Cairns had the whip hand of the Petes in the early stages, Rose being the only visitor to reach first in the first four innings. In the next four frame, however, they got to him for eight hits and four runs. Whitehouse, on the other hand, held the Ponies to three hits after the fourth.

Teepel, the Ponies' right fielder, gave Jimmy Hall a triple by getting over ambitious. The youngster cracked a safety to right and "Teep" came in on the run with the intention of tryin to nip Hall at first base; the result being that the ball hopped to one side of him and the batter reached third.

Si Dell's bad miss in the fatal fourth was not the only faulty umpiring. Ken Colling had an off night behind the plate. He admitted it. And both sides suffered because of some weird decisions on balls and strikes.

UNIQUE BOOK LISTS NEEDED INVENTIONS

'What's Wanted' Holds Store of Opportunities For Creative Genius.

Demands of all sorts upon the ingenuity of inventors, embodying hundreds of ideas and opportunities for constructive genius are written in one of the most remarkable memorandum books in the world that now lies open in the members' room of a suite of offices occupied by the Institute of Patentees, an inventors' mutual aid organization in London.

The title of this volume, which is as commonplace in appearance as an ordinary ledger, is "What's Wanted." Into it manufacturers, scientists, research workers, members of the British Parliament, housewives, and the plain man of the street have jotted down their wants. Inventors have formed the habit of consulting it for ideas for commercially promising inventions. As a result, "What's Wanted" presents a remarkable view of the wide scope of present-day inventive science for the demands made through it vary from a method of utilizing atomic energy, to such humble wants as an effective means of rooting up dandelions from the lawn.

So unique is the book and so useful has it proved to be that it recently has attracted interest in the United States. In fact a description of it contained in the August issue of Popular Science Monthly, includes the announcement that an American "What's Wanted" is available in the New York offices of the magazine for anybody to enter the invention or inventions he wants to see perfected. Among the first contributors are Houdini, the world famous man of magic; George Gordon Battle, noted New York attorney, and Dr. David Star Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Leland Stanford University.

Analysis of the English volume, which was the idea of Sir William Bull, member of the House of Commons, shows that the largest number of wanted inventions fall under the heading of radio and electricity. Domestic and general household improvements come second, while improvements in internal-combustion engines, new sources of power, and new methods of power transmission are third. Lastly come improvements wanted in the realms of the airplane, office methods, lighting, heating and metallurgy.

Here are a few of the listed needs:

A kep that will not lose its identification.

A pipe that can be cleaned easily.

A temperance drink that will keep and yet not pall on the palate.

A means of removing old paint.

Greatly simplified clothing, not strange in appearance.

A plan by which house refuse can be easily and cheaply destroyed at home.

A tie presser and stretcher for men's ties, which will take at least 20 ties at a time.

A dandelion extractor.

A safe method of stopping ships from rolling or at any rate not more than a few degrees in the roughest weather.

A process for instantaneous color photography.

A noiseless airplane.

An airplane that can be safely and easily managed by a boy or girl.

SKIERS GO HIGHER, OTHERS PERSPIRE

Daring Norsemen Soar From Glacier, Thrilling Lake Louise Tourists.

BANFF, Alta., July 16.—(Canadian Press).—While other parts of the continent are scorching in a wave of near-tropical heat, Nels Nelson, world's champion ski jumper, Nno Hilstrom and Trand Nelson speed along the surface of tons of snow and ice, thousands of feet above sea level, on Lefroy glacier, Lake Louise, soar through the cool, crisp air and land on the second terrace of the glacier.

The popular winter sport has been introduced by Mr. Nelson for the entertainment of tourists who are visiting at Lake Louise. The slopes of Victoria glacier, however, have almost proved too tame for the daring Norseman. He tried the slopes of Lefroy, and before the summer months are over he proposes to model a hill upon which he will attempt to better his own world's record jump.

BRITONS WIN DOUBLES.

Took Three Out of Four Games From Californians.

GLENCOVER, N. Y., July 16. — (Canadian Press). — Oxford and Cambridge atoned for their defeat at the hands of University of California in singles Tuesday by taking three out of four doubles matches from the Pacific Coast stars on the second day of their tennis meet yesterday afternoon. The victory of Gerald Stratford and Gervais Hillis of California in the first doubles matches of the day decided the series in favor of the United States collegians.

J. D. R. Sumner and E. M. Jonklass of Oxford accounted for two of the British team's points. They defeated Howard Chandler and Thomas Stowe, 4-6, 9-7, 6-3, and then outplayed the National inter-collegiate doubles champions, Stratford and Hillis, in straight sets, 6-3, 9-7.

Earlier in the day Stratford and Hillis defeated J. J. Lezard and J. H. Van Alen at 2-6, 6-3, 6-3. The latter pair then scored decisively over Chandler and Stowe, 6-4, 6-2.

FILIPINO BOXER LEAVES ESTATE

But Not as Large as Might Be Expected From Ring Earning.

LAVISH SPENDER.

CHICAGO, July 16.—(Canadian Press.)—Pancho Villa, late world's flyweight champion, amassed a fortune of more than $115,000 in six years of his colorful ring career, but left an estate considerably less than $10,000, according to estimates of friends. In fact, they said, Villa spent his ring earnings so lavishly that he was almost penniless before he engaged in his last contest.

The little Filipino boxer gained a reputation as one of the greatest spenders the ring has produced in years. During the time he lived in New York he occupied an expensive apartment and at one time owned two automobiles.

When he returned from the Philippines recently he paid the expenses of four friends to this country.

He aspired to become a land owner and intended to earn another fortune before the end of his ring career.

ELECTRIC STORM TO BENEFIT FARMS

Reports of Damage Not Serious and Clear, Warm Weather Will Follow.

TORONTO, July 16. — (Canadian Press.) — Rapidly moving eastward, an electrical storm, which in some districts was of great intensity, broke over Western Ontario this morning, accompanied by heavy rain, which will prove very beneficial to parched farm lands. While no reports of serious damage were received up till noon, telegraph communication was greatly interfered with.

Meteorological office reports indicate that clear, warm weather will follow the electrical disturbance.

The precipitation throughout the southern section of the province has been very light during July and farmers state that the heavy downpour will be beneficial to growing crops.

FIRE DEMOLISHES BLACKSMITH SHOP

Chief Says That Spectators Hinder Firemen and Damage Results.

Last night fire broke out in an old frame blacksmith's shop and barn used by Mr. Morrow in the rear of the works of the Peterboro Canoe Co. In response to almost simultaneous calls at 9.30 from Police Constable John Naples and George Graham of the Empress Hotel, the Fire Department hurried to the spot, but the building was burned to the ground. The flames had extended to a lumber shed of the Canoe Co., but was speedily extinguished. No estimate is yet available to the amount of damage.

Although only a comparatively small building was aflame, the fire attracted great attention. The light spreading over the waters of the river was reflected by a ruddy glow in the sky, which was visible a great distance away. A huge crowd gathered, pressing in on the firemen, and impeding their efforts. The unedifying spectacle was seen of men engaged in fighting fire having to force their way through a jostling mass of onlookers. Some people allowed their curiosity to lead them so far as to drive right over the hose. Sergeant Deannard and Constable Naples had great difficulty in keeping the crowd in order.

The Fire Chief again issues a warning to those who act as if a fire was something staged for the purpose of providing a cheap public entertainment. Such practices as occurred last night, driving over the hose and crowding in on the firemen, must be stopped, he says. Anyone who disregards this warning in future fires will be prosecuted with all possible severity.

TRY TO EXCLUDE SOME TESTIMONY

State Moves For Exclusion of Scientists' Opinions on Evolution.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 16. — Canadian Press. — The State of Tennessee made formal motion at the trial of John T. Scopes here this morning to exclude the testimony of scientists.

The defense was prepared to put up a determined fight to get the testimony into the record from qualified experts on the subject of evolution, and in relation to the Bible.

Dr. Maynard M. Metcalfe, professor of Zoology, resumed the stand at the opening of to-day's session. The zoologist started his testimony yesterday with the jury excluded.

Before Dr. Metcalfe could answer Clarence Darrow's first question on evolution, Attorney-General Stewart objected to a continuance of this testimony, the state claiming the witness had testified at sufficient length to show the nature of the testimony. The court requested Dr. Metcalfe to step aside. Clarence Darrow stated then that the defence expected to show that the Bible was not in conflict with the theory of evolution. "We expect to show what evolution is," said the Chicago lawyer.

"We submit," he said, "that the jury cannot decide the case intelligently without knowing what evolution is."

The state then presented its motion for the exclusion of scientific testimony, Wiliam Jennings Bryan, Jr., opening the argument. "The only issue this jury must decide is whether or not John Thomas Scopes violated the law," he said.

ONE MORE CARD.

Wife of Russell Scott to Make a Last Effort.

CHICAGO, July 16 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Katherine Scott, wife of Russell T. Scott, former Canadian financier who is to hang tomorrow for the murder of a clerk in a drug store holdup, today declared that she had one more card to play in her effort to save her husband. What the card will be was not revealed. Attorneys pointed out that only two legal plays remained possible after Governor Small's refusal yesterday to interfere. One would be a writ of habeas corpus in the Federal Court, and the other, the entering of a plea of insanity in the State Court.

INJURY FROM SHOCK.

Lightning Passing From Electric Meter Scorches Man Severely.

OMEMEE, July 16 (Special)—The severe electric storm which started Thursday morning at 5.00 and stopped at 7.00 resulted in one mishap when lightning struck the chimney, travelled along wires in the house of Redmond Casey, tore plaster and wall paper from the walls and in leaving by way of the meter scorched Mr. Casey who was standing on his verandah.

The shock knocked him from the porch to the ground but it is expected that no serious injury will result.

No fires were reported in this district.

DEFINES ISSUE.

J. H. Burnham Sets Case Against Bryan in Evolution Trial.

In Nos. 1 and 2 I tried to put briefly and plainly the subject at issue in the world-famous Dayton trial, a trial which Lloyd-George and many others are writing about with feverish interest. Bryan and Darrow for prosecution and defence have enlarged the issue from simple disobedience of a law to the scientific basis of science and the religious basis of all religion.

Since they do not claim infallibility and since the result cannot be shown to be true as in electricity or applied science generally, they are really making a vast noise to no purpose. It is guess-work. However, the issue has at last come to be in the eyes of the world as follows: "Has the Deity any right to let the Devil run loose in the world?"

The Devil is the incarnation of all the evils and without him there would be no evil. Why did God, therefore let him run riot as he pleases?

Would any prohibitionist let him do so? Any minister? Any moral reformer?

Manifestly it is entirely unreasonable that our "pious" people should vote to let the Devil loose and also to shut him up when he appears as whiskey, loose women, extortion, murder, etc.

So they vote to shut him up. Hence Darrow will argue that those who vote to shut him up defy God and sneer at Him, and they are the Bryanites and all other prohibitionists and force reformers. We must educate people to be real men and women, he will say, and then they will protect the test imposed by God, as God intended, and will triumph. If they do not, then the wages of their sin is death, and there is no escape and to attempt to make ways of escape is disbelief.

Man, as we have seen, springs not from an apestock, but from the simplest form of life—an egg. Not one child cometh into the world otherwise. Man is created from day to day. It must be manifest God would not contradict His book of nature in any other book. And so it is.

These wild wind-jammers like Bryan, have got their hands full. They are trying to force their opinions on the world, and certainly that is the only way such opinions can be made to prevail, for they flatly contradict facts.

As Bryan is the chief of the Pharisees, either his defeat or triumph will bring a crisis which even the strictest will have to acknowledge.

The issue is not as Bryan says: "Is there a God?" But Bryan and Bryanism or true Christianity?

—J. H. B.

AT THE CAPITOL

MACLEAN'S LATEST FILM LAID IN SWISS ALPS

"It isn't the highest mountain in the Alps, but it's the craziest," said an Alpine guide to the young American who wanted to be a hero.

In Douglas MacLean's new comedy, "Introduce Me," which comes to the Capitol Theatre today, the star sets out to scale the most rugged mountain in all Switzerland. He had never climbed anything higher than the old garden wall. It made him dizzy to climb a cherry tree. But he met a girl on his first trip to Europe and she just adored mountain climbers, and the hero had to show his bravery and skill. He must be an Alpine hero.

The situation becomes interesting and more laughable every time the hero scrambled a few feet further up the slippery heights.

He thought an Alpine stick was to dig holes and the mountaineers' rope was a clothes line. The highest he'd ever been up in the air was the time he rode in the ferris wheel at Coney Island.

But he got to the top of that peak and planted the American flag on the summit before his rival climbers were out of the foothills. How did he do it?—That would be giving away the whole story.

GIBSON EXCITES AND AMAZES IN "TAMING THE WEST."

An exceedingly amusing story combining city and ranch jazz with rapid outdoor Western action is the current offering at the Royal Theatre where Hoot Gibson is appearing in "Taming the West," a Universal-Gibson Special.

Gibson is given ample opportunity to demonstrate his skill at automobile driving and at horsemanship. Playing the part of a dissipated city youth who went into the West to recover his health and self-respect, Gibson demonstrates that he is quite properly the champion horseman of the world, a title gained in competition at the Pendleton Rodeo for the past three years.

He breaks a bronco, gets a mean spill, but remounts the animal and subdues it. Other scenes call for daring horseback riding and Gibson shoots his horse past sheer declivities and outruns a group of pursuing cow-punchers. He is also given a chance to excel in automobile piloting and drives a heavy racing car over the hills and plains of the roadless ranch. Tearing through fences and barns and taking dangerous skids as he discovers himself in an impasse and turns about abruptly.

Combining the thrilling chase scenes with a clever original plot taken from the story, "The Range Dwellers," by B. M. Bowers, Arthur Rosson, director, has produced a picture which will appeal to many classes, including lovers of Westerns, comedy followers and those who appreciate clever drama.

The story is clever. It starts with a city youth whose aptitude for getting into trouble finally arouses his father to action. The action consists of his banishing the son from the fireside until he has made his character over into something of value. The son is sent to the father's western ranch where he goes through the various tenderfoot initiations but turns the tables on the mocking cow-punchers and fights the biggest of them, proving himself an adept with his fists.

He falls in love with the neighboring rancher's daughter but is ordered off the ranch when her father discovers that the youth is the son of his old enemy. However, the son gives battle to the cowboys of the neighboring ranch and wins the respect and love of the girl. He drives up to the ranch house and kidnaps the girl, making his escape from the ranch property after a thrilling chase.

The two get married and as they return from the minister's they meet their fathers on the road scorning each other. When the two see their children they decide it is best to forget their petty animosity and the picture ends happily.

In the cast are Marceline Day, Morgan Brown, Edwin Booth Tilton, Herbert Prior, Louis Hippe, Albert J. Smith, Francis Ford and Frona Hale.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

The undersigned has been told that others have a right to their opinions equally with myself. Granted; but I beg to say, that in making statement, under the above heading, I am not merely expressing personal opinion; but telling out truths on the authority of the Scriptures. I have been asked to give the meaning of the word "hell." To those who desire to know the truthful meaning of the same, I refer them to the Scriptures, which make this matter clear and plain. Those who love error and its associations, and are determined to hold tenaciously to their diabolical creeds cannot expect to know the truth. Then again we are told it is necessary to put the false doctrine of endless torments, in order to deter men from wrongdoing. Doing evil that good may come is not only an unrighteous act, but a useless one as well, as it does not bring desired results.—M. J. Butcher. 1d-14-1094

DOCTOR HELD FOR BRIBERY ATTEMPT

Authorities Believe Arrest Will Unfold Tale of Soviet Intrigue.

SHANGHAI, July 16. — (Special Cable, Canadian Press.) — Another important angle of the general strike situation here has developed in the arest of Dr. Eugene Fortonatoff, the Russian physician to the Communist Consul, on a charge of attempting to bribe a Russian policeman to testify that a certificate bearing the seal of the Communist agitation department, found on Zinoviev Dossar, alleged Soviet agent, was a forgery committed by the policeman.

The foreign authorities believe the arrest will unfold a tale of Soviet intrigue, and may free Dossar from the pending charge. The political atmosphere is somewhat disturbed by reports that the finding of the diplomatic commission investigating the Shanghai situation were unfavorable to the municipal government.

NEW YORK, July 16.—(Canadian Press).—George L. ('Tex') Rickard announced to-day that Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, had been signed to fight Harry Wills, negro challenger for the heavyweight crown.

"It will be impossible to stage it this year," the promoter said, "but I expect it to come off by next September."

OTTAWA, July 16 (Canadian Press).—Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner in London, is expected in Canada during the second week in August. Mr. Larkin's visit will be in accordance with a custom which he has established since taking office, of visting Canada in the course of every year.

OBITUARY.

MR. R. T. WATTS.

The death occurred in Collingwood on July 10th, of Mr. R. T. Watts, father of Mrs. Charles C. Willison, of 344 McDonnel street.

The late Mr. Watts, who was an octogenarian, was born in Devonshire, England, and came to Canada fifty-five years ago. He followed the tailoring business in Toronto for some time, then removing to Collingwood, where he resided for the past thirty-six years. He was a member of the Baptist church. The Saturday News, of Collingwood, says of him:

"Mr. Watts was a fine type of Englishman, always cheerful and bright, well groomed and natty in his dress. Being especially fond of flowers, he customarily wore a buttonhole bouquet, which fitted in with his general style and action. He was not ostentatious in any way, but quiet and dignified. No word detrimental to a fellow citizen passed his lips. Rather would he go to the other extreme and be charitable to the highest degree. In his death Collingwood has lost a good citizen."

Young men look rather to the past age than the present, and therefore the future may have some hope of them.—Swift.

ROTARY PARADE IS BIG AFFAIR

HUNDREDS OF BOYS.

The weather clerk who had shown a decidedly frowning face towards all beholders grew more and more genial in countenance as the day progressed with the result that when the Rotary Carnival set out promptly at 2 o'clock from the Y.M.C.A. the atmospheric condition were all that could be desired.

Headed by the Salvation Army Band a body of men with an average standard of physique equal to that of any Guards' Regiment, the procession nearly a mile long moved along George street lined on both sides by large numbers of interested spectators. Close on the heels of the band came the Fire Department, the shrieking of its sirens for once creating no alarm. The chief sat in the handsome two-seater of the deparment, but his position appeared to be usurped for the day by a bibulous looking hobo in a weird costume whose helmet bore the legend "Chief" written in chalk in shockingly bad handwriting on a rickety old helmet.

The parade was Peterborough in miniature. Practically every industry and every firm, large or small, in the city had a representative in the long line of automobiles, trucks and wagons that comprised the greater part of the parade. There were very few of the vehicles that did not carry a bunch of occupants besides the driver.

Interest in the parade was manifested right along the route to the Exhibition Grounds. The verandahs of the houses south of the C.P.R. Station were filled by sightseers. At the Canadian Packing Company, a large number of employees, men and women came out to greet the procession.

Naturally in a long procession there were several halts en route, and in such cases there was sometimes a difficulty experienced in bringing horse-driven vehicles to a stop in time to avert a collision against the vehicle in front, but all were very careful, and the whole procession arrived at the Exhibition Grounds without mishap.

Reaching the grounds, the parade swung round and entered by the gate at the east, while the general public were admitted at the main gate. The parade marched inside and made a circuit of the grounds. The band was then ensconced at the bandstand, and the crowd continued to pour into the grounds as the Carnival got down to business.

Around The City.

Dr. Coburn, of Toronto, is in Dr. Sheehy's office for the summer.

Joseph O'Brien, from out of the city, was brought up by the Provincial Constable in the County Court yesterday before Magistrate Langley and was found guilty of, being in possession of 9 bottles of porter. A fine of $150 and costs was imposed.

Frank Henry, another County resident, was fined $50 and costs or 2 months' imprisonment for having 3 gallons of moonshine in his possession.

Another man comes up tomorrow on a charge of illegally selling liquor.

In a terrific downpour of rain this morning at 6.50 the Fire Department responded to a call from Cameron Street, where a frame stall and chicken coop at the junction with Woodbine Avenue had taken fire. The building was gutted completely when the firemen arrived.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

Iron Pipe Gains 6 Points Havana Electric Climbs 5 3-4

NEW YORK, July 16.—(Canadian Press).—After an initial display of strength, the market quieted down, although brisk rallies took place in several high-priced issues. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe spurted up 6 points, and Havana Electric extended its early gain to 5 3-4. Price movements of several specialties reflected a hasty retreat of shorts. Activity in rail shares was restrained by the reported decision of Western carriers to modify their demands for a rate increase from 11 to 5 per cent. Call money was renewed at 3 3-4 per cent.

Dominion Can Holds Lead Smelters and Bread Recover

TORONTO, July 16 (Canadian Press).—Dominion Canners continued leader of Toronto Exchange this morning, both of the Common and preferred, gaining a point at 106 1-2 and 108 respectively. Consolidate Smelters recovered two points at 94 1-2, and Bread B Preferred advanced half point at 89 1-2; Brazilian also prominent in trading, eased off 3-8 at 57 1-4, and Bell Telephone dropped an equal amount at 137 5-8. slight tendency to drop fractions was shown throughout.

Cooler Weather Brings Lower Prices For Wheat

CHICAGO, July 16 (Canadian Press).—Lower prices for wheat went hand-in-hand today with cooler weather in the spring crop belt. The fact that the list of pool quotations showed a greater decline than was looked for tended also to weaken values here. Increased demand which appeared on downturns in price, brought about only transient rallies. Opening prices, unchanged to 1 3-4c lower; September 151 to 151 3-4 and December 151 to 151 1-2, were followed by temporary gains, and then by a decided st back with September touching 159 3-4 and December 150 1-2.

Iowa crop damage reports gave strength to the corn market, and oats as well. After opening unchanged to 1-4c off, September 106 1-2 to 106 5-8, the corn market scored a sharp advance that carried September up to 108 1-4.

Oats started unchanged to 1-4c lower, September 46 to 46 1-8. Later all months showed a moderate upturn.

Higher prices on hogs gave firmness to the provision market.

Her Sneer Would Sink Thousand Ships or So.

Fat and forty, Ruth Fischer, leader of the German communists, with a bitterness that knows no bounds, sneers at everything and everybody.

With her vaudevillian shimmy, she has turned the German Reichstag into a show. She thrives on hate and believes the ancient axiom that fat people are good-natured. She spends her life proving to herself and to others how rotten the others can be. Her sneer would sink a thousand ships. When she laughs everyone wonders why.

"Some one with rare originality once called her the Red Joan of Arc," he writes. "If you can picture the fat lady of the circus inspiring the hungry masses to revolt then the description is apt.

"Her band of Red sneerers are in an enviable position. They are against everything. They have nothing to do with the government, and consequently everything the government does is wrong.

"Ruth Fischer sits on the extreme left of the house, interrupting all-comers with a well-chosen cry of 'Phooy!' When she is merely a super she dresses in white, the symbol of womanly purity. But when she is booked as one of the party speakers she choose blue silk, a symbol of something or other, I can't think of it at the moment. Her band consists of young men in velvet and black shirts, older men with shaved heads, and curious hunched little agitators that can't read without their glasses, and frequently with them. They supply the 'hear hears' as she talks and the hoch hochs to the Soviet republic, and to down downs with the Hindenburg monarchy, and the Socialists and the Catholics and the Democrats and the People's Party and the Nationalists and the Fascisti and the capitalistic system and all the little what-nots that constitute German political being.

"There she stands, a little fat woman in blue, cursing the things that are, shouting against time. And the little band of Red sneerers come to her rescue with loud cries of 'Phooy!'

"To hesitate for the fanatic is to be lost. To wonder if you can always be right and the other man always wrong constitutes a high crime.

"But Ruth Fischer's day is done. Two years ago she hesitated. She did not summon the revolution. She was content to let the Reds of Hamburg revolt all by themselves to the tune of 100 dead. Moscow became angry. The Communist support was cut to one-third. She still is feared. But if she is at all honest she must sneer at herself. She, too, once entertained a doubt.

"She has been married four times. This has nothing at all to do with the story."

Most Ur gent Wants

There's a world of interest in the Want Ads. They reflect the urgent desires of various businesses, households and individuals.

The Wants tell what is most needed. If the cook has left, if a worker is needed in the office or factory, if an article of value is lost or found, if there is urgent necessity to sell a piece of property, secure tenants, roomers or boarders—all such conditions are expressed and met in the Want Columns.

The Wants are close to the heart interests of the people. It is interesting to watch them carefully.

DOMINIONS WERE UNANIMOUS IN OPPOSING THE GENEVA PROTOCOL DRAFTED BY LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Canada Influenced by Refusal of the United States to Participate.

EMPIRE'S ATTITUDE

"White Paper" Issued Yesterday Publishes Correspondence With British Govt.

OTTAWA, July 17. — (Canadian Press.) — Despatches which have been exchanged between the Government of Great Britain and the Governments of the Overseas Dominions in regard to the Geneva protocol for the Pacific settlement of International disputes, were issued Thursday in the form of a "white paper." The communications, some of which have been published already, outlined the attitude of Great Britain and the Dominions toward the protocol, which was drawn up by the fifth assembly of the League of Nations.

Canada's attitude is outlined in a communication sent to the secretary of state for the colonies on March 4, 1925, and tabled by Premier Mackenzie King in the House of Commons during the last session of Parliament. While advocating continued whole-hearted support of the League of Nations, it states that the government cannot recommend to Parliament adherence to the protocol. "Among the grounds for this conclusion is consideration of the effect of non-participation of the United States upon attempts to enforce the sanctions, and particularly so in the case of a contiguous country like Canada," the despatch states.

It re-affirms Canada's belief in the submission of international disputes to joint enquiry and says the Dominion would be prepared to consider acceptance of the compulsory jurisdiction of the permanent court in justiciable disputes with certain reservations. It also states that Canada would be willing to participate in a general conference on reduction of armaments which did not involve acceptance of the protocol.

New Zealand's Protest.

The Geneva protocol will, it is expected, come up in some form at the next assembly of the League of Nations. It is probable, however, that in view of the opposition from Great Britain and the Dominions, as well as the Scandinavian countries of Europe, that it will be introduced in a modified form. The "white paper" includes a despatch from the Premier of New Zealand in which he records "an emphatic protest against a process under which the British Empire is hurriedly called upon to give its adhesion to momentous novel conditions expressed in a document hastily prepared and vague in expression both as regards its effect and detail."

The government of the Union of South Africa informs the British government in another communication that it is unable to recommend acceptance of the protocol. It states that determination of obligations and consequences which may accrue from the acceptance of the protocol is impossible in advance. Australia also voices objections stating that the protocol is distinctly unacceptable for a number of reasons set forth.

The reasons why Great Britain "cannot accept the Geneva protocol, or recommend its acceptance to the other governments of the Empire," are set forth in a lengthy memorandum by the British foreign secretary. This statement has already been made public.

MONKEY WON'T PLAY WITH WM. J. BRYAN

Simian Knocks Actor Down and Climbs Tree, Hurling Invective.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 17. —(United News.)— A monkey actor belonging to a comedy troupe objected to posing with a comedian disguised as Wm. J. Bryan, and ran amuck on a busy Hollywood boulevard.

Downing Bryan with a rush, the Simian climbed a tree, pattered his protest at the actor and then leaped from the tree on top of seven-year-old Paul Stall. The monkey sank his teeth into the boy's arm.

He then climbed the tree again and was not quieted until the actor took off his "Bryan" disguise.

The boy was taken to a hospital, where his wounds were cauterized.

DECORATION DAY ON SUNDAY NEXT

Graves of Soldiers in Little Lake Cemetery Will Be Visited By Comrades.

Sunday will be the occasion of another decoration day service of the Peterborough Great War Veterans. Last week's parade was to St. Peter's Cemetery, and this week's will be to Little Lake.

The G.W.V.A., whose Cenotaph on Murray street is the only visible monument in Peterborough to the men whose lives were given in the Great War, invites relatives and friends to place wreaths there in their memory. Last week it was stipulated that these should be placed on the monument during the service, but it has been felt that some might not care for the publicity. All who so desire, therefore, are invited to decorate the Cenotaph at their convenience. It has been suggested too that organizations might combine to place wreaths on this monument.

The parade on Sunday will be at 1.45, at the G.W.V.A. hall, and will march off at 2 o'clock. Both bands will be in attendance.

Combine In Accessories Alleged In Border Towns

OTTAWA, July 17.—(Canadian Press).—A confidential report will probably be made to the Minister of Labor within the next few days by H. Hereford, registrar under the Combines Investigation Act, who has been investigating complaints that there is a combine operating in respect to automobile parts in the district of Windsor. Mr. Hereford is expected in the capital to-day. The complaint is that certain accessories, including spark plugs, have been given a limited distribution by manufacturers and certain dealers have been discriminated against. The present inquiry is to establish whether or not there is sufficient evidence to take proceedings under the Combines Investigations Act.

LAST MINUTE REPRIEVE SAVES RUSSELL SCOTT FROM GALLOWS FOR A NOTHER WEEK OF LIFE

Telegram Purporting to Come From Brother Averts Execution To-day.

AFTER HOPE GONE.

Message Says Brother Did Fatal Shooting of Store Clerk.

CHICAGO, July 17 (Canadian Press)—A new lease on life for one week has been given Russell Scott, condemned to die today for the murder of Joseph Maurer, a drug store clerk, in a holdup. Six hours before the time set for the execution of the erstwhile Canadian promoter, Governor Small, moved by a mysterious telegraph from Detroit, granted a reprieve.

The message came when all hope had been abandoned by Scott and his wife and aged father, who had worked for weeks to save him. It confessed the killing and promised surrender, urging that the hanging be delayed.

It was given to a messenger boy on the street in Detroit by a young man and was signed Robert Scott. Russell Scott has said that Robert, his brother, never apprehended, was the actual slayer.

The thirty year old condemned man with a colorful career was prepared for death when news of the reprieve came. He had said farewell to his father and asked that the inscription, "Murdered by the State of Illinois" be placed on his tombstone.

Was Playing Cards

With the death watch guards, Scott was playing cards when he was informed of the Governor's action. He had agreed to continue playing until he had made 100 points. He had scored 80 when the news came.

"Thank God," he exclaimed. His emotion over him.

When he recovered slightly he asked, "Where is my wife? Thank God for my wife's sake. Won't someone find her and tell her?"

Mrs. Scott was found in the apartment of a friend. She broke down and sobbed, "And to think that I thought there was no God and that prayers were no good."

The Message

The wire received by Governor Small read: "Delay hanging of my brother, I will be in to surrender myself. I am the one that shot Joseph Maurer. (Signed) Robert Scott."

Attaches of the Governor's offices at Springfield are making efforts to verify the message and establish the identity of the sender.

The Springfield telegraph operator communicated with Detroit direct and Western Union Officials of that city were directed to turn the message over to Detroit Detective Bureau for investigation.

Think Message Faked.

"This is something better than I expected in the way of neckwear this morning," said Russell Scott, when he got up to-day after a good sleep, and put on his necktie. Scott was in high spirits. He smoked a cigar instead of the customary cigarette. The guards said Scott had a handful of aces at midnight when the news of the reprieve was brought to him while he was playing cards. The authorities here are investigating the authenticity of the telegram received by Governor Small. Detectives declare it is a fraud, and that Russell Scott confessed he fired the shot that killed Maurer. "If Robert Scott was sincere," says Attorney Gorman, "he would have walked into police headquarters and surrendered instead of sending a telegram—even if he did send it." Mrs Russell Scott declares that Scott's father has also received a telegram from Robert that he is going to give himself up.

MARITIMES WILL ENGAGE EXPERT TO STUDY RATES

Atlantic Provinces to Concentrate on Preparing Case for Better Freight Rates.

CONFERENCE ENDS

Emphasized Larger Contributions to Federal Treasury Than Receipts From It.

MONCTON, July 17 (By Canadian Press)—The Economic Conference in session here for two days concluded its deliberations Thursday with a recommendation that the governments of the three maritime provinces employ a freight rates expert who will gather data for presentation to the Economic Conference of the whole Dominion which will assemble at Winnipeg in the fall. The Premier of Prince Edward Island, Hon. Mr. Stewart, pledged his province to pay one-fifth of the expenses of such an expert, and the governments of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick will be asked to divide the remaining four-fifths in equal ratio.

Arrangements were made for the appointment of committees who will study the maritime economic situation and formulate their findings at a meeting to be held in Septembr at Charlottetown.

The Charlottetown meeting is intended to draw up a case for submission to the Winnipeg conference.

Great emphasis was placed during the conference on the need for an adjustment of freight rates, and the claim that the Maritimes were entitled to a preferential rate.

Obligations to Maritimes

J. D. McKenna, Saint John, represented that instead of the Maritimes being a liability to the rest of Canada, as had often been inferred, they were an asset and the rest of Canada a liability on them. He supported this by figures to show that only in the matter of harbors had these provinces received back from the rest of Canada their share of the country's revenues, while for railways alone the obligation on the Maritime people was two hundred million dollars greater than had been expended for railways down here. Mr. McKenna also made a plea for the buying of their own goods by Maritime people, stating that eighty

YANNANESE WILL ATTACK CANTON

Attempt Will Be Made to Recapture City Which Expelled Them.

LONDON, July 17 (United Press) —The Exchange Telegraph's Hong Kong correspondent says it is reported from Swatow that General Chang Winming's party is allying itself with a section of Yunnanese generals, with a view to a concerted attack on Canton.

The Yunnanese were recently driven out of Canton with heavy losses. Some reports have indicated an intention on their part to attempt recapture of the city.

OCCUPANTS OF SUMMER COTTAGE NEAR CHAMPBELLFORD FLED ONLY IN NIGHT CLOTHES FROM FLAMES

Robert Moore's Summer Home at Percy Boom Totally Destroyed Thursday.

NARROW ESCAPE

Garage and Car and Even the Ice House Included in Total Loss.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 17. — The summer cottage of Robert Moore, of Campbellford, at Percy Boom, was destroyed by fire, which broke out about 3 o'clock on Thursday morning, from some unknown cause. Sleeping in the building at the time were Mr. and Mrs. Moore and children, Mrs. A. L. Malcolm and children, and T. Moffatt, of Campbellford. All of the inmates had a narrow escape and got out of the burning cottage in their night clothes. A telephone call was sent to Campbellford for a taxi and the entire party returned to Campbellford. All the contents of the cottage were destroyed and an auto which was in the garage — a total loss. Even the ice house did not escape.

The cottage stood apart from the other buildings at the resort, in a beautiful grove of trees, and was a desirable summer residence. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Cancer Not Only Disease Threatened By Britishers

LONDON, July 17.—(Canadian Press.) — Other diseases than cancer may yield thier secrets to scientific workers armed wtih the technical methods evolved by Dr. William E. Gye and his colleague Dr. J. E. Barnard.

This suggestion is put forward by the Lancet, authoritative British medical journal, in presenting papers by the two eminent scientists on their recently announced discovery regarding the causes of cancer.

"The new technical methods now made available," it says, "will be applicable to research along a whole enormous front. Diseases like measles, smallpox, foot and mouth diseases, dog's distemper, may yield their secrets to workers with these new weapons."

PROGRESSIVES TO HOLD CONVENTION

Reorganizing in Manitoba for Federal Election in Fall.

WINNIPEG, July 17.—(Canadian Press).—With the object of contesting all the 17 federal ridings in the province at the Dominion election, which it is expected, will be held in the fall, the Progressives of Manitoba will proceed at once with reorganization arrangements effecting the entire province. The initial steps were taken at a conference of the party held in the city. Wednesday night, when those present included the Manitoba Progressive members of parliament.

In order to decide on a common policy, an interprovincial convention will be held in the near future. Preliminary steps were taken for this gathering, but the date and place of meeting will be announced later.

Considerable attention was given at the afternoon and night sessions to matters of policy.

As for jest, there be certain things which ought to be privileged from it; namely, religion, matters of state, great persons, any man's present business of importance, any case that deserveth pity.—Bacon.

QUEBEC'S ANCIENT COAT OF ARMS SEIZED AFTER WOLFE'S VICTORY RESTORED BY CITY OF HASTINGS

Historic Symbol of Division and Enmity Returned as Guarantee of Unity.

GIFT TO QUEBEC

Escutcheon of French King Becomes Token of Anglo-French Accord.

LONDON, July 17.—(Canadian Press Cable).—In brilliant sunshine and amid elaborate decorations thousands gathered yesterday at the entrance to Hastings pier to witness the ceremony of handing over the royal arms of France to P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner who will take them back to Quebec. The Mayor presided and members of the corporation council and distinguished Canadian and Frenchmen were present including Mr. Justice Duff and H. M. Biggar.

The Marseillaise was played on the arrival of the French Ambassador and then the Maple Leaf. Lord Willingdon who is a freeman of the borough in presenting the escutcheon said that in the days of Wolfe England and France had battled for the supremacy in North American but Canada won the day.

An Anglo-French Bond.

Canada, he said, was fortunate to possess besides true British characteristics, French blood, traditions and institutions. After a reference to the battle of Hastings Lord Willingdon said that it was peculiarly appropriate that Hastings should return to Canada the escutcheon, recalling that British and Canadian troops fought alongside the French for civilization. The citizens of Hastings, he continued, made the gift with feelings of frendship and affection and with an earnest and intense desire to promote unity and brotherhood throughout the British Empire and as a symbol of the lasting friendship between England and France whereof Quebec would always be the most binding link.

In replying and presenting a replica of the escutcheon P. C. Larkin said that the citizens of Quebec would always treasure the gift which was a token of the valor and capacity of one of Hastings' sons and which in the future would have added significance as the emblem of a close brotherhood between two widely separated parts of His Majesty's Dominions. The Earl of Clarendon suggested that Hastings and Quebec school children should exchange visits.

13 Times In Prison Since 1913, Record Of Man Of 72

MONTREAL, July 17.—(Canadian Press).—Alexander Ross, aged 72, was sentenced yesterday to two years in the penitentiary for attempted robbery with violence. This sentence was the thirteenth of a series which has kept him in jail almost continually since he came to Canada in 1913, on similar charges to the present.

Accompanied by another man, who escaped before the arrival of the police, he applied at a rooming house for lodgings and attacked the proprietor while he was showing them a room. The two men actually had succeeded in extracting $340 from the proprietor's pocket when help arrived.

NORTH POLE IS NO MAN'S LAND

Says German Jurist of Canada's Suggested Claim of Region.

AGAINST LAW.

BERLIN, July 17. — (Canadian Press). — Discussing the rightful ownership of the North Pole, Dr. O. Loening, a well-known German jurist, denies the right to Canada, or any other country, to annex the polar area in vew of the impossibility of establishing anything like permanent settlements in those extreme northern latitudes. The claim would not be recognized by other countries, he said, as it would be absolutely contradictory to international law.

CHALON-SUR-SAONE, France, July 17.—(Canadian Press).—Three aviators were killed to-day in a mid-air collision of two training planes at an aviation school here.

HURLED THROUGH AIR.

Al Sweet, Booked For This Year's Fair, Hurt in Collision.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 17.—Al Sweet, conductor of Al Sweet's Singing Band, which played at Riverside Park recently, suffered severe bruises and strain about the body the other night, as the result of having been thrown through the window of a Hartford 'bus in Agawam. The 'bus had stopped to let a passenger get off and parked in such a way as to leave the rear end over the trolley tracks. A Hartford-bound car came down the hill and struck the 'bus, throwing it away from the track and hurling several passengers through the rear windows.

CHEMONG NEWS

The severe storm of yesterday morning caused a good deal of unpleasantness at Chemong Park, as well as in other districts. The downpour abated sooner than in the city, the sky clearing up about nine o'clock. Several cars were ditched on the way in, and at least one car owner at the Park itself had to appeal to a neighbor [illegible] his machine refusing to [illegible] after its bath.

One note of real damage at the Park was the cleavage of a lightning bolt of a handsome pine tree a few feet away from the cottage of Dr. and Mrs. [illegible] A. Morgan. Early yesterday morning the occupants were startled by a loud crash, and discovered later that the tree had been practically destroyed by lightning, the bolt having apparently passed directly down the centre from a point high up in the tall trunk, one of the finest members of a grove directly at this point.

The cottages are filling rapidly. Only a few, probably [illegible] twelve in number, remain unoccupied, and the Park is reported to be enjoying one of the best seasons for some years.

DROWNING ACCIDENT IS JURY'S VERDICT

After Deliberation of 2 Hours and 45 Minutes Boat Owner is Exonerated.

ST. THOMAS, July 17.—(Canadian Press). — After being out two hours and forty-five minutes, the jury empanelled by Coroner Dr. D. L. Ewin to enquire into the swan boat tragedy on Lake Pinafore on the evening of Monday, July 6th, when several children and a woman were drowned, returned a verdict of accidental drowning, exonerating William Stoner, owner of the boat and park concessionaire, of any charge of negligence. In their verdict the jury said there was no evidence submitted to show that the weight of the load carried on the fatal trip was in excess of that on previous occasions.

HAVELOCK SCHOOL SITUATION IS RESULT OF OVERCROWDING SAY SOME OF SCHOOL BOARD

Ratepayers Gather For Conference, But No Meeting is Held.

UNIQUE SITUATION.

Policy of Hand Picking Pupils For Entrance Examination Not Followed.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

HAVELOCK, July 17. — Twelve or fifteen ratepayers gathered in front of the school building at 8 o'clock last evening, waiting patiently for the members of the school board to arrive and hold a special session, as a rumor to that effect had been current in the village all day. The purpose of this meeting was to discuss the poor showing made by the Public School at the recent Entrance examination, when out of 35 candidates only nine were successful and four of these, according to Inspector Lees, were allowed to pass by a liberal consideration of their cases.

There was no meeting last night. The caretaker opened the door and turned on the lights, but the ratepayers stood on the sidewalk and discussed the situation and the school regulations, which they regarded as responsible for it. Only one member of the board, Dr. A. S. Thompson, showed up, and he stated that no meeting could be held as none had been regularly called. The gathering then dispersed.

Regular Meeting Tuesday.

The regular meeting of the board will be held next Tuesday, when the ratepayers will be given an opportunity to be heard. H. W. Roche, chairman of the board, stated to The Examiner last night that it had been suggested to him by a ratepayer that he call a special meeting and that he had told the latter that to comply with the law it would be necessary to have a request for such a meeting signed by at least five ratepayers or two trustees. This document should be placed in the hands of the secretary, who would then notify the members of the board.

Education is Costly.

The school situation in Havelock is unique and in that village the cost of education per capita is away above the average. There is an up-to-date school building with eight teachers, six in the public school and two in the continuation department. To support this institution is a heavy burden on the taxpayers. The assessment of the village is only $350 000 and in addition to this part of the township, with an assessed value of $6.000 is included in the Havelock school district. The population of the village is about 1,200 and there are at present 300 pupils attending the various departments in the school. This is regarded as an abnormal percentage of school children in a village the size of Havelock.

School is Congested.

It is admitted by members of the board that the fourth grade in the public school is congested. Principal Yuill had an average attendance of 55 in his room last term, nearly double the limit set by the regulations. He is required to teach the Junior Fourth class in addition to the entrance pupils so that he is working under a double disadvantage. Members of the Havelock board, who discussed the matter last night with the Examiner representative drew attention to these facts and maintained that it was not fair to compare the entrance results at Havelock with those in such places as Tweed and Campbellford, and other places, where 100 per cent. of the candidates were successful. In the latter school the principal has only the entrance class to teach and rarely has more than 30 pupils. These in most cases are hand-picked, not allowed to leave the Junior Fourth Grade until it is almost a certainty that they will make the High School with one year's tuition. The aim of the public schools these days appears to be to pass as high a percentage of pupils as possigle, as school boards estimate the success of a teacher by the number of pupils he puts through the entrance examinations. In the majority of schools those about whose success there is a doubt are not allowed to become candidates. This system has never prevailed in Havelock.

The Board's Position.

Members of the Havelock School Board say that their Principal may have erred in judgment by excessive zeal, that he permitted too many pupils who had been only one year in the class to write at the entrance. The average age of the nine who passed would not exceed [illegible] and nearly all [illegible] wrote [illegible]

[redacted]

Inspector Lees attended the last meeting of the Havelock School Board and was unable to account for the situation here beyond agreeing with members that the "dead-wood" had been allowed to accumulate. When asked if it was possible for the Board to get rid of some of the pupils whose further advancement appeared hopeless, he said that, according to the school law, if a pupil voluntarily attended school accommodation for him or her up to the age of 21 would have to be provided.

DANISH CURRENCY VALUE INCREASES

Trade Balance Also Improving as Import Surplus is Cut $2,000,000.

MONTREAL, Que, July 17. Canadian Press. — The month of May recorded a further improvement of the value of the Danish Krone, the average quotation during this month being $18.76 per 100 kroner as compared with $18.38 in April, reports to the Danish consul-geneal show.Thus all recent months sho a marked and steady improvement in the value of the Danish consul-general show.Thus with this improvement and with the declining prices on the world market the wholesale price index in Denmark has declined from 243 in January to 227 in May.

The trade balance of Denmark is also improving, the import surplus compared with four million at the beginning of the year. In April of last year the import surplus was more than five millions.

The export of agricultural products from Denmark was in some degree influenced by the recently ended transport strike, but the average weekly exports in May with the exception of eggs reached nearly the same heights as in April. The figures are:

Eggs. May, 1,275,667 dozen, April 1,720,500 dozen.

UNVEIL MEMORIAL AT CHARLOTTETOWN

Impressive Ceremony as Capital of P.E.I. Honors War Dead.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., July 17—With reverent ceremonial, marked by military and naval display, eloquent and fervent orations, singing by massed choirs and other impressive features, there was unveiled in Charlottetown yesterday in the presence of a vast assemblage, the monument erected on Queen Square by the citizens of Charlottetown, "In memory of those from Prince Edward Island who gloriously laid down their lives in the great war and in honour for evermore of all who served therein."

As the colors, which draped the beautiful memorial of bronze and stone, fell at the touch of Mrs. John McLean, wife of Hon. Senator McLean of Souris, and mother of Miss Rena McLean, the nursing sister [illegible] made the supreme sacrifice in the torpedoing of the Llandovery Castle, the guard of honor came to the salute, the band played "O Canada" and Bugler Sergeant Charles Hine sounded the "Last Post." Then the thousands of people surrounding the memorial observed two minutes silence as a tribute to the dead. The piercing notes of the bugle again rang out as Reveille was sounded by Sgt. Hine.

Prohibitive Lines Invoke the Ire of a Brewery Horse Which Reads the Signs. Sees Fire, and Bolts Off Course

LONDON, July 17 (United News).—An indignant brewery horse, shying at a temperance text chalked in white across the London pavement was successful in halting a new prohibition campaign.

Drawing a heavy brewery truck the horse put back its ears and snorted when it passed over a chalked warning declaring "Wine is a mockery; strong drink is raging." Twenty yards further on another sign appeared: "Brains and beer don't mix," that was too much. The horse stopped, reared and jammed the truck across the street in such a way as to halt traffic. A policeman investigated the jam and found the texts to have been responsible. Ernest Lutz, George Smith and Cecil Bnnett, the text writers were brought to court and compelled to promise not to put such provacative reading matter in the way of horses.

GENEVA WELFARE CONGRESS IS OF INTERNATIONAL TYPE

Representatives of Forty Nations Convene to Plan for Benefit of Children.

FIRST ASSET

Case for the Child Will be Presented by Specialists and Authorities.

TORONTO July 17 (Canadian Press).—First in the history of mankind will be the International Congress on Child Welfare to be held in Geneva from August 24 to 28, plans for which are now almost completed. This great undertaking, organized by the Save the Children fund international union, will see a remarkable gathering when representatives of more than 40 nations will convene for the purpose of considering and making practicable plans for the benefit of the children of the world; who will then be studied as the people's first asset, to be given first preference in all cases where the welfare of the child is concerned.

The keystone of the discussion and debates will be what is known as the "Declaration of Geneva" or "The Children's Charter," which Canada has already signed in company with most other nations, and adopted by the League of Nations in September, 1924. The charter states that "By the present declaration of Geneva" men and women of all nations, recognizing that mankind owes to the child the best that it has to give, declare and accept it as their duty that, regardless of all considerations of race, nationality or creed:

1. The child must be given the means requisite for its normal development, both materially and spiritually.

2. The child that is hungry must be fed; the child that is sick must be nursed; the child that is backward must be helped; the delinquent child must be reclaimed, and the orphans and waifs must be succored.

3. The child must be first to receive relief in times of distress.

4. The child must be put in a position to earn a livelihood and must be protected against every form of exploitation.

5. The child must be brought up in the consciousness that its talents must be devoted to the service of its fellowmen."

The Congress will deal with the welfare of the child in three sections. The first, concerned with hygiene and medicine, will have as president, Professor Clemens Firquet, director of the children's Clinic at the University of Vienna; the second, on social welfare and administration, will have George Scelle, professor of international law at Dijon; while the third section, on education and propaganda will be presided over bp the Marchioness of Aberdeen and Temair, president of the international council of women. The case for the child will be presented by specialists and well-known authorities to the different sections, and the range to be covered will embrace such subjects as Alien Children in the Country of Their Residence, a condition which has become of pressing and painful importance owing to circumstances arising out of the war.

Canada has already become interested in the Children's Charter through its connection with the international council of women. Canada, too, has worked from coast to coast in the interests of the Save the Children Fund, and the Dominion will be represented at the Congress by Frank Yeigh, Canadian representative of the Fund.

THIRTY YEARS AGO GUNN GOT A RAISE

But He Didn't Know About It Till a Few Days Ago and Didn't Care Then.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 17. — (Canadian Press.) — Intimation that he had been granted a substantial advance in salary, failed to arouse Sheriff Peter Gunn, of Edmonton to any unusual pitch of enthusiasm. Not that he did not appreciate the liberality of his employer, but rather to the fact that he will never reap the fruit of the "increase."

He was notified of his salary rise in a communication from the north country, but—and here's the catch—it was written thirty years ago. By some trick of fate the letter had gone astray, but reached Mr. Gunn after such a long lapse of time in an excellent state of preservation.

The letter is dated January 6, 1896, and was written by Ewen Macdonald, at that time manager of the Peace River district for the Hudson's Bay company. Peter Gunn, then comparatively young, was employed at the company's post at Lesser Slave Lake.

The hardy Scotsman, Macdonald, long since dead, informs Mr. Gunn, in the latter, that his "services have been highly satisfactory" and that as a result, he has been awarded a "magnificent" increase in English pounds sterling. Just how much the "magnificent" increase amounted to, Mr. Gunn declined to divulge, but it was so small or so large that it caused the Sheriff to chuckle.

The letter reached Edmonton in a strange manner. An accompanying note, intimated that the communication had been found by a forest ranger, close to the Hudson's Bay post at Dunvegan, among a pile of old documents, diaries and books. The documents had been thrown out by some Indian servant of the post at a time unknown. Just how many years it had remained hidden under the dust is not known, but it did not reach Sheriff Gunn too late to assure him that his services while in the far north had been fully appreciated by his employers.

RYLSTONE GAVE LEADERS SCARE

Held Burnbrae to 2-1 Score in Best Seymour League Game.

BURNBRAE, July 17.—The two fastest games in the Seymour League to date were played at the Fair Grounds, Campbellford, on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

In Tuesday's fixture the English Line team came from behind, scoring 6 runs in the fifth to win out by a single tally. Seymour West gathered in 5 runs in the 2nd, 3rd and 4th innings, chiefly on loose infield play by the Line, for whom Ibey was pitching good ball. Atkinson was pitching an airtight game up till the fifth, when the bad break came, the Line scoring enough runs to win the game. This win puts the Line in undisputed possession of second place, with a good chance of play-off honors.

Rylstone provided the big surprise on Wednesday evening when they almost defeated the League leading Burnbrae club. The score stood 2 to 1 for Burnbrae at the end of the best seven innings of baseball seen on local grounds this year. Eagleson pitched great ball for Burnbrae, allowing only 4 hits and passing two. Burkitt and Ray Fry were the only Rylstone players to hit him successfully, each getting two singles. For the first four innings, not a Rylstone player reached first, but Burkitt, the first man up in the fifth, singled, stole second, went to third on Ray Fry's single, and was sacrificed home by Dunk. Fry was trapped at second, ending the scoring. In the seventh the same combination almost tied the score, each getting hits, but Burkitt was caught by Hume in an attempted steal home. Ray Fry made a sensattonal steal of third in this inning, but was stranded there when the game ended. Heath, in the box for Rylstone, pitched good ball that would have won any ordinary game, but his team-mates failed to hit consistently behind him, although they gave him good support, providing nearly all the fielding features. C. Barnum's running catch of Shillinglaw's fly to left in the first, and Spencer's catch of Anderson's high fly back of second, held the Burnbrae team from reaching first until the third. After Hay and F. Little were out in this inning, Craighead singled, stole second, went to third on Rannie's single and home on the play at first. Eagleson was hit, but Rannie was caught at second, ending the scoring. In the fourth Burnbrae threatened again. Shillinglaw, first up, singled to centre, Hume sacrificed and Shillinglaw was caught trying to make third. Lew Little singled and Anderson singled over short, Little reaching second when Spencer failed to cover the sack. Hay flew to Bateman to end the innings. Frank Little provided the big thrill of the night when, first man up in the fifth, he landed on Heath's second ball for a home run to the right field fence. It was one of the longest hits ever seen on the Campbellford grounds, and coming as it did with the score tied, provided the necessary margin. Craighead followed with another single, but the next three were out. In the sixth Hume singled, stole second and in trying to make home on Lew Little's sacrifice, was called out at the plate on a close decision. Burnbrae were weakened somewhat at bat by the absence of their star third sacker, Johnson, who is out with a sore knee, but Hay, who covered the hard corner, turned in a brilliant fielding performance. The Burnbrae boys turned in their usual cool, machine-like game that has put them at the top of the League, while Rylstone played with a pep and dash that has been missing in most of the games this year. It can be easily seen that Rylstone have improved, as on the last meeting of these teams, Burnbrae won by 23 to 7.

BARN BURNED.

Dennis McFadden Near Hastings, Loses By Lightning.

HASTINGS, July 17—Hastings and nearby vicinity was again visited by an electric storm on Thursday morning In some places the storm raged much more severely than others. A barn on the Dutch line about three miles from Hastings, belonging to Dennis McFadden, was struck about 8.30 and was completely destroyed. Some buckwheat and some hay were in the barn and a few odd pieces of machinery. Plenty of help was present to do all possible toward extinguishing the blaze.

In the village some trees were struck by lightning. A very high and driving wind accompanied by a heavy fall of rain and hail did some damage to several trees in many different places.

No man truly knoweth himself but he groweth daily more contemptible in his own eyes.—Jeremy Taylor.

REGULATIONS NEEDED.

Without desire to infringe upon any legal action that may arise out of the St. Thomas tragedy, in which eight lives were lost by the capsizing of a swan boat, the Examiner feels that there is one element of the case that calls for some explanation.

It was developed at the inquest that the man who had the concession for renting boats on Pinafore Lake had not sought permission of the authorities to place the ill-fated swan boat in commission.

He had simply gone ahead and constructed the craft according to his own ideas, and commenced using it—with dire results.

This aspect of the tragedy naturally brings up the whole question of the control of boat liveries in general.

There are scores of such establishments in Ontario, and there are few or no regulations, either Provincial or municipal, in regard to them.

Apparently there is no inspection of the seaworthiness of the boats offered for hire, and the proprietors are left to their own judgment as regards to whom boats shall be rented.

The St. Thomas tragedy suggests that there should be at least enough restriction to prevent an individual from placing the lives of the public in jeopardy through the use of a clumsy, crudely planned craft, the very nature of the construction of which should have aroused some misgivings as to its safeness.

YESTERDAY'S SUCCESS.

The most splendid thing about yesterday's most successful Rotary Carnival was the fine spirit of co-operation displayed by the citizens generally, demonstrating the fact that Peterboro as a community is prepared to stand behind worth-while activities.

Without this co-operation the Rotary Club could not have hoped to have scored such a success.

The willingness with which individuals, manufacturers, merchants, spotting organizations entered into the parade and the programme and the splendid attendance, both afternoon and evening, offered proof that the citizens approve of the work Rotary has been carrying on in Peterboro, and are prepared to assist in its continuance.

As to the Carnival itself, it was a fine success, justifying a decision to hold this event each summer.

There is a peculiar lack of such functions in Peterboro, and while neighboring centres are busily engaged in advertising old home weeks and other attractions that will bring thousands of visitors, this city's calendar is a blank so far as events of that nature is concerned.

An annual Rotary Carnival will do something to balance the scales, inasmuch as it provides one day's entertainment attractive enough to keep our own people at home and to bring visitors here.

The members of the Rotary Club are to be congratulated upon yesterday's results, and the community generally is to be felicitated upon the attitude shown toward the Carnival.

It is a very healthy sign.

ADVERTISING THIS DISTRICT.

Is it worth while to use such advertising projects as an exhibit at the New York Motor Show to give widespread circulation to the charms of this district and its attractions as a summer playground?

The Examiner has no hesitation in answering this question in the affirmative, despite the fact that there are people who hold a contrary opinion and would prevent it if they could the city spending any money to attract tourists.

Here is a confirmation of the value of advertising this district furnished in a letter received by Mr. Leon Frazer of the Chamber of Commerce from Mr. Perry Alexander, proprietor of Oak Orchard Lodge:

"It might interest you to know that a direct, concrete result of your New York representation last winter is exemplified in the following:

"Mr. T. G. Bloomberg of 311 West 59th street, New York City, was attracted to your exhibit by the large bass swimming around in a glass tank. He says he was given all the information he wanted by an 'extremely decent chap,' and made up his mind he would try the Kawartha Lakes on his next fishing trip. He wrote me, and as it is always the policy of the Lodge to find out from its guests just how they happened to hear of our little place, Mr. Bloomberg said that after seeing the bass at the show in N. Y. he inquired around for some place to stop, and happened on the Lodge, so after introductions, here he is, and getting the mates to the ones he saw in the glass tank in New York.

"Of course, this is only one case, but undoubtedly there are many more, and I believe that a determined effort should be made by the Chamber and the merchants of Peterboro and vicinity to give all the publicity possible to the attractions of this section. This will cost money, but the returns will justify every dollar spent."

The tourist traffic is developing into one of the biggest industries in the Province, bringing millions of dollars into Ontario to stimulate trade and consequently produce more orders for manufacturers and employment for workers.

Ontario is easily accessible to thousands of residents of the United States who are looking for new fields and to whom this Province is proving a very attractive lure.

The Ontario Tourists' Association is doing its part, assisted by the Ontario Government, to bring tourists into the Province, and it is up to each district once they are brought into Ontario to see that its our peculiar charms are brought before the visitors.

Peterboro cannot afford to fall down here.

As Mr. Alexander puts it, "This will cost money, but the returns will justify every dollar spent."

TAKING A HOPEFUL VIEW.

The July bank bulletins take a comparatively optimistic view of the business situation. The Royal Bank points to the more cheerful attitude of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at its recent convention in Hamilton as indicating the confidence of producers in general in the outlook. Back of everything is the favorable situation as respects the growing crops of the country.

The Financial Post observes that "foreign trade figures indicate the strongest trade position in the history of the country"; and further that "there are distinct indications of greater purchasing power." These are stimulating statements. They point to conditions which must be regarded as both favorable for the present and promising for the future.

Carloadings have not, however, been satisfactory during the past three months; but it is quite possible to exaggerate their bearing on the general trade of the country. The decline in the volume of traffic has undoubtedly been adverse to the railways; but, when the facts are analyzed, it is seen that the falling off in shipments of wheat account almost entirely for the shrinkage in carloadings. An offset is found in better market values for grain of all kinds.

In other words, the character of railway traffic reveals a good deal that is favorable to general business, although it cannot be denied lower carloadings have been discouraging to the railways. For example, a large gain in merchandise movement over the corresponding period of last year points convincingly to growing activity in the mercantile situation; and that applies to the Western as well as the Eastern Provinces.

We cannot over-estimate the value of sound fundamentals in respect to the trade and fiscal situation as a whole. There has undoubtedly been over-production in some of the industries, notably lumber, which has compelled them to slow down; but, on the other hand, the Post points to the fact that "motor car and farm implement manufacturers report business to be very much improved." It is the broad outlook that counts, and it is in that relation the satisfactory state of commercial fundamentals warrants high optimism.

We have been rather too much disposed to accentuate such drawbacks as have grown out of the shattering effects of war on the trade structure of the world. In so doing, it is possible we have not taken sufficient cognizance of the steady readjustment which has been proceeding both at home and abroad. If the hopes which just now attach to crop prospects come to realization, Canada will have abundant reasons for rejoicing before the snow flies next autumn. That should put us all in good heart at this stage, and atimulate us to our best endeavors.

There is another factor in the general trade situation which should not be ignored, namely, the tourist business. It has reached large proportions, and is growing rapidly. It will be at its maximum during the current month and the next two months. As good roads have multiplied in Canada, we have been receiving a steadily rising stream of motorists from the United States. That is a very valuable stream indeed, and leaves a golden precipitate all along its course. We must frankly see in it a new source of wealth, which, while it cannot be accurately calculated, spreads its beneficence over the whole country. — Ottawa Journal.

COMPETITION WITH NEW ZEALAND.

Some fears having been expressed in regard to competition with New Zealand in the dairying industry, it may be well to point out some of the advantages which Canada enjoys as compared with the country mentioned. And, parenthetically, the Government is alive to this matter of competition, and by educational and other methods is endeavoring to get our people to meet it in a scientific and business-like manner.

In considering our advantages, then, in the first place we have greater experience in breeding and handling dairy cattle; more profitable use of the by-products of the dairy, such as skim milk and whey; lower cost of manufacturing cheese and butter; nearness and lower cost of marketing; the existence of what is probably the best competitive dairy market in the world in Montreal; a well-established and economical export business; an established reputation for cheese; and excellent dairy schools and systems of field instruction.

This is a gratifying as well as a stimulating list of items in favor of the Canadian producer and exporter. Again, while the New Zealander grazes his dairy cattle on land costing anything from $500 to $1,000 an acre, we have very cheap land, and in many districts we can graze our cattle on wild land, on which we do not even pay taxes. In equal marketing conditions New Zealand can have no advantage over us; indeed, the shoe is on the other foot.

But New Zealand has been improving; has been going ahead, while we have been inclined to mark time. We must wake up; take note of conditions and meet them. Canada has to depend upon her export market for success, and to achieve it uniformity, quality and quantity are indispensable. If a commodity is uniform, plentiful and cheap enough, it will sell on the British market, while we have already emphasized the fact that superior grades of any article can never fail to sell to advantage.

Grading is a great help. The standard of our grades is not only the same all over Canada, it is as near as we can get to the New Zealand standard because we realize that we have to compete with them. We are exporting so little as compared with our total output that we find no difficulty in marketing in Great Britain, but we must improve our products and get better prices. There is always a great demand for high-class dairy products—greater than the supply. Therefore, the lesson is obvious. We have a magnificent country, enviable opportunities, a sympathetic Government; let us make use of them for our own advantage and that of the Dominion as a whole.

A THOUGHT.

A HOT WEATHER BLESSING.

There is at least one blessing to most hot days: the splendor of gorgeous sunsets. The heat of Summer makes the cool of Fall more welcome. The hard hot toil in your present business year will make the sunset of your life more beautiful. Keep hard at it during the heat of the day so that you may sit still later and enjoy the cool of your life's evening.

MARITIMES WILL

R. S. Congdon, Dartmouth, said the Maritimes were paying into the Dominion Treasury five million dollars more than they were getting back.

F. Maclure Sclanders, Saint John, did not think it was known in the rest of Canada that the Maritimes had always contributed more than they received and that if this were known there would be no great difficulty in getting a preferential freight rate.

Special addresses were given by D. Robb, Amherst, and Dr. A. C. Huntsman, Halifax, on industrial development. Mr. Robb pointed out that the annual output of Maritime provinces was $135,000,000, or about double that of agriculture.

Freight Rates Problem

Re-adjustment of freight rates to favor east and west traffic was essential, and also, he thought probable, more protection for coal, but the latter could not be studied and decided upon until there was a settlement of the present trouble in the coal fields. Readjustment of freight rates was the worst problem of all. He was convinced the Maritimes had certain advantages for manufacturing if the freight rates grievance and some other items were removed. It was much easier to control labor trouble in small communities ,he said, where there were lower living costs.

Dr. Huntsman said the fisheries might be the greatest industry of the Maritimes. In few other parts of the world were such large quantities as on these coasts. The world would come if there was an abundance of food to offer and steamship lines would come of their own accord. An enormous amount of study and work had to be made of the fisheries if it was to be made a success, and employment of any but the most expert men to do this would be followed by failure.

J. D. Palmer, Fredericton, stated that manufacturers did not hide behind the tariff in setting their prices but that if any case of such existed there should be a tariff board with wide powers of investigation.

Ex-Mayor John Murphy of Halifax warned against going to the Winnipeg Conference without a clear-cut statement of the Maritime case.

The meeting closed with resolutions of thinks to the city of Moncton, President Higgins of the Maritime Board of Trade, who presided, and to the press.

CHAMPIONSHIP SCHOOL FAIR FOR WARKWORTH EXHIBITION

Proposal to be Considered by the Percy Township Fair Board.

PROVINCIAL AID

(By a Staff Reporter.)

WARKWORTH, July 17. — A. B. Armstrong, secretary of the Percy Agricultural Society, has received from District Representative Smith, of Brighton, a proposition which will be considered by the Board of Directors at their next meeting.

Mr. Smith's offer is to hold a championship school fair this year in connection with the annual exhibition of the agricultural society. At this Fair the pupils from the three schools in each township in the county, winning first, second and third prizes, will be eligible to compete either for a trophy or for a cash prize. If the directors of the Warkworth Fair put up $75, the Department of Agriculture will make a grant of $50, and this total of $125, divided into 3 prizes, would be sufficient inducement to the pupils of the competing schools to do their best.

Warkworth is chosen for this proposed event on account of the central position of the village, and the popularity of the Fall Fair. Such a contest among the leading schools of the county would no doubt prove an excellent drawing card.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 16.—There was very little business in the cattle mart today. A light run of fresh cattle sold at prices steady with yesterday's market, with nothing of importance in the offering. Commission men found it impossible to make a clean-up of this week's oversupply of rough and unfinished cattle, and probably there will be a carry-over of four or five hundred for next week.

Calves steady at yesterday's decline to $9.50 tops, a dollar off for the week.

There were no sheep and lambs offering.

Hogs steady at the last cut to $12.50 f.o.b. and $13.50, thick smooths, off cars.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 16. — Wheat scored a sharp advance today in the late dealings, largely as a result of indications that recent severe heat and dearth of moisture had done heavy damage to the Spring crop. Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 2 3-8 to 3 1-2 cents net higher. September 154 3-8 to 154 5-8, and December 155 to 155 1-2 with corn 1 1-4 to 2 3-8 cents up; oats at 3-8 to 5-8 cents gain, and provisions unchanged to 30 cents higher.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, July 16.—Sterling closed on the Montreal exchange today, demand at $4.85 3-8 and cables at $4.85 7-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, July 16 (Canadian Press).—The local market for oats was stronger and prices advanced 1-2 cent a bushel. The export trade was quieter because foreign buyers did not respond to the higher prices asked by exporters overnight.

Owing to the continued upward trend of cash wheat prices the undertone in the local flour market was stronger and millers in odd cases advanced their prices 20 cents per barrel for Spring wheat grades. But this was not general and the general list was unchanged.

A somewhat unsettled feeling has developed in the market for millfeed with the result that millers have in some cases reduced their prices $1 a ton.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 16 (Canadian Press).—There was no actual change in the condition of the local market for eggs today, prices for all grades being firm, but on account of the continued extreme heat the demand showed no improvement and the volume of business in a wholesale jobbing way was only fair. Sales of specials were made at 42c, fresh extras at 40c, firsts at 36c, and seconds at 33c per dozen. The receipts yesterday were 1,161 cases, as against 941 for the same day last week, and 1,307 for the corresponding day a year ago.

Receipts of butter were 4,877 packages, as against 4,992 for the same day last week, and 3,873 for the corresponding day a year ago. The feature of the trade was the stronger feeling that developed and prices were advanced 1-2c to 1c per lb., which was due to the increased demand from English importers and the continued strength in the cheese situation. A fair amount of business was done and the market more active with Western No. 1 pasteurized creamery quoted at 37 1-2c to 38c per lb, Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 37c to 37 1-4c, No. 1 creamery at 36c to 36 1-4c, and No. 2 creamery at 35c to 35 1-4c per lb.

Receipts of cheese were 9,832 boxes, as compared with 8,294 for the same day last week, and 4,860 for the corresponding day a year ago. A stronger feeling prevailed in the market and prices advanced 1-8c to 3-8c per lb., with Western No. 1 white and colored quoted at 22 1-2c per lb. and Eastern No. 1 white and colored at 22 1-4c per lb. Cables were strong and it was reported that sales of Western white and colored were made as high as 108s. 6d. to 109s. per cwt., and Eastern at 107s. 6d. to 108s. per cwt. The demand was generally good and a more active trade was done.

ARGENTINE GIRL NEARLY DROWNS IN THE CHANNEL

Lillian Harrison Overcome by Cold Water After Nine Hours' Swim.

MADE A RECORD

Greater Distance Than Any Other Woman Trying to Cross.

BOULOGNE, France, July 17.—The cold water of the English Channel proved too much for Miss Lillian Harrison, the young Argentine swimmer, who started from Cape Gris-Nez early Thursday morning to swim to the English coast and after 8 hours, 57 minutes, when within 5 miles of Dover, she had to be taken from the water. She was brought back to Boulogne on the tug which accompanied her.

It was at half past one yesterday afternoon, while receiving food, that the swimmer stiffened from the cold, the temperature of the water being 59 degrees fahrenheit. Only the quickness with which the man who was feeding her caught hold of her jersey saved her from sinking like a stone.

After a brief rest, Miss Harrison declared she felt none the worse for her experience and made known her determination to try again in August because she feels she "will be the first woman to swim the channel."

Although Miss Harrison is credited with having swum a greater distance in the Channel than any woman swimmer it was with a heavy heart, but not discouraged, that she returned to Boulogne aboard the tug Alsace.

Accompanied by her trainer, T. W. Burgess, she started from Gris-Nez beach at 4.35 o'clock yesterday morning. She appeared to be in perfect condition and her classic, graceful stroke remained regular, 25 to the minute. Throughout the swim her smile never left her, and she kept up a lively exchange of small talk with Helmy, the noted Egyptian swimmer, and Joe Costa, who were in charge of the plans.

Hour by hour she was fed soup, orange juice and coffee. Two swimmers accompanied her for some time. Her father and mother, on board the Alsace, never took their eyes from the water, and called encouragement to her, and she replied cheerfully.

When the tug returned to Boulogne, Miss Harrison rested for a brief period, after which she returned to Gris-Nez, where she expects to keep up her training "in order to have revenge and defeat the Channel in August."

GRAIN BROKER NIPPED.

Sued Trader Whose Margin Melted.

WINNIPEG, July 17.— Unlucky speculation in grain futures had a sequel in court of King's Bench here yesterday, when H. J. Henson, a grain broker, lost his case involving a damage claim of $2,500 against S. A. Letchier, a customer.

Caught unawares during the recent price fluctuation on the Winnipeg grain exchange, Henson lost the amount stated after Letchier's margin had been absorbed. The court ruled that the client could not be held responsible, inasmuch as the transaction was defined as illegal under the criminal code. The decision will be appealed.

What Users Say About Goodyear Balloon Tires

REPORTS are coming in now from motorists who have had their Goodyear Balloon Tires long enough, or ridden them far enough, to make their verdicts valuable. These reports are a complete endorsement of SUPERTWIST, the new, Goodyear cord fabric — not alone for balloon tires, but for all cord tires.

They state that Goodyear Balloon Tires are more elastic, more comfortable, more trouble-free, more enduring.

This is because SUPERTWIST is itself more elastic—stretching more, giving to the blows of the road.

SUPERTWIST is an exclusively Goodyear feature, developed as a result of Goodyear's continual world-wide search for tire improvements, used in all Goodyear Cord Tires—and in Goodyears alone.

The Goodyear Selected Dealer has tires of SUPERTWIST in stock.

GAMES OF CHANCE STILL FORBIDDEN

No Change in Law Applying to Fall Fairs.

CAMPBELLFORD July 17. — There seems to be a general impression that dice and shell games and the operation of punch boards, or coin tables, are to be permitted at the large and small Fall Fairs this year, and that any board of directors allowing such games will be in no danger of prosecution or of forfeiting their usual grant. This impression is apparently based on a Canadian Press despatch which appeared in the daily papers on June 13th last, and which stated that such an amendment to the Criminal Code was considered in committee of the House of Commons. It was further stated that Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, favored the proposed amendment, while other members of the committee denounced it as an attempt to legalize crime in the interests of Agricultural Associations.

All a Delusion.

The Examiner has received a number of inquiries as to the status of this question, and it is apparent that the amendment never got beyond the committee room.

Richard Honey, one of the directors of the Warkworth Fair, who with President John Locke of the Seymour Agricultural Society, attended the meeting of the Fall Fair Judges held at Ottawa last week, told the Examiner representative yesterday that this matter was discussed at that gathering. J. Lockie Wilson, Provincial Director of Fairs, stated that there was no change in the regulations with regard to gambling devices and that directors tolerating such games need not look for a grant

RANCHER DROWNED.

MOTHER WITH SON TO JOIN HUSBAND

Immigration Law Separated Family for Nearly a Year.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 17.—(Canadian Press).— Arrangements have been made for the admission of Mrs. Meyer Shulman into the United States to join her husband, from whom she has been separated nearly a year, owing to the immigration law of that country classifying her as a Russian, thus barring her entry under the Canadian quota. She will be admitted as a potential citizen of the United States through her husband having applied for American citizenship.

Mr. and Mrs. Shulman came to Canada from Russia in 1912, and became Canadian citizens. They made a trip to Washington in June, 1924 and while there Mr. Shulman took an interest in a meat packing plant. In August, 1924, Mrs. Shulman with her small son came back to Winnipeg to move the rest of the family to Washington but on trying to re-enter the States found the Immigration quota was full, necessitating their spending the past ten months away from the head of the family.

CURB YELLOW PRESS

House of Lords Approving Ban on Salacious Details.

LONDON, July 17 (Canadian Press Cable)—The House of Lords yesterday gave second reading to a bill restricting the publication of reports of judicial proceedings to certain defined statements of fact and penalizing law breaker with a prison term not to exceed three months of a fine of 500 pounds sterling.

Lord Darling, who moved the second reading, explained that the bill was aimed at the prevention of the publication of mephitic details which sickened decent minded people. Lord Cave said he was unable to guarantee government facilities for the passing of the bill but personally he sympathized with its objects.

BROTHERS DROWNED

Clothes Found on River Bank at Saskatoon.

SASKATOON, Sask., July 17.—(Canadian Press).—Police yesterday were searching the banks of the Saskatchewan river here for further traces of John and Hugh Haddon, 8 and 13-year-old sons of Sergt. John Haddon, of the Saskatoon city police force, who left home Tuesday on a fishing expedition and parts of whose clothing were found at the water's edge Wednesday afternoon. It is believed that the smaller boy undressed and went for a swim and got into difficulties, and that the older boy kicked off his boots and dived in to attempt a rescue, both drowning.

HEAT REDUCING ALBERTA CROPS

WORST IN SOUTH

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., July 17. — (Canadian Press).—With only one general rain in three weeks, coupled with hot weather ranging up to 95, Southern Alberta's crops, which in June promised a bumper harvest, have been fading away. Good summer fallow crops are standing up well and filling for an average yield, but wheat sown on stubble is more or less a failure, and in some districts will only run from three to fifteen bushels an acre. Irrigated crops are the best in years where water has been applied.

Conditions are very mixed, taking the whole of Southern Alberta south of the Canadian Pacific Railway main line into consideration, with fairly good crops in the south-west, where the large acreage lies, and very poor ones in the south-east, where the acreage is very small.

A general rain in the next week, however, would give Southern Alberta a good average crop as a whole. In the north and north-eastern portions of the Province, owing to better moisture, the crops are stated to be in good condition.

RETAIN GOVERNORS

Labor Motion at Melbourne Defeated 29 to 27.

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 17.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—The assembly of Victoria yesterday rejected by a vote of 29 to 27 a Laborite motion in favor of abolishing state governors.

The Perth commission of inquiry into immigration in its report practically recommends the abandonment of the group settlement scheme and states that the agreement with the Imperial authorities has been carried out with undue haste.

LADY COP ON HOP TO POLICE EXHIBIT

Establishes Precedent for Women as First Instance of 'Plane Command.

LONDON, Eng., July 17.—(Canadian Press).—The Graphic says: Commandant Mary Allen, our policewoman-in-chief, is off on a flying visit to Germany. She flies first to Switzerland, where a special aeroplane sent by the German authorities will pick her up and carry her back to Karlsruka for the International Police Exhibition there. This must be the first time any woman, let alone such a rare creature as a policewoman, has had an aeroplane placed entirely at her disposal. It was Commandant Allen who organized the German policewomen in the Cologne area, and she did it so well that the Germans have placed her on the committee of honor of the exhibition.

SIX FROM FIVE HOW MANY?

One Huge Goose Egg Yields Fine Normal Gosling Twins.

AN EXPERIMENT

VISCOUNT, Sask., July 17.—(Canadian Press).—From a setting of five goose eggs, Mrs. J. J. Elliott, of this district, was agreeably surprised to find six fine goslings had been hatched, one egg having produced a splendid pair of birds, quite normal in every way.

The egg from which tre pair was hatched, weighed half a pound and was included in the setting primarily as an experiment.

LIGHTNING STRUCK KINGSTON SPIRES

Deluge of Rain in Ten Minute Downpour on Thursday.

KINGSTON, July 17. — (Canadian Press.)— Kingston was visited by a terrific rain storm shortly before noon Thursday. In fifty minutes, .65 inches of rain fell. Of this amount .61 inches fell in ten minutes. Princess street was like a small river. Lightning hit a large wooden cross at the rear of St. Mary's Cathedral and knocked a portion of the cross off.

A flash entered the attic of the Brock street fire hall and made its way to the ground by way of a wire cable which extends through the building. It made a harsh cracking sound but it did no damage.

The bellfry over the executive offices of the Portsmouth penitentiary near the front gate, was struck. Fire broke out and for a time looked threatening. It was finally put out, however, without much damage being done, but it took practically an hour to stamp out the fire, for it had got in between the room and the cornice.

A house occupied by Joseph E. Wart on York street, was struck and the shingles torn from part of the roof.

No serious casualties are reported. Charles Wilson, while crossing a street, was hit by a falling branch but was only stunned.

STORES FLOODED.

MONTREAL, July 17.— Several stores on St. Catherine street, the chief business street of the city, were flooded yesterday as a result of torrential rains which fell around noon. The rainfall was accompanied by a terrific thunder storm, but no serious damage was done outside of that to stocks in the several stores on low-lying streets.

HALF MILLION C.N.R. FIRE LOSS

Shops, Engines and Stores at Bridgewater, N. S., Completely Destroyed.

STATION SAVED

BRIDGEWATER, N.S., July 17. —Damage roughly estimated at half a million dollars was caused by fire that broke out in the Canadian National Railway shops here at 12.50 o'clock Thursday and before being brought under control at 1.20 o'clock had destroyed all the buildings of the east side of the tracks, eight locomotives, seven or eight freight cars, and a large quantity of stores.

The buildings consumed included the round house, machine shop, car shop, boiler house, master mechanics' office, fuel foremans' office, and a number of smaller structures. A snow flanger was bady damaged and the railway station and station restaurant on the west side of the tracks were on fire several times but not seriously damaged. The cause of the fire, while not definitely known, was thought to have been caused by an explosion in the round house. The blaze was fanned by a strong east wind and made rapid progress through the wooden structures on the east side of the tracks.

The locomotives included seven serviceable engines, and one engine undergoing repairs.

INDIANS ASSIST HOSPITAL OPENING

Auction Brings Fabulous Prices for Articles Which Make Display.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 17.—(Canadian Press).—At the opening of the Red Cross Outpost hospital at Rife, Alta., recently, the celebration was of a unique nature, the Indians coming in from the reserve to assist. The admission tickets were sold by Chief Red Blanket. Chief Young Chief, age 86 years, also lent dignity to the occasion by his presence. A small hog sold by auction for $26.50, a box of candy for $13.50, a blue kitten for $5 and a June bride doll, $15.75. There was a creditable display of butter, bread and cakes and home-made articles of clothing. An Indian woman donated a quilt made from the empty tobacco sacks collected at the Mounted Police Barracks at Onion Lake. This quilt took ten years to make, and is a striking example of Indian patience. The quilt will be sent to the tobacco company. The hospital under the management of Miss Anderson will provide valuable assistance to the settlers.

IMAGINATIVE MOTORISTS AMUSE SPEED COP WITH THEIR TALES

New Shoes Unused to Feel of Accelerator Are Blamed.

AND NEW BABY

Traffic Man Keeps Track of Stories Forced Upon Him Daily.

A veteran motorcycle policeman who discourages drivers from hitting the pace that kills, says that the fantastic fiction vouchsafed him by apprehended autoists in the course of a single sunny week end makes a book of Grimm's Fairy Tales seem like the Parliamentary Record. He is certain that if it were published in book form it would crowd the spacious shelves of the city's largest library.

Some of these volumes, he says, should be prominently placed in the Museum because, as alibis, they are works of art.

He admits that he has heard about naked truth, but he reasons, from his experience, that truth so lightly clad is much too modest to go riding on the highway on a Summer Sunday afternoon. He avers that the cynic who said that all men are liars must have reached this cruel conclusion after a year on the motorcycle squad. He boasts that he has encountered as much plain and fancy fabrication as the Federal and the Provincial income tax collectors put together.

He rejoices that he is not of a blindly trusting disposition. If he were, he wouldn't be stopping and summoning hurrying motorists any longer, because he would have become convinced that urgent and irrefutable reasons justified all speeding. He expresses the hope that he will overtake some one indulging in speed for speed's sake before he receives his second sleeve stripe, denoting a decade in the department

Interviewed the other day as to his opinions on life and things, the motorcycle man said:

"Each time I catch up to a speeding car and wave it to the curb I wonder what kind of yarn I'm going to hear. I've made a sort of collection of the stories that have been forced on me, and I'm always on the lookout for new ones.

"For the first two or three years on this job I would drink in every word before filling out the summons, but now I've learned how to listen and write at the same time. Asking a driver for his license is like requesting a bedtime story. The cards come slowly, but the yarn comes fast.

"I used to like the one in which the speeder had just had the engine completely overhauled and had found that the car moved thirty miles an hour with the same pressure on the accelerator that had hardly yielded fifteen in the past. The yarn about the new shoes through which the driver hadn't yet got the feel of the gas pedal was another favorite. The fellow who had recently received a raise in pay and just couldn't make his feet behave was entertaining.

"I can't say that I care much for the story about making up for time lost through tire trouble, although I've heard some pretty good versions of it. I remember one young fellow who told me that two 'flats' had detained him almost an hour, and that three of his wife's relatives were at his house for dinner. He said that if he arrived late they would think that he had held back on purpose. He offered to take me home and prove it. In fact, he almost insisted that I should go home with him. He said he thought he would need me on account of a little way his wife had of becoming bitter toward him for his social errors.

"It has been some months since I met the last man who was so overjoyed because his wife had presented him with a baby boy that he really couldn't be expected to move along at less than forty miles an hour. I let two or three of them get by with that yarn, but when I hear it now I am likely to hand out a ticket for reckless driving as well as for speeding.

"You see, I once took down the address of one of these new fathers and made a little investigation. After my tour of duty I went to the house. I rang the bell and a woman came to the door. I mentioned the name of the man I was inquiring for, and the woman said that she was his wife. I got all flustered and finally managed to remark what a nice thing it was for her to present her husband with a beautiful baby boy.

"She looked at me funny-like and said I was rather late with the congratulations, as the boy had been presented to her husband nine years before and was in the back of the house playing cowboys and Indians with some of the neighbor children."

CANADA TO HAVE POULTRY CONGRESS

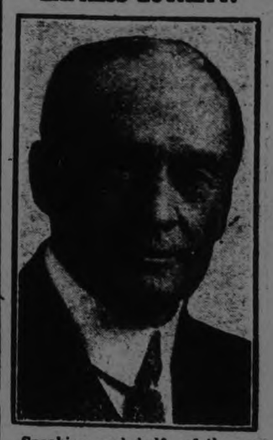
International Event To Be Held in 1927 Should be of Interest.

OTTAWA, July 17 (Canadian Press).—Canada has started work on the "1927 World's Poultry Congress." This will be an international event and the biggest thing along poultry lines that has everbeen held on the American continent. It is fitting that such an event should take place in the dominion for in matters of poultry registration, record of performance, and egg standardization Canada is the foremost in the world.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, has delegated to the congress secretaryship Earnest Rhoades, assistant chief of the Poultry division, Livestock Branch, who, last year was one of the Canadian representatives to the World Poultry Congress at Barcelona and the British Empire Exhibition. The President of the International association of Instructors and Investigators in Poultry Husbandry, Edward Brown, of London, England, will visit Canada in September when the first meeting of the committee appointed to arrange details of the congress will be held.

Next to the knowledge of God, this knowledge of ourselves seems most worthy of our endeavour.—Sir M. Hale.

EXPRESS LOYALTY.



Speaking on behalf of the province of Manitoba, Sir James Aikins, lieutenant-governor, replied to an address of Field Marshal Haig at a banquet given in his honor in Winnipeg. He said: "Canada was born in the British Empire, and Canada never would, of its own volition, leave the Empire."

CHILD WELFARE IS CONSIDERED

A Review of the Work of Past Five Years and Forecast For Next Five.

PHASES DISCUSSED.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 17 (Canadian Press).—A review of the child welfare work of the past five years, and formation of a constructive programme for the next five years, will be the chief items on the agenda when the Conference on Child Welfare convenes in this city from Sept. 28 to Oct. 1 next. Workers of national prominence will give special papers on progress in specialized fields, and all phases of social work in Canada will be discussed.

The Canadian Council on Child Welfare was founded in Ottawa in 1920, and the whole first day of the meeting will be devoted to a study of the legislation and activities that have developed throughout Canada in the past five years. The report of the council itself will be largely a summary of the legislation enacted since 1920.

The Conference enjoys the patronage of their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Byng of Vimy, Premier W. L. M. King, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and Robert Forke, M.P. Possibly the outstanding worker at the conference will be Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau of the United States, who will deliver the closing address of the meeting.

Addresses disclosing the progress in the work during the past five years will be given by Dr. H. E. Young, medical officer of British Columbia, on Child Welfare Advances 1920-25; Judge Helen Gregory MacGill, of Vancouver, on Five Years in Meeting Conditions of Child Labor; Dr. C. M. Hincks, general secretary of the Canadian national committee for mental hygiene, on Progress in the Problems of Mental Deficiency; Brother Barnabas, Toronto, on Five Years' Advance in Juvenile Delinquency; Judge D. B. Harkness, Winnipeg, on progress in the Treatment of the Neglected and Dependent Child, and Major Ney, secretary of the National Education Council, on Recent Progress in Religious and Spritual Education of the Child.

The popular evening meetings promise to be interesting. The opening evening, Monday, Sept. 28, Hon. W. F. Roberts, minister of health for New Brunswick, will speak on Carrying Health to the People, and Mrs. Arthur Murphy of Edmonton ("Janey Canuck"), will discuss Removing Delinquency by Prevention.

The second evening Hon. W. F. Nickle, attorney-general of Ontario, will take the chair, and Hugh Dobson of Regina will discuss the Problem of the Juvenile Immigrant in the Canadian Community. Father Haley, head of the Catholic Welfare Bureau, Toronto, will speak on Child Dependency and Family Relief.

Dr. Helen R. Y. Reid of Montreal will preside at the Wednesday evening session, when Mrs. E. W. Reford of the Montreal Council of Social Agencies will speak on the Child and the Community. She will be followed by Dr. Farrar, on Mental Defects and Social Waste. Dr. Farrar is head of the New Ontario Psychopathic Hospital, and an acknowledged authority on the subject.

The final day's session of the conference will be given entirely to a discussion leading to the formation of the Council's programme of work for the next five years, 1925-30, Prof. E. D. MacPhee of Toronto, leading the discussion. Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau of the United States, will conclude the conference with an address on Minimum Child Welfare Standards.

As all meetings are open to the public, a large attendance is expected.

Most Urgent Wants

There's a world of interest in the Want Ads. They reflect the urgent desires of various businesses, households and individuals.

The Wants tell what is most needed. If the cook has left, if a worker is needed in the office or factory, if an article of value is lost or found, if there is urgent necessity to sell a piece of property, secure tenants, roomers or boarders—all such conditions are expressed and met in the Want Columns.

The Wants are close to the heart interests of the people. It is interesting to watch them carefully.

THE FAR WEST IS STILL CONSIDERABLY WILD —BUT IN SPOTS AND UNDER CERTAIN CONDITIONS

Driving Through The Coast Range Mountains In The Time Of Spring Freshets And Landslides Is One Good Way To Test Your Nerves — John B. Maus Did It.

Not so many years ago, motor touring was considered as a freak stunt and a daring undertaking. Today it is both an industry and an art. But even now it has its high spots. It can still supply as many thrills as a trip to Thibet. Once the guardian angels of highway tourists decide to mix excitement with the journey, they never stint themselves.

John B. Maus, for example, decided to ship his car from Toronto to Vancouver and then drive due south to the Mexican border through the pleasant scenes and still more pleasant weather about which we read so much in the railway booklets. That was all very well. He did it. He had a maximum of enjoyment and a minimum of trouble.

Then the difficulties commenced. It was all due to the old school geography. When Mr. Maus was a schoolboy, there was, in the geography, a picture of a giant Californian tree, through the centre of which, it was said, one could easily drive a coach.

Mr. Maus had always wanted to see that tree and this seemed like the chance he talked to a Californian about it.

"You don't want to see that tree," he was told. "What you want to see is the forest of giant redwoods. Forty some miles of them. Trees, 425 feet high and 32 feet thick."

Mr. Maus agreed that he might like to see the giant redwoods and was informed that he could then make his way north through the coast range mountains. But, as his informant neglected to remember, it was very early in the spring and the mountain roads were not yet open.

"Therefore," Mr. Maus points out, "my subsequent adventures were not the result of daring or bravado, but simply due to the fact that the condition of the roads had been misrepresented and it was just as dangerous to go back as to go ahead."

The motor magazines and the motor sections will go into the details of this unique land cruise with figures on gasoline consumed and technical reports on grades and roadbeds. Here it will be sufficient to pick out a flock of anecdotal high lights which are as interesting to the non-motorist as to the motorist.

All Kinds of Hindrance.

The coast range mountains presented to this early spring tourist every known variety of handicap. There were freshets, torrents which had sprung out of the side of the mountain drenching the road, the car and the driver. There was Corkscrew mountain where the road wound round and round and up in a fashion that would make a steeplejack dizzy and the turns were so sharp that the car had to be coaxed and bumped around them, while all the time a sheer drop on one side kept Mr. Maus thinking of wills and long falls and cheerful things of that nature.

There was another mountain where the motor trail clung to the edge of the cliff many hundreds of feet above the sea. A parachute jumper would have hesitated to step off the edge of the road into the empty air. For fifty feet or so, winter snows, rain and sleet had scattered the highway with loose jumbles of rock. Mr. Maus edged his car over this slowly and carefully. Just as he was reaching the end, he heard a rumble and stepped on the accelerator. The rocks behind him slipped away and plunged down over the precipice.

There were landslides that felt like earthquakes. Part of the time Mr. Maus had a chauffeur with him and the chauffeur hated landslides. On one occasion, the way was blocked by them. The whole mountain side looked rather infirm and uncertain. The chauffeur decided to leave Mr. Maus and his motor, stalled by the young avalanche, and take to his heels. He felt sure that they would be buried in a flood of mud and rock. So off he went. Unfortunately, he wandered into a jungle-like section which abounded in cougars. He was attacked and badly bitten, but managed to make his way back to the car where he was unconscious when a Government road gang reached the travellers.

On another occasion, Mr. Maus, alone, was sitting in his car, trying to figure out the easiest way to pass an obstruction in front, the result of another landslide, when he felt something drop on his knees. He looked down and saw a large snake which had fallen out of a tree overhanging the car. One convulsive movement tossed the snake out and over the side of the car. Mr. Maus hurriedly hurried along. A few minutes later, he found that his muscles had stiffened and he was unable to drive the car. A glance in the mirror beside the windshield showed him that his face was the color of chalk. The snake was a member of a highly poisonous family and the call was too close for comfort.

It is sufficient to state that Mr. Maus got through the mountain trails. The trip was much more pleasant to look back on than to actually experience. But it was never uninteresting.

Very Bad Lands, Indeed.

On the later legs of the trip, he had to pass through the sage-brush country, the bad lands or whatever you care to call them, a stretch of seemingly useless territory. It was sizzling hot and a new and unique problem presented itself.

Mr. Maus was alone and he found it impossible to keep awake. The steady hum of the motor made him drowsy. He was constantly nodding. Sleep was just about the most dangerous thing to attempt under the circumstances. So Mr. Maus stopped his car, climbed out and filled the bottoms of his shoes with gravel and small pebbles. Then he drove on. The small stones were about the most annoying and irritating thing imaginable. It was impossible to forget them. It was impossible, too, to go to sleep because of them.

Mr. Maus finally drove into Winnipeg, the first car to arrive from the farther west this spring. He drove on out of Winnipeg to the American border at the end of a series of heavy rains on a road that seemed like nothing but a stretch of molasses.

There were a variety of other interesting oddbits. He noticed in parts of Montana and Dakota that some of the farmers would look at his car in surprise and then straighten up and salute him. Finally he stopped to find the reason. The farmers in those sections were Canadians and, as Canadian cars passed through only once in a dog's age, they made it a rule to recognize them. In some places, there were five Canadian farmers to one American.

In San Francisco, a garage man gazed at the license plate in a puzzled way and finally said: "I know you've come a long way, stranger, and I don't want to seem ignorant, but tell me, where the deuce is this place, Ont."

And in Milwaukee, a native after similar remarks, asked where Mr. Maus had come from. "I left Vancouver, B. C., three weeks ago," was the reply.

"Oh, yes," said the questioner, still up in the air, "B. C., eh? That's down in South American, isn't it?"

John B. Maus, now ready to start on a motor tour to Halifax, in the same car that made the adventurous trip up the west coast-line.

SANGUINE REPORT OF HYDRO-ELECTRIC

Sir Adam Beck States That Last Year Was Most Successful in History.

TORONTO, July 17.—(Canadian Press).—The fact that the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission has been able to reduce service and consumption charges for power supplied to many of the rural districts represents one of the features of the seventeenth annual report which was made public yesterday. Coupled with this, there is the fact that the Commission is able once again to report that the revenue obtained from consumers has been more than sufficent to meet the full cost of generating and transmitting electrical energy, as well as to provide for all operating expenses and final charges of municipal utility equipments. The third feature of the report lies in the statement that in spite of general industrial depression, there has been considerable growth in the demand for power on nearly all systems, and on several systems the Commission has reached a limit of capacity of the existing generating plants.

The report adds that the Commission collected from municipal utilities and other customers for power sold, the total sum of $16,397,866.73. This sum was appropriated to meet all necessary fixed charges and to provide for expenses of operation and administration. After meeting all charges there was left a net surplus of $725,708.85.

"It may be emphasized," Sir Adam Beck states, "that the past year has been the most successful in the Commission's history, and apart from the menace that exists on account of an approaching power shortage, the future of the Commission never appeared more promising."

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

GOOD HIGHWAYS BRING TOURISTS BOOSTING TRADE

Provinces Who Invest Largely in Roads Get Biggest Quota of Paying Business.

STEEL PLANTS BUSY.

Crops Indicate a Prosperous Year, While Manufacturers Increase Employees.

With crops in at least as favorable a condition as in any other year at this time in the history of the country, the midsummer period commenced under unusually favorable auspices. One of the big factors in Canadian business during the summer months, the tourist trade, promises a better year than ever before. From many points scattered between the two coasts come reports that a larger number of U.S. visitors are making their appearance than has ever been the case at this time of year. It is worthy of note that those provinces wihch made the largest expenditure on highways during the past year appear to be reaping the largest revenue. This is, of course, to be expected. A study of the highways situation principally in Ontario, which appears in another column, shows that, according to official estimates, the tourist traffic was worth something like $150,000,000 last year, and Ontario received approximately half of this. Prospects are for much larger returns this year.

Judging from the number of new sales and the volume of production, iron and steel industry is managing to maintain its position. A well sustained volume of miscellaneous demands is proof of continuing activity in many important branches, although buying is based entirely upon business actually obtained or in sight. Although the half year figures for motor care sales are not yet complete, statistics now available indicate a big increase over last year, in the number of cars sold in the Dominion. The figures for trucks and buses especially, show a marked increase.

Other Steel Plants Active.

In the implement and binder twine industries, large preparations are being made for the large crop now promised. The Brantford plant of the Massey-Harris Co. is employing 750 men, which is the largest staff for many months, and is running some of the shops overtime. The Walmsley Co. of Canada report their Longueuil plant to be busy on a contract to provide equipment for the paper plant of International Paper Co. being erected at Three Rivers. The Algoma Steel Corporation plants are busy with substantial orders of such products as forging steel, tie plates and slice bars. It is stated that orders will shortly be issued for some 25,000 tons of steel to be used in the construction of the Windsor-Detroit bridge which is expected to run into a cost of something like $12,050,000. A number of the Hamilton plants are working on building now under way and planned types. Most of the hardware goods lines are active and are expecting a good volume of business for the later months of the year.

CORN AND ROOTS MAKE BIG GAINS

Shower Comes at Crucial Time To Aid Grain Crops in Heading.

BURNBRAE, July 17.—Last Tuesday's "million-dollar" shower was very welcome to farmers here as the grain is nearly all coming into head and the rain was greatly needed. A good crop of spring grain is almost a certainty now, although in some cases straw will be short. Corn and roots have made wonderful gains during the past warm week and prospects are bright for a good supply of winter fodder. The weather has cleared nicely, following the rain, and haying is in full swing with some good average yields reported. Some farmers claim that alfalfa has never been heavier, especially in the lower, moist fields. A good deal of mixed hay of very fine quality is also being harvested. More farmers are each year turning to the practice of mixing a little alfalfa or alsike with their timothy and red clover seed and the result is a good, even stand of fine quality hay in all parts of the field, as the alfalfa makes better growth on high land than red while alsike is better for the low parts.

Fall wheat is starting to ripen and in a very short time the binders will be out once more. A fair yield of wheat is looked for as little winter-killing took place.

In the fruit industry, strawberries are about off the market but cherries and raspberries are ripening with good yields of both looked for.

Prices still look up. Cheese reached 21 7-16c per lb. at Montreal on Monday, July 6. Some dairy cattle, mostly fresh, have been sold here recently and prices seem hardly in keeping with the price of cheese, good type of cows being bought for $75 and sometimes less. Hogs continue well over the $13 mark and the farmer is once more gaining respect for the lately despised bacon hog. Egg prices continue firm and egg yields seem to be holding up well due in large measure to the fairly cool summer.

ONE THAT AMUSED OUR MOTHERS AND FATHERS.

Two boys were playing in a barnyard and one said, "Now I tell you what let's do, let's play farm. I'll be the bull and beller and you be the hog and waller." The other agreed, and it was done but presently the hog got tired of his job and desired to trade. Said he, "Now you be the hog and waller and let me be the bull and beller," to which the bull replied, "It'll be time enough for you to beller when your mother sees your clothes."

STUDY OF INFECTED ANIMALS SHOULD BE MADE IN LOCALITY WHERE DISEASE IS PREVALENT

Danger Results From Investigation Carrying Germ Samples for Analysis.

OBSERVE CARE

Scientists Should Carry on Experiments Where Danger of Transmitting Disease Is Null.

BY CHARLES P. STEWART.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—With all a scientist's relish for gruesome details, Dr. John R. Moher's visitor had been telling the chief of the Agriculture Department's bureau of animal industry all about the frightful ravages of a new swine disease which has been sweeping East and South Africa in recent months. It is threatening complete extinction of all hogs in that part of the world, unless it can speedily be checked.

"So," the calfer concluded, "having heard of your bureau's success in dealing with animal epidemics, I have come 9000 miles to see what you think of these germs."

From his pocket he produced a sealed bottle and handed it to Dr. Mohler.

"It contains blood from an infected pig," he said.

Burned Up.

Without a word, Dr. Mohler opened the door of an incinerator, hot enough inside to melt or consume anything, and threw the bottle in.

Then he spoke. "The place to study your new disease is Africa, where it is now. Do you suppose we want some of these germs to escape, maybe, while we're experimenting with them, and infect our American swine?"

The visiting scientist hadn't thought of it in that way. If Africa wants an American hog expert to go there and see what he can do, right on the ground, the Department of Agriculture will lend her one.

His bureau, according to Dr. Mohler, has to be on the alert to prevent this sort of thing all the time.

No Germs Wanted.

Directly after the government had succeeded in suppressing the last outbreak of foot and mouth disease, a Swiss investigator arrived with a fresh supply of germs which he wanted to experiment with in an American laboratory, thinking the disease was better understood in this country than his own. Perhaps he was right, but his germs went into the incinerator, too.

In China lives an animal known as the hamster, something like a rat, which suffers from a disease known as kala azar. It can be transmitted to man. A scientist who had been studying this disease in the orient wanted to send several sick hamsters to the bureau of animal industry to be experimented on.

The bureau declined. Any time the Agriculture Department wants to know anything about kala azar, a man will be sent to China to find it out, it was explained.

At this very time there is raging in parts of the United States an epidemic of the European fowl pest, a new thing here until quite recently. The germs were brought into the country by an American poultry expert who had been visiting in France and returned with some of them, for research use.

A few of them got loose and now the bureau of animal industry is having a hard fight to stamp them out.

CROP REPORTS VERY HOPEFUL

Only Scattered Sections Show Damage—Prospects Are Bright.

PRAIRIES GOOD.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 17 (special to The Examiner).—An optimistic report from correspondents in all parts of the prairie provinces is shown in the Canadian National Railways crop report for the week ending July 11. Scattered reports of leaf rust in the Maryfield District of Saskatchewan and the Minto District of Manitoba, reports of a little black rust at Holmfield, Man., which is stated to be very slight and more optimistic reports from sections where flooding was present a week ago, feature the reports. Generally speaking, all reporting stations saw "no damage from any source and prospects of the best."

With the exception of some Alberta districts, moisture is plentiful. Wheat is everywhere in the shot blade and in some districts over 50% headed out. Hay meadows are producing a big crop and pastures are in excellent condition.

Manitoba reports show improved conditions east of Winnipeg where the flooding was reported. Low lands will have some loss from excessive moisture but high lands are making a splendid showing. If present conditions are maintained the total yield will be heavier than usual. Wheat and barley are heading well and flax is in flower.

Saskatchewan reports some hail damage but practically no loss from other sources. Conditions are generally very good. Regina to Kipling reports crop ahead of last year by two weeks, and 69% better. Wheat is two to three feet high and in many districts good rains and warm weather have brought stubble crops ahead of last year's summer fallow.

Alberta has suffered from dry weather in some districts. Considerable hail damage is reported in the Mirror Area. Vegreville states hot, dry weather has had a deterrent effect on grains in the east end of the district, but the western end is looking excellent. Throughout the province grains are well ahead of last year and apart from scattered sections reporting damage from hot weather or hail conditions are very good, but further moisture would be welcomed.

DR. JOHN R. MOHLER.

FARM HANDS FIGHT TARIFF

Union Paper Sees No Benefit to Workers in High Grain Duties.

FACE DEFEAT.

The fight between the German agrarians and the bulk of the urban and industrial population over increasing the tariff on grain, which has been keeping the Reichstag busy for some time and is not likely to be settled during the session that will end July 18, has been enlivened by the lining up of the German Agricultural Workers' Union against employers and in favor of holding down the duties. In efforts to justify their stand the agrarians have been insisting that a higher tariff would mean increased compensation for those of the workers who were partly paid in grain, as they would get more for what they were able to sell, and also that the farmers would be able to pay better wages.

Taking up this contention, the official organ of the Agricultural Workers Union, which has a circulation of more than 200,000 and great influence over hundreds of thousands of farm laborers, declares that the agrarians are simply playing the same game they did when they were campaigning for the lifting of Government control of their industry after the war when they assured their workers that a rise in the price of grain would mean much higher pay for them, whereas the laborers have not benefited to an appreciable degree by the success of their employers' campaign. Furthermore, says Dr. Landarbeiter, only about 10 per cent. of the farm hands in Germany receive part of their wages in kind, and in most of these cases they have nothing left to sell after feeding their families, the exceptions being in Mecklenburg-Schwerin, East Prussia, Schleswig-Holstein and a couple of other provinces, where the proposed tariff increase might add from 75 cents to $5 per year to the income of a worker receiving part payment in grain. On the other hand, all the agricultural workers would feel the effect of the new duties in increases in the prices of clothing and household utensils.

RAIN INTERFERES.

Haying Interrupted— Raspberries Ripening Fast — Strawberries Finished.

EAST EMILY.—July 17.—The recent rains made it very bad for the haying, the farmers get busy at the hay when it starts to rain and therefore delay results. However, they are hoping for good hay weather in the near future.

The strawberries are all over in this district and the price has gone up to a high pitch for what are visible on the market.

The raspberries are beginning to turn and it won't be many days until the fruit will be plentiful.

CROP REPORTS GOOD.

Heavy Hay Yield Takes Much Time to Dry Out Laying in Field.

WARSAW, July 17.—Local stores are giving 30c. for eggs—since Saturday. There is a great deal of cut hay out, much is lying on the ground, and a good deal is in coils. Farmers got as much in as possible, but it is so heavy that it does not dry quickly even in sunshine.

Weeds are growing rapidly.

Corn wants warmer weather.

Wheat looks well, and is ripening. There are some fields of splendid wheat to be seen, and nearly every one spoken to is proud of what wheat they have.

Currants are ripening rapidly and raspberries are beginning to turn.

MORE SHEEP WANTED.

The sheep industry has good times ahead, says H. E. Reed, professor of animal husbandry at the Kansas State Agricultural College. The reason is the number of sheep in this country has dwindled in proportion to the population.

Size Of Eggs May Depend Upon Quantity Production

We have it on the authority of no less a person than the Dominion Poultry Husbandman, that the problem of small eggs is becoming more and more pronounced the longer the breeding for high egg production is continued. Thus it becomes necessary, as he further says in his report for 1924, that the greatest care in selecting a male to head the flock should be taken to see that he is from large egg stock. Records do not show that a high producing bird is bound to lay a small egg, but they indicate that unless careful selection is followed there is a decided tendency for the size of eggs to decrease as production increases. A bird that does not lay eggs that average 24 ounces to the dozen cannot be registered no matter how many eggs she may lay. Attention to this matter of size, as well as to heavy yield, is being given by the Poultry Division at Ottawa and data is being collected that will be made public, as the report says, in due season.

SWAT ROOSTER FOR GOOD EGGS

After Breeding Season Too Many Males Are Excess Baggage.

BETTER EGGS

After the breeding season is ended there is no reason for having a lot of big roosters running around on the farm. These should be sold or used in cooking just as rapidly as they may be so employed. For one thing they eat a great deal of food and, running around on the farm they use up their fat and flesh, giving no increased weight when matured. Obviously the quicker they are eaten the less food is required for the poultry flock. It is not unusual to see a score or more big roosters running around on many farms, serving no useful purpose at all.

But a most important feature of these useless roosters is the injury they do to summer eggs. Fertilized eggs begin to hatch almost immediately after they are laid in summer. Unfertilized, sterile eggs react differently. The keeping qualities of sterile eggs is greatly improved and hence farmers should aim to produce only this kind after the spring hatchings.

Therefore the roosters should be disposed of either by sending to market or through use in the home meat supply.

"Swat the rooster" has become a common phrase among all poultry authorities, poultry writers and other persons connected in any way with the summer egg trade.

Farmers are interested because sterile eggs bring higher prices when sold. It puts money in their pockets to swat the roosters. If such practice could become general it would move the biggest boost the farm poultry industry had ever enjoyed. There is no profit in partly-hatched eggs for anybody, and to provide for this loss every egg dealer pays a considerable lower price than he would were he to know surely all the eggs he buys were sterile. The producer who can guarantee that his eggs are sterile will soon find a market for these better eggs and his price will be improved accordingly. Swat the rooster—not excuse the rooster is at fault, but to get sterile eggs and hence higher prices.

SHOCKING WHEAT.

Cap Sheaves Placed Over Shock Keeps the Stooks Erect Unharmed by Wind.

By Andrew Rarick.

Twelve bundles or sheaves make a good shock of wheat. I prefer this number in order to build a solid shock that will withstand a good deal of pounding by the wind. If made too small by using fewer bundles there is always danger of many shocks being blown over. In building a shock of wheat, two sets of bundles, two in each set, are firmly planted on the ground. Around these six or more are placed to give as round an appearance as possible. The last two are used as the cap sheaves.

When the 10 sheaves have been properly placed I like to throw the arms around the top, pressing in the heads as much as possible. Now take up a bundle, stand it against the abdomen, butt end against the body, the top end leaning out at an angle; the left arm is under the sheaf, supporting it. Use the right hand for bending the top downward and obliquely, for making the broadened cap. This done, place the sheaf directly over the heads of the standing sheaves. The other sheaf directly over the heads of bending of the straws, but it is placed crosswise over the first cap put in place. Spread out the straws as much as possible, butts and heads, so as to give as broad cover over the shock as possible.

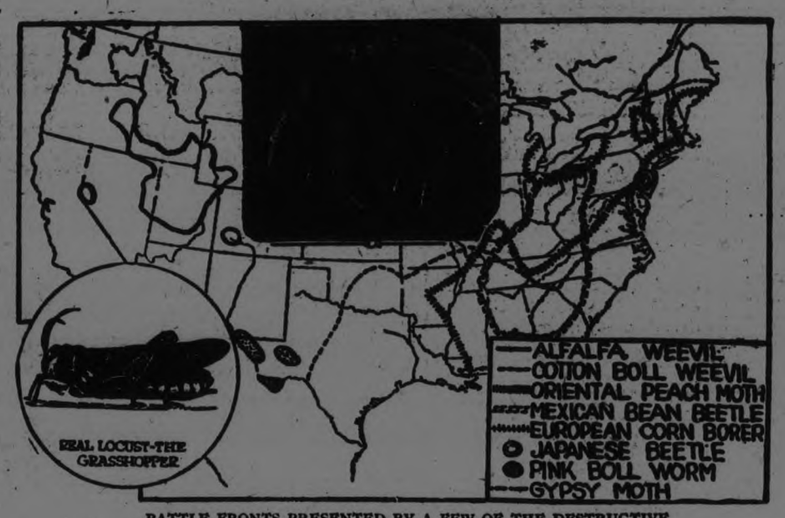
For ordinary seasons this manner of building a shock will prove effective until time to stack, haul in the barn, or thresh from the field.

CULL LAYING HENS.

Lecture Poorly Attended Though Valuable For Information Conveyed.

DOURO, July 17.—A demonstration and lecture on the culling of laying hens took place at the farm of Mr. W. H. Allen on Wednesday afternoon. A fair crowd was out but not enough—considering the excellence of the lecture. Mr. McRae of Norwood accompanied the lecturer. Such opportunities to learn from an expert are not frequent and those who attended consider their time well spent.

PESTS COST TWO BILLIONS A YEAR



BATTLE FRONTS PRESENTED BY A FEW OF THE DESTRUCTIVE CROP INSECTS. MOST INFAMOUS ARE THE COTTON BOLL WEEVIL, UPPER INSET, AND THE GRASSHOPPER, LOWER INSET.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Insects, many of them from foreign lands, are costing the farmers of the United States some two billion dollars, each year, in crop losses alone.

Man has been fairly successful in the war on insects that spread disease among humans. But with the free-booters of his fields and orchards, he has been less successful.

State and federal forces have been enlisted. Quarantines have been established. But each year the insects take a bigger toll of man's food, and make the growing of crops more difficult and expensive.

Here are a few of the more disastrous insects, together with the damage they do to our crops. The figures are conservative estimates made by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and apply just to the United States:

Grasshoppers	$ 50,000.000
Chinch bugs	60,000,000
Hessian fly	40,000,000
Codling moth	20,000,000
San Jose scale	10,000,000
Cotton boll weevil	300,000,000
Cotton bollworm	12,000,000
Potato bug	8,000,000
Grain weevil	10,000,000

Altogether the annual board bill, levied by insects on our food crops, is around $2,000,000,000. This takes no account of the damage done in many other fields of their activity, such as the great onslaught against our forests, where some of the losses are irreparable.

Weevil From Mexico.

From over the Rio Grande, some 35 years ago, came a vicious little weevil. He found some cotton plants and liked them, especially the boll. Today his offspring infest every cotton field from western Texas to the lowly counties of Virginia.

Millions of dollars must be spent each year for apparatus, poisons and labor in making safe a part of the crop.

Hardly had the cotton planter begun to look upon the boll weevil as a regular boarder, when up from Mexico came another scourge, the pink bollworm. This is a world menace to cotton.

Thus far it has gained but a slight foothold in the United States. Millions are being spent to fight it.

Little Chance to Win.

Entomologists confess but little hope of eradicating any insect pest. Their efforts first are bent toward keeping new pests out of the country. Next they try to retard their advance.

Changing to some other crop doesn't always solve the problem. Many of the insects have catholic tastes.

Among the latter is the Japanese beetle, which a few years ago sprang into infamy in a small section of New Jersey, near Camden. Pennsylvania now has it and entomologists admit there is small possibility of wiping it out. It has a wide range of food habits, eats all kinds of fruit apples, pears, plums, grapes, not to mention small fruits, and likes the foliage too.

The European corn borer a few years ago started on its corn-devouring orgy in New York. From there it passed over into Canada, shortly to re-enter the United States at the far end of Lake Erie. Now it lines the whole southern shore, and is spreading south and west. The menace is to our great corn belt of the middle west and the Mississippi valley.

The borer has been known to forage heartily on tomatoes, potatoes, cotton, beans, beets and a score of other plants, besides corn. Maybe in the south it would turn to cotton or sugar cane.

Other Big Losses.

Grasshoppers have been so general with us, that their presence is taken practically as a matter of course. Despite an enormous death toll, due to the vigilance of farmers, they mount the losses to crops some $50,000,000.

New England is waging a vigorous fight against the gypsy moth and brown-tail moth, which do damage in the caterpillar stage.

Our orchards are deluged with San Jose scale, with the destructive codling moth, fruit flies and other insects. The toll is enormous and costly.

The productiveness of these insects is astounding. A single pair of potato bugs, if all their descendants survive, might produce 60,000,000 of their kind in one season.

Fortunately, there are insects that prey on other insects. These are the allies of mankind. They repress what would otherwise be an overwhelming destruction of humanity by the insect world.

MINERAL ADDS TO HOG RATION

When Tested Beneficial Result is Shown Proving Its Advantage.

ASHES GOOD

Some valuable information relative to the importance of adding mineral matter to the usual grain rations of hogs has been secured at the Agassiz Experimental Farm during the last two winters.

The mineral mixture used was composed of ground bone meal, 8 pounds; ground charcoal, 5 pounds; ground rock phosphate, 5 pounds; and salt, 3 pounds, at a cost of 2.7 cents per pound. It was fed at the rate of 3 pounds to each 100 pounds of meal.

In order to test this material, a total of 84 pigs were divided into fourteen lots of six pigs each. In every ration where the mineral mixture was fed increased gains were secured. This applied not only when the usual trough-feeding method was followed, but also when self feeders were used and when the meal ration was supplemented with cooked potatoes. In one instance there was a profit of $7.85 in favor of the mineral ration.

An increase of six per cent. of mineral matter proved unsatisfactory and gave similar results to a ration supplemented with two per cent. of rock phosphate.

When other mineral matter is not available, ordinary wood or coal ashes thrown on the floor gives good results.

RAIN HALTS HAYING.

Farmers State Crop Quite Up to Expectations With Good Harvest Forecast.

DUNSFORD, July 17.—Haying is the order of the day in this part of the country. On Monday the farmers were all very busy drawing in, but the rain on Monday night put a stop to that, and on Tuesday they had to be content to stand back and wait for the sunshine to dry things up again. All report the hay crop as being quite equal to their expectations so far. The grain crops show signs of full granaries this fall. The corn is coming along quite rapidly too.

FARMERS BUSY.

Clover and Timothy Occupies the Time of Husbandmen.

NORWOOD, July 1 .—The farmers in this district are busily engaged haying, the crops of clover and timothy being exceptionally good.

Strawberries are still on the local market.

A motorcar has been invented that can move sideways across a road. It was felt that pedestrians were getting altogether too artful.

Lamb's Caudal Appendage Removed By Two Methods

When docking has been neglected until the lambs are a month or more old severe bleeding sometimes occurs. The Live Stock Branch Sheep Promoters in their docking demonstration show how to guard against danger from tail cause. When the knife is sent cord is tied firmly round the tail about one inch from the buttock before the tail is severed half-an-inch lower down. An even better way is shown by the use of the docking iron. This has heavy blades which are heated red in a plumber's stove, which is carried along for the demonstrations. The tail is projected through a two-inch auger hole in a thin board nailed to the side of a pot, the under side of the tail uppermost. The lamb is held firmly against the board and the tail is held without tension by an assistant and quickly severed with the iron. This completely sears the wound, which cannot bleed. Experiments have shown that healing following burning takes place as quickly as when the knife is used.

WORK PRESSING COBOURG FARMS

Showery Weather Holds Up Haying Causing Bulk of Work.

GROWTH GOOD.

COBOURG, July 16.—(Special).—The dry weather may have interfered with the growth of the crops in some localities, but farmers in Hamilton and Haldimand Townships are optimistic over the expected yield. Haying is in progress, but only a small percentage of the crop is cut as yet, and showery weather has made it difficult to get that cured and in the barns. The fall wheat is pressing hard upon the haying, and as a result farmers are very busy. Many are hard pressed at the present time, as the hoe crop also needs particular attention.

RAINS AID WEEDS.

Showers Promote Rank Growth Holding Up Buckwheat Seeding.

WARSAW, July 16. — Last week was splendid for haying. Saturday evening's shower did much good, as the winds have dried up the ground.

The damp weather made killing weeds quite difficult, and several have had to abandon their earlier plans of sowing buckwheat and summer fallow; also several fields of oats are being pastured as the weeds have come up.

P. E. I. FARMERS DID NOT WANT MOTOR VEHICLE

Order Passed at One Time to Discontinue Use of Motor Car in Province.

RESTRICTED TILL 1919.

Prince Edward Island has had an interesting past, one of the outstanding features of which was its steady refusal, until 12 years ago to allow the auto to enter. At one time, after running a few years, they were ousted altogether. The island's original name was Abegweit (Home on the wave) and it was later named by Champlain, Isle de St. Jean, subsequently receiving its present title after the Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria. It was owned by the French prior to 1758, when Great Britain annexed it as a colony. In 1755, many Acadians expelled from Nova Scotia came here.

In 1767, Great Britain parcelled out the Island to British officers and others on a guarantee to settle the island. For over a century the islanders remained tenants to absentee landlords. When the province joined the Canadian Confederation in 1873, the Dominion government paid $800,000 to the provincial government to buy out the landlords. Of the 803,981 acres thus acquired, practically all has been sold to tenants as freehold, at from twenty-five cents to one dollar per acre.

With the inception of the automobile, the farmers fought against its coming to the island, and the first few brought over were restricted to such an extent as to have no association with convenience or comfort. Finally in 1909 there was an order issued to discontinue use of autos on the island altogether.

Order Rescinded.

This situation continued until the spring of 1912, when a new government came into power, with the result that the old order was rescinded and the automobile came into use again, this time to meet more determined opposition than ever from the parties who were still fighting against it. When the 1912 permit was issued, it was with restrictive clauses: namely, that no auto was allowed outside of any town or village on Tuesdays and Fridays, as these were, and still are, the two market days of the week. This restriction was allowed for the reason that at the sight of an auto an island horse was expected to become unmanageable and run away, with serious result. Another regulation was that no automobile could be operated on Sunday between the hours of seven and nine in the evening, as these were considered church hours.

Change Comes.

These restrictions continued for some time, and where a certain road was closed to the automobile a canvass had to be made of all the farmers on that particular road and the decision of the majority was final. This condition existed until the autumn of 1919, when the then premier opened up all roads and removed all restrictions prior to the time his party went out of power. Since that day there has been a steady and increasing demand for the automobile. To-day there are approximately 2,500 motor cars operating on Prince Edward Island and the saturation point is not yet attained.

Automobiles do not provide the sole outlet for petroleum products on the island. Prince Edward Island is often called "The Million Acre Farm" and farming is one of its chief industries. The old methods of farming have given place here, as in other parts of Canada, to the most modern machinery and practice. There are about sixty tractors in use.

The fishing industry is second only to agriculture, and here again Imperial products find a good market. An idea of the volume of business done by the fishermen may be gained in knowing that the annual lobster haul alone exceeds $1,600,000.

Unfortunately the population of Prince Edward Island is not increasing, but the inhabitants have helped materially to increase the population of sister provinces in the Dominion and to swell the farms and cities of many States in the republic to the south.

PROGRESS IN EGG PRODUCT

Registration Raises Standard of Minimum Qualification in Production.

Notable progress has been made in poultry raising in Canada in recent years, to which the Laying Contests held in every province in the Dominion have materially contributed. A greatly increased average throughout all the Contests has been reached in a few years, which is direct evidence of a remarkable improvement in the breeding work behind hundreds of entries, representing thousands of matings.

With the advent of registration for poultry, the standard was raised from 150 to 200 two-ounce eggs as a minimum for qualification, and the bird must also conform closely to certain standard characters laid down for the breed.

The standard for the male is still more severe. He must be bred from a dam and grand dam that have each laid in a contest at least 200 two-ounce eggs and be free from standard disqualifications. To breed such a male is an achievement worthy of an official record, and a number of such males will be procurable this year, with authentic pedigree and tatooed with the breeders registered mark and carrying all the identification marks, guaranteeing their breeding.

The number will be limited this year, but the supply will increase as the number of daughters of registered dams that qualify in the contest increases.

In breeding up to the excellent standard demanded in registered males there is certain to be surplus stock of lesser lineage not qualified for registration. Many of these are of good breeding, but not tested to the same extent as registered stock. These birds are available in large numbers from breeders of registered stock.

HAY CROP GOOD.

Prospects Good For Other Growth—Fodder Drawn In.

LAKEFIELD, July 17.—The hay crop this year is a wonderfully good one and is practically all drawn in. Prospects are excellent for all the other crops.

NEW POTATOES.

Plentiful Supply Selling at 25c. Peck—Currants 15c. Box.

TRENT RIVER.—New potatoes are plentiful, selling at 25 cents per peck. Garden currants 15 cents per box.

Mr. Wesley Redden shipped 8 lambs, the weighing from 71 to 108 lbs. The price received 16 cents per pound.

Those who are freest with complaints usually have little else to offer.

BARN RAISING.

Hundred Men Assemble To Erect Building Without Mishap.

HAVELOCK, July 16.—The barn raising at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Varty, was a successful event as the day was perfect and the men gathered fast in the early morning, there being forty before noon, and over one hundred at 2 o'clock.

Everything was so well arranged, that the day passed without the slightest accident. The carpenters were Ed. Bowen and N. H. McConnell of Cordova Mines.

Many ladies took the opportunity of seeing the barn go up piece by piece.

RAIN STOPS HAYING.

Crop Exceptionally Heavy and Big Yield is Anticipated.

KEENE, July 17.—The rain has held up haying operations for a few days, but will be in full swing again in a few days. Everything points to having a bumper crop of both hay and grain this year, the hay crop being exceptionally heavy in some parts of the district.

PREFERS CANNIBALS TO WEST'S WORMS

73 Years Old, Westerner Will Take Adventurous South Seas Trip.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 17 (Canadian Press).—"Cut throats, in the South Sea Islands, or cut worms in Western Canada? Well, give me the cannibals every time! I never was much at farming."

This was the assertion of Frank Burnett, who came to Winnipeg first in 1880 and knows all about the oxen and Red river cart means of transportation. Recently he appeared again in the Manitoba capital, this time travelling by rail—

"I am [illegible] at heart," Mr. Burnett proclaimed, adding that after a period of unsuccessful farming, he had obeyed the appeal of "his savage instinct." I realized that the only way to explore the South Sea Islands properly was by having my own boat. I acquired an 85-ton schooner, had it fitted as a yacht, and accompanied by my family set sail. When we reached Honolulu after 42 days of the worst weather that could be imagined, I took on a crew of six Polynesians and then for ten months we disappeared, as far as civilization was concerned.

"The idea that cannibalism is extinct is quite wrong," Mr. Burnett stated." The Papuans practice it just as much as they did in the 15th century." In 1910, when Mr. Burnett last saw the Solomon Islands, it was in company with a trading party of 45 men. While he was there seven of the party were killed and eaten by the natives. There were also the head-hunting Dyaks and the Polynesians, to be contended with. Neither, however, were cannibalistic.

During these South Sea tours, Mr. Bennett has collected a variety of souvenirs, including several heads, well preserved. This collection has been presented to the University of British Columbia.

Despite his 73 years, Mr. Burnett will launch upon another trip to tropical lands. He proposes to start on the trip this fall.

NORSE CENTENNIAL DRAWS PATRONAGE

Canadian Exhibit Depicts Landing of Lief Ericsson on Coast.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 17 (Canadian Press).—At a mass meeting of several thousand Norse Canadians who attended the Norse American Centennial held at St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., recently, a resolution of appreciation to the Dominion Government for the way in which Canada was so well represented at the Centennial, principally by the Canadian Exhibit, was passed unanimously.

The Canadian exhibit, besides showing in two large pictures done in Canadian grains and grasses, Lief Ericsson, the Norse explorer, approaching in his Viking ship and landing on the shores of Canada at Cape Breton in 1001, displayed a typical Canadian farm scene and a variety of the principal products from the different provinces of Canada, arranged in a most ingenious and artistic way. The Exhibit occupied a space of 2,800 square feet and attracted over 100,000 visitors during the four days the Centennial celebration was held. All the work in connection with the Exhibit was done by the Canadian Government Exhibit Commission at the plant in Ottawa and sent in sections to Minnesota.

NEW REGULATIONS.

Sports Should Become Acquainted With Game Law Amendments.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 17 (Canadian Press).—Canadian sportsmen perparing for hunting trips this fall are urged to acquaint themselves with amendments and alterations in the Migratory Birds Convention Act by securing full information from the commissioner of National Parks, department of Interior, Ottawa.

The regulations based upon the Migratory Birds Convention Act have been consolidated and slightly amended by a recent order-in-council. The open seasons for the killing of migratory birds such as geese, ducks, brant and rails, which are provided throughout Canada, are the same as last year except for a slight change in British Columbia.

A new feature of the regulations is that the possession of legally taken migratory game birds is allowed for a period immediately following the open season.

KING CARNIVAL IN MERRY MOOD IN PETERBORO'

Big Crowd at Rotary Revel Held in Exhibition Grounds.

NO TEARS SEEN.

Sports Supreme—Day of Delight For Children and Adults.

Bustle, harmony, gaiety and color, all were evident at the Rotary Carnival in the Exhibition Grounds yesterday. The grounds were liberally bedecked with flags and bunting, the Salvation Army band played some excellent selections, and a spirit of good humor and jollity was everywhere manifest.

Men, prominent in business, legal and medical circles in the city darted about like children let loose from school. Others were vendors of candy, pop corn or ice cream for the day. Two cowboys of an afternoon were selling chances of getting stoves and other desirable things at 25c a chance. At a stall further down an energetic sizzling salesman was developing a talent for selling Westclox alarms at next to nothing, while across the way three boosters were panting under the unaccustomed exertion of selling tickets, 10c each, or 3 for a quarter, entitling the lucky winner to pick what he wanted from the stall.

Sports Programme.

Races.

Horse Races.

Great interest was taken in the horse races, which were watched by a large and enthusiastic crowd. Major Hal, driven by Donnelly, won easily in Class 1.

The results of this race, which was run in two heats, were: Major Hal, 1 1; Jim Tod, 2 2; Bub, 3 4; Cy Winger 4 3.

The third prize was split between Bub and Cy Winger. It was observed that all the competitors in Class 1 were bay geldings.

In Class 2 (3 heats) the standings were: Daisy McKenzie, brown mare 2 1 1; Mr. Healy, bay gelding 1 3 3; Irene Hal, bay mare, 3 2 2; March R, bay gelding, 4 4 4.

Major Hal, Cy Winger and Mr. Healy are all the property of Stan. Blewett of Hunter Street; Irene Hal belongs to F. Montgomery; Mack R to Mr. Armstrong. Havelock; Daisy McKenzie to Sharp Ford. Killorne; Bub is the property of Mr. Jones, and Jim Tod of Mr. Johnstone, both of Peterboro.

Ladies Helped.

The following ladies looked after the preparation of the high tea, served in the Agricultural Hall from 5.30 to 7.30: Mrs. Rogers, convenor; Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Kenner, Mrs. G. McDonald, Mrs. G. Wood, Mrs. Kingan Mrs. Gordon, Mrs. Trebilcock Mrs. Carmichael, Mrs. Carruthers.

And After Dark.

At the Exhibition Grounds last night, King Carnival reigned supreme and people lent themselves easily to the sway of his mirth-giving sceptre.

Noise there was in abundance, but all of the happy gladsome variety which does not jar on sensitive nerves.

The Rangers' Band was listened to with attention and attracted a crowd of hearers until the orchestra which held more of the popular appeal to revel quickly drew a host toward the dance floor, whose purpose was generously and continuously fulfilled. People either lanced or stood on the side lines critical or appreciative and making no bones about their decisions.

Some ingenious youth seeing that dancers were forced to either wear their hats or hold them gingerly and perilously behind their partner's back, immediately received an inspiration which was the birth of the "Hat holding industry," a business which received a steady patronage for the time of its inception. Numerous small boys reaped a harvest and collected no war tax either.

While many thronged the dance platform, numbers were left to patronize the games of chance, which were many and varied. All ages and sexes were adjured to "Come on and take a chance, somebuddy's gotta win. Come in, folks, and getta doll or boiler or a fine aluminum pan. Somebuddy's gotta win each end every time. Never venture, never win. So step right up."

Accordingly the people stepped up and shied darts at little periods in a ring on a piece of wood, or placed a dime on a numbered square and watched a wheel turn around to some figure which they weren't thinking of, or hurled balls at derisive cats, or bought numbered tickets which might result in the possession of a towel or shirt or both as the case might be.

Invitation Committee.

Ballyhoo howlers vied with one anoher as they pointed out the advantages which their attraction afforded over all competitors and loudly their voices hurled invitations at the crowd and general atmosphere to participate in their little games. Staid businessmen forgot their age and importance in the scheme of things and reverted to the savage, pouring forth their incantations and objurgations to the assembly. One was heard to intone in winning accents: "Place your money on 4—usually lucky"; as that was the only number not covered at the time and as it was likewise holding up the game, his remark was not altogther lacking in point.

Fair or Dark.

The fortune telling booth was patronized and always will be as long as such things exist and as long as people do not know what shade of person is going to come into their life and when. Maidens with a bona fide Eyptian tint won considerable patronage by seekers after possible, but highly improbable, truth.

Shortly after ten the crowd began to disperse bearing their trophies of the chase, munching pop corn, chocolate bars, ice cream cones and other forms of diversion and wearing a happy, contended look which was evidence of an enjoyable evening backed by the knowledge of money shrewdly invested.

Softball Games

In the softball championship tournament, Lindsay eliminated Trenton 14-2 while Oshawa performed a similar service for Bowmanville by a score of 30-12. In the final Lindsay won the shield by a 14-12 victory over Oshawa.

In the baseball game between Rotary Midgets and Kiwanis Midgets the former won by 7-3.

In the Horse Show the first prize in the open saddle class went to Miss Kelly, second and third prizes being awarded to the Misses Parsons.

Ladies' Saddle Class

Returns in the ladies' saddle class were as follows: 1, Miss Alexander; 2, Miss Parsons; 3, Miss Kelly; 4, Miss Parsons.

Prizes in the harness class were awarded to: 1, Mr. Redmond; 2, Mr. Bishop; 3, Mr. Hickey; 4, Mr. Graham. All four horses are the property of Mr. Graham.

THEY HELPED THE LADIES CHOOSE TEAMS AND HERE THEY ARE AT WORK

The National Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada assisted the ladies' committee in the selection of the Canadian ladies' team which will visit England to compete at Stamford Bridge on August 1. The photograph shows the conference in session at Varsity Stadium, Toronto, after the trials. On the left, J. H. Crocker, Toronto, national secretary Y.M.C.A.; Dr. A. S. Lamb, McGill University, secretary A.A.U. of Canada; Miss Alexandrine Gibb, manager of the overseas trip; (in front) M. M. WHISKEY CLOGS CANAL BOTTOM

When one of the power boats, operating out of Port Colborne, was accidentally rammed and sunk by another vessel in the Welland canal, she went down with a cargo of 100 cases of ale and 30 of whiskey. Above is shown the scene when the submerged boat had been lifted to th surface by a derrick. Provincial Officer Deering, of Toronto, now stationed at Port Colborne, is seen supervising the removal of the cargo, which was found intact.

GROCERY MERGER TO BE MADE SOON

Will Embrace Province and Take in Some of the Largest Firms.

TORONTO, July 17.—(Canadian Press).—An exchange this morning says: "Announcement of a great wholesale grocery merger with an annual turnover of from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 a year, will shortly be made.

"This was the statement made to the exchange yesterday afternoon, following a visit to Toronto of H. D. Whitehouse, Chicago, secretary-treasurer of the Continental Commercial and Securities Corporation of Chicago to complete some options on firms outside of Toronto. The merger will embrace the whole of the Province of Ontario, and some of the largest concerns are to have a big place in it."

BRYAN AND MALONE STATE THEIR CASES

Judge Will Decide if Scientist Witness is Admissable.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 17.—(Canadian Press).—"Shall parents have the right to say that no teacher paid by their money shall rob their children of the faith in God and send them back to their homes, skeptical infidels or agnostics or atheists?"

Thus William Jennings Btyan set forth the case for the prosecution in the trial of John T. Scopes yesterday.

"Close no doors of knowledge from children, put no truth from them. Let science and theology both be loved, but let them not be confused."

Thus Dudley Field Malone put the case for enlightenment. "That which strikes at vitals of Christianity and civilization is not entitled to a hearing in court," was Attorney-General Stewart's contribution to the symposium on the right of evolution to produce its witnesses.

The Judge is to decide the question of the admissability of the testimony of scientist witnesses today.

How long is a Piece of Soap?

PERHAPS you have noticed how a cake of ordinary soap gets soft after it has been in the water a few times. The result is, the cake doesn't last any time-it just seems to "melt away."

PEERLESS ERASMIC never does that. It is a thoroughly milled soap. Its texture is perfect—there is very little water left in it. It remains hard and firm right to the last thin wafer. You save by using Erasmic, for a cake will outlast two or three cakes of ordinary soap.

WELCOME MAT WITH WARNING

NOT A COLONY

TORONTO, Ont., July 17.—(Canadian Press).—With a wide open door and an old-fashioned "Welcome" mat reposing on the top step, nothing could have seemed more cheerful or homelike than the hostel of the British Welcome and Welfare League one afternoon recently when fully two dozen immigrant women met for a social hour under the leadership of Mrs. Clayton Ridge of Scarboro'. Mrs. Ridge has had extensive British and Canadian experience in social welfare work, and is well equipped for the work of acquainting the newcomers with Canadian conditions as they affect women and families from the Old Country.

"These people have risen and risen, as you hope to do, until now they are at the top of the tree," declared Mrs. Ridge, in speaking of the pioneers of the dominion, the men and women from the British Isles whose sons and daughters are now leading in educational and business life of the country. "I wonder if you will mind if I begin with a few don'ts?" questioned the speaker. "Never say that Canada belongs to England, because it is not true. Don't ever call Canada a colony or a Canadian a colonial. Don't say 'oh, we don't do it that way at home.' Do not make any comparisons at all—just watch, observe and notice," she warned them.

P.E.I. LASS CAUGHT HEART OF CARLYLE

But Her Mother Interfered so She Married the Governor.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 17.—(Canadian Press). — "D. B. M." writing in the Free Press of a visit to Prince Edward Island revives an interesting story:—

Prince Edward Island has been notable in history. Thomas Carlyle had a girl here once—his first sweetheart. She was born here, the little child of one of the British administrators, and when a little girl was taken back to Scotland. She grew up well dowered with brains and beauty and grace and when Carlyle met her in his early twenties he found hard. They usually do at that stage. The young lady was friendly and encouraging, but her mother was not enthusiastic about the young Thomas, who had already taken to scribbling. The mother didn't think he would ever amount to much, and advised the daughter to send him on his way, which she did, regretfully, as a number of letters extant reveal. Her last letter to Carlyle, written after she had become bethrothed to another, advised her early suitor to cultivate lighter moods of life if he would have happiness. She would not meet him again, she wrote, she was afraid of such a meeting. So they parted and the young lady married a man who was later appointed governor of Prince Edward Island, and came back to the land of her birth as the mistress of Government House.

KING INTERESTED IN CHEESE PLANT

"What Makes the Cheese Get Blue?" His Query—Echo Replies, "What?"

LONDON, Eng., July 17.—(Canadian Press).—The King motored from Windsor to Reading to inspect the National Institute for Research in Dairying, carried on in connection with Reading University. In the experimental cheese department where two "bobbed" young women in breeches and white smocks were at work, the King watched with interest the process of cheese-making. "What makes the cheese get blue?" was one question he asked, confessing to a partiality for Stilton. He was greatly interested in the improvements made in the milk producing industry in recent years and expressed amazement at the evidence given at the farm of what could be done by skill and organization. His visit lasted an hour and a half.

MAGPIES ANNOY COWS

Birds Pick at Newly Made Brand Marks to be Exterminated.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 17.—(Canadian Press).—Magpies threaten to become a pest and a menace to newly-branded cattle on the range in the Cypress Hills district in Alberta. Pitching on the backs of the branded herds, the birds peck at the sores made in the branding process and torment the animals into a state of frenzie. Many beasts, it is reported, have died as a result.

It is now proposed to organize a campaign against the magpie which is not protected by law. Not only do the magpies injure the live stock, but they destroy young robins. Just as soon as the robin hatches out, the magpies descend upon the nest and prey upon the helpless young. "The magpies are outlaws, like the crow", states E. H. Mitchell, provincial naturalist who favors a campaign of extermination.

Piano Playing at Home An Intolerable Nuisance to Some

An application was made in the case of Moul and others against Shapcott and others for an injunction to restrain the Harbour Commissioners of Looe, Cornwall, from granting the use of the quay at East Looe for a steam merry-go-round during August Bank Holiday week.

Mr. Vaisey, K.C., said the case arose out of an alleged nuisance which was caused by the manner in which the fair at Looe was carried on.

He asked for only limited relief. This litigation had caused a great deal of local feeling. There had been threats and procession, and in fact as much fun before the fair as could possibly be at the fair.

Mr. Grocer, K.C. (for the defendants): Practically a state of civil war.

Mr. Vaisey asked that there should be some limitation of the time during which the roundabout revolved accompanied by music. The fair would last from one Saturday to the next, and he offered to except from the operation of the injunction the two Saturdays and Bank Holiday and Thursday, the early-closing day. This steam organ performed four tunes and continued in the past till midnight.

Counsel added that one of the organ's tunes was called "Bubbles," and that in 1922, 1923, and 1924 the same four tunes were played.

Mr. Justice Eve said that to a certain class of persons the repetition of music not perhaps always in tune did constitute an irritating and painful experience. The very fact that some people turned night into day to have dances and musical evenings in the adjoining house constituted a grave nuisance to the ordinary man, who wanted to go home and eat his dinner in peace and go to bed at a decent hour.

"What greater nuisance, if I may speak from experience," said Mr. Justice Eve, "than the strumming by young women on an instrument, called a piano? It is a most intolerable nuisance to persons of respectable habits. But these are the things which we have to put up with."

The court would not interfere by an interlocutory injunction to deprive, perhaps, one-half or one-third of the inhabitants of Looe of their annual treat. The evidence showed that there were a large number of people to whom this was no nuisance but a source of enjoyment.

SCHOOL BOY HAS WRITING PAD SKIN

Words Traced by Finger Remain Visible for Considerable Period

A boy whose skin was so very peculiar that it was possible to write words on it with the finger and the writing would remain visible for 10 or 15 minutes was referred to at the London Sessions recently.

Dr. John S. Lewis, of New Cavendish street, said that when slightly stroked by the finger the skin showed definite marks.

There were various explanations of this condition, one being that the person suffering from the condition was "one skin short."

The case was one in which Anthony James Melanaphy, an assistant school teacher, employed by the London County Council, at East Lane School, Dockhead, S. E., appealed against a fine of £2 for assaulting Teddy Ayles, aged 7.

Ayles arrived late for school, and was told to stay in at playtime. He failed to do so, and was caned by Melanaphy.

The boy and his grandmother were to have given evidence, but did not appear, and the chairman, A. J. Lawrie, K.C., remarked: "The punishment does not seem to have had the desired effect. Instead of being late this morning, he has not come at all."

The conviction was quashed.

RABBIT SHOOTER GOT WRONG BILLET

Woman and Perambulator Both Received Pellets from Bird

Mrs. Monk, of Shelley, was wheeling her two young children in a perambulator from Ongar to her home when she heard a gun fired in an adjacent field.

Immediately after there was another report, and she was shot in the leg and hand. A third shot crashed through the body of the perambulator, but the children fortunately escaped injury.

She screamed, and a man named Bird ran out of a field, in which he had been shooting rabbits.

When he saw what had happened, he immediately secured a car and rushed Mrs. Monk to a doctor, who dressed her wounds and treated her for shock.

GRANDSON OF PEEL LEFT SMALL ESTATE

Sir Robert Peel, Bt., of Drayton Manor, Tamworth, Staffs, who died on February 1, aged fifty-seven years, a grandson of the famous Sir Robert Peel, twice Prime Minister, left unsettled property in his own disposition of the gross value of £205, with net personalty £1 1s. 3d.

W. I. Kelly, of Gladstone-road, Croydon, who is 73 and blind, is arranging to fly to the Continent.

PARLORMAN TOOK CHURCH SERVICES IN CHAPEL OF EASE

Dismissed by Mansion Owner Because of Feud With Vicar

KEPT FAITH

Servant Got Married But Came Back to Conduct Service

The mistress of a mansion, her parlorman, who had at one time studied with a view to taking Holy Orders, and the vicar of a chapel of ease were the chief actors in a triangular drama, the last act of which was unfolded at the Wells (Somerset) County Court when Charles Seager sued Mrs. Thomas Ferrand, wife of Commander Ferrand, of Edgarley Hall, Glastonbury, for £2 10s., a month's wages, in lieu of notice.

Seager, who entered Mrs. Ferrand's service at 15s. a week, said that he offered his spare Sundays to the vicar, who asked him to take the service at Edgarley Chapel. Then came the bolt from the Blue. Mrs. Ferrand suddenly told him to pack his boxes and go, as he had been working for the vicar against her wishes, and in time which should have been devoted to her service. This he denied.

SECRET MARRIAGE.

She gave him a day off to see his solicitor, but he stayed longer to get married, thus "killing two birds with one stone." He was married on a Sunday morning, but nevertheless returned to keep faith with the vicar, and took the chapel service.

When questioned by the judge, Seager said that before the war he studied for Holy Orders at Oxford, but had not taken his degree. After the war he was advised to give his brains a rest, and so took up manual work.

The Rev. L. Lewis, vicar of St. John's, Glastonbury, said the chapel of ease was opposite the gates of the Hall. There had been a feud over it because Commander Ferrand thought he had bought the chapel as well as the estate.

Mr. Lewis read a letter from Mrs. Ferrand in which she said: "I am astonished that you should have the gross impertinence to employ one of my servants without my consent or even my knowledge."

Judgment was given for Seager for the amount claimed.

CROWN AGREES TO MYSTERY VERDICTS

Settlement of Two Actions Said to Be in Public Interest

PAY £50,000

No Explanation Given Why Nation Mulcted for Enormous Sum

Two mysterious petitions of right against the King came before Mr. Justice Rowlatt in the King's Bench Division, when judgment was entered against the Crown for £50,000 with costs, but no explanation was given why the State should pay this enormous sum of money.

All that was stated in court was that a settlement had previously been reached in which it was agreed that judgment should be entered against the Crown. Sir Douglas Hogg, K.C., the Attorney-General, however, expressed the view that the settlement was a reasonable one, and in the public interest.

Even the full names and nationality of the petitioners were not disclosed.

Sir Leslie Scott, K.C., who appeared for a petitioner named Efros, informed the judge that Sir Douglas Hogg had consented to judgment being entered in favor of Efros for £30,000 with costs. Arrangements for the method of payment had been made.

Sir Douglas Hogg said that in the petition of Christoptikoff, which arose out of a similar set of circumstances, arrangements had been made so that there would be a settlement on the terms that there should be judgment for Christoptikoff for £20,000 with costs.

No further comment was made on either case, and judgment was entered accordingly.

MAN WAS KILLED BY BOILING TAR

Motor Lorry Upset Boiler on Two Road Makers at Maidstone

Two men engaged in road repairs on the main Folkestone road, a mile outside Maidstone, were covered in boiling tar when a tar boiler which they were using was overturned by a passing motor-lorry.

One of the men, Alfred Slender, 61, of Peel street, Maidstone, was burned to death, and the other man, John Burr, of Camden street, Maidstone, was seriously burned about the arms and hands.

The accident occurred outside Mote Park, the residence of Lord Bearsted, where the road is very narrow. The lorry, which was travelling towards Maidstone, was pulling up to allow another vehicle to pass.

Slender was pinned beneath the boiler and his tar-covered body burst into flames.

The lorry driver immediately drove on at full speed to inform the county police at Maidstone.

Dr. Frederick Travers, the divisional surgeon, went with the Maidstone ambulance to render aid. The police also hurried to the scene and members of the local fire brigade were rushed to the spot in a taxicab.

The boiler, which burst into flames when it turned over, was so hot that Slender's fellow-workmen could not get near to render any assistance.

RARE COLLECTION OF STAMPS FOUND

Boy's Hoard of 75 Years Ago Discovered in Mansion

COMPLETE SHEETS

Ceylon and Queensland Rarities Will Be Sold in Autumn

A find of rare stamps in a Mayfair mansion is the latest romance of philately.

In the attic of the family mansion, a titled woman, whose name is kept secret, found a number of letters, many in a boyish hand, and a series of sheets of unused postage stamps.

H. R. Harmer, the Bond-street stamp auctioneer, was invited to look at them, and declared them worth, at a guess, at least £10,000.

The letters revealed that they were the collection of the grandfather of the holder of the title, and that they had been collected in the years 1853-4.

The collector, a schoolboy with sufficient money to satisfy his stamp collecting desires, started by sending bank notes to each of a number of Colonial postmasters asking them to return sheets of stamps.

His treasures, as now discovered, include:—

A complete sheet, and one almost complete sheet of the Ceylon ½d lilac of 1858.

Two sheets of the British Columbia 2½d. reddish rose of 1861. One sheet intact.

Part-sheets of the Queensland 2d. blue, 3d. brown, and 6d. yellow-green.

Several complete sheets of the Grenada 1d. green of 1862.

F. J. Melville, the stamp authority, considered them a rare and genuine find.

"The cost to their collector was probably not more than £20," he said, "and they are estimated to be worth at least £10,000 today.

"The beautiful Ceylon ½d. lilac, for example, fetches £4 a copy, and there is a complete sheet of 120 of them! I have never seen more than a block of 16 before.

"The 1d. Queensland of 1863 fetches £3 a copy, and I counted 229 in the sheet found."

The stamps are to be sold in the autumn.

COLONEL THRASHES PICNICKING BOYS

Told Magistrate He Had Received a Dozen More Severe

"I have received a dozen thrashings myself far more severe," said Lieut.-Colonel E. J. O'Meara, of Drayton Wood, near Norwich, when he was fined £5 with £5 costs at Taverham Police Court for thrashing two schoolboys.

The boys, with two others, cycled from Norwich into the country for a picnic, made a tent with sacking on the roadside, and prepared to light a fire with sticks they gathered in a field. A man came up to them, it was stated, and told them to pack up their sticks and follow him. They were taken to the colonel's house.

The colonel asked them: "Will you be prosecuted or have a good thrashing," and it was alleged that before one of the boys could answer he struck him with a stick twenty or thirty times. He then struck the other lad, but not so severely.

HAPPY HOME FOR LONDON WORKLESS

A real home for those who are out of work and down on their luck has been started with the help of members of the congregation of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, Trafalgar Square, London.

A Georgian house which overlooks the Thames, within a short walk of the church, has been fitted like a private home with accommodation for thirty people.

It has easy chairs and flowers in the hall and rooms.

It is open all night, and the penniless go there to sleep. They are also fed and decently clothed.

FAMOUS VESSEL GOES ON WHALING TRIP TO ANTARCTIC

Captain Scott's "Discovery" is Placed in Commission for Research Work

CONTROL AREA

British Took Certain Zone to Safeguard Whale Herds

Breaking the blue ensign of the Falkland Islands Government at the stern, Mrs. Amery, wife of the Colonial Secretary, formerly placed the Royal research ship Discovery in commission at Portsmouth Dockyard for her three-years' expedition to the South Seas for the purpose of scientific investigation into the subject of whaling.

Simultaneously, the special flag of the expedition, showing one of the cetaeans, whose habits are to be made the object of research, was broken at the masthead, and Captain Scott's famous old vessel was also dressed overall.

Mr. Amery, who presided at the luncheon, said they were celebrating the initiation of a great scientific enterprise which might play no small part in the future economic development of Great Britain and of the world.

The great ocean region round the Antarctic Continent was the last home of the cetaceous inhabitants of the sea and possibly also of an immense and undiscovered field of fishery. They realized something of its importance during the Great War, when, for a variety of purposes, they had to indent very heavily upon the disappearing multitude of whales to meet the needs of the country, and two definite steps were taken. The first was to mark off a certain zone of the Antarctic as definitely under British control to safeguard the fast disappearing herds of whales.

The other step taken was to arrange for a proper system of organized scientific research into the life and habits of the whale, the numbers available and their prospect of multiplication; also into the conditions of seals and sea lions and other inhabitants of the sea fisheries. One part of the work was the equipment of two ships, one a fast whale-catcher. Last, but by no means least, came the "Discovery" herself. She would, he believed, be the best equipped Arctic research vessel which had ever left the shores of Britain.

DOCTOR MUST PAY FOR SHORT ARM

Dislocated Shoulder of Patient While Treating for Neuritis

Damages of £1,000 and costs were awarded at Winchester Assizes to Percy John Powell, Southsea, against Dr. Lysander Maybury, Hampshire-terrace, Southsea, for negligence. Notice of appeal was given.

The case for Powell was that he was being treated for neuritis, and that while the doctor was trying to break down adhesions he dislocated the right arm. A further operation failed to reduce the dislocation. Powell, who had to go into the Royal Portsmouth Hospital, had lost the free movement and power of the limb, and it was two inches shorter than his left arm.

KITTIWAKE SHOT IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Attached to a letter-wake killed on August 12 last year, by L. Curtis, of Horse Island, in the district of St. Barbe, Newfoundland, was a thin silver band, inscribed "Inform Witherby, High Holborn, London."

Upon writing to Messrs. H. F. and G. Witherby, of High Holborn, it was learned that this ring No. 07,423, was put on a young kittiwake on June 28, 1923, on the Farne Islands, off the coast of Northumberland, by one of Mr. Witherby's correspondents.

GIRL TEACHER WON BALM FROM SAILOR

Father Also Secured Damages for Daughter's Seduction

LUCKY BEANS

Bundle of 200 Love Letters are Produced in Court

A breach of promise case of a girl school teacher in which 200 love letters were produced was heard in the King's Bench Division.

Miss Iris Dorothy Ellis Clare, of Newport Pagnell, Buckinghamshire, brought the action against Sidney Charles Newton Burridge, second officer of the mercantile marine. Burridge was also sued by Miss Clare's father, John Ellis Clare, for damages for seduction.

Judgment was given for Miss Clare for £450 and for her father for £50, with costs.

Mr. S. P. G. Merlin, for Miss Clare, said that the families were close neighbors. In 1919 Mr. Burridge corresponded on affectionate terms with Miss Clare.

"Here," said Mr. Merlin, holding up two bundles, "are 300 letters which were sent. In the first bundle are 200 letters, affectionate and delightful at the time to read. The second bundle relates to the question of alleged seduction."

Mr. Merlin added that Miss Clare and Mr. Burridge were engaged in November, 1920. They exchanged lucky gold beans on which the date of the engagement was engraved.

Mr. Merlin stated that during Miss Clare's vacation in 1923, they met each other nearly every day. They went for outings on the river, and at length Miss Clare resented Mr. Burridge's behavior towards her. Afterwards Miss Clare became distressed about her condition, and when Mr. Burridge returned from his ship he suggested that they should run away. Miss Clare was not willing, and finally they told her parents. A child was born prematurely to Miss Clare in 1924.

AEROPLANE FLIES WITHOUT GUIDANCE

Pilot Read Book in Cabin as Automatics Guided Craft

A three-engined transport aeroplane which flies itself is being experimented with at the London Air Station, Croydon, by Imperial Airways.

It is a Handley Page biplane, driven by one big Rolls-Royce motor in its bow and two smaller motors on the wings, and is fitted with an automatic gyro?control which operates the rudder.

In bad weather it is claimed that the machine would keep a better course than would be possible with human pilotage.

On a recent flight to London, the pilot of a cargo 'plane switched on his automatic control, and then moved back from his cockpit to the cabin behind, sitting there and reading a book, his mechanic merely keeping a lookout and watching the engines, but not in any way touching the controls.

All the time the machine flew itself, keeping strictly to the course which it had been set to follow.

This new automatic "pilot" has been evolved to render commercial flying possible even during the worst kinds of weather.

SOLDIER, M.P., PROVES GOOD BRICKLAYER

Colonel Watts Morgan, M.P., the miners' agent for the Rhondda, has set an example to bricklayers by building a wall 150 yards long and 7 ft. high in ten days. He did the whole of the work himself.

Colonel Watts Morgan was a mining engineer when he joined the ranks in August, 1914, and quickly obtained a commission.

He received the D.S.O. for valuable services he rendered with his "Pick and Shovel" Brigade at Cambrai in November, 1917. He is in his 58th year.

BISHOP PAYS VISIT TO FIRST CATHEDRAL BUILT IN ESSEX

Barn-like Structure Erected by Bishop Cedd, 1,250 Years Ago

MANY USES

Once Used as Lighthouse and as Soldiers' Billet in War

To a wildly desolate spot on the Essex coast, ten miles from the nearest railway station, where the calling of the sea birds, the bleating of sheep, and the coursing of the winds are the only sounds to be heard, there came a pilgrimage headed by the Bishop of Chelmsford.

Motor cars, charabancs, and traps were parked in the fields, and the pilgrims trod the Roman road to a barn-like building standing on a grassy mound within 300 yards of the North Sea. The clergy paused at a thatched shed, opened their suit cases, and put on the robes of the Church of England.

Then they passed through a nail-studded door into the barn-like building, and there—for this primitive place was the first Essex cathedral—offered up praise, remembering with gratitude the builder, Bishop Cedd, who left his cell at Lindisfarne Priory, off the rock-bound Northumbrian coast, to bring Christianity to the heathen Saxons.

COMING OF ST. CEDD.

Long before St. Cedd came to Essex this wild district of Bradwell-on-Sea was an important Roman station.

St. Cedd preached to the East Saxons and made many converts, over whom he came to minister as Bishop. In 663 he built his monastery and cathedral church, and declared Ithancester—the Bradwell-on-Sea of today—his cathedral city.

Today all that remains visible of this cathedral city is the cathedral church of Bishop Cedd.

The "cathedral" is known to antiquaries as St. Peter's Chapel. It has been restored within recent years, is under the care of the Chapter of Chelmsford, and was re-dedicated just five summers ago.

For years it had been used as a barn; during the Great War it was a billet, and the old stones bear marks of fires lighted by the soldiers who were in possession.

Once the "Cathedral" had a belfry, and during the days of Elizabeth and the Stuarts it served as a lighthouse.

Today there is only one cottage within two miles. This houses the woman verger and her husband, and is hard by the "Cathedral" itself.

WEMBLEY FOLK MUST BE FOOLISH

Judge's Comment on Ridiculous Agreement for Exhibition Spaces

At Shoreditch County Court Mrs. Adelaide Samuels, of Snyder road, Stoke Newington, N., sued Wembley Amusements, Limited, Wembley Park, for the return of a deposit of £100 on account of £300 for a consideration which, it was alleged, had failed. There was a counterclaim for £25.

Mr. Hardy, for Mrs. Samuels, said her husband, a showman, contemplated taking a plot of land, 9 ft. by 10 ft., at the Amusements Park at Wembley, for a game of chance called the "Electra." Mr. Samuels became ill, and his wife became the licensee and sent the deposit of £100.

The proposed agreement, which was sent to her had 54 clauses, and Mr Hardy observed: "I have never seen a more oppressive and one-sided agreement, and I am not surprised that she did not sign it." One clause made it incumbent on the licensee to restore the turf of the site, there then being a concrete flooring.

Giving evidence on behalf or Wembley Amusements, Mr. Frank Reginald Lewis, Manager, said that there were 135 persons renting plots in the Amusements Park at the exhibition.

Judge Cluer: "Mostly fools! (Laughter). Because certain people have signed a ridiculous bargain is not evidence that in the present case there was an agreement to sign. Anybody who assents to this agreement must be a fool. One of the conditions, I see, is that you are not allowed to cook or eat, or even go to sleep, on the plots without the permission of the company. (Laughter).

Judgment was given for Mrs. Samuels on both claims.

SENTENCED TO DIE BUT WELCOMED HOME

Gallant Soldier Still Regarded as Hero Among Own Townspeople

Hundreds of people gathered in the streets of Netherfield, near Nottingham, to welcome home Thomas Pole, a former private in the Sherwood Foresters, after his liberation from Maidstone Prison. They shook him by the hand and patted him on the back, while some kissed him.

Seven years ago Pole, who fought in France and Gallipoli and won the D.C.M., was sentenced to death for the murder of his wife's illegitimate child, which was drowned in a washtub.

At the trial the jury added to their verdict a strong recommendation to mercy, and Pole's sentence was afterwards commuted to penal servitude for life.

Charged at Monmouth Assizes with the murder of John Gallivan by hitting him with a poker in a Newport lodging-house, William Lee, 32, laborer, was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to 18 months' hard labor.

ARE CIVIL SERVANTS REGARDED AS NARROW-MINDED PEOPLE?

A young man told Mr. Wilberforce, the Marylebone Magistrate, that he had been 11 years in the Government service and now no one wanted him.

The Magistrate—Why not?

The Man—Because employers look upon Government servants as narrow-minded people.

FAMOUS FEUD OF FLODDEN ENDED

Souters Invite Lord Hume to Participate in Yearly Curse

CRAW HE'RTED MEN

Ceremony Which Has Existed for Over 400 Years

After 412 years there has come to an end a feud, the last of its kind in Scotland, which, particularly in its earlier days by its bitterness left its mark on the history of the Scottish borderland.

On September 9, 1513, on the stricken field of Flodden, the men of the Forest, among whom were the souters, or shoemakers, of Selkirk, were hard pressed and sorely in need of help from the terrible barrage of arrows put down by the English bowmen.

There was only one source that help could come from, and that was the wing of the Scottish army commanded by Lord Home, who, with his men of the Merse, had crumpled up the English flank. But it did not come, for, having done his bit, and probably because his men had looted as much as they could conveniently carry away, Home idly stood by and saw the remainder of the Scottish army cut to pieces.

YEARLY CURSE.

The souters, rather than retreat, died, and the sole survivor who returned from the fatal field, bringing with him a captured English pennant, which is still preserved, did not forget to tell how the men of the Forest were deserted by Home and the "craw he'rted men o' the Merse."

Every year since then the return of that lonely survivor has been commemorated, and a flag is carried to the Mercat Cross and waved or cast three times above the bearer's head. The centuries-old feud is brought to mind by the singing of the Common Riding song with its curse on the Earl of Hume and the men of the Merse:—

It's up wi' the souters o' Selkirk,
And doon wi' the Earl o' Hume.
And up wi' the lads o' the Forest,
And doon wi' the Merse to the de'il.

The present Earl of Hume is not actually of the same line as the Lord Home(or Hume) of evil memory, but he bears the same titles and is Hume, which was enough for the souters. On this occasion, however, he received a special invitation from the townspeople to come and participate in the Common Riding, and this he accepted, taking part in all the ceremonies with as much enthusiasm as any true-born souter who had ever "licked the birse."

VICAR DENOUNCES WIRELESS SERMONS

People Grossly Neglecting Duty Who Don't Go to Church

LAZY HABIT

British Broadcasting Company Declines to Help Reduce Congregations

What he describes as "the lazy habit of wireless" has been strongly denounced by the Rev. A. Cuming, vicar of Addlestone, Surrey, in his parish magazine. "There is no longer the packed church to which we have been accustomed during Lent," asserts the vicar, "and the reason for this is the wireless.

"Anybody who thinks he can worship God by lolling back in an easy arm chair and listening by radio at St. So-and-So's, or the oratorical effects of the 'Bishop of Kamchatka,' is simply living in a fool's paradise. True worship demands sacrifice. People who are too lazy to go upstairs and put their things on and come to the House of God on God's Day, are grossly neglecting their duty.

"We must face the fact that in wireless has been found another powerful recruit added to the phalanx of counter attractions which, in their various ways, continue to keep the people out of the churches."

The British Broadcasting Company, which controls most of the wireless entertainment in the London area, has recently declined to broadcast Sunday sermons, excepting on rare occasions, because of the objections of ministers that their congregations would be materially reduced if the practice was followed generally.

ENDLESS BUCKET CHAIN AT FIRE

A near neighbor of Lloyd George, at Criccieth, suffered the loss of his house by fire, but with the aid of some scores of the inhabitants, who made an endless chain for buckets of water, some of the contents of the house were saved.

The house was that of William Owen, Penbryn Farm, which is separated only by the length of a field from Brynawelon, the home of Lloyd George.

The fire brigade were soon at work, but the hose was too short to reach from the nearest water supply.

Scores of the inhabitants then ranged themselves in a circle and kept going a continuous supply of buckets of water to the fire. After six hours' work they got the fire under control and had saved the furniture.

SOLICITOR WHO ACTED AS "FENCE" IS SENT TO PRISON

Travelled to Canada to Dispose of Bonds Stolen from Mails

BIG HAULS

Sharman Was Devout Churchgoer But Led Double Life

A well-known solicitor, a devout church-goer, and a respected member of the West Ham board of guardians, Charles Crank Sharman, 75 years of age, was convicted at the Old Bailey as one of the principals in a series of great mail-bag robbery plots.

In four huge coups an international gang of six "swell-mobsmen" obtained booty worth £1,500,000.

The crimes were among the most mysterious ever known. Sharman, a man of 75, acted as "fence" to the gang, negotiating the stolen securities on the Continent and in Canada and the United States. He was sentenced to three years' penal servitude.

It was in November, 1921, that the first big mail bag robbery occurred. A bag of registered letters, the contents of which were worth £100,000, mysteriously disappeared in transit on the railway between Liverpool and London.

Sharman was soon diligently at work disposing of the proceeds, and he succeeded in collecting big sums of money without arousing suspicion.

Inspired by his success in disposing of this booty, the gang planned further coups. A second robbery was committed a month later. In this case the mail bag was stolen between Birmingham and London. The contents were worth several hundreds of thousands of pounds.

After this the gang kept quiet until July of the following year, when they stole a mail bag in transit from Bristol to London. This was the most valuable haul they had yet made, but even this was eclipsed by their fourth exploit, when, in an equally mysterious manner, they caused to disappear a registered bag which was on its way from Antwerp to London.

It has been authoritatively stated that the contents of this bag were worth £1,000,000. In one packet alone there were valuables worth £80,000.

These big robberies caused great anxiety to the Post Office Investigation Department and the railway police, but in spite of all their efforts they were unable to solve the riddle of the robberies.

All the time Sharman was at work disposing of the proceeds. For this purpose he travelled to Canada, the United States and France, Belgium and other Continental countries.

To discover how the Post Office inquiries were proceeding he several times went to the investigation department in the assumed role of informer, and said, truthfully enough, that he could supply information about the gang behind the mailbag robberies.

In November of last year the authorities were so seriously perturbed about the failure to track down the thieves and the receiver that all the papers were sent to the Director of Public Prosecutions.

Sir Archibald Bodkin placed the matter in the hands of Scotland Yard who put in charge of the case Chief-inspector Gillan assisted by Inspector Cooper and Detective-sergeant Yandell, of Scotland Yard, and all three officers have been highly commended for their work on the case, which resulted in the unmasking of Sharman and the smashing up of the gang of mail robbers, who formed one of the most formidable criminal combinations in the country.

All six men were well-educated cosmopolitan criminals, who speak several languages and frequent expensive restaurants and hotels.

How they were able to spirit away the careful-guarded mail-bags is still a mystery, but Sharman has said that they had "inside help."

Not only had Sharman posed as an informer, but he had adopted a dangerous expedient to raise money on such securities as he had felt it was unwise to attempt to negotiate.

He had returned certain securities to their owners with a covering letter to explain that he had obtained them from an old man who had picked them up in the street, and whom he had "rewarded for his honesty." Sharman secured the "reward" for himself.

Armed with a description and photograph of Sharman, Inspector Cooper went to Canada and the United States, and was able to have Sharman identified as the man who had disposed of stolen securities in those countries.

On one journey Sharman had used the name of George Montague Martin, and had disposed of War Loan bonds in Montreal, Toronto and Buffalo.

Sharman pleaded not guilty when he was put up for trial at the Old Bailey but when the trial was resumed his counsel, Sir Henry Curtis-Bennett, said Sharman had decided to plead guilty to all the counts except two, which referred to the receiving of £900 Quebec Railway stock.

"This is a most scandalous offence," said Mr. Justice Salter, passing sentence. "Thieving is an unprofitable game unless there are receivers, and I am satisfied that you, an experienced solicitor of the High Court of Justice, have made yourself an associate of a gang of very daring and dangerous mail bag robbers.

"These men robbed the mails, and thereby acquired a mass of valuable securities which were mostly of very little use had it not been for your assistance.

"They required a man of your standing and knowledge of business to dispose of the booty for them. They robbed the mails, and you sold the securities for them all over Europe and America in false names.

"If you had been a younger man I would have sent you to penal servitude for seven years. Having regard to your age and the professional ruin, in which you are involved, I direct that you be sent to penal servitude for three years, and that you pay the costs of the prosecution."

Mr. Justice Salter also said there had been nothing in the case to throw the slightest discredit on any relative or friend of Sharman's.

Sharman lived at Snaresbrook, Essex, in a big house approached by an imposing drive. He began life as a boy in a solicitor's office, and he was admitted a solicitor in 1888. Soon afterwards he bought a practice in Stratford.

CHRISTMAS MAIL SIX MONTHS LATE

Occasion of "Pioneer" Mail Boat Arrival Causes a Gala Day Among Settlers.

FORT SIMPSON, N.W.T., July 17 —Canadian Press.—Residents of this far north post recently had a second "Christmas celebration" when the first mail boat of the season, the "Pioneer," arrived, bearing 42 sacks from the outside. It was the first mail since last fall, and consisted chiefly of Christmas presents and the first newspapers of season. Though six months late, the receipt of the Christmas mail was a gala event for the white settlers of the post.

The "white folks" of the settlement were not the only ones to benefit by the arrival of the "Pioneer." Treaty money, in charge of W. Harris, Indian agent, was brought in—a trunkful of brand new dollar bills. Mr. Harris, accompanied by a Royal Canadian Mounted Police Officer, will visit all the Indian reservations between here and Aklavik.

Traders from their far northern trap lines have been recent visitors here, disposing of their winter's catch Pete McKeown, the last white trapper to reach the post, runs a line 80 miles north of Fort Simpson, and brought in the best catch of pelts received during the season.

Many Indian trappers have disposed of their furs, and as in "Ye Olde" days, do their trading with the Hudson's Bay Company factor. However, once in a while they hold out the odd skin to "swap off" at some other establishment where something has taken their fancy.

FULL BACK FROCKS MARK THE PARIS MODE

New Fall Designs Also Add a Flare to the Skirt Line.

Fashion is noted for swinging from one extreme to the other. The newest advance indications hint that fashion is preparing to do this for Fall. The natural swing of the pendulum from the mode for front fulness is to fulness at the back of the frock.

Since the very early Spring openings we have had frocks for sports and frocks for evening, all with some clever method of imparting skirt fulness across the front of the frock.

The model at the left, of soft blue reps, exploits the newest shade of blue which is between a medium blue and a navy. The dress has a tight foundation skirt. The tunic has a few inset pleats at the front. The back fulness starts from the neckline and flares out as it reaches the lowest part.

The evening gown is of gray georgette with silver fox fur and the fulness is applied at the back. The front is perfectly straight.

The introduction of the new back-flare skirts has aroused a controversy among the leading Paris fashion designers. One faction holds that the back flare is effective only when worn by the tall, slender woman whose hips are cunningly disguised. The other faction maintains that any woman, regardless of height or weight can carry the next lines well.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of eighteen and am in love with a young man. Every time he makes a "date" with me my Dad disapproves.

Please tell me what to do.

BILLY

BILLY: If your father objects to your friendship with this young man it is probably because he has not had the opportunity to know him. To offset this, I suggest that the next time you are invited out you ask your father to accompany you. In the role of chaperone he will be able to judge of the young man's merits and once his confidence is gained your home will be open to all your friends. Try this —and best of luck!

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of The Examiner and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By Lucrezia Bori

A SAFE WAY TO REMOV E SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

A smooth complexion, unmarred by any outward blemish, is the desire of every woman who wants to be beautiful.

Some women seem to possess this gift with no effort on their part. They seem to keep them without even trying.

Such women are naturally envied by their less fortunate sisters who must work for every bit of beauty they are able to impart to their skins.

It is very fortunate for the latter type, however, that effort does bring its reward. Our complexions may not respond to care quite as quickly as our hair, for instance, but effort and sensible care can do much to our skin.

Now, I want to speak of a facial blemish which gives much concern to women who are troubled with it. I mean superfluous hair about the mouth.

On the continent, a soft down on the face is considered more a mark of beauty than otherwise. But in Canada, women dread this same thing, and seem willing to undergo any amount of pain and effort to become rid of it.

Fine hairs about the mouth are not unnatural. Unless you really have very conspicuous ones, which may show more readily because they are dark in color, you need not bother. If you have a few, try peroxide, applied nightly, to lighten the hairs so that they become practically invisible.

If the hairs about your mouth are quite visible, and a source of annoyance, try this treatment, which was recommended to me by a friend who had very good luck with it:

First procure a pair of fine tweezers. You can get these at any drug store, if you do not possess them. I recommend the kind with fine points.

Gently remove the hairs that annoy you. This may be a trifle painful. Cold cream to soften the roots, left on a few minutes before you begin your work, will ease the pain. But you must be sure to remove all traces of cold cream, before you go on with the treatment, which is this:

2-3 spirits to 1-3 household ammonia.

Rub this mixture into your skin, where you have removed the hair. Leave it on about five minutes, then remove. If your skin burns a bit, rub on more cold cream.

The hairs may grow back once after this treatment, but if they do repeat a second time, after they have come on again, they wil gradually disappear entirely and leave your face smooth and lovely.

Travel with those who SMILE, not those who grunt.

PETERBOROUGH FANCIES

COVER THE WISHBONE—EXPOSE THE KNEE

The waistline is slowly, but surely, coming into its own. Banished for several seasons from the place where Nature originally intended it to be, it sagged for a long time midway between what used to be the belt line in the good old Gibson Girl days to a point half way to the knees. The vogue for straight-line frocks, minus any waistline whatever, has started it on its upward course again.

In New York just now, "nipped-in" waistlines, with narrow ribbon girdles, in a sort of princess effect, are being worn, but there are no clear indications as to their popularity for fall wear.

In materials, satins and crepes, especially the flat crepes, promise to be extensively worn, with georgette in vivid shades for evening wear. Black, with colors that are extremely daring to give it relief, will be very good, and much embroidery is being prophesied for winter frocks.

Embroidered backs will be a new note to the fall and cold-weather dresses.

Sleeves will be long, it is predicted and there is an indication of high necks with very short skirts. To cover up the wishbone and expose the knee cap is evidently the wish of the Fall designers, but whether the average lady will follow the mode in this regard or not, remains to be seen. Skirts above the knee or even on a level with it, combined with lone sleeves and high necks would give a somewhat startling, and possibly weird, effect, and there are very few women who will allow themselves to appear ridiculous, even to be stylish.

"Fair Play"

HAL COCHRANS DAILY POEM

Life is the one game we all have to play just as long as we keep on a living. And what we get out of it day after day quite depends on how much we are giving.

Wise men are constantly ready to meet what may come, with the spirit of dare. Also, their play in this game is discreet with the moves that they make always fair.

Things are arranged so we all have our turn. The results are whatever we make 'em. Figure it out—you've had chances to burn, but the quiz is, how oft' do you take 'em?

"Course there's a top that we all want to reach but we never arrive if we're lame. The man who plays fair and then sticks like a leach, is the fellow who wins in the game.

GOOD MANNERS

Although the advantages on man possesseth more than another may be called his property with respect to other men, yet with respect to God they are only a trust.—Swift.

Prudence is principally in reference to actions to be done, and due means order reason and methods of doing or not doing.—Hale.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

"Ladies if you feel like screaming —scream," says Mr. Rupert Hughes, the novelist and student of women.

"Scream your head off—it will do you good."

Thanks awfully, dear Doctor Hughes, for your diagnosis and for your remedy.

You are right this time—in a way.

Only you ought to make it perfectly plain that the screaming must be done when your friends and relatives are where they can't hear you.

It's fun to scream, and there is no relief in the world like a good hard cry, but relatives have a way of remembering and even husbands don't forget as frequently as they might. And that is sometimes awkward.

I have known a cold-hearted mother-in-law to go on the witness stand and swear that her daughter-in-law was crazy because the daughter-in-law "screamed he rhead off"—to use Mr. Hughes' delightful expression. The jury believed the mother-in-law and shut the woman who screamed up in an asylum. She is there yet and her husband is married to a quiet little person who never screamed in her life and never thought anybody or anything but herself and her own best fortune in her life either.

Her husband seems to be quite pleased with her, too. You see he didn't like screaming.

Some husbands don't.

Some husbands prefer good humor and a sense of humor to all the screaming in the world.

Now as for me, if I were a man I don't think I'd take a screamer to go through life with me, but if I had to choose between her and a dull little matter-of-fact practical person who never feels like screaming, or like laughing either for that matter, I'd choose the screamer myself.

A screamer might have her moments of attraction and interest. The other sort is sure to be a bore from beginning to end.

And I'd rather be tormented by a Screamer than bored by a stupid.

And one thing about Mr. Hughes and his doctrine concerning screams, is this. He told it all to us without using the overworked word "Psychology" once, not even once.

And for that relief, I move we give him a rising vote of thanks.

IN THE KITCHEN

By Jeanette Norton

Learning to Buy Wisely and Cook Well

It is every housewife's duty to study the situation and try to buy wisely, keeping the family welfare constantly in mind.

When a fruit salad is served, dessert can be omitted. A good soup lightens the meat course Well-cooked and attractively served fish make an acceptable economy. Eating vegetables and fruits saves meat Egg and cheese dishes form an excellent meat substitute.

A bottle of homemade French dressing in th ice box and a bowl of homemade mayonnaise, both made on a free morning, are time-savers. A can of tomatoes will mean a cream of tomato soup and a dish of baked tomatoes for the emergency meal. A can of asparagus tips means a quick salad. A can of mushrooms means an addition to a cream sauce for a plain hurry-up steak. A can of sardines means an excellent canape for a hurried meal. A couple of cans of evaporated milk or cream are life-savers on occasion. A good gingerbread or white fruit cake keeps well in the cake box and makes a handy, hurried dessert. It is forethought and making the most of things that counts quite as much as money in living wisely and well.

Date Cake Pudding.

Stone and slice a half pound of fresh soft dates. Break two eggs into a mixing bowl and add a half cupful of soft butter, a saltspoonful each of salt and grated nutmeg, a teaspoonful of ginger, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one and a quarter cupfuls of flour. Beat until all is smooth, add a teaspoonful of vanilla flavoring and then stir in the dates. Pour the mixture into a buttered and floured square tin and bake about thirty-five minutes in a medium oven. When done, cut in squares and serve with sweetened whipped cream or any good pudding sauce.

HOME TOWN RECIPE

Nut wafers that make a delicious adjunct to the tea table are made from a recipe of Mrs. W. R. Morris, 483 Homewood avenue:

1 cup light brown sugar.
1 tablespoon melted butter.

Mix together, and add one beaten egg, 1½ tablespoons flour, 1 cup chopped walnuts.

Drop from teaspoon on well buttered tin sheets and bake in fairly hot oven. Let cool slightly before removing from pan.

Let's Talk It Over

Bill is marked for matrimony. The young lady has looked 'em all over, made her choice, and is now manoeuvering to cut Bill out of the herd. Under similar circumstances a man has suffered himself to be roped and branded rather than seek safety in flight, or hurt his would-be captor's feelings by saying he didn't want to be married.

Not so Bill! Bill is dodging the noose and is planning to go right on dodging it.

He says:

"Will you tell me whether or not I am doing the right thing? I have a girl friend about my own age, whom I have known for years. When I came back from the late war with a few small things possibly to my credit, I was a guest at several dinners, and it so happened that I escorted this young lady home from parties on several occasions.

"I did not think anything about it. I had known her for a long time previously, as I had many friends in the same circle. That is, I considered her, and still consider her, a good friend. At Christmas I gave her small remembrances, purely in the spirit of friendship.

"I have been travelling considerably of late; I have written to her, describing my experiences and the country through which I have travelled. She has replied. But though I have never used language that might lead her to believe that I think of her other than as a friend, her letters are so worded that it is obvious she thinks I am her beau.

"I am single, but I would not marry this girl if I had the opportunity. She is not the type of a girl I would select to be my wife, although she is one of the best and sweetest girls I know.

"Do not think me conceited. I am not. I'd hate to lose her as a friend. But I can't seem to find it easy to answer her letters as I can't think of her in any other way than as a friend. It seems to me to be a most delicate subject. Should I stop corresponding, or frankly tell her that I do not understand her letters? I intended doing the latter. BILL."

Well, it's up to you, Bill. If you tell her you don't understand her letters, she may explain 'em and put you in the rather embarrassing position of having to tell her that you can only be a brother to her.

If you want to play safe, the thing to do is to keep away until her ardor cools, as she gets her hooks on another William. You know how it is yourself, Bill. Remember how blue you were when the little Jones girl gave you back your pin? Your life was ruined and then you met that other girl and everything was jake again.

Don't worry about your Gertie. She'll learn to be happy without you. The female heart may be very tender but it is not non-patchable.

Is it right for a wife to save secretly without letting her husband know what she is doing? I think it is if the wife is as loyal and wise as the one who wrote the following. What do you think?

Here's the question:

"My mother died when I was sixteen and I had to leave school and support myself. Not having had any training I had to start at a wage that was next to nothing. I had such a hard pull for a number of years that I learned then the value of saving. By the time I married, saving became a habit with me. My hubby made a good deal of money, but he wouldn't save and he didn't want me to do so. He always found a way to spend. After I had given him most of what I saved before marriage, I told him I had given up my bank book because I was tired of saving. I continued to save in my own name. He knows nothing about it. If anything happens we have a reserve fund. I feel that through deceiving him I have taught him to save, for the day I told him I had given up saving he started a bank account. We have our home almost paid for.

"But I am wondering if he knew about my account if he would think I did the right thing in deceiving him. I don't suppose he would, although I think I did the right thing. STICK-IN THE-MUD."

A Way To Regain Repose

By Lucrezia Bori

There are several extremely restful exercises which are of untold benefit to the woman who should know how to rest.

Rest, as we all know, is necessary to beauty. The woman who allows herself to become rundown and who gives out her energy more quickly than she stores up energy, is the one who begins to look old before her time.

Calmness, and the ease of manner which goes with it, is necessary for the woman who would keep her young unworried appearance throughout life. In order to be calm we must know how to rest.

For instance, I know a woman who guards her looks jealously. Whenever she notices that lines are appearing in her face, or that she is beginning to look tired and hurried, she simply takes two or three days off from her usual activities and retires to her own room. She sleeps as much as she can, she has her meals sent to her, and she applies cold cream vigorously The result is that she comes out from her retirement looking like a n ew person and feeling altogether refreshed.

Now, not all of us can take two or three days off. Th busy housekeeper has not time for this, and neither has the professional woman, who must take up her work each day with out fail. Of course, there are the week-ends, and those of us who need to store up energy should do so at these times.

But for the woman who wants to learn how to relax thoroughly when she has the chance, I am going to give a very simple experiment which I advise her to try. It is also excellent to rid one of that tired aching feeling in the abdomen. This is often simply nerves, and here is an easy way to make yourself feel better. It is particularly good to try when you go to bed at night.

When you have gotten ready for bed, before you lie down to sleep try this:

Kneel on your bed, so that your knees are bent well up under you, and so you can lean forward until your cheek rests on your pillow.

This Unusual Position Will Induce Relaxation.

Let your hands lie loosely at your sides, your elbows bent and your forearms against the bed parallel with your body, so that your arms support some of your weight.

Lie this way ten or fifteen minutes. Let your mind relax as thoroughly as possible, so that you are literally thinking of nothing.

Next without rising up to change, simply shift your position, first letting yourself down easily on your stomach with your legs straight out in the bed, then turning to your side or back, or to whatever is your normal position when resting.

This will have rested you wonderfully, and you should be able to go to sleep without more ado. Sleep you know, means rest and beauty.

Do wild things reason and think the question.

Of course there are great differences in different birds and animals. We were talking yesterday about the wisdom or stupidity of wild ducks.

Here is a good story, and a true story.

Owing to the falling off in wild ducks on the western prairies, a great hunter out there conceived the idea that he would breed ducks and start a system of increasing them.

So our hunter got some wild ducks, both male and female.

He put them in a fenced yard, put leather harness on the wings, and the show was started.

He had been feeding these wild but harnessed ducks, for some time, when he noticed a new wild male among them. This new male was a surprise. He came and joined the place of his own free will, and took complete charge of the whole show, bossing all the others and refusing, at first, to eat until the others had eaten. He flew out and in at will.

Every day, at a certain time, this man's wife came out of the back door with the duck food, and the new boss knew the time so well that he would fly out, wait at the kitchen door, then escort or lead the woman to the duck yard, with great dignity, see the others fed, then eat some with them.

It was so interesting, that the folks decided to fool him and test his brains. The woman came out an hour in advance of the usual time, the next morning, and was at the yard and had the food scattered before the wild boss had a chance to go and escort her. He immediately took the sulks.

He refused to go and meet her again for a week, though she kept to the regular hour. His feelings were hurt and he stayed in the corner by himself. Then, when the food was spread, he refused to let any captive ducks feed until he had enjoyed his share in single dignity. At the end of a week, he forgave the slight and became himself again, going to meet and escort the woman as usual. We don't expect to prove anything, but that bird knew what a slight to his dignity was.

Three-Minute Journeys

By Temple Manning

WHERE A BRIDE DRESSES IN MOURNING WHITE.

Japanese weddings are not usually the result of months of courtship and ardent wooing. They are arranged by "go-betweens" in a thoroughly conventional manner. The families of the bride and the groom have vastly more to say about the matter than the principals in the affair. They are expected to be delighted by whatever fate their parents have seen fit to bestow upon them.

Thus it sometimes happens that the pair who are to be joined in matrimony have never seen each other before the final vows are made. They come to the wedding ceremony, complete strangers to each other. And if, on seeing each other, they are bitterly disappointed they must hide the fact, out of deference to their parents, if on no other grounds.

The life of the younger generation in Japan, is completely subservient in every respect to the older. It is the duty of every young man and young woman to obey without question the dictates of his elders, even when he has reached the age where he might be supposed to act for himself.

Even in her bridal garments, the bride must hide her joy in being married in her regret at leaving her esteemed parents. She wears white as our brides do, but she wears it because in Japan white is the color of mourning. And she is mourning the fact that she is leaving the bosom of her family.

During the wedding-banquet, she changes to more joyous garments to express the sentiments appropriate to the glad event. She even wears, for a time, the scarlet garment that betokens her new state in her husband's family.

The wedding rites are performed before a shrine on which stand the pine, the bamboo and the plum, emblems of long life, pliability and purity. These are surrounded by many offerings of relatives and friends, emblems of good luck and offerings to the ancestors.

The Bride Must Hide Her Joy.

Before this shrine, the bride comes to meet the groom.

Another type of wedding ceremony in Japan is the "san-san kudo" or three-three, nine times Here the bride and the groom, each seated at a little white-wood table, take the pledge and vows of marriage by sipping sake three times from each of three wine-cups. The sake is a sort of rice liquor. It is usually regarded in Japan as the gift of the ancestors.

Child marriages are not longer as common in Japan as they once were, but children are frequently betrothed in early childhood by their ambitious parents.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DAVID MEETS MR. MUSK OX IN THE ZOO.

David stood quite still watching the prisoner behind the Zoo bars. He was about twice as large as a deer. His body was quite heavily built with short, stout legs. His shoulders were so high that they made him look rather humped. His head seemed hung, too low for his body and his face reminded David of a sheep. Quite heavy horns in the center of his forehead, swept down on each side of his head, then turned up in sharp points. The hair on his body was so dark a brown, it almost looked black, and so long, it hung down to the ground. On his sides the hair was straight, but up on his shoulders it was just as curly as could be.

"Well, I hope you'll know me when you see me next time," the animal behind the Zoo fence laughed.

"Excuse me for staring so," said David rather confused to find the animal could talk. "But may I ask what you are called?"

"Certainly, certainly, I'm Billy Musk Ox, at your service," replied the animal. "Sometimes when I'm hunted I give out a musky odor, that's why they call me Musk Ox. Where did I come from?" He asked as David opened his mouth as if to speak. "You see so many little boys stop and look at me every day. I just about know what they are going to ask."

"Well, you guessed it right that time," laughed David. "I was going to ask where you came from. I just love to visit the Zoo and find out all about the animals. Its interesting to me."

"We Generally Travel in Crowds."

"I should think it would be," agreed Mr. Musk Ox. "And I don't mind telling, little boys like you. But if I could get hold of some of the boys who try to poke me with sticks, I'd make them run home in a hurry. Lets see you wanted to know where I came from? Well, from the Far, Far North where its Winter most of the year round."

"No wonder you have such long, heavy fur," laughed David. "I should think you would need it up North."

"Even this long coat wouldn't do me much good," replied Mr. Musk Ox, "if I didn't have another coat of fur under it. You wouldn't believe me, but I'm not any too warm with an under suit on either. It's fine, light brown hair, set so close to my body that no cold whatever can get through it. If it wasn't for that under-suit, I'd freeze to death in the North."

"Have you many enemies up North?" David asked. "I shouldn't think that they would bother you with those horns."

"Don't you fool yourself," replied Mr. Musk Ox. "We generally travel in crowds and when the wolves, our worst enemies, attack us, we just center with our horns toward the enemy and its not very many wolves that will break into our line of sharp horns. Now I must go and get some work done before dinner time, if you'll excuse me," and he turned around and ran off.

David watched him disappear into his house, then he ran on down the line of animals to see if there were any more new ones he hadn't seen.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, JULY 18.

The astral forces for this day point to a rather sudden change in affairs, far-reaching in its influence and bringing benefits if the change does not involve travel or removal. The latter are not under friendly rule, and the disposition may be restless and unsettled. Also there may be a tendency to friction and dispute—which should be avoided if the auspicious sway is to be permitted to govern. This inharmony or irritability may also enter the personal relations, bringing detrimental conditions. Employment is favored.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of beneficial change but they should postpone travel and removal, suppressing restless tendencies. Employment is under a favorable sway. A child born on this day may have a restless and unsettled nature as well as a tendency to irritability. Nevertheless, it should prosper in employment and meet benefits through good friends.

REAL HARD LUCK.

"Just my luck," said the prisoner, as he threw the magazine across his cell in digust. "Nothing but continued stories, and my execution's fixed for next Friday."—Key of the House.

HEART BEATS BY WIRE!

Dr. H. S. Williams, at a medical convention in Atlantic City, made this chart of a patient's heart beats and telegraphed it to Chicago, where Dr. J. R. Greer had it seven minutes later. That night Dr. Greer called him by long distance phone and made a complete diagnosis.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WORRY JEOPARDIZES A PERSON'S EFFICIENCY.

Look over your friends with a critical eye. Note how they appear some given morning.

One will have sparkling eyes, good color and a happy smile.

Another will drag about as if the feet weighed a ton. The face will be so long, the chin appears to rest on the chest.

A third friend seems absent-minded and in a dream.

Too many of the human family suffer from worry. "Worry killed a cat," is the old saying. Worry has killed the usefulness of many a day. It has destroyed the efficiency of many a hard working individual.

It is almost silly to tell anybody not to worry. The causes of fretting are so varied and so difficult to reach that it is no light task to overcome the evil practice.

Worrying lowers the vitality. It clogs the mental wheels. It slows down the brain processes. It lessens the efficiency to a marked degree.

The trouble with most of us is that we are altogether too materialistic in our ideas. We look for gross thigns and entirely overlook the tiny and impalpable factors.

Worry is both a cause and an effect. By this I mean it may produce physical disturbance and likewise it may be the result of poor bodily function of some sort.

Anything which disturbs the digestion, the action of the intestines, the function of the kidneys, the work of the liver, or the activity of the skin, may dam up in the system materials which will act as poisonous, not only to the tissues of the body, but also to the brain. In consequence, the normal function of the mind is interfered with and worry may be the chief symptom of the disturbance.

If there is real cause for worry and the mind broods over some troublesome and distracting thing, there is sure to be an effect on heart, blood vessels and brains. In consequences vitality is lowered and efficiency suffers.

I wish I could eliminate worry from the human mind. If every human being on earth could be freed from the cursed shackles of cruel worry, it would be a different world. There is no doubt that the usefulness of many a mortal would be doubled.

If you are given to worry make it your business to find out why. Is the cause within you, or is it something outside? Is your body functioning as it should? What about teeth, tonsils and the eliminative organs? Are you eating right? Is your sleeping room ventilated? Do you get into the air and sunshine every day?

If it is from the outside what are you doing to counteract its causes? Are you having recreations? Are you reading good books, associating with charming people and taking care of your soul?

Worry is an abnormal, depressing, distractnig, paralyzing emotion. It is unnecessary, and by study of yourself and your surroundings you can find its cause. Then if you have real character you will get rid of it.

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

NOVA SCOTIA HAS CHANGED POLITICS AFTER 43 YEARS; NEW PARTY ENTERS OFFICE

People of the Province Are Descendants of Political Emigres.

SERIOUS BUSINESS

Maritime Province's History Shows Galaxy of Great Men.

BY LEONARD W. FRASER.

Nova Scotia has turned against its Liberal Party for the first time in forty-three years. At the polls in June the Liberal machine was almost annihilated. A Halifax wag once said, "I will change my religion at any time, for any cause, but I'll be darned if I'll change my politics." His feeling was shared by most Nova Scotians. That fact explains why the land has remained content under a Liberal Government for almost half a century and has returned the party to power, election after election, with fairly embarrassing majorities in the Legislature.

This year the people changed their politics, and on Thursday the Conservative party, under Hon. E. N. Rhodes, took office. When the votes were counted it was seen that the mighty had fallen—the Liberals had won only three seats in a House of forty-three members. Buried under the overwhelming collapse of the party was the leader, E. H. Armstrong, beaten in his constituency fof Shelburne. Only once before in the sixty years since Confederation had the Liberals been ousted, and then only for four years.

Two unique things gave the defeat of the Liberals peculiar interest. One was that the party had been in power longer than any other Government in the British Empire had ever held office. The other was that for twenty-six years of that period the Government leadership was held by one man, George H. Murray. No other Prime Minister of any part of the British Empire has held office so long as that. Mr. Murray retired from the leadership in 1922, and three years after that his Government crumbled to the ground.

A Notable Contest.

No more drastic turnover has ever occurred in the political history of the British Empire than occurred in this Province by the sea on June 25. The campaign that preceded the election was more than just a strenuous campaign; it was a desperate fight between a Government long entrenched, using all the powers of patronage and official prestige, and, on the other side, the Conservative Party, long in opposition and making what was thought to be a last stand against perpetual administration by the Liberal Party. Even the casual observer realized that to this great struggle an attentive and serious-minded people were giving heed.

There were no great issues. The Opposition cry was, "It is time for a change." Strangely, it had a tremendous appeal to the masses, and an effect not often seen in a lifetime. The whole Province, to its remotest hamlet, was swept by that cry. Causes of a more practical nature behind the defeat of the Liberals were the industrial and commercial depression, labor unrest, and the exodus of the young people to the larger centres of the United States and Canada. The Government said that these were conditions beyond their control, and the Opposition replied that they were conditions that a progressive administration could remedy.

A Serious People.

Nova Scotians take their politics very gravely. In past generations Liberalism to the Nova Scotian supporters of that party was more than a mere fetich; it was a school of thought involving great principles that regulated the relation of one citizen to another; it was almost a religion. The extent to which this was true amazed the people of the other Provinces. They have laughed at the Nova Scotian lady who, writing to a friend regarding the Canadian general elections of 1917, in which the Liberal Party under Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the Opposition, said, "We pray that in the good will of Providence Sir Wilfrid will be returned to power and righteousness once again prevail over the land."

Behind the long tenure of office of the Liberal Party in Nova Scotia there is, first, the racial characteristics of the people; and, second, the historical background of this little Province. It would almost seem that the hand of destiny had reached out and selected from France, from the British Isles and from New England specially marked men and women to produce the "Bluenose" type. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, speaking in the House of Commons on one occasion, said, "Not since the days of Athens has a country with so small a population given to the world such a brilliant galaxy of men and women as the Province of Nova Scotia." Undoubtedly one of the reasons for this high quality in them was that they took their politics seriously.

They came of people whose lives were profoundly influenced by great political and social upheavals. The Eastern shores were settled by Scotch Highlanders.

The settlers of the Southern and Western counties came from the crucible of the American Revolution. They were schooled in the thought of the town meeting, which had been the political conception of Massachusetts from the days of her beginning, or they were gentry of Virginia, born to rule. From men and women such as these sprang the movement for responsible government in the world, and in that movement the Liberal Party of Nova Scotia had its birth.

How the Liberals Rose.

The Liberals took the stand as reformers; the Conservatives as the supporters of the reactionary school. But a closer view of the political history of Nova Scotia than this article can give will show that the Liberal Party was a party of reforms, while the Conservative Party was a party of construction, particularly in the confederation movement and the legislation for free schools.

The confederation of the Provinces of Canada into one Dominion, while inspired largely by the Liberal leader of Nova Scotia, Joseph Howe, was later bitterly opposed by the same leader and his party. The opposition arose not as an objection to the principles of union, but as a protest against the terms upon which Nova Scotia was asked to enter confederation. At that time this Province, with little more than 400,000 people, owned and controlled one-fifth of the entire shipping of the world. Her house flags were on every ocean lane. They flew in every port. With confederation the regulation of shipping went to the Federal Government, and under the protective tariff Nova Scotians were no longer free traders. It was to these things that the Liberal Party was opposed. Nova Scotia's Liberals adopted free trade as a principle. Her Tories adopted protection.

The Liberals, opposing as they did the terms of confederation, were more firmly established in the favor of the people of the Province by their subsequent revolt against the pact of union. This revolt flamed up again in 1886, and an election was run on the cry of "Repeal." W. S. Fielding, at the head of the Liberal Party, won the victory. Other causes helped Nova Scotia to remain Liberal, among them the personalities of three men: Howe, the tribune of the people during the fight for responsible government and against the confederation terms; Fielding, first a journalist, who was called to the Federal arena after having been Premier of Nova Scotia for twelve years; and George H. Murray, to whose political sagacity may be attributed some credit for this extraordinary tenure of power.

A Great Leader.

The names of Howe, Fielding and Murray are part of the history of the Liberal Party in Nova Scotia. Howe's voice is still heard, although he passed from the stage nearly fifty years ago. To Nova Scotians he was the founder of the party. To him Liberalism meant what it meant to Gladstone: "Absolute confidence in the ultimate good judgment of the people." Howe founded the school in the days when great issues divided the people. Fielding carried on the school in years of few issues divided, when the questions of government became more or less restricted to maintaining the public services and balancing the budget. Mr. Fielding's skill soon attracted the attention of the national leaders, and his Nova Scotian record was the forecast of what he was to accomplish as Finance Minister of Canada.

Following Mr. Fielding came George H. Murray. For twenty-six years Mr. Murray was Premier of this Province and the people were content to leave "the old Pilot" at the wheel. The Liberals were not slow to take up that slogan. At election time one of the greatest cards the Government played was "Let the Old Chief finish his work." A criticism often aimed at him was that he was too cautious to be progressive. Whether history will recognize him as a statesman or as a politician time alone will tell. Had he remained as leader his party might not have suffered so bad a defeat last month. In his many years in power he proved himself to be shrewd and diplomatic. He never went to the people on an election without having some actual or imaginery constructive plant in his program.

His opponents pointed to the great public "machine" which the Liberal Government maintained, employing thousands of persons. There was also talk of large party funds working ceaselessly for the maintenance of the Government. The fact remains that the central support which kept the Government in power was Murray himself. When he retired no effort of the party could stem the tide of disaster.

If the record of the Government so long in the confidence of the people is impartially searched it will be found to have passed much good, if not progressive, legislation. Nova Scotia was the first of the Provinces of Canada to adopt workmen's compensation. Nova Scotia led the other Provinces in establishing technical education under the control and support of the Government, and Nova Scotia's road policy is one of the brightest gems in its crown.

At the opening of the present year the economic and industrial situation was bad, and there was great labor unrest in the coal fields. Thousands of the young men and women of the Province had left for the United States or Canada, and those remaining in the country were alarmed at the continued depression. The Government said that those conditions were world-wide and that Nova Scotia enjoyed a relatively good position. In reply the opposition said that a progressive administration could have done much to remedy things. Several irregularities in governmental departments aroused the people, and the opposition forces were reorganized. It was clearly seen, months before the election, that one of the fiercest political contests in the history of Canada was about to be waged.

The party press on both sides flooded the country with literature. In many constituencies the old custom of joint meetings was resorted to and the candidates of both parties held debates. From the Conservatives came the cry, "Break the machine!" and the slogan, "It's time for a change!" The Liberals answered with, "Forty-three years in public service; retain the safe and sane Government!"

But the tide had turned and the people at last had changed their politics. No longer was the personality of the "Old Chief" at hand. The decision dazed the whole Province. Was it possible that the Liberal regime was ended? It seemed almost unbelievable that only three of the old power would return to the halls of the Parliament building. What had happened? Many explanations have been given. One is that long tenure of office, faced with little or no opposition, had made the Administration too sure of its power, too confident of its hold on the people.

The Liberals of Nova Scotia are today faced with the problem of reconstructing their party. Willing hands will reach out to perform that task, for the principles of liberalism are not dead. The first great issue that arises to divide the people will find the Liberal Party rejuvenated for the fight.

TWO MEN GUARD LONELY OUTPOST

Representatives for Government in Departments Many and Varied.

SASKATOON, Sask., July 16 (Canadian Press) — Up almost on the northern border of Saskatchewan, in a district where nearly everyone is a trapper and consequently always on the move, two members of the Fond du Lac detachment of the Saskatchewan Provincial police enforce the law and see that order is kept in a territory comprising hundreds of square miles.

Constables M. Chappuis and A. Nicholson are the two in charge of this lonely outpost, and back of their report recently received at headquarters, stating that no serious crimes were committed in the district last year, lies a story of real heroism and devotion to duty.

The men are constantly on patrol, winter and summer. They have to be, to keep in touch with all sections of the territory in which there are no telephones or other modern means of communication. With headquarters, a four-roomed log cabin on the northern shores of Lake Athabasca, only forty miles from Saskatchewan's most northerly limit, the constables use the lake and the numerous rivers running into it as their chief mode of transportation in the summer time. In the winter travel is done by dog sled and snowshoes. Sometimes the thermometer registers as low as 62 degrees below zero, but these hardy officers, are out on the trail just the same if the need arises. Last year they covered 3,158 miles by trail, and 1,406 miles by water.

These two policemen are the real representatives of the government federal and provincial. As an aid to the department of the interior they take applications from new settlers for timber permits. For the forestry branch they enforce the Prairie and Forest Fires act, and perform the duties of fire rangers. Game laws are enforced, licenses issued, royalties on furs, collected. For the vital statistics branch, all births, marriages and deaths are recorded.

During the winter of 1923-24, royalties on furs collected at Fond du Lac, amounted to $3,557, and the value of furs shipped out of the district amounted to $108,834.

Fish abounds in Lake Athabasca and in the fall some 125,000 mostly whitefish are caught in nets. In the winter another large catch is usually made. The fish to a great extent is used for feeding the trappers' dogs during the grind on the winter trails. For the twelve police dogs alone 4,000 fish are required during the winter months.

PIONEER'S THOUGHT SAVES THE BUFFALO

With Nucleus of Five Animals Man Builds Up Great and Valuable Herd.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, July 16. — Canadian Press. — Had it not been for the foresight and sagacity of C. V. Alloway, Winnipeg pioneer of the early 70's, the Canadian prairie buffalo would have been as extinct to-day as the dinossaur of prehistoric times.

As it is, there are now three distinct herds totalling 8000 animals, one at Wainwright Park, Alberta, another in process of transfer to Fort Smith, N.W.T., and a third at Banff, National Park. Their lineal grandparents were presented by the late Lord Strathcona, and James J. Hill, founder of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railways.

Mr. Alloway relates how he came to be instrumental in saving the remnant of the myriad host of buffalo that roamed the far flung prairie.

"It was away back in 1873," Mr. Alloway said, "that I conceived the idea that the day might dawn when the vast supply of buffalo herds would be depleted. I had bought as many as 21,000 buffalo hides from a group of Indians. It didn't take any high mathematics to realize that this rate of extirmation uld not go on forever, especially when the force of hunters was steadily increasing.

With a nucleus of five animals Mr. Alloway raised a large herd and with hundreds of the buffalo being shipped across the border annually, the federal government bought the entire herd, numbering approximately 400, whose progenitors had been the five calves. The government paid $350,000 for the herd.

The present movement of buffaloes from Wainwright Park, Mr. Alloway declares, indicates how the animals will increase under natural conditions of peace and contentment. "I am convinced that the immense bush buffalo in the Fort Smith country are descendants from some remnants of herds driven by the hunters and wolves into the interior during a season when the water was low enough to be forded," Mr. Alloway declared. The change of environment would account for their large size and different shaped horns.

SCENES AT ST. DAVID'S WHERE BANK MANAGER'S WIFE FATALLY SHOT ARMED BURGLAR

HEROIC COUPLE FOUND CALL ANT ALLIES IN NEXT DOOR NE IGHBORS—DEAD BANDIT LEFT WIDOW AND THREE CHILDREN

Above is seen the branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada at St. David's — in Lincoln County, between St. Catharines and Niagara Falls — which Matthew Kolidee, a Hamilton Ukrainian, attempted to rob on Wednesday morning and where Kolidee was fatally shot by the manager's wife, while the banker himself received a bullet wound in the finger from the robber's .38 calibre Colt and was beaten over the head with the butt of his assailant's revolver. In the rectangle UPPER LEFT, is seen the man who attempted to rob the bank and the family who are left destitute as the result of his rash act. From LEFT to RIGHT they are Willie, aged 9; Nickie, aged 4; Mrs. Annie Kolidee, wife of the slain man; Mary, aged 7, and Matthew ('Danny') Kolidee. In the CENTRE OVAL are William Ross Rodger, the heroic bank manager, and his equally heroic wife, together with their four-year-old daughter, Mary. Mrs. Rodger was formerly Miss Lillian Muterer, youngest daughter of a well-known family who live in North Oxford, near Ingersoll. On the RIGHT, little Mary Rodger is again seen in company with her two-year-old sister Gwendolyne, and with Mrs. Archibald Woodruff, who lives next door to the Rodger family and who is shown holding the pump-gun with which she was prepared to riddle the bank robber if she could get a clear shot at him. Mrs. Woodruff, wife of the Reeve of St. David's, who also helped in capturing the robber, is not only familiar with the use of shot-guns, but is a good marksswoman. On one previous occasion she routed a robber who had broken into the Woodruff store, pursued his auto into Niagara Falls and was instrumental in sending him down to the penitentiary at Kingston. Also shown is a view of the back of the Imperial Bank branch. The balcony seen is that on which Rodger and Kolidee staged the most desperate part of their fight. The robber once lifted the bank manager completely off his feet and vainly attempted to hurl him over the railing to the ground, about twenty-five feet below. The arrow indicates the door through which Mrs. Rodger fired the bullet which ended the battle and probably saved the life of her wounded husband. The burglar had gained access to the manager's apartment above the bank by ascending the stairway which leads up to this second storey balcony at the back of the bank and by 'jimmying' open the door indicated by the arrow. The other view of the bank, showing its frontage on the street, also reveals the location of the closed-in sleeping-porch at the right in which were Rodger, his wife and two children, when they were awakened by a pet kitten jumping up and by its presence warning them that someone must have gained entrance to the apartment. The two pictures in the circles are of Mr. Rodger as he appeared while in training in the Royal Air Force during the war and of Mrs. Rodger, the latter photograph having been taken shortly after her marriage.

DEPUTY SPEAKER DESCRIBES WORK

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Tells of Measures Which Concern Parliament.

Kiwanis met to-day for the regular luncheon, with Charlie Cook in the chair. After Jack Chadwick had been fined for collecting prizes at the Rotary Carnival, the guests of the day were introduced; these were Owen Fortune of Trenton, R. E. Harrison of Lamonte, Alberta, and Peter Westbye, of the William Hamilton Co.

Charles Elliott, booster for the day, gave a record of the advance made by the Durant Motor Company since its inception three years ago.

The prizes were secured by Lloyd Hamilton, Isaac McNabb and Joseph John.

Charles Cook, in introducing the speaker, proclaimed him as one who had seldom visited the city and who might never do so again should his remarks prove unfavorable.

Parliamentary Objectives.

In response, G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, arose and, in the course of his address, gave an interesting outline of the objectives which Parliament carries out for the various communities.

The speaker cited a number of cases with which the House dealt, and by their variety and present-day application, showed how affairs of considerable magnitude were administered.

The Toronto Viaduct, a vexing problem for many years, is at last under way, and will make a wonderful change in the railway facilities of that city. Mr. Gordon said that forty minutes should be lopped off the time taken in coming from Toronto to Peterboro, a saving which will be brought about by the miles of new overhead trackage to be constructed.

The Dominion Government could not deal efficiently with certain questions, an instance of which was the Bethlehem Steel question of Nova Scotia which was of interest to the province resulting in a loss of millions to the miners.

Due to a recent discovery of new methods of coking, large plants will likely be established to manufacture the new fuel which may result in an absolute freedom from dependence on Pennsylvania for coal supply.

The Canteen Fund Bill was dealt with, by which certain amounts would be distributed among veterans of the war.

Mr. Gordon also mentioned the Drug Act, depicting the evils resulting from the use of habit forming narcotics and outlining the measures which Canada in co-operation with the United States is instituting in order to counteract the traffic.

The Pension Act was dealt with, the speaker recalling that twenty years ago people of indigent circumstances were sent to jail as vagrants. Now a scheme has been devised whereby each province sets aside a certain sum for the support of the aged and the Dominion Government places with it a similar amount. This provision was made because of the comparative absence of dependents in Western Provinces and Quebec.

A very important issue was that concerning the immigration problem. Mr. Gordon advocates the exclusion of mid-European Reds and Bolsheviks, holding that Canada should be reserved for the Nordic races, who had ambition necessary to carry them to success.

A vote of thanks was tendered the speakers, after which Kiwanians adjourned on singing the Canadian Anthem.

BISLEY CAMP, July 17 (Canadian Press)—Lieut.. Alex Martin of Calgary, made a possible at 300 yards range in the second stage of the King's prize today, four other marksmen also accomplished this. None of the Canadians made a possible at the 600 yard stage, the wind being variable and the light doubtful. In two ranges today in King's prize Lieut. A. J. Harvay, of Timmins, Ont., made the top score among Canadians, securing 96 out of 100. The third and final stage of the King's prize will be shot tomorrow.

TRADES COUNCIL.

Routine Business Discharged at Regular Meeting—Fair Wage Clause.

The Trades and Labor Council held their regular meeting on Wednesday evening in the Labor Hall, George Street, Bro. Hewitt taking the President's chair, owing to the absence of President McMurray. There was a fair attendance of delegates and general business was dealt with. A communication from the Postmaster, answering one from this body, in regard to civil servants holding other regular situations. was received and discussed. The matter had righted itself since the original complaint was received, but it was decided to comply with the Postmaster's request.

A letter was received from the office of the Minister of Labor stating that the Fair Wage Clause is being embodied in the contract which is shortly to be let for the new dam to be built on the Trent Canal between Lakefield and Peterborough. A number of other matters were discussed and the meeting adjourned, to meet again on Wednesday, August 6.

HE'S CRITICIZED.

Dr. Herbert Bruce, Toronto, whose report on the Canadian army medical service during the war is denounced in Canada's official history of the war, written by Sir Andrew McPhail, of McGill University. The history says Dr. Bruce was handicapped because he had never seen a stricken field, that men in the service in France declared they would rather carry an honorable bayonet than submit to his authority, and that the latter part of Dr. Bruce's career was that of "an officer with a grievance of his own."

A LINE-O-TYPE.

Citizens of Peterborough are to be given another opportunity on Sunday to show their remembrance of the men of Canadian forces who fell overseas, and especially of the men from Peterborough who made the supreme sacrifice. This is not only a soldiers' tribute, but is a service to be joined in by all citizens as a privilege.

Another Chance

Last week's parade to St. Peter's cemetery was a splendid reponse to the invitation, and the annual decoration day there is becoming a noteworthy occasion. On Sunday, July 19, there will be a similar parade to Little Lake cemetery, and because of the comparative nearness of this burying ground there should be a correspondingly greater attendance.

In another column there is extended a welcome from the officers in charge to citizens to deposit their bouquets at the Cenotaph at any time before the parade is called. This step is taken in deference to the dislike of some for public expressions of what they feel is a sacred memory.

This annual decoration parade is something that should be supported for its beautiful thought, its kindly look backward to the nearly 500 men who went from Peterborough and did not return, and its inspiration for the future.

EVERY OCEAN GREYHOUND HAS ITS CAT; SEAGOING FELINES VALUABLE ECONOMY

One Transatlantic Liner Carries a Crew of Twenty-five —Prevent Damage to Cargoes—A Famous Jet-Black Pair.

There are hundreds of cats that never prowl about delightful alleys or serenade the moon from back fences. These are the seagoing felines whose nine lives are spent aboard ship. Some are born on the rolling wave, and most of them are frightened at finding themselves on solid earth.

Almost every battered old ocean tramp has a cat and a dog, and many steamship companies devote a fixed sum annually to the care of cat-sailors for cats enter largely into marine economy. Without cats a great deal of valuable cargo would be damaged by rats and mice, and the companies would have to stand the loss.

One transatlantic liner carries a crew of twenty-five toms and tabbies, kept down to the alotted number by drowning the superfluous kittens. These aristocratic steamship cats are not expected to live on rats and mice. They are merely expected to kill them, and most of them will not eat the rodents they slay. The butcher feeds the cats on an ocean liner twice a day, and sea cats are sleek and contented.

One liner plying between New York and Liverpool has but two cats, Claude and Lily, both jet black and the pets of one of the officers. At 8 o'clock every evening the officer gives a peculiarly piercing whistle and both cats, waiting within earshot for the eagerly expected signal, come bounding to his feet for the fresh liver and dish of milk they share amicably together.

When bad weather keeps the officer on the bridge past the usual hour Claude goes up to look for him while Lily remains meekly below, Claude exercises a tender and chivalrous care over the smaller and weaker Lily, and if a careless foot treads on her tail he will come running to the rescue, bristling with anger and excitement and ready to bite and claw the offender.

Two grey cats on another liner used to bring every rat they caught to the butcher, who rewarded them with a strip of liver and a pan of milk. Once this industrious pair brought the butcher fourteen rats in one day.

THE LATE REV. E. F. TORRANCE, M.A., D.D.

An Appreciation by Rev. D. A. Thomson.

In the passing of the Rev. Dr. Torrance, a prince among preachers has passed away—a man of God has gone home.

It was surely a most befitting tribute to the close of a long and useful life, that his body should lie in state, and be taken to his last resting place from the sanctuary where his soul-stirring appeals in the gospel message were so long and faithfully proclaimed. The sympathetic congregation which met in St. Paul's last Wednesday to pay the last tribute of respect showed he was not forgotten. How could they forget the man who gave the best part of his life and labors for their good?

Dr. Torrance was a man who was reared in a spiritual atmosphere, and at an early age decided to give himself to the ministry of the word.

After a brilliant College career he was called to undertake the pastorate of St. Paul's, Peterboro, and was ordained and inducted to that charge on the 28th day of June, 1875, at the age of 25.

Principal Cavan, of Knox College, Toronto, his life long friend, introduced him to his people on the Sabbath following. Then he began his ministry, which terminated in 1907, after 31 years of faithful and untiring service. He ever sought to magnify his office; and was ever conscious of the responsibility laid upon him. As a preacher he was thoroughly evangelical, and possessed a fine voice and distinct delivery. As a pastor he was seen and heard to advantage in the sick room. His hold of the Scriptures enabled him to select a fitting portion for the sick and suffering; and his prayers bore the weak ones to the great Source of Strength. Many blessed him for his timely words. As a man he was held in high esteem. His brethren in the ministry showed their appreciation of his sterling qualities when they elected him as Moderator of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston; and the authorities of Knox college manifested their appreciation of his worth when in 1894 they conferred upon him their highest degree and made him a Doctor of Divinity.

He was kind and generous to all, and gave freely of his means to any good cause which appealed to him. His home was ever open, and the hospitality of the good doctor and his wife was proverbial.

His good wife survives him, also one son and two daughters, to whom the sympathy of the entire community is extended, for he still holds a large place in the hearts of Peterboro and its Presbytery.

I close with one of Dr. Torrance's favorite quotations from Tennyson—

"I hold it true whate'er befall;
I feel it when I sorrow most;
'Tis better to have loved and lost,
Than never to have loved at all."

PLAYERS INJURED IN MARMORA GAME

Eldorado Team Beaten by 8 to 5 in Five Innings.

MARMORA, July 16. — It is some seasons now since a Marmora team lined up on the home diamond to battle against rivals for baseball honors. Naturally, a good crowd was on hand on Wednesday evening to fan the locals against the Eldorado team.

Caldwell opened the pitching for Marmora and Eldorado were held scoreless in the first frame. Broad pitched for Eldorado. Marmora obtained two runs in the first innings, featured by a three-base hit by Sweet. Eldorado in their second venture started the aggressive, registering three runs. Marmora failed to score in their half.

In the third innings, Jack Brady relieved Caldwell at pitching. Eldorado increased their score by two runs. The second half of the third innings was marked by an unfortunate mishap. H. Fox and J. Henderson in fielding a ball collided, both being laid out for several minutes, delaying the game, so that it became imperative to close it at the fifth innings. Fox was able to resume play, but Henderson's place had to be resumed by Swayne. In this innings, Marmora advanced their score by one run. Eldorado emerged from the fourth innings without score. Through poor fielding by Eldorado the homesters were enabled to pile on five runs. The lead thus obtained was not reduced by Eldorado, when at the close of their fifth innings the game was called.

The umpires were Ray Murray on plate; Louis Shannon on bases.

TWO GOOD SOCCER GAMES SATURDAY

The league leaders, Canadian Woollens, meet the Thistle in a Senior League game on Saturday afternoon, Nicholls Oval, at three o'clock. Referee, Alex McKinley.

So far, this season, the league top-notchers have always come out on top against their opponents. There has been only one match in which the "Jags" have been able to trot out a full eleven owing to departures for other quarters while the "Woolly" boys have always been more fortunate with a good amount of reserves to fall back upon, in spite of the fact that Woollens players relegated themselves to the junior ranks so as to be able to participate in the game; also giving some of the junior stars a chance in their league game. If both teams are able to field full elevens tomorrow afternoon, no doubt, it will be a good one to witness.

The C.P.C. Juniors travel to Warsaw on Saturday to meet the township boys in a league game. Cars leave the plant at 2 p.m. prompt. All players and supporters be on time.

A battle royal will take place on Saturday afternoon down on King Edward Park between the Masseys and Dummer in a league game. Kick off at three o'clock.

Previous to the foregoing tussel the juveniles will face each other in a league game—Young Vets and Canadian Woollen juveniles. Kick off at 1.45 prompt.

Canadian Woollens Team to play Thistle on Nicholls Oval, July 18th, in Senior Soccer League:

R. Hillman, goal; J. Cridland, J. Chambers, backs; A. Reid, H. Mann, A. Sayers, half backs; G. Clark, C. Griffin, A. Mitchell, G. Blowers, A. Burgess, forwards. Please be at the Oval boys at 2.45 prompt.

Masseys vs Dummer, Saturday, July 18. Kick off at 3 o'clock. The Masseys team will be picked from the following: Wag Hotson, J. Mayette, Roberts, Batley, Marsden, R. Walker, H. Walker, McDonald, Young, O. Halloran, E. Williams, Hodson, Underwood, Dorsett. Pleyers kindly be on hand for 2.30.

ADA PEEVED BY DELORO ERRORS

Smelters Lost at Point Anne by 9-6—Sixteen Errors Spoiled Game.

MARMORA, July 16 — Though good weather prevailed the game between Deloro and Point Anne at the latter place on Tuesday was not of the standard one might have expected, neither team approaching first class form. Deloro outhit Point Anne but had nine costly errors. Point Anne showed some fast fielding but had seven errors.

Gaulin started to pitch for Point Anne but had to be relieved in the 6th by Bennett. Leal started twirling for the visitors but was replaced by Ada after a couple of hits and a few errors had placed him in a hole. Ada pitched good ball until the 7th when a batter travelled all bases on three errors and Ada started for home plate. Manager Regan benched him, putting in Shea, who held the homesters for the remainder of the game, allowing no hits or runs.

Deloro made a good start, the first two men walking and later scoring on two errors. In the third innings, they had bases full with one out but Regan hit into a double play. In the sixth, three singles and two errors netted them three runs and three hits in the seventh gave them an additional run. Ada hit a two bagger in the fourth, making the seventh consecutive game in which he has hit safely.

Point Anne scored in the first when an error and two singles gave them one run. In the second innings four hits and two errors furnished them five runs. Their next score came in the fifth when a double and two errors gave them one run. In the seventh a single and three errors brought their score to 9. Thus they finally won by 9 to 6. Umpires Collins and Woodley of Belleville handled the game to the satisfaction of both teams.

CANADIAN TEAM BEST AT BISLEY IN MANY YEARS

Has Duplicated Achievement of 1900 by Winning Kolapori and McKinnon Cups.

IS YOUNG TEAM

Canada Has Won Kolapori Cup Ten Times Since 1872.

OTTAWA, July 17. — (Canadian Press).—The Canadian team is doing remarkable work at Bisley this year, was the comment of Col. R. J. Birdwhistle, secretary of the Dominion Rifle Association, when the win of the McKinnon Cup by the Canadians was announced yesterday after noon. "As a team it is the best Canada has sent in 16 years, for in 1909 the Canadian marksmen won both the Kolapore and the McKinnon."

Col. Birdwhistle points out that it has always been the aim of the D.R.A. to concentrate on the team competitions rather than the individual awards, and that the winning of the two team competitions by Canada is therefore most gratifying.

Not only as a unit, but individually as well, the Canadian team is standing up, the D.R.A. secretary points out. There have been practically no serious breaks so far, despite the fact that the team is a young one, with over 50 per cent. of its members at Bisley for the first time.

Canada has each year made a special effort to capture the Kolapore Cup. Since 1872, when the cup was first donated, Canada has won it ten times. The Kolapore is the big event for short distance team shooting, and the McKinnon is the long range team prize.

Obeyed Instructions.

BISLEY CAMP, July 17.—Major-General Sir Alexander Bertram, on learning of the Kolapore victory, cabled the Canadian team: "Congratulations. McKinnon next." Col. Street last night cabled back to Sir Alexander: "Won McKinnon as instructed."

In the Prince of Wales' competition, 10 shots each at 300 and 600 yards, Corporal Fereday, Rhodesia; Pte. Northcote, of the Manchesters, and Sergt. Smith of Guernsey are tied for the leading places. Pte. J. H. Gray, Toronto, was 20th; Pte. W. J. Irvine, Ottawa, 21st; Lieut. A. Martin, Calgary, 22nd, and Lieut. D. Burke, Ottawa, 28th. They win 40 shillings each.

In the first stage of the St. George's competition, which is open only to past and present members of His Majesty's forces, and is seven shots at 300 yards, possible 70, the Canadians shot as follows: Sergt. G. H. Tyers, Ottawa, and Capt. G. F. Andrews, Winnipeg, 74; Lieut. Burke, Ottawa, and Sergt. A. E. B. Wilson, Ottawa, 73; Sergt. H. Ashling, Toronto; Pte. J. H. Gray, Toronto; Pte. Irvine, Ottawa, and Sergt.-Major R. Kiddie, Toronto, 71; Major Gibson, Hamilton; Capt. Hunt, Winnipeg, and General Duff Stuart, Vancouver, 70; Major Crowe, Guelph; Sergt. G. M. Elmslie, Toronto; Capt. G. H. Galbraith, London; Lieut. Harvey, Timmins; Sergt. F. H. Radford, Toronto, and Lieut. Martin, Calgary, 69; Lieut. H. E. Rowlands, Hamilton, 68; Corp. G. Breece, Guelph, 67; Sergt. H. Beaumont, Victoria, 64; Sergt. Ashling, Pte. Gray, Pte. Irvine and Sergt.-Major Kiddie, with 47 others, will shoot off for 27 places in the second stage of the St. George's.

Mackinnon Cup.

Canada led slightly right through the shoot for the Mackinnon Challenge Cup, and although the English and Scottish teams included some of the best shots at Bisley, there was little doubt where victory would lie when the shooting at the longer range began. The steady shooting of Sergt. G. M. Elmslie, Toronto, which has been a feature throughout the present Bisley meet-infi again yesterday helped the Canadian team to victory, and Canada added the Mackinnon Cup to the Kolapore Cup among its Bisley trophies for 1925.

Canada in winning the Mackinnon Challenge Cup made an aggregate of 10 points above the score made by the winner last year, South Africa. Canada has now won the Mackinnon Cup five times. The last previous win was in 1911, which marked Canada's third successive victory in the Mackinnon Cup competition.

Nothing has been heard yet as to the actual whereabouts of the Kolapore Cup and the Mackinnon Cup which are supposed to be on their way from South Africa. Naturally the Canadians are hoping that these two important trophies will arrive in time to be taken to Canada by the victorious 1925 team.

The Mackinnon Challenge Cup competition is open to teams of 12 men, the distances being 900 and 1,000 yards, 10 shots and one sighting shot per man at each distance. The cup was given in 1891 by the late Colonel Mackinnon. The captain and adjutant and each member of the victorious team receives a special commemorative souvenir from the National Rifle Association.

Following are the scores made by the various teams in the Mackinnon Cup competition:

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

There will be a battle royal at Oshawa tomorrow when the Petes tie into Duke Dainty and his gang in a game that will send the loser down into second place. The Duke himself, after a ten days' rest, will be on the firing line for Oshawa, while the Peterboro selection has not been announced. Both teams need the game, and the tussle should be one of the most exciting of the season.

• • • • • • • • •

Cairns, the Kingston southpaw, has lost but one game in eight starts, the Petes being the only team to beat the Pony left-hander.

• • • • • • • • •

Tomorrow's lacrosse-baseball double-header at Riverside Park should provide a very attractive afternoon for sport fans. The Peterboro lacrosse team with Bailey, Ranger, Dundas and other stars in line has been practising faithfully, and the homesters are confident of taking a fall out of the Campbellford-Hastings combination.. The latter will be accompanied by a goodly crowd of rooters, and the exhibition of Canada's national game should be full of excitement. The juvenile ball game, too, which preceeds the lacrosse fixture, will be a snappy tussle, and altogether there should be plenty across the river tomorrow to entertain the crowd.

• • • • • • • • •

The Kingston ball park is being fitted with new dugouts, and judging by their size the City Council, which controls the grounds, must think a ball club consists of nine players of wafer-like thinness.

• • • • • • • • •

Peterboro fans will have two "homes" to entertain them next week, Oshawa playing here on Wednesday and Belleville on Saturday, the Trunks paying their last visit of the season to Peterboro on that occasion.

HE'S A MAKE R OF CHAMPS BUT "DUB" AS PLAYER

"Pop" Fuller of the Berkeley Tennis Club Has Brought Out Long List of Tennis Celebrities.

By P. J. SINNOTT.

BERKELEY, Calif., July 17. — "Pop" Fuller is a maker of tennis stars. But as a player he's a "dub."

He has developed a long string of racquet luminaries, headed by Helen Wills, national and Olympic women's singles champion; Helen Jacobs, national junior champion, and Cranston Holman, national playground champ, and picked to win the national junior this season.

But when it comes to playing tennis himself—

"I'm a 'dub' player, and I know it," says 'Pop,' otherwise W. C. Fuller of the Berkeley Tennis Club.

"I never play any of the youngsters I coach," he says. "It would lower my value as a teacher if they were to beat me—as most of them could do. And there is the danger, too, that they would begin to copy my faulty shots."

Taught Helen Game.

But the tennis world owes a lot to this personage, who retired from business in Providence, R.I., a number of years ago to become active in tennis. He took charge of the junior section for the national tennis organization in 1911, and since then has been developing one star after another by his own methods.

"I heard of a little kid named Helen Wills, and the moment I saw her in action I picked her for a comer," says Fuller. "I got her into the Berkeley Tennis Club in 1919, and started in to try to develop a champion.

"To begin with, she had wonderful eyesight, a splendid disposition and a fine physique for the game.

"She was not of a speedy build, so I started to coach her for a strong, well-placed game, for which her speed was sufficient.

"We would work every day, using five or six dozen balls, which I would toss up. She learned placing by driving at a handkerchief placed on the line. She built up her net stroke by the same patient work. She made over 1000 trials at the backhand return down the same line instead of across the court (her most famous shot). She worked just as hard at perfecting footwork.

"Her perseverance won out, and as she developed, I matched her with better players. There would be suggestions coming out of every set played.

"Soft Shot" Hardest.

"The 'soft shot' was Miss Wills' hardest. I felt that with her speed of shot keeping opponents back—women have an inherent fear of the net, possibly for fear of being struck — she needed a soft shot close to the net so her opponent couldn't run in. This called for more work. But Miss Wills has a wonderful 'dink shot' now.

"After the strokes are developed, they must be taught strategy. It is not natural to show any great amount of strategy. It must be developed by play. I play them against others, watch closely, then make my criticisms later."

Fuller's fame has spread until tennis hopefuls are sent him from all over the Pacific coast for development. He has a regular champion factory.

But—

"I'm an awful 'dub' player as I can't deny it," he insists.

KEARNS CONVERSES ON THE TELEPHONE

As Dempsey's Manager, He Will Have Something to Say Regarding Matches.

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—(Canadian Press).—Jack Dempsey's reported announcement in New York that in future he would handle his own boxing affairs has drawn fire from Jack Kearns. The heavyweight champion's manager said today that he had an iron-clad contract with Dempsey that does not expire until September, 1926. If Dempsey has broken with him, he has not told him so, Kearns declared. "And if he thinks he can give me a run-around by signing for a couple of push-over matches until after our contract expires, I may throw a monkey wrench into his plans.

"Fifty per cent. of Jack Dempsey's heavyweight championship title is mine, and as long as our contract endures he will have no matches without my OK."

"He can go ahead and sign for all the matches he wants to with Tex Rickard and Floyd Fitzsimmons and others, but none of the bouts will come off unless I like them and OK them. But Dempsey seems to have forgotten it.

"When he was married last spring he told me he did not want to fight any more. I let him alone.

"When he went abroad I sent him two or three cables, but he never extended me the courtesy of replying. I did not discuss the possibility of a break with him, and the subject of match-making was not gone into. He said he did not want to fight and I believed him.

"I figured that he would not be willing to fight until after his love sickness wore off.

"But Dempsey needn't worry. I don't. I managed good fighters before I managed Dempsey, and I'll manage many a good one after he's forgotten.

"And you can make that as strong as you like," concluded Kearns as he slammed up the receiver.

CRICKET TIE.

Coutts and Thorpe Lead Teams Through an Enjoyable Match.

An enjoyable game of cricket was played last night at the Exhibition Grounds between teams captained by Mr. Coutts and Mr. Thorpe. An exciting game ended in a tie. Coutts' team batted first, and by some good hitting by Dyer and careful batting of Coutts, the score reached 39. Fenton took four wickets for 11 and runs and Duggan Jr., three wickets for 27 runs.

Thorpe's team lost Stuart before a run had been scored, then Thorpe and Duggan added 19 runs before the partnership ended. After that wickets fell fast, and with the score tied the last wicket fell. Thorpe carried out his bat for 20 runs. Dyer took six wickets for 16 runs and Stratton one wicket for 21 runs.

TUNNEY'S LIVER PUNCH BEAT GIBBONS

Right-Hand Smash Paved Way to Knockout Victory.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The punch that really knocked out Tommy Gibbons was a right-hand swing to the liver. Gene Tunney landed it in the sixth round of their fight here at the Polo Grounds in June.

It didn't drop the St. Paul Irishman, it didn't even shake him, but it whipped him just the same. The effect of the blow was one of slow paralysis and from that moment on Gibbons, by his own admission, fought on instinct alone.

The interesting feature in connection with the punch is that it is one Tunney has been working on for four years. Some months ago this writer asked Tunney to name and describe his favorite punch.

Tunney replied it was a short blow to the liver and pointed out that it landed at a spot not far from the solar plexus.

For that reason he wanted the writer to call it a liver punch, as distinguished from a solar plexus punch. He seemed to think it was a brand new punch, and that the thought with him was original.

Akin to Slow Paralysis.

Tunney explained the effect was different. A well-driven blow to the solar plexus, he said, would drop a man cold, as Fitzsimmons' famous punch had dropped Corbett in the old days out in Carson City.

But the liver punch produced a lasting, growing pain that practically amounted to slow paralysis.

It was interesting to observe that Tunney's liver punch had precisely the effect he predicted on Gibbons. [illegible] realized Gibbons had been hit in the sixth round, let alone severely wounded.

After the fight Gibbons told writers in his dressing-room that he was not hit once solidly until the sixth round.

"I don't remember much whether I was hit after that or not," said Gibbons.

This statement rather bears out Tunney's theory of the benumbing effects of the liver punch, as he employs it.

He's Plugger, Plodder Type.

Tunney is easily the most studious boxer the game has known in years. He is a student after the plugger, plodder type, as distinguished from the craftiness of Leonard, Attell and Britton.

Convinced of the logic of any proposition, Tunney will work on it until perfection has been attained and he will not allow any amount of failure or adverse criticism to swerve him to new courses.

He hurt Carpentier with this same liver punch a year ago and he will hurt a lot of other fighters with it in bouts to come.

It is without debate the most damaging blow he has in his large and interesting bag of fistic tricks.

PARIS, July 17. — (United Press.) — The Foreign Office announced to-day that France would evacuate the Ruhr completely by the end of July. The evacuation process is already progressing and some of the troops which Paris announced yesterday would be forwarded to the Riffian zone are being gleaned from their occupation troops.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

FULL HOUSE GREETS GIBSON IN "TAMING THE WEST."

Last night the Royal was filled, the big attraction being R. M. Bower's novel "The Range Dwellers." In the movies they have changed the title to "Taming the West," but to readers of the popular western novel the story is the same.

The programme opened with another Alice novelty, a clever cartoon novelty introducing a child artist. It is highly amusing and wholly entertaining.

Andy Gump in Hollywood is a little slow in getting started but when Andy tries his hand at a sex drama, the laughs come thick and fast.

Wm. Duncan in "Wolves of the North" holds the interest and supplies the usual thrills and out door scenery.

"Taming the West" is the best Gibson in some time.

The picture is a virile out-of-doors story jammed with fast action, built around a well-knit plot and embellished with cleverly thought-out incidents.

Hoot Gibson is given many opportunities for showing his versatility as a star in Westerns. To his famous ability with horses he has added some roaring auto racing scenes to "Taming the West." Cibson is as clever with the steering wheel as he is with the bridle.

In this picture he has combined some wild riding with a series of exceptionally daring speed scenes. Racing over boundless prairie he dashes through a strong fence and takes many perilous skids, raising, in a portion of the prairie, a veritable dust storm.

With him in the car is Marceline Day, leading lady, with whom he is trying to elope. Behind on horseback and in an auto are a group of cow-punchers detailed by the girl's father to frustrate the proposed elopement. The events leading up to this episode and those following, make "Taming the West" a picture tense with excitement, with an enthralling heart interest and ever present suspense.

The story starts with Hoot Gibson playing the part of a jazz-mad city youth named John Carleton. He is jailed for speeding and his father bails him out and sends him to his ranch in the forlorn hope of making a man out of him.

Carleton's city airs earn him the laughter of the cow punchers and he resolves to show them a few things in bronco busting. He sticks for a short time but is thrown. This marks the beginning of the regeneration of the flabby city dweller.

The neighboring rancher is up in arms against Carleton's father, but the youth, not knowing of the enmity between the two, meets, wooes and tentatively wins the rancher's daughter. When the rancher, whose name is King, discovers Carleton's identity, some exciting scenes follow. King orders the youth off the ranch, and promises violence if Carleton ever ventures on the property again.

Undaunted, the fast hardening Carleton, takes his automobile, and runs around King's ranch. Cowpunchers take up the pursuit and Carleton kidnaps the girl, making his escape and marrying her. The fathers are forced to bury their ill-feeling.

Marceline Day plays the part of a captivating Western girl, whose cleverly applied spurs had much to do in the reshaping of Carleton into a hardy Westerner. The other members of the sporting cast are Morgan Brown, Edwin Booth Tilton, Herbert Prior, Louis Hippe, Albert J. Smith, Francis Ford and Frona Hale.

AT THE CAPITOL

DOUGLAS MACLEAN IN "INTRODUCE ME"

Douglas MacLean stars in the comedy feature "Introduce Me," at the Capitol Theatre for this week-end. This ingenuous young man, with his innocent demeanor and, at times, foolish expression, depends mainly on his looks to get some real good laughs. [illegible] is the always amusing one of a person with honest intentions being pitchforked into peculiar situations and struggling unavailingly to get out of them. The audience doesn't know how he is oin to extricate himself from a danerous predicament, he is equally at sea, and the result is a combination of funny scenes that received plenty of appreciation from the house last night.

When Jimmy Hughes, the hero, tours Europe with his travelling companion, they both become enamored in Paris of Betty Perry, a role taken in charming fashion by Anne Cornell. Jimmy's chum immediately hands him a double cross by attaching himself to the young lady and her father, and disowning Jimmy's acquaintanceship entirely. Then Jimmy tries to gain an introduction to the lady of his heart, and varied adventures ensue. He finally proposes to her and enquires her name afterwards, but his troubles don't end there, by any means. He becomes involved with a famous American mountain climber, in a case of mistaken identity, and is forced, to save his face, to make a spectacular climb. The way in which he defeats two experienced climbers, aided by a big black bear, and the manner in which he makes his descent ,are extremely ludicrous, and provide endless laughs for his audience.

Although Jimmy appears to be far from a strong character, he refuses to back out of a dangerous position, and the spectacle of a man who is afraid to look out of a second-storey window being forced to climb an icy, almost perpendicular mountain, makes a new and refreshing situation in the comedy feature line. It is an entertaining feature, "Introduce Me," and its hero makes an excellent comedian, with a line all his own.

The introductory News reels with this programme are, as usual, one of the most interesting portions of the programme. There is reality in these news reels, and the spectacle of surf riders on their flying aquaplanes and of the Kaiser's fifth son and his ugly wife unveiling a war memorial carry all the interest of real people.

The cartoon bit is entitled "African Huntsmen," and the comedy is a Glenn Tryon feature, "A Sailor Papa," showing the hero and his uncle in a series of mirthful incidents.—Jeanette.

ROBERT RAPLEY

Robert Rapley died today at the age of 80 years at the home of his niece, Mrs. George Smith, of 469 Elm street, after a protracted illness.

Mr. Rapley was born in Bobcaygeon but has lived in Peterborough for the past six years.

The funeral service will be held at 469 Elm Street on Saturday evening at 6.30 and will be conducted by Commodore Smith.

The body will be taken to Bobcaygeon for interment on Sunday morning.

MISS VERONICA CARVETH

The popularity of the late Miss Veronica Carveth, who passed away suddenly at her home in Toronto early on Wednesday morning of this week, and the regret felt by her many friends over her early death, was evidenced today by the large funeral cortege which accompanied her remains from the noon Toronto train to their last resting place in St. Peter's cemetery.

Services at the cemetery were conducted by Rev. P. Costello and Rev. Father Garvey of Lakefield. The pall-bearers were Jack, Edward and Louis LeBarr and William Prindible, of this city, Fred Hall, Junior, and Jack Keenan, of Toronto.

Accompanying the remains to the city were the mother of the deceased, Mrs. H. Carveth, three sisters, Mrs. Fred Hall, and Miss Frances, of Toronto, and Sister Seraphine of Port Arthur Hospital, a brother, T. Carveth, of Buffalo, N.Y., also Mr. Fred Hall and Mrs. T. Carveth, and Mr. Jack Keenan of Toronto.

JOHN MALLOCH.

OMEMEE, July 17.—The death of John Malloch, who passed away on Saturday evening in the Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, removed another old and respected citizen. Deceased was in his seventy-ninth year, and had been ill for many weeks previous to his death.

John Malloch was born in England, of Scotch and English parentage. When a small boy, the family came to Canada, and the mother died a few days after her arrival. Undaunted by this sad misfortune, Mr. Malloch, Sr., journeyed on with his family until he reached Omemee where his family grew up.

The late John Malloch was a veteran railroader, having been in the employ of the Midland Railway for fifty-three years. He was a staunch supporter of the Presbyterian Church, a loyal member of the Orange Lodge, and a sturdy supporter of the Reform Government.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held under Orange auspices, on Tuesday afternoon. The service at the house was conducted by the Rev. R. F. Scott, of the Presbyterian Church, assisted by Rev. E. W. Rowland (an old friend of the family), now pastor of the United Church in Omemee.

The service at the grave was read by Brothers Thomas Newman and J. Hill, assisted by Rev. Scott and Rowland, and was most impressive.

Floral tributes of great beauty were laid on the casket by the Orange brethren, and numerous friends of the family.

Left to mourn his passing are two sisters, Mrs. Thornton of Reaboro and Mrs. Agnes Johnson of Omemee, also many nieces and nephews, to whom much sympathy is extended.

Mining Exchange Quickened With Teck and Lorrain Gains

TORONTO, July 17.—(Canadian Press).—With transactions amounting to 76,450 shares, trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was more active than yesterday. Teck Hughes opened one point higher, but declined to 158, and Can. Lorrain was two points higher at 32. Lorrain was fractionally higher at 13½, while McKinley Darragh was slightly lower at 29½. Mining Corporation advanced six points to 280.

Wheat Takes Upward Trend In Line With Temperature

CHICAGO, July 17. — (Canadian Press).—Predictions of higher temperatures north-west gave an early upward trend to the wheat market to-day. The prospect of renewed hot weather in that section was taken by many traders as indicative of further injury to the spring wheat crop. On the other hand, advices to-day from a leading expert who has been observing conditions in North and South Dakota said that wheat was maturing a week earlier than usual, and that the report of damage by black rust had been greatly exaggerated. The opening prices, unchanged to 1¼c higher, Sept. 155 to 155½, and December 155½ to 156¼, were followed by a re-action to a little below yesterday's finish, and then by a fresh upturn all around.

Rain in the corn belt tended to ease down the corn market. After opening at ¼c off to 5-8c up, Sept. 107 3-4 to 108, corn prices underwent a general sag.

Oat traders took their cut chiefly from the action of the wheat market. Starting unchanged to 5-8c higher, Sept. 46 7-8 to 47c, the oats market held near to initial range.

Provisions were responsible to the weakness of hog values.

Heavy Trading In Toronto Led By Smelters and Bread

TORONTO, July 17 (Canadian Press). — Led by Consolidated Smelters and Canada Bread Common, the market on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning took a general swing upward. Smelters was run up to a new peak of 98 3-4 and though it eased from this mark the noon close at 97 1-2 was an advance of 2 3-4 points. Bread Common gained 3 1-2 points to 43 1-2; Bread B Preferred 1-2 at 90 1-2, and Brazilian 3-8 at 57 1-4. British Columbia Fishing and Atlantic Sugar experienced moderately heavy trading, the former advancing 5-8 and Sugar 1-4. Trading was the heaviest of any session for some time.

General Rise Tone on Street Can. Steel and Proe High

NEW YORK, July 17 (Canadian Press)—Operation for a rise went steadily ahead throughout the forenoon despite the appearance of scattered short selling, under which Maxwell B. certificates, Chrysler and Virginia and Carolina Chemical yielded 3 to 3 1-2 points. At the same time Public Utilities encountered extensive profit-taking which forced North American down two points. Sustained buying of oil shares on indications of favorable second quarter earnings and the strong tone of the Southern and South Western Rails enabled the general market to press forward. Pivotal industrials followed the leadership of U. S. Steel and American Can, the latter achieving new peak price of 203 1-2. Sloss-Sheffield steel mounted 3 1-4 points to new high for the year at 97 1-4 and U.S. Cast Iron Pipe spurted up 5 1-2 points before noon. Manhattan Elevated issues were actively bought on a court decision against a modified lease to the Interborough Rapid Transit Co.

Call money was renewed at 3 3-4 per cent.

CHINESE DEMAND TARIFF AUTONOMY

No Longer Willing to Accept Judgment of Foreigners as to Needs.

(By Randall Gould, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PEKING, July 17. — In an exclusive interview with the United Press to-day, C. T. Wang, Chinese Commissioner for foreign negotiations, advocated that the powers Grant China immediate tariff Autonomy. Coupled with this, he said, they should promise the abolition of extra-territoriality—the right under which foreigners are exempt from the operation of Chinese authority—when China promulgates legal code.

The codification of her laws into a workable, efficient judiciary system which the powers have held is a prime prerequisite to returning further rights to China, could be accomplished within a year, Wang believed.

Mere fulfillment of the terms of the Washington Chinese treaties, would not satisfy China, he declared. The Powers must go further. The proposed increase in tariff rates is insufficient, he said, to cover China's present foreign and domestic loan obligations, while mere investigation of the status of extra-territoriality—all that is really required under the Washington Far Eastern Conference arrangements—would not give any assurance that the powers sincerely contemplate an alteration of the existing situation.

China, he said emphatically, "is no longer willing to accept the judgment of foreigners as to her tariff needs and her fitness to adminster justice."

DETROIT MAN INFORMS GOVERNOR HE WITNESSED SCOTT SHOOTING AND NAMES ROBERT AS MURDERER

James M. Ball Telegraphed to Governor Len Small of Illinois Yesterday That Russell Scott Did Not Kill Chicago Drug Clerk.

STATE'S ATTORNEY DECLARES RUSSELL WAS AT LEAST ACCESSORY TO CRIME

No Further Word From Robert Scott Following Telegram That Gained Week's Reprieve for Brother.

DETROIT, Mich., July 18.—(Canadian Press).—James M. Ball, local telegraph operator, last night teleg raphed Governor Len Small of Illinois that he was a witness to the shooting of Joseph Maurer in a Chicago drug store a year ago and that Robert and not Russel Scott was the murderer.

RUSSELL BELIEVES TELEGRAM A FAKE.

CHICAGO, July 18.—(Canadian Press).—Russel Scott, one time Canadian financier, snatched from the gallows by a week's reprieve from Governor Small a few hours before he was to have been hanged Friday for the murder of a drug store clerk in a hold-up, was as skeptical last night as the authorities over the authenticity of a telegram that saved him from death for a week.

Scott and his brother, Robert, both were indicted for the murder of the drug clerk, but Robert was never apprehended. The reprieve, the latest of many Scott has received, came after a telegram from Detroit signed "Robert Scott" and stating that he had killed the clerk and would give himself up, had been received at the Governor's office at Springfield.

No word has been heard in Detroit, Chicago or anywhere else from Robert.

"I did not think it was a fake at first," Russell Scott said last night, "but now I do, for I think if it had been sent by Bob he would have given himself up ....he would have been here. For all I know, Bob may be in Africa. Still I don't know, it may have been from him"

The State's Attorney staff, which has fought for more than a year, was even more outspoken in its disbelief of the authenticity of the message.

Strategy By Friends.

"It was just a bit of strategy on the part of his friends," George Gorman, Assistant State's Attorney who prosecuted Scott, said. "I think Russell's friends are sparring for enough time to get a commutation of sentence. In any case Russell Scott was a party to the murder and must be punished accordingly. The State's attorneys office still contends that it was Russell and not Robert who fired the fatal shot."

Meanwhile other messages purporting to give information which would save Scott from hanging one week from yesterday were received by authorities and by Thomas Scott, Russell's aged and crippled father, and Mrs. Catherine Scott, the condemned man's wife. The latter couple Thursday night had given up hope and bade Scott what they thought was a last farewell before the reprieve came.

One message was addressed to Mr. Gorman and asked him to stop the execution, stating that the writer knew all about the slaying and would tell some day. It was not received until after the hour set for the hanging.

Telegram To Father.

[illegible] to Scott himself from Detroit and signed James M. Ball advised the condemned man to send his father to Detroit to obtain evidence that would help Russell. Another telegram received by Scott during the day was signed "Judge Lyman Yurgen" and advised him that a reprieve had been granted "at six o'clock this morning," the hour set for the execution. It was sent from Oakland, Illinois. No one here knew the signer. Scott's father was reported to have received a second telegram signed Robert Scott and stating he was coming here to give himself up but the elder Scott refused to confirm this, although stating that he had received several messages.

Scott's father and wife visited him in the death cell for a short time yesterday afternoon, then left smiling, stating they were going to make an even more determined effort to save him. Mr. Gorman started an investigation after a Chicago attorney informed him he had received a message from a "Dr. Stafford" of Detroit asking if he would accept a retainer to seek commutation of Scott's sentence.

RUSSELL'S HEYDAY.

OTTAWA, July 18. — Canadian Press. — Russell Scott, now under sentence of death in Chicago, and who at the last moment was granted a reprieve of seven days, formerly conducted a private banking and underwriting business in the Unionbank building here. The headquarters of his business was in Toronto, but he made many trips to Ottawa, about two years ago, to direct the affairs of his local branch.

Russell Scott was interested in an underwriting agency known as Mortgage, Dscount and Finance Limited, of which Sir John Willison was the President.

Among one of the ventures with which Russell Scott was interested, and which he attempted to float at Ottawa, was the sale of stock in the International Bridge Company which had as its object the building of an International bridge from Detroit to Windsor.

He was also with others interested in the formation of a paper company and a motor car company at Toronto. His Canadian headquarters were in the Royal Bank Building, Toronto. It is stated that Scott attempted to obtain control of the business of the Mortgage, Discount and Finance Limited, by operating proxies, and that friction which developed between him and officers of the company, led to his ultimately breaking his connection with the company.

WAIVED EXTRADITION.

Harry Stone to be Tried in British Columbia.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 18.—It was announced here Friday that Harry Stone, who has waived extradition and will be taken to British Columbia Monday to be tried for alleged participation in a $42,000 bank robbery in Nanaimo, B.C., Dec. 12, declared that "Watson had nothing to do with the hold-up."

Watson, a former Seattle City detective, who has already been tried on the robbery charge, the jury disagreeing, is held in Vancouver awaiting a second trial. He has steadfastly maintained his innocence.

NEWSPRINT DECLINE.

Production in June Less Than Previous Month.

MONTREAL, July 18.—Production of newsprint in June was smaller than in the previous month, although the decline was no more than the usual seasonal drop, combined total production for Canadian and United States mills was 252,6369 tons compared with 259,039 tons in May and 229,538 in June, 1924.

For the first half the year Canadian mills produced 746,444 tons, exceeding the output in the corresponding months of 1924 by 67,301 tons or approximately ten per cent. production of the United States mills in this period was 760,464 tons compared with 753,501 tons in the first half of 1924, an increase of less than one per cent.

MORGAN'S LOAN TO AUSTRALIA

U. S. Financier Buys $75,000,000 Bonds Diverted From Britain.

PAYING WAR LOAN

NEW YORK, July 18 (Canadian Press) — For the first time in its history, the Commonwealth of Australia has turned from London to New York for its external financing. J. P. Morgan and Company announced yesterday the purchase of a $75,000,000 Australian loan, which will be offered for public subscription next Monday. Simultaneous offering of a £5,000,000 loan will be made in London.

Allotment of the major portion of the present financing to the United States market resulted from Great Britain's gold resumption policy. With the Bank of England opposed to heavy gold exports, British financial authorities held that Australian borrowing in London should be limited to £5,000,000.

The terms of the United States loan place the Australian government on the same credit basis with Canada, the only British Dominion which has previously sold bond issues here and one of the few governments which has been able to borrow at a five per cent. interest rate.

Proceeds of both the New York and London loans will be applied by the government of Australia to meeting war loan maturities of about $343,000,000 next December.

GOING TO SYDNEY

Joint Conference of Besco Officials and Miners Expected on Tuesday.

HALIFAX, July 18 (Canadian Press)—Hon. E. N. Rhodes, premier of Nova Scotia, issued the following statement Friday afternoon: "After conferences with Roy Wolvin, president, and J. E. McClurg, vice-president of the British Empire Steel Corporation, here, they having been in touch with Mr. McLeod, president of the United Mine Workers of America, district 26, Glace Bay, by telegraph, I have arranged to arrive in Sydney Monday forenoon, accompanied by Colonel Harrington, Minister of Public Works and Mines. As soon as possible after our arrival we expect to have conferences with Mr. McLeod and the executive officers of the United Mine Workers, and it is anticipated that joint conferences between representatives of the company and the United Mine Workers may be arranged to take place Tuesday morning, Mr. Wolvin and Mr. McLurg, representing the company, and Mr. J. W. McLeod representing the U.M.W., together with the Premier and Minister of Public Works and Mines.

"Both parties to the dispute have signified their intention to cordially co-operate."

Maintaining Mines

GLACE BAY, N.S., July 18—Maintenance work is progressing at all collieries in the Cape Breton coal mining areas and it is understood that in most of the pits coal could be hoisted with very short notice. Three small blazes were reported in the Glace Bay district during the past twentyfour hours, but all were extinguished before doing any damage. The company store at new Waterford was said to have been entered Thursday morning and some goods stolen.

HEAVY FINE.

TORONTO, July 18. — (Canadian Press)—A report this morning says: "Rum runners operating out of Port Colborne to the United States will be fired upon by coastguard vessels if, when called upon to stop, they attempt to escape in American waters, the boundary line being 12 miles out from the Canadian shore of Lake Erie.

"Young Canadians who are being used by Buffalo whiskey smugglers to operate rum-running vessels were last night officially put upon their [illegible] admonished not to persist in the business, under no less a penalty than a fine of $5,000 and five years' imprisonment, and, in addition, run the risk of having their boats blown up, with loss of life.

"This warning was given last night after a visit to the city by Harry Smith, Collector of Customs for the port of Buffalo, who came, with other United States Customs officers, to discuss the Port Colborne situation with J. A. Ayearst, chief enforcement officer under the O.T.A. in this city.

SPEAKERS PLEAD FOR CONSIDERATION

Say That Germany Was to Bear the War Debt of Belgium.

BRUSSELS, July 18. — (United Press).—Speakers in the Chamber of Deputies Friday reiterated Belgium's plea for special consideration with regard to war debts.

The speakers repeated the words of Paul Hymans, who recently said that the late Woodrow Wilson and Colonel E. M. House had agreed that the Belgian war debt should be borne by Germany. The United States, they insisted, must validate these moral engagements.

Following Hyman's recent speech in the Chamber, it was announced in Washington that there had been no agreement that the Belgian war debt should be transferred to Germany.

CUSTOMS SQUAD PATROL BORDER FROM WINNIPEG

Transferred From the Quebec Front to Check Smuggling of Merchandise.

PASSPORT DUTY

Sixteen Aliens Escaped From Minnesota Jail—Violated Passport Law.

WINNIPEG, July 18 (Canadian Press).—A special squad of customs officers, men experienced in checking the Border activities or liquor runners, have arrived in Winnipeg, and are now working in co-operation with local officers. They have been stationed at isolated spots along the boundary between Manitoba and the States of Minnesota and North Dakota.

Their chief duty will be to apprehend the smugglers who specialize in bringing merchandise into Canada, a trade that has assumed alarming proportions during the past year, and which, on the representations of the Retail Merchants' Association, resulted in the Federal Government taking vigorous action against this illegal practice.

No Returning "Empties."

Local officials declare that the liquor runners are responsible for much of the merchanidse smuggling. Cargoes of liquor are taken south to Minneapolis, Omaha, Duluth and even as far as Indianapolis, and on the return journey carry a load of goods. The men who have been detailed to check this class of border-running were sent from Ottawa, and previously had been stationed in Quebec.

The customs officers, those of the regular staff, have been active recently in watching against the illegal entry of persons into the United States, but many have entered only to be apprehended south of the line.

Sixteen Break Jail.

Reports received here tell of scores held in jail, awaiting trial on charges of breaking the passport law, while yesterday city and provincial police were asked to co-operate in a hunt for sixteen prisoners who escaped in a spectacular jail delivery at Mallock, Minn., on Thursday. Six of the fugitives were Winnipeg men, and the majority were held for violation of passport regulations. They made a concerted dash for liberty, sawing through the bars of their cells, and sliding from the building by means of bed sheets tied together.

Mother of Mrs. E. Y. Eaton Dies Before Daughter Can Arrive.

WELL KNOWN FAMILY.

TORONTO, Ont., July 18. — (Canadian Press.)—The grim reaper won in a race with a special train which Mrs. E. Y. Eaton, of Toronto, chartered at Quebec yesterday, to bear her to the bedside of her dying mother, Mrs. Sarah Eckardt.

Mrs. Eaton's train waited with steam up, according to despatches, for the arrival of the ocean steamer which brought her from overseas. The train arrived in this city too late, however, for the mother, who was of quite advanced age, died yesterday afternoon. The death of Mrs. Eckhardt, who was a widow, removes the maternal head of one of the city's oldest and best known families.

Smuts Repeats Warning Against Security Pact

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, July 17. — Canadian Press Cable via Reuters. — In the course of a debate on a loan in the South African parliament to-day, a question was raised over a telegram sent by General Smuts, former Premier, to the London Daily News, a few days ago, stating that he was suspicious not only of the security pact but also of the policies behind the pact.

General Smuts repeated his warning against the security pact. He said that if British statesmen at this stage dissociated themseselves from the South African Union, and entered a pact of their own, they would thereby introduce a wedge into the empire, and they might find that as a result thereof they had cut the empires heart out.

WIFE PRISONER FOR TWO YEARS

French Manufacturer Accused of Chaining Wealthy Wife in Her Chateau.

"LIVING SKELETON."

PARIS, July 18 — Accused of keeping his wealthy wife chained up for two years in her chateau, near Chatenay, Charles Soler, head of a Paris manufacturing company, and a close friend of a former president of the republic, is under arrest, together with his "secretary," Mlle. Bertha de la Planque.

The affair, which came to light as a result of citizens of Chatenay hearing faint cries coming from a tower room of the chateau, has given Paris society, in which both Soler and his wife were prominent, a scandal second to none.

Emaciated utnil she resembled a "living skeleton," Mlle. Soler, who is daughter of a former chief of the Paris police, survived the imprisonment and still had strength enough to make heard her cries: "Help me! Help! They are killing me little by little!"

Advised by an anonymous letter, Paris police went from Versailles in a surprise sally against the ancient chateau, burst in doors, sawed their way through bars, bolts and chains, and freed Mme. Soler.

The woman told them that her husband had forced her to sign a will in his favor, and then had imprisoned her, to die. She had been fed occasionally upon a skimpy diet of milk and eggs.

Charges Insanity

Mlle. de la Planque had been brought from Paris ostensibly to act as Soler's secretary, but actually, the police charge, as a guard for the prisoner.

Confronted with these facts, Soler declared his wife insane. She was taken to a hospital in a critical condition, but three doctors declared her rational.

Because of the prominence of Soler, he and his secretary were permitted provisional liberty.

According to Police Report Body Was Thrown in Woods.

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 18.—(Canadian Press).—The police said today that Mike Kosnowski of Buffalo has confessed that he shot and killed Miss Mildred Burke of Hornell, N.Y., yesterday afternoon and threw her body into the woods, where it was found last night. Jealousy and rage at attentions paid another man by the girl were said by authorities to have caused the shooting.

Boy Drowned Swimming After Ball In Lake Erie

CHATHAM, July 17. — Alton Dillon, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dillon of Merlin, was drowned in Lake Erie near the Lethbridge farm, west of the Tilbury-Raleigh town line Thursday. The youth entered the water to recover a ball and apparently was seized with a cramp.

The body was not recovered until midnight. When dragging operations and dynamite explosions failed to bring the body to the surface, a motor car spotlight, with a long wire was tied to a 12 foot pole and placed deep in the water. The light revealed the body.

MANY CANDIDATES

Organization of Both Parties Well Advanced — Cabinet Has Several Changes.

The choice was between Saturday and Monday for polling day, and a change was made at the last minute from Saturday until Monday, because in some parts of the province haying operations will not have been completed.

Premier Venit completed his cabinet before ordering the election writs issued by calling Hon. Allison A. Dysart of Buctouche, speaker of the Legislature and member for Kent, to the portfolio of Minister of Lands and Mines, and Burton M. Hill, Chief Highways Engineer, to the portfolio of Minister of Public Works. Mr. Hill has already been nominated in Charlotte County, where he will head the Government ticket. PHOSPHATES DEPOSIT.

Inexhaustible Supply Discovered Near Cape Town.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, July 188.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—The newspaper Argus reports the discovery of valuable deposits of phosphates over a considerable area within 25 miles of Cape Town.

According to the Argus a number of engineering experts who had made a fruitless search for oil in the district noticed that the walls of a certain house were built of peculiar stone and the trained eye of one of the engineers told him it was petrified guano. This was the beginning of the discovery.

The area of the deposits is stated to be about seven miles square, containing 7,000,000 tons of phosphate, a quantity which the Argus says is "inexhaustible in the present century."

SOLDIER DEAD ARE RECALLED IN DECORATION

Veterans to Parade to Little Lake Cemetery To-morrow Afternoon.

DAY OF MEMORY.

All Citizens Invited to Ceremony to Honor City's 450 War Dead.

There will be several distinctive features about the decoration day parade of the War Veterans tomorrow, when graves of their comrades in Little Lake cemetery will be garlanded. Last week's parade to St. Peter's cemetery, in which men of all ranks and religions united, gave promise of a good attendance in the march to the nearer burying ground. The speakers will include Rev. Father (Captain) Paul Costello, Rev. J. Douglas Paterson, Mayor J. J. Turner, and Captain R. E. Layfield, commander of the Peterborough branch of the G. W.V.A. Rev. Mr. Paterson was present at last week's ceremony, as were the Mayor and Captain Layfield.

At the cemetery tomorrow, a flag will be presented by His Worship, and will be raised at the soldiers' burial plot. The roll of Peterborough men who made the supreme sacrifice in the war, or who have died since and are buried in Peterborough cemeteries, will be called. This was one of the most impressive ceremonies in last Sunday's parade, when Captain Costello called, twice each in military form, the names of seventeen soldiers buried in St. Peter's cemetery, and Captain Whatley reported for them, not present. There will be nearly 450 names called tomorrow, names of men from Peterborough who can no more answer for themselves.

FIRE WIPES OUT TOWN OF BOWDEN

Originated in Blacksmith Shop and Spread By Furious Gale.

CALGARY, Alta., July 18. — (Canadian Press.)—Fanned by the fury of a north-west gale, fire Friday night practically wiped out the whole town of Bowden, between Olds and Innisfail, on the Canadian Pacific railway line, running from Calgary to Edmonton. The fire, which has rendered most of the 300 inhabitants of the town homeless, started in a blacksmith shop about 9 p.m. and spread to an adjoining livery barn and other structures.

The last word last night was that the fire was under control. At that time two hotels, the Union church and the lumber yard were all that remained of the business section. Nearly all the rest of the town was consumed in the flames, which spread to the residential sections and raged unabated in spite of the best efforts of all the men in the town and the Innosfail fire brigade, which could do nothing owing to lack of water.

No one is reported injured.

NOT A DULL TIME.

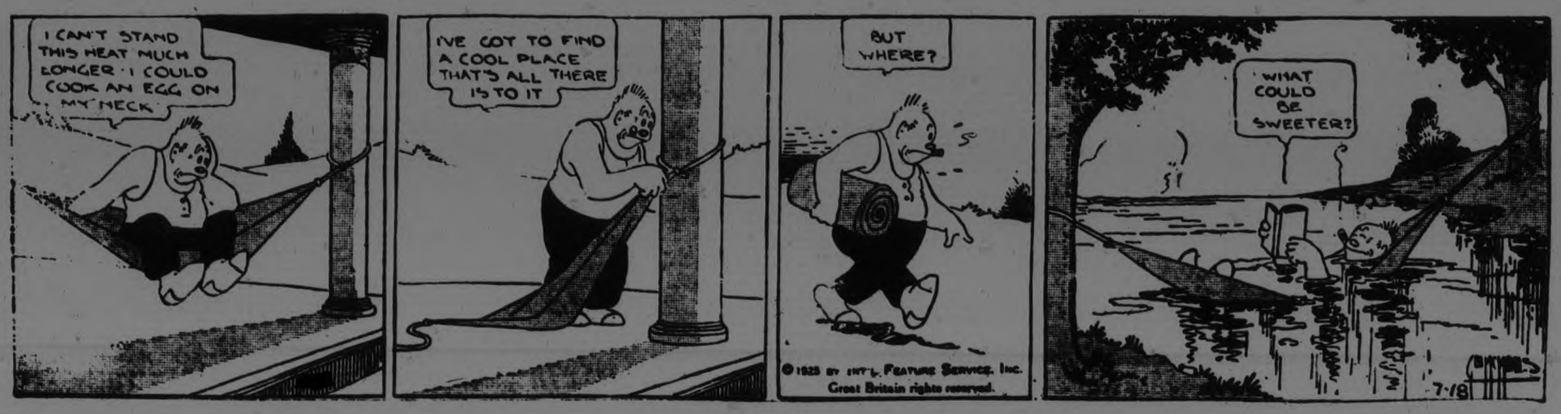
"BRINGING UP FATHER" — Geo. McManus



SAYS HE KILLED FRIEND FOR $13

Boy of 17 in Shadow of Electric Chair, Confesed to Police.

GAVE HIM A RIDE.

SCHENECTADY, N.Y., July 18. — For the insignificant sum of $13, Hayden Smith, 17-year-old youth, of this city to-day stands in the shadow of the electric chair.

Smith, according to a confession county officials say he made, planned the murder and robbery of Guy C. Nickerson, of Chatham, Mass., while Nickerson was getting a telegraph money order for $15 cashed on the afternoon of July 4.

Nickerson had befriended Smith when he found him trudging along the road near Cleveland, Ohio, and had given him a lift in his automobile to this city, his home town.

Nickerson ran out of funds when he reached here, and telegraphed his relatives for money. Smith then took Nickerson to his home and kept him there while he was awaiting arrival of the money.

On the afternoon of the national holiday, Nickerson received word his money was at the telegraph office and drove down there with young Smith. According to the county authorities, Smith conceived the idea of murder and robbery while Nickerson was collecting the money.

The two drove around the city for a time, and then Nickerson permitted Smith to drive the car, and on a lonely road the youth deliberately stalled the car. While Nickerson looked over the motor, Smith drew a revolver belonging to his friend and shot him five times.

He did not get the $15, however, finding but $13, a watch and ring. These latter he threw away, the alleged confession states. The net proceeds were $13, and an automobile.

Last night the rinks played off to decide who would represent the club at the Dominion Championship meet, to be held in Toronto on Aug. 15. The personnel of the winning rink is:

Chenhall, lead.
Seymour, second.
Oke, vice.
Maynard, skip.

YOUTH PROMOTED.

Ted Nickle, Related in Campbellford, Youngest Officer in U. S. Army.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 18.—Ted. Nickle, a nephew of Mrs. D. A. Owen of town, has been promoted to the ranks of Lieutenant in the Aerial Corps in the United States regular army, and is now stationed at Wheeling, West Virginia. Ted, who is a native of Madoc, Ont., is only 18 years old and is regarded as the youngest officer of his rank in the United States. He has invented a new parachute device which is being used by the aviators and for which he is being paid a royalty. The device is attached to the person of the aviator before he makes a flight to permit him to descend to the earth in safety in case anything goes wrong with his plane when he is up in the clouds. To make assurance doubly sure there are two parachutes, either of these can be set in operation by the aviator pulling a string.

Lieutenant Nickle intends to return to his home in Madoc in a short time to take another year in the High School in that town before resuming his military career.

OBITUARY.

BERNARD GARFIELD COOK

Bernard Garfield, the 13-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred William Cook, Front Street, passed away Thursday after a brief illness. The child had been in delicate health since his birth. The funeral will be held this afternoon to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Rev. Wesley Elliott, pastor of St. John's United Church, will conduct the religious services in the house of the parents at 2 o'clock.

DAISY EDYTHE WEBBER.

Daisy Edythe Webber, younger daughter of the late Harry G. and Mrs. Webber, of North Monaghan, passed quietly away Monday evening, July 13th at Chemong Park, where she was spending the summer.

Her death, following a long illness, was not unexpected. Through all she had shown a patient and most cheerful spirit.

The funeral service was held on the lawn of her late home, Wednesday afternoon, July 15th. Rev. C. W. Rose, D.D., her pastor, spoke of three great certaintjes which the deceased and all Christians have: the certainty of a mighty Saviour, the certainty of an over-ruled life, the certainty of a home in heaven. By request, Miss Daisy Murray sang "Abide With Me."

The large number of floral tributes and the many friends present testified to the high esteem in which Miss Webber was held.

A young life of great promise has ended her earthly career, but her splendid influence will be carried on in other lives for years to come.

BRADEN BELL.

Mr. Braden Bell died last evening at the residence of Mr. Whitfield Northey, Lot 7, Concession 11, Township of Otonabee. Mr. Bell was a highly respected resident of Smith Township, where he farmed for many years; recently he had taken up the lumbering business. The deceased was a member of the Fairview Church, Smith Township. His wife predeceased him two years ago. Besides his parents, there are left to mourn his loss three children, Arthur, Newton and Edith, at home; also one brother, W. H. Bell, of Smith Township, and four sisters: Mrs. Roseborough, Mrs. F. Bell and Mrs. Webdale, of Smith Township, and Mrs. Northey, of Otonabee.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon from the residence of his father, 114 London Street. Service at 2 p.m., conducted by the Rev. Mr. McLaughlin of Keene. Interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

WESTERN CROP OUTLOOK GOOD

Report of U. F. O. Secretary Indicates Splendid Harvest.

FEAR OF RUST.

TORONTO, July 18 (Canadian Press).—If the wheat escapes rust, J. J. Morrison, secretary of U.F.O., believes that Western Canada is due for one of the greatest crops in its history. From the conference in Winnipeg, at which he was in touch with agrarian leaders from every province, Mr. Morrison returned to the city yesterday and brought back very optimistic reports on the crop outlook. One great danger now, he said, was rust, and conditions unfortunately were favorable for its development. There had been an unusual supply of moisture, straw was rank and heavy, and in some sections grave fears existed that the menace which lowers both quality and yield was developing. On the whole, however, prospects were very favorable.

PROSPECTORS RUSH TO NEW GOLD FIELD

Yellow Metal Found at Beardmore, on Blackwater River.

PORT ARTHUR, July 18 (Canadian Press).—A gold strike of yet undetermined proportions has been made at Beardmore on Blackwater River, and prospectors are flocking to the new find to stake claims, it was reported by prospectors who arrived in the city yesterday to record their properties.

Beardmore is on the main line of the Canadian National Railways, a few miles west of Jellicoe.

Riven Basswood Clothed In Grim Vesture of K.K.K.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 17.—It was a gruesome sight in the darkness and nervous travellers along the Havelock road on Thursday night shuddered as they passed spectral figures in the bush belonging to ex-Reeve George Van Volkenburg. One looked like a fiery cross ready for the torch and surrounded by ghostly shapes in the disguises of members of the Ku Klux Klan.

The forces of nature were responsible for the strange spectacle. The miniature cyclone that passed over that district during the day uprooted five or six large trees in one corner of the bush and two or three more were shattered by lightning. All of these trees were basswood, a variety of timber that seems to possess a special attraction for electric bolts. Every tree had been denuded of its bark as it had been struck or had fallen and the white wood showed with uncanny brilliancy in the darkness.

A number of fruit trees in the district were also destroyed by the storm.

World Combine Undermining Fascist Movement Says London Paper.

LONDON, July 18 — The Daily Telegraph reports the existence of an energetic international campaign to overthrow Premier Benito Mussolini and the Fascist regime in Italy.

"Occult international forces, from Wall Street to Vienna and from Milan to Moscow," it says, "are working to this end, and they have adopted methods akin to those practiced by the Bolsheviki in introducing their own sect against the foreign trade unions. That is to say, emissaries of the forces in question have been enrolled in the ranks of the Fascisti for the purpose of sowing dissension and demoralization."

The paper adds that vast sums of money are being spent for the purpose by the anti-Fascisti and their financial backers, domestic and foreign.

RETURNS TO CANADA.

Mr. George M. McKee is returning to Canada to assume the Presidency of Port Alfred Pulp and Paper Corporation, of which he will become the active executive head. His appointment was ratified at a meeting of the Corporation held in Montreal, on July 16th.

Mr. McKee has been associated with the Canadian pulp and paper industry since 1912, his connection with the industry commencing with his successful organization of Donnacona Paper Company, of which he remained the Managing Director until 1922. During Mr. McKee's regime, the Donnacona mill was constructed and its valuable timber rights on the Jacques Cartier River were obtained. Under Mr. McKee's guidance, Donnacona Paper Company became noted for its unusually low cost of production.

Mr. McKee was recognized by the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association by his election as vice-president in 1921, and as president in 1922. His term in the latter office, however, was cut short by his departure for Ogdensburg for the organization of the Algonquin Paper Company, of which he is the president.

Mr. McKee's paper experience dates back to the nineties. In 1897, he entered the employ of the Frind Paper Company, at West Carrollton, Ohio, and in the interests of that company became identified in the following year with the Hinckley Fibre Company, in which Mr. McKee served in capacity first as General Manager and later as President. Mr. McKee remained with the Hinckley Fibre Company until the commencement of his activities in Canada with the Donnacona Paper Company, in 1912.

Mr. McKee is a graduate of Pennsylvania State College, in which he took his degree in electrical engineering.

It is understood that Mr. McKee will actively direct the Company's operations.

SATURDAY, JULY 18, 1925.

PROVINCE SHOULD ACT.

In London and other centres campaigns are being conducted to eliminate the glaring headlight menace, but, as a contemporary points out, such efforts do not go far enough, and that the enforcement of the regulations should be carried on by the Provincial authorities.

With that view the Examiner is in thorough accord.

There are far too many cars travelling Ontario's roads every night with lights that are a cause of danger, and it is impossible for municipal police to deal effectively with the problem.

The Province, however, has a special traffic squad to enforce the anti-speeding regulations, and these motorcycle officers, assisted by the Provincial Police stationed in each district, could make a round-up of motorists infringing upon the anti-glare regulations that would have a very marked effect in eliminating the nuisance.

The chief activity of the traffic police seems to be directed against the motorist who drives too fast, but it is doubtful whether the speeder on the highway is nearly as dangerous as the individual who drives a car equipped with lights bright enough to leave a trail of temporarily blinded drivers behind him.

A campaign throughout the Province for a week or two would help materially in making conditions much safer on the roads of Ontario.

PROTECTED BEACHES.

One of the first recommendations made by the Ontario Safety League in its advice to parents on the educating of children in regard to accidents is the suggestion, "Have them swim and bathe in protected areas only."

This is sound advice, and Peterboro parents should follow it by seeing that their children swim at Inverlea Park or at the Lake street bathing beach, where there are facilities for life-saving and where caretakers are on duty.

They will be much safer at these places than if they bathe at unprotected points where help would be slow in reaching them should they get into difficulties.

At the same time it should be the duty of authorities to make sure that every precaution is taken to protect the lives of the patrons at these points.

The present system is not perfect by any means, and until it is considered possible to keep experienced life-savers and expert swimmers on duty as at the larger beaches, it will not be advisable to consider the city's swimming beaches as adequately protected.

They are, however, much less dangerous than other areas, and parents who insist upon their children swimming there, with advice against taking any foolish risks, will be doing the best that can be done for them under the circumstances.

THE DETOUR NUISANCE.

Fault is being found with the road-making operations of the Ontario Department of Highways because of the apparent neglect on the part of the officials responsible to pay any attention to the question of detours.

The Ottawa Journal scores the department for this failure in connection with the Prescott road, but Peterboro motorists can find samples much closer to home, especially if they have been travelling on the Kingston road east of Cobourg.

As the Examiner has said before, the chief idea seems to be to get the traffic off the road under construction, and what happens to it afterward doesn't seem to be anybody's business so far as the officials are concerned.

Detours are welcome in the promise they give of better roads in the future, but it does seem, especially when Ontario is engaged in a campaign to bring thousands of tourists into the country, that the Provincial Highways Department should concern itself more with seeing that the roads selected for detour purposes are kept in at least a fair condition.

At the same time, too, there is little evidence that the road-making contractors are out to establish any speed records in completing their contracts.

It is impossible to believe that the work could not be done more quickly.

Nothing discourages a motor tourist more quickly than to go from one rough, narrow detour to another, and in the interest of the tourist campaign the Government should see that the contractors are prodded into greater activity, and that some attention is paid to the detour evil, necessary as it is.

TENNESSEE AND DARWIN.

"Scopes is not on trial. Civilization is on trial." Thus Mr. Clarence Darrow, of the farce in Tennessee. Mr. Darrow should read a little astronomy, says the Ottawa Journal. Also a little history. It would teach him how small he is, how infinitesimal this trial is, what little difference it will make to civilization, or history, or anything else.

What is taking place in Dayton—how it vindicates, and would gladden the heart of Barnum!—reveals but one thing. It reveals what little progress some of the world has made in education. Perhaps it could not take place anywhere else in the Union; Tennessee is among the most illiterate of States; but not for certain. The land of Alexander Dowie, of Leopold and Loeb, of Babe Ruth and Jack Dempsey, is sometimes a strange land.

As for evolution, Tennessee will not disturb its status. Whatever the verdict people will remain, as Disraeli said he was, "on the side of the angels," or on the other side. If there be change at all, it will be among some malicious few who will say that Tennessee not only proves evolution, but that many in Tennessee haven't evolved very far.

THE K.K.K. AND MASONRY.

Though few persons would think anything to the contrary, it is nevertheless satisfactory to have the emphatic declaration of Mr. W. J. Drope, Grand Master of the Masonic lodge, that the Ku Klux Klan has no connection in letter or in spirit with the Masonic order in Canada. Mr. Drope's criticisms of the Klan and his references to the freedom of the franchise and of speech in Canada, are equally satisfactory. There never has been, there is not now or will there ever be any good reason for the existence of the hooded order in this country. There is no purpose for it to serve, nothing for it to accomplish.—Border Cities Star.

OUR DAIRYING INTERESTS.

The National Dairy Council, an organization of dairymen extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific, exists in addition to the Provincial organizations. Its chief functions are to keep track of the general dairy interests of Canada; to propose any new or amended legislation that they think is required; and to see that the law is observed. Their work is of an educational character, but it is keenly on the lookout for anything that would prejudice the industry.

According to Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, some adulterating has been going on, chiefly with cocoanut oils. Very little is done in the creameries, but in the cities there are people who make a business of buying butter and adulterating it, a practice which calls for the severest penalties.

The Minister spoke frankly on the matter of dairying some time ago and practically told the dairymen of Ontario and Quebec that unless they improved the quality of their butter the first thing they knew Australia and New Zealand would be opening warehouses in Toronto and Montreal and other large centres and offering their goods to Canadians. He did not know that that would be an unmixed evil, but it would be rather a strong commentary on the quality of our home-made butter if Australia could do such a thing successfully.

There is improvement in sight and Ontario has taken the first required step toward better results by providing for a good raw product through the grading of cream. Certain educational work remains to be done in the improvement of dairying conditions, but if we get the raw product in good condition we can then insist on the manufacturers turning out a good article.

There will never be a glut of first-class dairy products, and that is another incentive to speed up the improvement of our quality as quickly as possible. Every country that can go in successfully for dairying is going to engage more and more in this branch of agriculture. The Prairie Provinces were never thought to be good dairy countries, but they have increased their output of creamery butter this year some ten million pounds; while our cheese vies with the best Australian—in fact, the best Canadian cheese is away better than the best Australian product.

What is wanted is uniformity, and, taken all round, Canada can extend the butter and cheese industries to a very great extent with the help that the department is most anxious to afford.

BRAZEN-BROWED.

There has long been ill-feeling among the English about the way American films treat Old Country topics. Historic characters have been deliberately misrepresented to suit the purposes of the "love tangle" around which most films weave their suggestive story.

Canadians can understand this feeling, for they, too, have been the victims of the insults of the film producers. Whenever a scene is shown depicting Canada almost invariably the picture is one of ice and snow; of mounted policemen, in Americanized uniforms; of lumber jacks, who, by the way, usually have well-oiled and carefully parted hair; of barren prairies; or of high, snow-bound mountains. But it is doubtful if there ever was a picture acknowledging as Canadian anything that would show Canada in her true light as a country worth living in.

This may suit the film promoters. But Canadians get just a little weary of seeing Canada slandered on the screen. Suffering the injury of misrepresentation ourselves, we can sympathize with the people of the Old Country.

But when an American film producer arranges, through base trickery, to be met at the dock in Southampton by an armed party and then escorted through the streets of London like a national hero, the climax seems to have been reached.

British people are docile in the face of almost unbelievable insults. But when an impolite and mercenary film producer from the United States arranges by false representation to be accorded honors that are given only to people who have done something worth while, the English have become justly indignant.

Needless to say, the film showing this brazen movie person receiving a national salute was confiscated by the censors.

As a publicity stunt, the idea created quite a furore. But it is very difficult to see where there is any value to be gained by these producers who, in their supreme ignorance of politeness and courtesy, would so deliberately insult the people of England.

When the Cunarder Berengaria docked at Southampton a few days ago, passengers were surprised to see a detachment of British Territorial troops on the dock. Still more surprised were they when they saw an American "movie" promoter step off the boat and review the soldiers.

Most astonishing of all was when the troops formed up and, headed by their band, escorted the movie party through the streets of Southampton, boarded the train for London, and then started to escort the party through the metropolis to the film company's headquarters on Wardour street.

Going through the streets of London banners were unfurled advertising a new American film, handbills were distributed, and the colonel in charge of the troops perceived that he was simply acting as an advertising stunt for the new film that was being brought into the country. As soon as he discovered the way he was being exploited the troops were hustled back to the railway station by means of the back streets.

Naturally there was an inquiry. The colonel's version of the affair was that he had been led to believe the film company was interested in the Territorial troops. It was his understanding that his command was to be filmed and the pictures used for recruiting purposes. The last thing in his mind was that he was going to be used to advertise an imported film by escorting it to London. Needless to say the money paid the soldiers for their time was returned to the film company.—Border Cities Star.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, July 17.—The slump in cattle prices at the Union Stock Yards a week ago was not overcome this week owing to a continuance of heavy receipts, which for this week were 7,250 head. In addition to these there was an accumulation at the yards of around 800 head, and this week ends with almost as many held for next week. Two export firms sent out around 2,300 cattle, but not quite half of these were bought on the market. Quality considered, those taken for export were steady with the week before. Choice heavy steers were $8.50 and $8.60 a cwt., but there were only two loads of these.

The larger part of steers and heifers obtained this week for export were handyweights and the prices ranged from $7 to $8 a cwt. Export bulls were firm from $5 to $5.75, but cows were lower by 25c a cwt. and only a small number cost over $6 a cwt. Good and choice butchers' cattle were taken at steady prices. Occasional singles sold at $7.75 and $8 a cwt., but the bulk did not bring over $7.50 and loads just a little uneven were sold from $7 to $7.25. Good medium butchers brought $6.25 to $6.75 and common butchers were down in instances to $5 a cwt.

Butchers' cows were easy on competition from western shipments and receded 25c a cwt. Fairly good cows were $5 to $5.50 and medium quality cows $4.25 to $4.75 a cwt. The stocker and feeder trade was dull and specialists lost money on some carried nearly two weeks. Western 800 to 900-lb. feeders sold at $4.90 to $5.25 a cwt. A Quebec buyer made a fair market at firm prices on springers, with top Holsteins around $100 each. The future market will be at least steady on good to choice exporters and handyweight butchers, but green unfinished cattle can only with difficulty be used by the abattoirs and these are the main drag on the market.

Calves have dropped nearly two dollars a cwt. on the Buffalo market and prices here have declined half that amount. Good to choice calves are 9 to 10 cents; mediums 7 to 8½, and common calves are around 5 cents a pound.

With a discount of $2 a cwt. on buck lambs in effect on Wednesday, large receipts were looked for on Monday and Tuesday, but they did not occur and prices advanced $1 a cwt. this week. Ewe lambs and wethers close the week at 16½ cents a pound, and buck lambs are 2 cents a pound below this. Choice sheep are steady from 6 to 7 cents, and yearling lambs are selling at 8 cents a pound.

U.S. hog markets are steady to firm, but packers have been able to cut local hog 50 cents a cwt., and the closing price on Tuesday was $1.50 f.o.b., and $13.50 a cwt. off cars. The packers are sending out a bid of $12.25 a cwt. f.o.b. for Saturday's loading, but this is thought to be only tentative.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, July 18—(Canadian Press).—A stronger feeling developed in the local market for spring wheat flour and millers in most cases marked up prices 50c per barrel by the close of the day. There was no important change in the market for winter wheat flour, prices being maintained on limited supplies. There were no further developments in the market for millfeed, prices being steady with a fair amount of business passing. The baled hay market continues steady, with prices practically unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 18. — (Canadian Press).—Flurried buying brought about a rapid late advance in wheat prices to-day. The buying resulted from an unofficial estimate that the July 1 government forecast of spring wheat production in the United States this season would be reduced possibly 30,000,000 bushels owing to the recent hot wave. Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 2 3-4 to 4½c net higher, September 1.57 5-8 to 1.57 7-8 and December 1.53¼ to 1.58½, with corn at half cent decline to 5-8c advance. Oats unchanged to 5-8c higher, and provisions varying from 7c off to 12c gain.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 18—(Canadian Press). — A very firm feeling prevails in the local market for eggs owing to the smaller supplies coming forward as compared with a year ago at this period, and the scarcity of high-grade stock. There was improvement in the demand from dealers to meet requirements over the week-end, and a fair amount of business was done with sales of specials at 42c, fresh extras at 40c, firsts at 36c and seconds at 33c per dozen. Receipts were 1,413 cases, as compared with 1,868 for the same day last week, and 1,939 for the corresponding day a year ago.

Receipts of butter were 7,666 packages, as compared with 8,181 for the same day last week, and 6,271 for the corresponding day a year ago. The strength which developed in the market on Thursday was more pronounced and prices scored a further advance of 3-4c to 1¼c per lb. This was attributed to the marked increase in the demand from foreign buyers for supplies at much higher figures, with the result that considerable more business was done and the market displayed a fair amount of activity and the prospects are that values may go still higher in the near future. Round lots of Western No. 1 pasteurized creamery were quoted at 38 3-4c per lb., eastern townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 38½c per lb., No. 1 creamery at 37½c per lb., and No. 2 creamery at 36½c per lb.

Receipts of cheese were 8,686

What John K. Costs You

If you are a John K. McCarthy this message is for you

Stoney Lake—near Peterboro. Just one of the beauty spots of the Kawartha lake country. Sketched by the well known Canadian artist, C.W. Jefferys, O.S.A., A.R.C.A.

John K. McCarthy drives to his summer home every Friday night and comes back Monday.

It's 98 miles, and he makes it in [illegible] roadster can turn over sixty miles an hour with ease, and it rides comfortably at forty-five.

John K. gets about 14 miles to the gallon on the road. As a careful business man, he figures that oil and gas cost him about $5.20 for each round trip.

No one could ever accuse John K. McCarthy of deliberately being careless with property, either his own or belonging to someone else. But every time his high-powered car gets above twenty-five miles an hour, it causes needless destruction to the road by grinding away the surface.

John K's trips to his summer home cost the people of Ontario more for road repairs than they cost John K. for gas and oil.

There are thousands of "John K. McCarthy's" in Ontario. They mean to be as careful with other people's property as with their own, but they do not know that speed laws are meant to preserve road surfaces.

If you are a "John K. McCarthy," this advertisement is addressed to you. The Government of the Province and the various County authorities have provided an extensive system of good highways over which you may travel without cost. They look to you to do your share in keeping these highways in good condition.

You wouldn't wilfully destroy property. Don't wilfully destroy the highways.

An advertisement issued by the Ontario Department of Highways to secure the co-operation of motorists and truck drivers, Automobile Clubs, Good Roads Associations and all other public spirited bodies, in abating the abuse of the roads of the Province.

LOON LAKE PICNIC FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Day of Sports Greatly Enjoyed by Patrons of Outing.

APSLEY, July 18.—The Anglican pubilee picnic at Loon Lake on Wednesday goes down into history as the biggest and best of its kind ever held in the north country. The money taken in for meals, bazaar, jubilee quilt and canteen amounted to about $265, meaning a clear profit of over $200, which goes towards the wiping off of the debt on the parsonage and parish hall. The result of the picnic financially and otherwise exceeded all expectations, and the promoters and workers are to be congratulated.

The draw for the jubilee quilt, which was worked by Mrs. Downing and Mrs. Stanley Windsor, excited a great deal of interest, the winner being Mr. Walter Miller of Peterboro, who held the winning ticket, No. 62. The boat racing was a unique feature, this being the first time a regatta had been attempted on Loon Lake. The canoe race for the burgee, donated by J. J. Turner & Sons, was won by Stanley Windsor, who easily defeated the other competitors, Charlie Smith coming in second. George and Harry Tanner came in first in the skiff race, closely followed by Stanley Windsor and C. Smith. Besides the water sports, races were held on th eland, and together with a baseball game between Apsley and a picked team from the visitors, including American tourists, won by Apsley, 28 to 18, made up a full afternoon of excitement and fun. Thanks are extended to all those whose interest and labor served to make the event so successful, and to Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, Grafton's, Ltd., George Stephens, Simon Windsor, Mrs. Brown, Ella and Roy Brown, Mr. Haggart and Mrs. Nichols, who kindly donated prizes for the sports; also to Mr. Haggart, who gave the use of his summer cottage for the meals. During the day excursions on the lake by Mr. Haggart's gasoline yacht and C. Hawke's steamboat were well patronized. Fine weather prevailed all day.

Thunderstorm Thursday.

The worst thunderstorm of the year occurred on Thursday morning at 5.30, the thunder and lightning being terrific, but so far no damage has been reported, though a narrow escape from fire through a fuse being burnt out at the Central Telephone Station in Brown's store occurred, the flames being extinguished through the presence of mind of Miss Ella Brown. The rainfall was extremely heavy, 1.06 inches falling in a little over an hour.

Made 226th Trip.

Mr. Hardill, who travels for J. G. Adams, wholesalers, Peterboro, and has visited Apsley for twenty years in a business capacity, made his 226th trip here on Thursday.

ELECTIONS FOR

the international and inter-provincial negotiations which preceded the obtaning of the necessary order from the International Joint Waterways Commission to proceed with the development of Grand Falls. Hon. Walter E. Foster is a former member of the province. He inaugurated the present Hydro policy in 1920 and has been styled the "Father of Hydro in New Brunswick." A. Chase Fawcett is a prominent farmer and was the leader of the Prograssive group in the Legislature which has just been dissolved; he led practically the solid Progressive group in favor of the Government's policy for the development of Grand Falls as public ownership position, the last session. James Burgess was a member of the Legislature some years ago, and has been one of the leading business men in the town of Grand Falls as well as a successful lumberman. Elwood Burtt is one of New Brunswick's most progressive business men, operating several mills in central New Brunswick and on the north shore.

To Award Contract.

The reorganized Hydro Commission will have the first meeting under the chairmanship of Premier Veniot at Saint John next Tuesday afternoon. One of their first acts will be to award the initial contract in connection with the development of Grand Falls on the Saint John River, tenders for the spur line railway which will run to the power house site closing tomorrow.

Parties Prepared.

Both parties have almost complete line-ups of candidates already in the field and, while polling is to be brought on about as rapidly as possible from the date of issuing the writs, it cannot be said that either party is unprepared. With the nomination convention for the new urban constituency of Fredericton, Devon and Marysville held here last night, the Government now has candidates in the field in all constituencies except the new urban constituency of St. Stephen and Milltown, formerly part of Charlotte County, and Carleton County, where, because the Progressive candidates are running as supporters of the Government's Hydro development policy there may be no straight Government ticket. The Opposition have tickets everywhere except in Northumberland, where there has been some indecision as to whether to run a straight ticket or to make up a coalition combination, inasmuch as four independents carried Northumberland in the last general election.

PASTOR WELCOMED AT CHURCH SOCIAL

Rev. J. O. Totten and Wife Greeted at Cavan Social.

MILLBROOK, July 17.—A very pleasant social evcnt took place on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Jas. Douglas, Cavan, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the United Church, when members of the congregation from the three appointments gathered to welcome their new pastor, and his wife, Rev. J. O. and Mrs. Totten, who have recently come to the circuit.

The fine weather made it possible to hold the affair on the lawn, the tea tables, which were tastefully decorated with flowers, and laden with good things to eat, presenting a most attractive appearance.

Owing to the busy time on the farms, the attendance was less than had been looked for, but by the hour for beginning the programme the seats were all occupied, and both pastor and people had taken full advantage of the opportunity to become acquainted with each other.

Mr. F. Staples made a capable chairman, and following his opening address, called upon Rev. Mr. Totten for a few remarks. The latter, on behalf of his wife and himself, expressed appreciation of the kindness extended: "We feel at home already, and we find the many complimentary things told us about the Cavan circuit before we came here, are actual facts. Our sincere prayer and hope is that we may all find the pastoral term, (an indefinite one under the United Church constitution), both pleasant and profitable."

Other items on the programme, which was given from the verandah, included a duet, "Just keep smiling," by Mrs. A. Kennedy, and Mrs. R. S. Staples; a recitation, "Bamford's Burglar Alarm, by Miss Helen Staples; a male chorus, "The Church in the Valley"; a recitation, "George's Cousin, Willie," by Miss Muriel Matchett; and a second chorus, "Keep Singing," by the male voices.

Other gatherings of a similar nature will probably be arranged within the next few weeks giving Mr. and Mrs. Totten further opportunity of making the acquaintance of all the people on their new charge.

OPINION GIVEN ON VETERANS' MERGER

Leon Frazer Compares Plan to That of Chambers of Commerce.

The Examiner, seeking the opinions of several individuals competent to speak on the question of Earl Haig's proposed merger of the various War Veterans' associations into one large body, approached Leon Frazer on the subject at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon.

"Amalgamation means less divergence of opinion, consequently greater effort," said Mr. Frazer, "and greater efficiency in promoting the well being of the returned man. The Government will be the better enabled to deal with the representatives of the veterans, if those representatives are appointed by a united association acting as spokesman for all veterans. With a central body it will then be possible to formulate a common policy.

Mr. Frazer said the association would then be in a position similar to the Chamber of Commerce which was endeavoring to achieve a policy beneficial to all Canada. "That", said Mr. Frazer, "is our [illegible] We may not reach it, but we must have an objective, and the objective of the War Veterans associations is one that can be obtained."

SWORD ON EXHIBIT.

Will Recall Stirring Days in 1812-15 When Canada Was Threatened.

One of the interesting relics to be exhibited at the Peace Celebration next August 1st to 8th, inclusive, is the sword carried by the late Col. Johnson during the war of 1812-15. This weapon did valiant work during that war in the hands of the gallant officer, Col. Johnson. The appearance of the old sword at the Belleville celebration, after remaining in quiet obscurity for 110 years will recall the stirring events of the war. The capture of Detroit by a small force of Canadians against three times their number of United Statest troops in a strongly fortified town, the capture of Buffalo, the successful battle of Lundys Lane and Queenston Heights, the perilous twenty mile walk of Laura Secord through the enemy's lines at night, all accomplished by a small scattered population in Canada of only 380,000 against a nation of 8,000,000, show the fighting qualities and military skill of the Canadians.

NEW SYSTEM.

Life Insurance Companies Get Premiums From Pay Envelope.

Application of the salary allotment system to the payment of life insurance premiums is meeting with wide approval, according to the reports of agents and managers of companies which are offering such a plan.

The Prudential Insurance Company of America has just made public a list of companies which have recently adopted the salary allotment system for the convenience of their employees. The list contains names from various sections of the country and of widely contrasting industries. Among the companies named were: Lawnsbury Motor Sales Cd., Toledo, Ohio; American Textiles, Inc., Mt. Vernon, Ill.; Moore-Handley Hadware Co., Birmingham, Ala.; Norman H. Heimlich (groceries) Syracuse, N.Y.; The De Laval Company, manufacturers of cream separators, of Peterborough, Ontario, and William A. Dawson (florist) of Willimatic, Conn.

Uunder the salary allotment plan the employee insurance premium is paid to the company of his choice through the paymaster or cashier's department, the amount of the premium being deducted from his pay.

YOUR GARDEN

BUDDING YOUR ROSES.

A very interesting garden occupation which will appeal to the summer gardener is the budding of roses. Cloudy and somewhat moist weather should be chosen if possible either this month or in August. When the conditions are hot and dry, however, the work should be done in the early morning hours before the sun becomes powerful.

Well rooted stocks must be used which can usually be purchased from a nurseryman. Dwarf rose stocks should be cut back to within about six inches of the ground. The buds selected should be of the same age as those which form the branches of the stock. This point may be determined by examining the size of the branches.

Cutting the bud: Use a sharp knife (a proper budding knife will be most efficient) and in cutting out the bud remove it with its leaf stalk attached; there should also be a portion of the wood and a certain amount of bark both above and below the actual bud. The whole may measure about three-quarters of an inch in length.

Making the incision in the stock: This must be made about an inch in length and as near the junction of the stem with the shoot as possible. Make the cut in the form of a T which should be carried well down to the wood of the shoot.

Inserting the bud: It is highly important that there be no delay in placing the bud in position and the bone handle of the budding knife (which is especially made for the purpose) is most useful at this time though with great care an ordinary knife may be used. First of all raise the bark on one side of the incision. Then push in on one side of the bud just under the portion that has been lifted. Carefully lift up the bark on the other side and it will then be found that the bud will drop into its place. Next press the bud gently back until it is stopped by the end of the incision and any portion that is overlapping at the other end should be cut away.

Finishing the work: Grafting wax or paraffin wax may be applied though if the bud be well tied in, this may not be necessary. Use a good long piece of raffia and bind the bud in so that all parts are sheltered from the air. This should be done very thoroughly to prevent any evaporation of moisture which would hinder or even prevent the union.

Two final pointers: Carry on the operations as fast as is consistent with careful work as dawdling will give but poor results. To get a well shaped bush every branch on the stock should be budded.

What happened to Robin Hood and his merry men of the Green Wood, would just about fill a book.

All this doings took place Thursday, but it was so good that we had to keep it a secret for a couple of days, on account of Don Bonter getting both stung and bitten and sick.

You see, Wess Johnson had agreed to meet the boys some week day and go looking for adventure, as Robin Hood and his merry men, and that's how it happened.

Jimmy Britton, who was one of Wess Johnson's chief followers and expected to be somebody important in the Green Wood Robin Hood band, was taking a short cut through those very woods, on the way to the Johnson farm. He was accompanied by Don Bonter.

Jimmy and Don were in ample time, as Wess had a chore or two to do before he would be able to join them, so they took in the woodland sights on the way. They revisited the flicker nest and saw a youngone sitting in the hole and calling for food. They also noticed a flying squirrel, and this was a real discovery, for they observed a hole that might be the squirrel nest.

When Jimmy and Don arrived at the Johnson place, Roy Preston and Bill Davis were already there, helping to weed the kitchen garden, his last chore. The added help soon made the garden weedless, and away the boys went.

Don informed the company that he knew where there was a flying squirrel nest. Oh yes, he knew, he had seen it, and that was enough.

Wess, who knew the woods like a book, suggested that Don lead the way, and Don wanted nothing better. If anyone in the band would make a good leader, Don knew it would be himself; so off he ran, in advance of the others, leading the way to the squirrel nest. This made Jimmy Britton very peeved.

"Didn't I help you in that fight the other day And wasn't I in this Robin Hood band before he was? I'm not going to be in it if you go and make him leader," said Jimmy.

Wess was disgusted. "Ah, you make me tired; can't you have arrows in your quivver without shooting?"

"Well, Friar Tuck never had any arrows," answered Jimmy.

"If you are thinking of being Friar Tuck, Jimmy, you would make a good one," said Wess. "Can't you even wait till I tell you that Don is barking up the wrong tree?"

By this time Don was well up an old tree, working towards a likely looking hole.

"Is that the squirrel nest, Wess?" asked Bill.

"Can't say, Bill, it's up to Don," was the reply.

Don was at the hole. He hung on by one arm, invited all to watch operations and at once reached away into the hole, pulling out a crumped mass of wasp nest.

The wasps did not wait to declare war. Don moved down fast but was getting dangerous stings before Wess recovered from the surprise.

"Drop man, drop!" cried Wess, "we will break your fall," and with that the boys closed in at the base of the tree and poor Don fell on top of them.

You would think several stings on the ears and near the eyes would stop any boy, but Don was not only made of good stuff, he intended to prove it. He may have made a mistake, but he saw those squirrels and would find them without help, especially as he was a little smaller than Wess.

The stings rather changed the subject for a while and Bill suggested that they all go in for a swim in the creek.

They took in the old Kingfisher nest on the sandy bank, but strange silence there and several kingfishers no longer bothering about visitors, made Wess decide that they had all grown up and departed.

Wess was sorry for Don, but pleased that his leadership was not in danger for the present, so he suggested that they all go and see a bittern nest in the rushes, after they had all their clothes off.

After much wading in mucky water, where Jimmy was sure there would be a snapping turtle for every toe he had, Wess found the nest. It was deserted.

"I tell you, fellows, those young ones were faster in growing than I expected; they were here last week, for I saw them; they were pretty big, but I was sure they would be here, but they are gone," said Wess with chagrin.

The band made off through the slimy going, as fast as possible, and were all soon in a pool getting the muck off themselves.

Don began to recover from the first burning, stinging sensation. His one eye was almost closed, but the recent failure of Wess to produce the bittern was all that was needed to feed his ambition.

Don not only put on his clothes, he put on a new determination to locate the flying squirrel nest. So he did not wait for the rest, but hurried back over the trail which he and Jimmy had used on the way to the farm.

Close study of the likely looking trees gave a lead as to the probable place of the nest, and that was enough. He called to the other boys to come on.

Wess was not so keen on this new venture, for he had knowledge of the squirrels and felt that Don was not going about it in a regular Robin Hood fashion. However, he would be patient and hold back his arrows, as he put it.

The boys assembled and Don started to climb up the tree and make a great show of wisdom, especially as the squirrel he had seen, had been reluctant to leave that particular tree.

Wess watced the whole show with mingled sorrow at the success of his new rival, and concern at what the outcome would be, since Don knew little about woods.

The one squirrel went into the hole which had attracted Don, went in and out in a rattled manner, then ran up a limb.

With great gusto, the would-be leader put his arm into the hole and reaced away down. "Empty!" said Don.

"I can tell you it is not empty," suggested Wess, glad of the error, "but you better come down."

The new knowledge only whetted Don's desire. He got a new hold on the tree and reached farther down. That was his mistake. He let one awful yell go ringing through the woods as he pulled his arm out, with the mother squirrel hanging on his middle finger with her teeth.

The squirrel let go and was gone, where, he did not even look to see; all he saw were the holes in his finger and a group of boys waiting to catch him as he fell. Then he fell on them. He had had enough of leading.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, JULY 19-20.

Sunday's astrological map holds auguries of active but hazardous conditions. It might be well to guard against loss and to keep affairs well in hand, avoiding all money risk.

Those whose birthday it is should run no risk with money, should attend to affairs in hand, safeguarding all interests. A child born on this day should be taught the value of prudence and caution in handling its financial affairs. Monday's horoscope holds presage of success and thriving conditions generally, with the probability of important change or journey. Those in the employment of others are under good auguries.

Those whose birthday it is are under fine promise of a prosperous year, in either business or employment. They may make an important change or journey and be happy in heart and home affiliations. A child born on this day may be expected to be clever, talented popular and generally successful. It should do some travelling in its life.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

HOW YOU CAN AVOID HARDENED ARTERIES.

Coursing through the body is a torrent of blood. It leaves the heart and travels through miles of pipe lines before it gets back to the place of beginning.

The blood vessels are called arteries, capillaries and veins. Today I am interested in the arteries, the vessels which carry the blood from the heart. The veins, you recall, carry the blood to the heart.

The arteries have strong walls, composed of three layers. The internal layer forms the delicate lining membrane of the vessels.

The external layer is formed of firm, fibrous connective tissue. It is the chief envelope, giving form and strength to the arteries.

Between the internal and external layers is found the middle layer of the blood vessel wall. This is muscular tissue, giving elasticity and contractibility to the arteries.

You see the blood vessels are strongly made, yet they are yielding and elastic, not unlike fresh, good rubber tubing. They safely carry the blood, whether it is coursing gently through the system, or whether in the excitement of fright or anger it is rushing in a tumult.

Unfortunately, conditions occur which interfere with the normal, elastic, flexible state of a well-behaved artery. For some reason the vessel walls become hard and brittle. In consequence, if unusual pressure is put upon the blood stream there may be a break in the wall.

The arteries should feel soft and be compressible to the pressure of the fingers. If you feel the pulse at the wrist where the doctor examines it, the artery should not be like a whipcord. But if the vessel walls become hardened, the artery will feel like a pipestem under the fingers.

This is the condition popularly known as "hardening of the arteries." The doctors call it "arteriosclerosis," meaning the same thing.

There is another condition in which the blood vessel wall loses its elasticity. It gives way under the pressure of the blood, becoming stretched and dilated.

When this happens the whole artery does not dilate, but just the weak spot in it. Just as blowing into soapsuds will make the bubbles, there is a place in the course of the blood vessel where the walls blow out like the b iar The effect of this process is a pecul swelling in the course of the artery. It is given the name "aneurysm."

Fortunately, aneurysms are not common ailments. They are not necessarily serious, but whether they are or not depends on the size and importance of the particular artery involved and the size of the aneuryism.

It is rare to have hardening of the arteries or aneurysm if the health is good and if proper care has been taken to guard against abuse of the body. All the things which go to produce Bright's disease are sure to have their effects upon the walls of the arteries. Overeating, loss of sleep, worry, working too hard—these are some of the factors which should be avoided. If persisted in, weakness of the artery walls may result.

A quiet life, simple food and the hygienic manner of living which makes for good health—in this is the secret of avoiding arteriosclerosis and aneurysm.

"Ages"

HAL COCHRAN'S DAILY POEM

Since wee little Mary has grown just past two, she is proud of her age as can be. She likes folks to question her, "How old are you?" And she answers, "I'm growin' on three."

When uncles and aunts come to visit this tot; when neighbors drop in for a spell, she always will say, "Someone ask me my age, 'cause mother has taught me to tell."

You'd think after while, that the answer would wane; that Mary'd forget all about it. But, somehow or other, it sticks in her brain and she always is ready to shout it.

And yet, I'll just bet you in years yet to be, we'll find that she's rather upstage, and dodging the answer to you and to me if we happen to ask her her age.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

MOTHER HOPPY TOAD SETTLES A DISPUTE.

"I don't care," snapped Tilly Turtle, "I saw him here drinking from the pond, this very morning, and I tell you his tail is the same color as his coat only it has a small edge of white around it. Why, when I saw him, I remarked to my sister, Dolly Turtle, how well his tail and suit matched in shade."

"Just the same," croaked Daddy Green Frog, who liked nothing better than an argument, "I saw him as he was leaving the pond, and I tell you his tail was as white as snow. Lady Croaker Frog," Daddy Croaker Green Frog called, "come here and settle a dispute for us."

Mrs. Croaker Green Frog crawled up from the pond and settled herself on the log beside Tilly Turtle and Daddy Green Frog.

"My goodness," she croaked,

"You Are Both Right."

saw him could plainly see that his tail was white."

"There you are," sneered Croaker Green Frog.

Just then Dotty Turtle hearing the noise came up the log to see the cause.

"what in the world can you folks find to fuss about on such a lovely day?"

"What color was Mr. Virginia's tail?" asked Daddy Croaker Green Frog. "My wife saw him leave the pond just this very morning. What color was his tail?"

"White, snow white," replied Mrs. Croaker Green Frog. "Anyone that

"Indeed his tail was just the color of his coat, tan," said Dotty Turtle, "anyone seeing him come into the pond could see that his tail was light tan with a white edge."

There's no telling what might have occurred if Old Mother Hoppy Toad hadn't happened along just then and stopped to inquire the cause of the wrangle.

My! How Mother Hoppy Toad did laugh when they told her.

"You saw Mr. Virginia Deer come into the pool?" she asked turning to Dotty and Tilly Turtle.

"We surely did!" exclaimed Tilly and Dotty Turtle. "And his tail was tan tipped with white."

"It's white, I tell you, all white," almost screamed Daddy Croaker Green Frog. "My wife and I saw it distinctly as he 'eft the pond."

"Well, well, foolish folks," laughed Mother Hoppy Toad. "You are both right." Tilly Turtle turned to Ootty Turtle with a disgusted air, while Daddy and Mama Croaker Green Frog fairly frothed at the mouth at the idea. "Tilly and Dotty saw him come into the pond. Wait, here he comes now, you can all see for yourselves."

Sure enough, as Mr. Virginia Deer walked into the pond his tail held up like a pointer. It was so near the color of his tan coat you could hardly tell where tail and coat began.

Tilly and Dotty squeaked approval. But their face changed when Mr. Virginia Deer finishing his drink, turned around and started away, his tail on the other side was as white as snow.

There were four plunks, and Mother Hoppy Toad stood on the bank alone. The peace disturbers had disappeared under the water.

That was the last time they ever had a quarrel.

SAVE THE CHILDREN.

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholrea infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child they will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed by a government analyst to be absolutely harmless even to the new-born babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GREAT ADVANCE IN LATE YEARS MAKES DIVING DESIRABLE TRADE SAYS DIVER WORKING IN CITY

Thomas Northey of Lakefield Tells of Progress Made in Equipment.

GREATER DEPTH

For Thirty Years He Has Delved Below the Surface of the Water.

Over 30 years of underwater experience is the record of Thomas Northey, the diver laying the pipes across the river bed at the sewage disposal plant in the north end of the city.

Mr. Northey, who is a resident of Lakefield, has been employed by the Dominion Government on practically every waterway between here and Georgian Bay and has worked a great deal on the Trent Canal.

With a long experience behind him, he finds himself very little inconvenienced in bolting the pipes together and laying them across the bottom of the Otonabee, 16 feet deep at that part. He says that in clear water there is quite good vision at this depth, and that with practice one becomes quite accustomed to strolling through the water despite his diver's suit and the intense pressure around him.

Although accidents frequently happen under the surface, Mr. Northey says he has been singularly free from mishap. This, he attributes to the efficiency of the air pump above him, which he examines frequently before descending. He has, however, known of divers who have had the drums of their ears burst by a too hasty ascent from deep water; while it is not uncommon to find a diver rising to the surface bleeding copiously from the mouth, nose and ears.

The descent of the diver usually causes commotion among the members of the finny tribe who are in the vicinity. Mr. Northey says he finds the bass very tame, approaching quite closely and manifesting an insatiable curiosity.

The diver's dress is usually made of India rubber cloth and covers the entire body, except the head. The dress has a screwed neck-piece into which is fitted the helmet, which has a corresponding screw. Air is supplied by a flexible tube communicating with the air pump in the ship above.

Some modern types of diver's dresses render the diver entirely independent of the crew above. They are elastic and hermetically closed. A reservoir containing highly compressed air is fixed on the diver's back, which supplies him with air by a self-regulating apparatus at a pressure corresponding with his depth. When the diver wishes to ascend he simply inflates the dress from the reservoir.

Field Enlarged.

A considerable enlargement of the field of deep sea diving has followed the invention of a form of diving apparatus which remains unaffected by the limitations hitherto imposed on work of this kind. A possible depth of 204 feet is recognized by the British Admiralty regulations under the conditions that obtain with the common form of diving suit. But this depth had never been reached. One hundred feet was the usual depth of the average diver, with 150 feet as his absolute maximum. With the new apparatus a submergence of 212 feet has been obtained and this might have been indefinitely extended had there been a greater depth of water at the place where the experiment was carried out—Long Island Sound.

This latest diving apparatus is constructed entirely of metal, is rigid and strong enough to resist the great pressures found in the depths to which it can penetrate. The material used is an alloy of aluminum and the complete diving case weighs about 500 pounds. When on the surface a man enclosed in it is absolutely incapable of movement, but in the deep water which counter-balances the dead weight of the apparatus the diver can easily move through the water. The diving case is not absolutely watertight as the slight leakage of water acts as a lubricant of the joints of the case. Such water as trickles through is expelled by an ingenious pump appliance which pumps water out and air into the case. The pump is installed in a recess at the back of the diving case. It sucks all leakage from the feet of the suit and forces it outwards. The pump is worked by compressed air, which after performing its mechanical task of working the pump, is exhausted into the suit for the diver to breathe. The foul air then passes to the surface through the free space in an armored rubber tube, within which are also enclosed the compressed air pipe for driving the pump and electric connections for telephone and lamp.

Through this arrangement the diver has always a good reserve of air, which he can breath even should the pump fail to work for several minutes.

During an experiment with these diving dresses the pump was stopped for 10 minutes while a diver was at a depth of 100 feet. Such a condition as failure of the pump to work for 10 minutes would have spelled death for a diver equipped with an old-time suit as he would have been suffocated before being brought to the surface. But in this case the diver suffered no inconvenience whatever.

Another good result of this dress is that it eliminates the delay in hoisting the diver to the surface. According to Admiralty regulations, should a diver go 204 feet down the time of his ascent must be not less than one hour and a half. With the latest dress a diver has been brought up from this depth in 87 seconds!

REBEKAH LODGE ANNUAL PICNIC

Millbrook Ladies and Friends Motored to Harwood, Rice Lake.

MILLBROOK, July 17—The annual picnic, under the auspices of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 176, was held on Thursday afternoon at Harwood, the beautiful park on Rice Lake, which was just completed last year, proving a convenient and suitable gathering-place for an event of this kind.

Sixty or more of the members, and their friends, went by motor to the picnic grounds, and had the heavy rain in the morning not prevented many others from making preparations, the attendance would have been considerably larger.

Games, including soft ball and baseball, with a number of races, which were heartily entered into, filled out the sports' programme, and sharpened appetites for the abundant picnic supper which was served about 6 p.m.. Tables were so arranged that all, except the waiters, could be seated at the one time.

The social side of the outing was not without its attractiveness and considering that the event had been postponed on account of unfavorable weather on the date set in June, it was felt by all that its success was unquestioned.

No mishap of any kind marred the outing, and the committee in charge, Sisters Z. Bentley, P.N.G., C. Harkness, V.G., I. Fallis, N.G.; J. Henderson, Treasurer; A. Ball, and M. Garside, are to be congratulated on the very pleasant gathering which resulted from their efforts.

Congratulations are being extended to Misses Helen Staples, Florence Fallis, Ruth Sharpe, Anna Hawthorne, Ethel G. Falls, Mary Wood, and Mr. Gerald Staples, who have successfully passed their Normal School examinations.

District-Deputy President, Sister Florence Way, of Beaverton, paid her official visit to Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, this week, Sister McLean, also of Beaverton, District Secretary-Treasurer, accompanying her. A pleasant social hour followed the business session.

Mrs. P. I. Bentley, Mrs. J. A. Vance and Mrs. Arthur Fallis, attended the district meeting in connection with the Rebekah Lodges held in Peterborough this week.

Mrs. C. Purser, of Toronto, is visiting her sister, Mrs. M. Sutton, Anne street.

Miss Muir, of Toronto, is the new principal of the Continuation school, succeeding Mrs. M. Jenkins, resigned.

Miss May Mitchell of Oshawa is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Byam, and other friends, over the week end.

WORRIES IN THE HOME.

IT IS THESE THAT CAUSE MANY A BREAK DOWN IN HEALTH.

Almost every woman at the head of a home meets daily with little worries in her household affairs. They may be too small to notice an hour afterwards, but it is the same little worries that break down the health of so many women. Their effect may be noticed in nervous headaches, fickle appetite, indigestion, pains in the side or back and a sallow complexion. To those afflicted in this way Dr Williams' Pink Pilsl, by improving and purifying the blood, bring speedy relief. Among thousands of weak women who have tested and proved the merits of this medicine is Mrs. Gustave Hutt, Bruxelles, Man, who says: "It is with profound thanks that I write to tell you what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. Before I began taking these pills I was weak and my blood thin and watery. I was so thin that I looked like a skeleton. I was troubled with headaches and indigestion, did not sleep well and was terribly constipated. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I soon found that they were just what I needed. Under their use my appetite returned, my food digested properly and I slept better at night, and gained in flesh as well as in strength. The result is that now I am a perfectly healthy woman and there is no doubt that it is due to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a supply of which I now always keep in the house, and I would advise other women to do the same.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

AUSTRIANS ASK ENTRY INTO U. S.

Emigration of 50,000 in Two Years Would Relieve Labor Surplus.

LONDON, July 18 — How can America be persuaded to accept immigrants in excess of quota? That is the question puzzling industrialists and politicians alike in Austria who are hoping for a sympathetic audience in Washington.

Authorization for immigration en masse is what they are aiming at, since the quota of 785 for the ensuing year will not relieve the difficulty the nation faces in trying to absorb, under the rehabilitation scheme, Nationals for whom work must be found.

The Vienna Chamber of Labor has addressed a memorandum to the Chancellor requesting him to open negotiations with a view to obtaining permission for the emigration of 50,000 unemployed Austrians to the United States in the next two years.

Unemployment in Austria, the memorandum states, is not temporary but is due to a permanent surplus of labor.

The chamber requests the government to approach the representatives of the United States associated with the League of Nations in regard to the matter.

It is suggested that the Austrian government should guarantee the cost of transport of the emigrants, their maintenance, if necessary, during the first few weeks after their arrival, and the maintenance of their families left in Austria.

All Europe is watching developments with profound interest.

A LINE-O-TYPE.

Take a few thousand barbarians and set them down in the midst of civilization for a few years, then return them to their native wilderness.

For Veterans Only

What will be the reaction? What will be their memories? They will not think in after years of the friendships they have had with their companions on the jaunt. They will recall the wonders through which they passed.

But take a few thousand civilized men and put them in the midst of barbarism for a few years, and on their return their memory will be of the work done by this one and that one in the common good of all.

Thousands of Canadian boys were taken from their homes a few years ago and plunged into the midst of a barbaric war. Now they are back in their native towns and cities—what are left of them. Some did not return.

What are the memories of those who came back?

Not of the beauties of the cities they visited, the wonders of pastoral France, the miles they covered.

Their dearest memories are of companions they knew well in the days when every man's soul was bared, when mannerisms and convention could not throw their disguise over the innermost thoughts, when life and men and things were seen in the raw. They were days when every man depended upon his side-kick to do his part. The failure of one meant the death of many.

Out of adversity grew up a companionship that no lifetime in the paths of peace could have bred.

And now only memory remains—but what a splendid, searing, beautiful, terrible memory it is!

We have heard our battalion men calling from "out front" and have done the impossible to take help; we of the guns have heard the SOS and have thrown away our gas masks because they hindered our ability to help the men up front, though the pits were full of mustard.

Heroic, these things seem now, looking backward, but then they were done in the routine of pulling together, and every man was his friend's friend.

Now, back from their graves to which we carried them, wrapped in their swaddling blankets, on stretchers; back from their resting places in quiet English and Canadian cemeteries, the men we left and those who have left us are calling to us not to forget. No more are seen the green and red o fthe SOS star shells, the winking signal lamps, that brought their messages on the firing line; no longer are they standing by the roadside to shivvy us as we pass; the buzzer cannot convey their plea.

But we know—because we knew them—that they do not want us to forget, that they would like to think that so small a thing as death cannot sever the companionship welded in the days of war.

Five hundred ghosts — ghosts of Peterborough men who were—will meet the men who remember them tomorrow, and the old friendship will be renewed for a short hour.

And through the decoration ceremony at Little Lake cemetery the veterans who participate will renew in themselves a beautiful spirit reminding them of all that was best in war, and will show Peterborough people that whoever else may forget the men whom we left behind, we who fought with them never can, and never will, forget.

They say war is inevitable. One way in which we can help to make it impossible is by keeping its results before the people in such parades as tomorrow's. We do not flaunt our glory; but only show our regard for men whom war took from us.

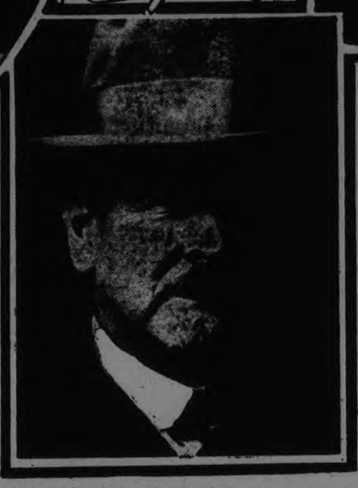
CANADIAN NURSERY OF WONDERFUL HORSES



Founder of Wilks Estate Built Old-Land Manor House in Wild of Colony—Present Mistress Has Enlarged Park to 1,600 Acres—Wonderful Stables and Trophies.

By "J. P."

About 1850 a young and adventurous Englishman, newly arrived from the Old Land, sought a location for a home in Upper Canada. His prospecting first took him to Niagara Falls. Then he was advised to inspect the land around Hamilton. A friendly hotel clerk in that city suggested, in view of the particular topography that was favored, to continue his journey until he reached Galt. In due time he arrived at the little town on the Grand River; for one not accustomed to pioneering habits displaying qualities that met the approval of the Canadians with whom he came in contact. The "going" over the roads, corduroy and gravel, was rough, but Mr. Ashton was all smiles when he entered Waterloo county. The grass was not allowed to grow under his feet as he sought a suitable location for the establishment of an "estate." This he found principally on an elevation on the west bank of the Grand, two miles north of Galt. Notwithstanding his energy in house building, in the clearing of sections of the forest, in the stocking of the farm with choice cattle, horses and sheep, in the construction of a brewery, in filling the costly residence with treasures from art galleries, the "immigrant" failed to realize his expectations. Financial reverses overtook him, forcing the placing of all his Canadian possessions on the market. At this time, over in New York, another gentleman of English birth, with wealthy American connections, an owner of some pieces of very valuable business property, had engaged an agent to seek a healthy spot in Upper Canada—a spot well above sea level, and report to him as to its accessibility and general features. And so it came to pass that Matthew Wilks assumed ownership of Cruickston Park—then an estate of approximately 400 acres. To the then residence—pointed to by neighbors of high and low degree as the "showpiece" of the countryside—he added several rooms, his entire plan conforming to the Elizabethan architecture adopted by Ashton, materially enlarging the initial structure, making it one of the handsomest and best equipped in Canada—an English manor house in the wilds of a British colony. The "setting" of the residence was all that could be desired. From the wide verandah and windows Mr. Wilks could view the winding Grand river one hundred and fifty or more feet below the elevation. The panoramic effects that pleased him fascinate visitors to-day as their eyes sweep the town of Preston and the golf and country club across the stream. A glorious prospect to the lover of inviting landscape; and there for forty-two years of life in his embowered home Mr. Wilks enjoyed the best of health. To the development of the property he brought natural ability and professional talent until seemingly it could not be further ornamented. On his death, at the age of 82, his youngest daughter, Miss Katharine Langdon Wilks (a native of the Isle of Wight), assumed control of the estate, entering spiritedly into its expansion as the home of the best strains of trotting bred stock on this continent. She was in this enterprise the pioneer among the women of Canada. A real adn abiding love for domestic animals dominated her activities in this direction. She spared no expense in reaching her objectives; buying more land, adding several adjacent farms in a high state of cultivation, and building to produce an ensemble pleasing to the eye. Thus has the mistress of Cruickston Park rounded off her estate until it covers 1,600 acres, a large portion magnificent woodland. It can be truthfully said that Miss Wilks has shown daring qualities in the materialization of her ambitious plans and, as well, profitable initiative in acquiring stock that subsequently carried her name into all American and Canadian trotting centres. And all the time she has been the good and patriotic citizen, the thoughtful and sympathetic neighbor.

The recent death of Miss Wilks' long-time manager, James Wetherill, brought an offer to Dr. Harry F. MacKendrick of Galt (like his brother, Col. W. G. of Toronto, a war veteran) to supervise affairs on the farm, and the engagement was accepted, conditional upon the doctor (an ex-president of the Galt Horse Show) being permitted to continue his practice.

Famous Wilks Horse

During the few hours each day that he spends in supervision his dynamic energy brings results that please the owner. The place has been brushed up from one end to the other; miles of roadway have been widened, features on the training ground improved, and system introduced to keep the fourteen farm hands fully occupied in carrying out their daily duties. At the present time eight yearlings get daily exercise on the track and all are negotiating the mile under three minutes, giving promise of bringing additional fame to their breed, it being fully expected that the group will furnish some real turf stars in the classes in which they are entered—following in the footsteps, so to speak, of Kentucky Todd, Jim Todd and others from the stable with records that shine in Canadian and United States trotting annals.

Cruickston Park is reached from Galt over a crushed gravel roadway as smooth as one of asphalt, thanks to the care given it by an efficient suburban road foreman. For a mile before reaching the main entrance fields on either side show attractive stone fences, a trained Bavarian builder spending five years in constructing them. On the highway no less than ten gates of special design have been erected this year to facilitate entrance to various sections of the estate. Before entering the house the visitor may be shown the garden, a plot one acre and a half in extent, surrounded by an eight-foot stone wall, with a beautiful wrought iron gate, a lily pond and a spacious greenhouse. There are several springs in the park, and with rams they furnish pure water for every purpose. Just now the garden is a riot of bloom. A Scotch gardener who takes the utmost pride in his horticultural operations, is in charge.

Once inside the mansion the visitor is struck with the taste displayed in arrangement. The founder and his daughter have given the province a country residence that opens, permit me to say here, the way to speculation as to the opportunities old Ontario, with her hills and valleys, with her fine stretches of woodland, her smooth roadways and many streams, offers to people of means to build as Matthew Wilks built, though New York city was within the compass of his activities. An accompanying photograph of the house gives one an idea of its massiveness. The beauty of its lines—thoroughly English—is paid tribute to by architects. The interior shows spacious rooms and halls, and woodwork as chaste as it is appropriate in the highly artistic decorative policy pursued. It is everywhere on the ground floor dotted with silver cups, from the nonpareil of six inches to the one thirty-eight inches in height. Add to this display the room with its four walls covered with ribbons—1,300 of them—captured at race meets, fairs and exhibitions in this country and the neighboring republic, and there is before one an interior so exceptionally ornamented as to place it—though the homes of King's Plate winners are not to be overlooked—almost in a class by itself.

To particularize: There is the cup captured at the National Horse Show, New York, in November, 1914, by that grand pair, Rhea W. and Easter Belle, the best pair of roadsters exhibited; a prize for the best appointed rig being included. At Cleveland, Alexander, driven to wagon, won the national championship, in 2.09 in the amateur driving race competitions, with George W. Burke handling the reins. The trophy received by Miss Wilks represented the greatest number of races won.

Princess Todd in September, 1912, as a three-year-old, won the Futurity in 2.11. No other trotter of his age has ever accomplished that feat. The celebrated horseman, Daniel J. Campeau, added a massive cup to the money.

Cups also came to Oro Lambert, one of the famous sires raised on the farm, now dead. Oro Wilks, 26 years old, is still there unchallenged as the best standard bred in Ontario. Jim Todd, now 37 years old, is a Cruickston Park exhibit to-day and coveted by many.

Mograzia had no peer in his day for stepping and action. For nine successive years he was champion at Madison Square Garden.

All Ablaze and Black Princess as a heavy harness pair for several years at the leading shows carried off the chief honors.

And lastly there was the sensation of American tracks for two years, Sadie Mac, for whom Miss Wilks, shortly before she dropped dead on the Hartford track, was offered a sum away up in five figures.

50,000 Refused For Todd

But other live stock has been gathered by Miss Wilks for breeding purposes. The farm holds 100 Shropshire sheep and 40 head of shorthorns and several pens of Yorkshire pigs. Heading the shorthorns is the bull 171,966, bred by W. and H. Hewitt, York. These shorthorns are all roans. There is also to be seen a well-filled poultry house, also in the way of buildings to serve all—a paint shop and a blacksmith shop.

In all her activities in the breeding and exhibition of her horseflesh Miss Wilks has shown great catholicity of thought and action, having also been a patron of county and district fairs for years. In the larger fields, such as Chicago, St. Louis, New York and the cities on the grand circuit generally, she has made Canadian foresight and enterprise respected, and for this she must be given credit. Few venture as the mistress of Cruickston Park has ventured. The pleasure—and the risk—have been hers, and from her host of friends throughout the country comes the wish that she may add many years to her useful life amid surroundings as that shine in Canadian and United picturesque and inviting as can be found anywhere in beautiful Ontario.

On the morning of November 12 of last year the main stock farm barn at Cruickston Park was destroyed by fire, the flames starting inside. Within a few minutes the whole interior was a raging furnace, forcing the loss of some of the animals.

The entire outside walls of this barn and the roof were covered with a good grade of corrugated galvanized iron. Even the cornices and doors were of metal construction, so that a complete jacket enclosed the fire, keeping down the heat and thus saving adjacent buildings from destruction, a demonstration of the value of metal covering for buildings housing live stock.

An accompanying illustration shows the wreckage after the fire—all that remained of one of the finest barns in Canada. The pile of burned and twisted material lies but a few feet distant from the large horse barn that at the moment contained Kentucky Todd, the noted sire of trotters, for which Miss Wilks refused $50,000 after he had won the Kentucky Futurity; and also Jim Todd, another of the same class; Frisco Man, a young stallion brought up from Kentucky, in addition to a number of valuable mares—twenty-five in all. That this barn is still standing is due to the fact that it is of brick and metal construction. A strong wind that blew the sparks into the surrounding woods, starting a blaze here and there, and that carried clouds of cinders to the structure housing valuable stock, broke harmless in that direction because of the "safety-first" obstacle in its path. The farm thus equipped is not a source of much worry, either to its owner, or to the agent from whom an insurance policy has been obtained.

As horsemen and livestock men generally in this province aim to keep well posted on matters pertaining to the care of horses, cattle and sheep, they will doubtless appreciate a description of this thoroughly equipped and substantially built structure. It is similar in size to the one burned, 50 x 100, with straw shed 32 x 36. The foundation of the main part, or stable, is of concrete two feet high, and the wall under the wing 32 feet by 36 feet, of stone about 9 feet high. This wing is used as a root cellar. Above the foundation walls a combined wood and structural steel frame was built, and over this a fireproof covering of high grade corrugated galvanized iron encloses walls, roof, doors and cornices complete. Even the stable windows are of steel, all helping to make it about as fireproof as any barn can be. The frame work is securely braced and reinforced by the use of a system of structural steel trusses which, while they extend out to give good bracing and up high enough to make a rigid roof, yet take up very little space and allow an entirely clear interior.

Fresh Air is Measured

This system enabled the designers to arrange for two unloading tracks so that the minimum work in spreading would suffice during a busy haying season. It also eliminates all braces extending down into the stable and certain to catch cobwebs and dirt, this being a contingency Dr. MacKendrick was anxious to avoid.

The portion of the wood and metal wall that encloses the stable is all lined up tight with matched spruce lumber. In addition to this, a thickness of seven-eighths of an inch lumber is and paper put over this. This gives a wall covering of metal, paper, lumber, an air space of six inches and a lining of paper and lumber, which insures warmth and absolute insulation. The entire stable is floored with cement graded for drainage, and with suitable curbs and cement mangers of latest design.

The place is arranged to hold eight horses standing across one end and facing the centre. The stalls of galvanized iron posts, mangers and fronts are sanitary and convenient and certain to meet with the commendation of the most critical of judges of stable equipment. The portion set aside for the cows has two rows for cattle in galvanized steel stalls—accommodation for 36 head. There is also a row of seven box stalls along the southeast side and provision is made for calves in steel pens.

A water system which reaches every stall forms part of the equipment. The entire interior—walls, ceiling and stalls—is finished in white. Dust-catching projections have been avoided to the extent possible in a building of this description. The ventilation of the stable is entirely automatic, so that no matter at what velocity the wind may be blowing, just the correct amount of fresh air will enter. The adjustment is set to provide 3,452 cubic feet of fresh air per hour per cow, and 4,297 cubic feet per hour per horse. This arrangement, in addition to providing fresh air, also removes the danger of extreme dampness on the walls and ceilings. The concrete mangers are graded to trapped openings at one end, so that they may be washed out as desired. Feed is convenient, the hay and other roughage passing through chutes from overhead to the halls below; while from the granaries above all grains and ground feed are cleared for consumption in the same manner. These important items in the all-round development of a model barn are considered essential in the doctor's plans for the reduction of labor costs.

It must not be taken for granted that the cost of this particular section of Cruickston Park is abnormal. This barn is one for the farmer whose activities include, and lean to, intelligent, thoughtful and progressive oversight of livestock [illegible] that experts could put into its construction. Lightning rods and a chemical fire engine are precautions against fire. The mistress of Cruickston Park, as all who know of her love for the noble animal, is very thorough in all that she undertakes. Her entire establishment begets a feeling of admiration for the initiative, the sustained energy and the vision that have marked her efforts to promote livestock interest in this province.

RUPTURE RELIEF

Appliance Expert Coming

Rupture(as defined) is not a tear but a dilation of the muscles and the distention of the membrane into the form of a sack (caused in the first place by weakness, and pushing force of internal weight and finally developing an external swelling in the groin through strain or violence) therefore subject to retention! Don't wear a truss pad where the lump is ,but be fitted where the rupture is. It's different, so says Thos. Y. Egan, Appliance Specialist, 1057 College Street, Toronto, who will visit Peterboro, White's Hotel (173 Charlotte street) Friday (hours 8 a.m. till 9 p.m.) 1 day only, July 24.

Egan's new "Curative", "Curatrus" and "Easyfit" appliances with retentive shield acts, feels and retains more like the hand than anything yet invented. It gives a mild exercising massage, permits free circulation and allows nature to strengthen the parts in the shortest time possible. Light, cool, neat, does not slip and costs little. Made to measure in a variety of forms for men, women, Children, infants. These new appliances being designed in conformity with the retentive principles as set forth by the world's latest textbooks, are now receiving the highest approval. They embody all the principles as now approved of and used in New York, London, Paris, and are effecting better results than ready-made old-fashioned trusses. If interested, now is the time to make yourself safe for your work, so do not miss this opportunity to call and have a personal free demonstration and examination of samples. You will thus save time, money and worry in the end. It costs you nothing to investigate. "The best in the world". Note dates; ask at hotel office for Mr. Egan's sample room. Tear this out as a memo.

USING A PAINT BRUSH IN UNEXPECTED WAYS.

Women have taken the paint pot unto themselves and are wielding the brush as successfully in decorating as in covering plain surfaces.

One woman has just done what she chooses to call a fan room that is quite interesting as an artistic achievement. She first had the walls papered with a plain cartridge paper in pale tan color, tinted the ceiling creamy white, and had the woodwork painted golden brown, and the floor to match. She then had a dado of plain straw matting fastened around the room just at the top of the baseboard, held firmly at the top by a quarter round moulding. This being painted in brown, like the woodwork. Then she stenciled a lovely pattern of purple wistaria on the matting and when finished varnished it. She then took enough Chinese fans, like our palm leaf fans only pointed at the top, decorated them with stenciled motifs of different sorts of purple and lilac flowers, and when done varnished them. She fastened them to the wall with their handles just under the Dutch shelf and their points down on the wall. The fans were close together so that they touched one another at the broadest point, and it made a most unusual frieze. The room was furnished in brown painted wicker and had brown and white shaded art rugs on the floor. The draperies were brown theatrical gauze over plain gold gauze which glinted through, giving a wonderful, live color effect.

Women are also doing wonderful things in painting nursery furniture. Not only is the furniture unusual in design but the painted floor as well comes in for its share of the decoration. One floor has been done in a sort of cross-word puzzle effect with a Chinese blue ground. The squares are arranged to run from the corners of the room to a large square in the centre, each square being white with gayly dressed Chinese children painted in groups in each. The effect is quite decorative.

Another blue floor designed for a kitchen is decorated with a border of yellow pumpkins and vines. Yellow walls with shelves full of blue china or pottery, yellow oilcloth on the tables and tubs, with blue line decorations, make this kitchen one to be remembered.

The attic in another home has become a most charming studio for an artist and a sister writer, who have made the place look like a colorful bit of Bohemia. After painting the entire place white, brilliant colored stencil work has been applied in ways to transform the place. Around windows and doors that have been painted in burnt orange with blue decorations, the stencils are run in bands, circles and in oddly shaped motifs.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

She Describes a Smart Bathing Outfit.

Madame has been making a few bathing outfits lately for some of her smart clients who are off for the seashore.

"I don't usually go in for bathing suits," she explained to one young lady to-day.

"But you will for me, won't you, Madame?" the young thing urged.

"I shocld hate to turn you down when you need my help," Madame said, half to herself.

"Well, I'm late getting to the seaseashore, anyway, and I have looked all about for a really becoming bathing outfit I came to you last because I know you don't usually make suits that that you would probably help me out," the young thing entreated.

This was enough for Madame. She said:

"I'll design you a bathing suit that will be the most ravishing on the beach."

"That's exactly what I want!" the girl replied.

She settled down comfortably on the divan of the salon and waited for Madame to tell her more.

Madame looked her young client over and I could see that she was taking in the color of her eyes and the glints of her hair.

The girl had gray-green eyes and dark hair with lovely glints of brown in it. Her skin was soft and white.

"You will be delightful in green," Madame said.

Then she ordered some materials from the stockroom and started sketching on her little pad.

The young girl edged nearer and looked over Madame's shoulder. Soon I heard an exclamation.

"Goody! I love little ruffled things!"

Madame smiled and soon presented the drawing. She said:

A Ruffled Green Taffeta Suit Worn with a Figured Beach Cape Lined with Deeper Green.

"I like the bathing suits simple."

It was a straight little affair of green taffeta, Madame explained.

She had in mind a pale sea green, and had sent for the sample.

Then she set about addi - to the drawing. I was watching too by this time and saw that she was almost covering the lightly pencilled bathing suit by an enveloping beach cape.

"This cape is to be of chintz with rubberized silk lining," Madame explained. "The outside is a light green ground with red and blue and deep green figures and the lining is of deep green."

"I love a cape to wear on the sand" tht girl exclaimed. "They are graceful and they do help to keep the sunburn off."

"You must have a ducky little bathing cap with tiny white flowers all over it," Madame told her client, as she hastily sketched in one of this type. It just suited the young girl who was waiting expectantly to see the samples for her bathing outfit.

Let's Talk It Over

SUCH A BRIDE IS NOT ALWAYS MERCENARY.

Is it mercenary to inquire concerning your prospective husband's income? Is it the sign of a cold calculating nature to gently hint that you require more than bird seed to live on. Martha's young man thought it was. Here's her story:

I have just lost my best beau because I happened to mention money when he was about to propose to me. And now all my family are jumping on me because I did. Well this young man who was coming to the house and taking me out to the shows and supper afterwards always had money, but from little things he said and from the location of his living place I did not think he was in any position to support a wife. I knew he would ask me sometime but I was surprised when he did.

Now I am very fond of this young man and might have become his wife and been happy, but I voiced my thought. I said, "Oh, do you think you earn enough for that?" or words to that effect, and he got terribly hurt. Things went from bad to worse until we parted.

My father, unknown to me, went to his home and talked things over with him. This has humiliated me terribly. I wouldn't have him now if he was lined with gold. Father then talked it over with mother, and the two continually scold me for having ruined a young man's faith in womanhood by being mercenary and trying to put a price on happiness.

It isn't that at all. But I think every girl has a right to know what she is getting into, don't you? Wont' you find out what other girls think? Dont' you think it is silly to go ahead and get married without knowing what is going to be expected of you? It isn't that I mind working in my own house or outside or doing without, but I do want to know what to expect.

MARTHA.

Yes, I do believe that every girl has the right to inquire into her prospective husband's financial affairs, and I do not believe that such an inquiry marks her as mercenary. It's merely an act of commonsense, like asking what time the train leaves, and whether to bring one's old hiking duds or spiffiest sport wear for the week-end in the country.

If girls knew more definitely what to expect after the honeymoon there would be a big falling off in after-honeymoon tears. The modern girl is not more mercenary than the old-fashioned girl. She is capable of the same self-denial, the same self-sacrifices and the same devotion as her mother before her. But for all her modern independence she is more often deceived as to her married duties.

The modern young man does not ask the lady of his choice if she's willing to skimp and save and cook and wash. Oh, no. The less he has the less he says about it and the more he concentrates on love and kisses—which are very well in their way, but not nourishing.

No one likes to feel one has been "taken in." If we looked at marriage with more commonsense and less blah we'd make a better job of it.

SHOULD MARRIED MEN WEAR NOSE RINGS? Rather an extreme style, perhaps, but one gets used to anything in time—even wide pants and patent-leather hair. Married women wear rings on their fingers to indicate the married state—why not tag the men? How's a poor girl to know whether it's worthwhile getting interested in the new boarder or the new man at the office without hiring a detective to track him to his lair? Many a girl has worked hard to land an office sheik, only to find he has a wife and three kids. The more I think of it, the better I like this nose ring idea.

Here's An Opinion

Perhaps there is never another period when married men take advantage of girls as they do in leap year. They know all the tricks of the game and easily fool the girls.

IT WOULDN'T BE A BAD IDEA IF CERTAIN MARRIED MEN WERE COMPELLED TO WEAR A STEEL NOSE RING. Their wives better than anyone else know why this should be done. Farmers in certain parts of the country do the same thing to their hogs when they will not keep from burrowing their noses into valuable territories. Married men who have boasted qualifications with other women are ready to raise Cain if their own wives even as much as flirt with young men. Can you beat it?

Plumage Colors for Fall.

Colors for fall and winter wear are interesting this year. "Plumage" shades are the thing for fabrics, with the varied hues of the feathered bird kingdom setting the pace in tints for the feminine wardrobe. All shades encountered in plumage will be worn, with a wide variety of choice.

Reds, bluish purples and fuchsia shades will be popular, green will be one of the favorites, with browns in many hues, and all of the blues—from pale to deep—will be shown this season.

In shoes brown promises to be the leading shade, with grey a close second. The color card just issued by the National Shoe Retailers' Association of Canada shows six official colors for shoe leathers and fabrics for fall and winter wear, with five browns in the list. These are the Autumn Blonde, a new version of the well-known "Blonde" shade, and a very attractive tint; India Tan, a light golden tan; Rosewood, a deeper tan with reddish tone, and similar to the coloring of the bark it is named for; Woodland brown, a beautiful shade of dark, rich brown, with a dignified air; and Rugby tan, with an orange glint in its rich coloring.

The single sample of grey shown is dubbed National Grey, and is described as a "Moonstone" or "Coolidge" grey, a soft, medium, silvery-toned shade.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

THEY BOYCOTT HEROES OF PETTING PARTIES

wo hundred and fifty dollars a month, he must make that much anyhow, and he must have a chance to advance.

He must be one of a large family.

He may be either a professional man or a business man. Doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief—rich man—poom man—beggar man—well they didn't say anyhing about the "thief" but he must be able to talk about something besides his business.

And that's the ideal husband for the co-eds of the University of California.

They have been answering a query on "What kind of a husband do you want?" and five hundred and ninety-five of them said they wanted a $250.00 a month man with all the other plans and specifications—no "steppers," no "sheiks," no 'hand-holders," no petting party heroes" need apply.

And no "reformers' or "goody-goodies" either.

Score one for the co-eds.

Rather a plain ,sensible sort of idea for a husband isn't it? And I'll warrant every one of them cherishes in her secret heart a hope for a wild romance with some dark-eyed stranger who doesn't know a thing about business or a profession either and who would make her deliriously happy for a month or two and miserable all the rest of her life.

The widow-by-proxy was talking to me about it this morning.

"Fudge," said the widow-by-proxy.

And "fiddle-sticks" said the widow-by-proxy.

"That's what they said when they answered the professor's questions. It isn't what hey meant at all, not if they are anythink like the girl I used to be.

"What has common-sense to do with love? Let me ask you that.

"I married for love, not for common-sense, and I'm glad of it. My husband was crazy about me and I was crazy about him. He called me up on the telephone three or four times a day and after he had gone downtown to his office he used to sent me letters by an office boy and flowers and things. We lived in Paradise for six years. Oh, yes, it was a fool's Paradise, I'll admit, but it was a Paradise anyway. I'm glad I had it, even if I did have to lose it. I'd rather have six years of Paradise, and then be done with, than a life of hum-drum contentment—yes, I'm glad I had sense enough to be a fool—when I fell in love. My husband didn't amount to much I guess. I think his present wife will agree with me as to that, but dear me what a good time we did have for those six years. No, he wouldn't qualify at all with the ed's idea. Not for the idea they reported to the Professor. He wasn't by a any means a goody-goody and he didn't earn anything like $250.00 a month. We were as poor as poverty, but how we did laugh and dance, and what fun all our friends had giving us things and helping us out.

"Yes. I suppose if I was part of a questionnaire I might not talk like this, but as it is——"

The widow-by-proxy laughed and then she sighed and then she looked as if she wanted to cry—and then the telephone rang and she told the elderly millionaire on the other end of the line yes, she'd be delighted to dine with him—and—but when she put down the telephone, she was laughing again.

I wonder why?

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I was to have a "date" with a friend one evening, and about ten minutes before the time for him to be at my home he called up and said he couldn't come. He didn't give any reason.

Do you think I ought to call him up and tell him not to call any more? DOUBTFUL.

DOUBTFUL: Of course, it was very inconsiderate of this young man to break his engagement with you so late, but unless you do not value his company, you should not break friendship because of it. The young man was probably detained unavoidably and you should be broad-minded and generous enough to overlook it.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens. There are two young men in town whom I have been going with for about ten months. Both say they love me and both have asked me to marry them. I haven't er of them, because I am not positive whether I love either of them. Of course, I like one a little better than the other, but I am not positive of my love for him.

May I have the benefit of your advice? BLACK EYES.

BLACK EYES: Since you are not in love with either of these young men, you should continue your friendship with both. Do not become engaged, however, or give up your other friends until you are certain of your love. And when this happens you will not need any advice—you will recognize the real emotion very positively.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

When the hands lead throughout the swing the player has a feeling of hitting down into the ball as the clubhead goes through. When there is body lunge in the forward swing the player has a feeling he is hitting through the ball, perhaps, then directly around to the left instead of straight out after the ball. When the hands lose the sense of control of the club there is but one thing for the player to hit with, and that is with the general exertion of his entire body or merely with stiffened, rigid arms. This makes a stiff-arm sweep which sometimes hits a fine ball, but never one with the real sting and punch that come from the hand-made blow. The first essential is to keep the club at all times under hand control. The fine practice swings you make result from the fact that the club is so controlled.

INVADERS WIN LONDON SPORTS

Only One of Four Events Captured by British.

LONDON, July 18 (Canadian Press).—Visiting athletes won most of the glory in the opening events of the annual amateur athletic association championships at Stamford Bridge Friday afternoon, leaving only a small share for the entrants representing England and Scotland.

Four events were decided and of these only one, the four mile race, was captured by the British. The native champion, C. E. Blewitt, of Birchfield, won this race in 19 minutes 54 3-5 seconds.

Hungary took the hop, step and jump, which was won by the Magyar, E. Somfai, of Budapest, with a distance of 45 feet, 10 1-2 inches. Harold Osborne, the Illinois Olympic decathlon champion, was second with 46 feet, 9 1-2 inches, and J. Connor, of Belfast, Ireland, was third, 45 feet 4 3-4 inches.

Ireland won the discus throw in which P. J. Birmingham of Midland, hurled the disc for a distance of 133 feet 7 1-2 inches.

The United States took the honors in the weight putting contest, when H. H. Schwarze, of the Illinois Athletic Club, sent the 16-pound shot through the air for a distance of 47 feet 3 inches.

Some of Best Absent.

It was not such a blue day for British sport as would seem on the first glance at the results of this afternoon, inasmuch as several of the best athletes of Great Britain's younger generation are at present competing in the United States as members of the Oxford-Cambridge team.

In addition to the three field and one track event decided this afternoon, the preliminary and semi-final heats of four running events were held.

Loren Murchison of the Newark A.C., and H. T. Evans, Jr., of the Illinois A.C., with two Britons, J. W. J. Rickel South English champion and G. M. Butler quarter mile title holder, qualified in the 220-yards dash.

C. R. Griffith of Surrey, and N. J. McEacharn, who won the 800 metres run in the Tail Teann Games at Dublin last year, were the half mile heat winners.

George T. Stevenson and Ivan H. Riley, both of the Illinois A. C., qualified for the quarter mile flat and the quarter mile hurdles, respectively. In the latter event, the British champion, F. J. Blackett of the London Fire Brigade, topped the timbers in 56 seconds, the fastest time ever made by a British athlete.

TY COBB SUSPENDED.

For Argument With Umpire on Thursday.

DETROIT, July 18 (Canadian Press). — Tyrus ("Ty") Cobb, manager and centre fielder of the Detroit Tigers, was indefinitely suspended yesterday by President Johnson of the American League.

The suspension came as the result of an argument with Umpire Rowland in the tenth inning of Thursday's game with Washington. Cobb protested a strike on Woodall and was ordered from the field after a short argument, the quarrel being renewed after the game. Cobb will direct the destinies of the team from the stands until his suspension is lifted.

BRIGHTON BEATS HASTINGS 13-6

Northumberland League Game Furnishes Excitement to Crowd of Fans.

NOT GOOD BASEBALL

HASTINGS, July 18.—Hastings lost the second game of the season on the home grounds on Wednesday afternoon when they played the Brighton nine in a Northumberland League game, the score ending 13-6. Wednesda's win leaves Brighton, the league headers and Hastings still holds second place.

The largest crowd of fans of the season witnessed the game which from a spectator's viewpoint was called anything but good baseball, but furnished plenty of excitement.

The visitors were out to win and put over two runs in the first innings, which seemed to get the locals in the air, but the home boys came back in their half with two runs also. Brighton got one run more in the second and from then on were never headed and played winning ball throughout the remainder of the game.

Scriver, who relieved Stevenson in the sixth inning, pitched wonderful ball for the balance of the game, but when he took over the heaving had too much of a lead to overcome. Some changes were made in the local line up for the game and after the game got under way the result of the change showed up the weak points.

The local boys are still confident of getting a play off with the winners of the league and with a little more practice will make them go the full nine to take the Clarke Cup.

The line up:

Brighton—McCullouh, p; Archer, c; Frise, 1b; Scriver, 2b; Samis, 3b; McKee, ss; Brown, lf; Langdon, rf; Cameron, cf.

Hastings—Stevenson, p, cf; L. Scriver, p, cf; N. Scriver, c; Dodd, 1b; Herrington, 1b; Cruickshank, 2b; A. Lemoire, 3b; Lambert, ss; Walsh, ss; A. Cassidy, rf; A. Lemoire, lf.

Umpires—Sprung of Brighton at the plate; C. Davidson of Campbellford on the bases.

SEVEN SHOOTING FOR CANADA IN KING'S CONTEST

Final Stage of King's Prize Competition Today With 100 Contestants.

ALEXANDRA CUP

Won by Lieut. M. J. Buckley of the Manchester Regiment.

BISLEY CAMP, July 18 (Canadian Press).—Seven Canadians were among the one hundred entering the third and final stage of the King's Prize Competition today. The Canadians and their scores out of a possible 100 at the second stage are: Lieut. A. J. Harvey, Timmins, Ont., 96; Lieut. Alex. Martin, Calgary, 95; Sergt. G. E. Elmslie, Toronto, 94; Capt. G. N. Galbraith, London, Ont. 94; Pte. J. H. Gray, Toronto, 94; C. Q. S. Parnell Verdun, Quebec, 94; and Sergt. A. F. B. Allison, Ottawa, 92.

The 26 competitiors with scores of 92 in the second stage incluing Sergt. Wilson had to shoot off for 14 places in the 100 which will enter the final stage. It proved for Sergt. Wilson one of the most exciting shoots in his long career. The first shoot of seven shots left eight to shoot for a solitary place among them the Ottawa man. Three more shots thinned them down to four men. There were two more shots and then Sergt. Wilson and Sergt. Legresley of the Island of Jersey were left alone. These two plugged in two more bulls. Then Wilson carded another bull. His rival took a full minute before he fired, and made an inner. Sergt. Wilson, therefore, takes the 100th place and it will mark his fourth appearance in the finals for the feature prize of the meet.

Cadet's High Score.

Third place in the second stage for the King's Prize yesterday was taken by Cadet Babington, formerly of Dulwich College, aged 17, with a score of 97. When Lord Cheylesmore, president of the National Rifle Association met him later, he said: "I do not know whether you will equal tomorrow the achievement of that splendid yuong Canadian last year, but at any rate you have already brought credit upon yourself and your country."

"That splendid young Canadian," is Lieut. D. Burke of Ottawa, winner of the King's Prize last year and who is also with this year's Canadian Bisley team doing good shooting.

Alexandra Cup.

The winner of the Alexandra Cup, 10 shots at 600 yards was Lieut. M. J. Buckley of the Manchester Regiment. Sergt. Ashling, Toronto, Pte. Gray, Toronto, and Sergt.-Major Kiddie, Toronto, were successful in getting places for the second stage of the St. George's competition in the shoot off. Pte. Irvine, Ottawa, was not successful. Last night in a minor competition, Lieut. Rowland, Hamilton, scored 20 consecutive bulls.

SMALLPOX GERM DISCOVERY MADE

Also Expected That Methods of Cancer Treatment May Be Formulated.

LONDON, July 18 (United Press).—An important discovery, which is expected to have far-reaching results in the treatment of smallpox and kindred germ diseases is to be announced next week by Dr. Mervyn Gordon, after three years of exhaustive research.

The National Research Council, sponsor of the famous cancer experiments of Dr. W. E. Gye and J. E. Barnard, has the report on Gordon's working.

In the meantime, there exists the possibility that the cancer experiments will lead to a system of vaccination against the disease. Gye's work, it is understood, opens the road to such a method, but so far provides no cure for the dread ailment. Gye and Barnard are reported to have accomplished the unique feat of photographing smallpox germs, thus permitting a close study of this disease.

DISPOSAL PLANT READY NOVEMBER

City Engineer Tells Advantages of System—Progressive Step.

The pipe line of the new sewage disposal plant is now half way across the river. The City Engineer hopes to see the work completed about the end of October, and the plant in operation by November.

East City is not included in the present arrangements, but it is intended that the whole of Peterboro shall be brought within the scope of the works at a future date.

An absolutely pure effluent cannot be attained under any circumstances, says the engineer, but the liquid discharges into the river will be purified off 95 per cent. of the bacteria. Even then there will still be about hundreds of thousands of bacteria to the cubic centimeter, as opposed to the millions the sewage contains before being purified.

NEW POTATOES GROWN LOCALLY

Market To-day Had New Season's Vegetables—Tomatoes Scarce.

PRODUCE PLENTIFUL.

New potatoes and tomatoes from local gardens and fresh honey were items of outstanding interest on the farmers' market this morning. Potatoes registered a low mark of 50 cents a peck, a good deal lower than last year opening quotation of 75 cents for the same quantity. Some dealers were asking 60 cents a peck, and asserting that their supply was better than the lower priced spuds.

Tomatoes were scarce and were priced at 25 and 30 cents a pound. Clover honey was selling at 17 and 19 cents a pound, while 16 cents was asked for the mixed amber essence of "apple blossoms and dandelions." Upstairs, one woman had two-pound jars of honey at 45 cents.

Red raspberries were fairly plentiful this morning, and sold from 18 to 23 cents a box. Black berries were 25 cents a box, black currants were selling at 2 quarts for 35 cents, red cherry currants at 2 quarts for 25 cents, and white currants at 10 cents a box. The fruit dealers had red cherries in small sizes at 50 cents for a large basket, and regular adult specimens at $1 a basket. Gooseberries were 15 and 20 cents a quart and little green apples, the real "stomach ache" variety, if taken uncooked, were 35 cents for the half peck. Blueberries were 30 cents a box.

String beans were 10 cents a quart and green peas 4 quarts for a quarter, with shelled peas 25 cents a quart. Long "telegraph" cucumbers were 30 cents apiece.

Dairy supplies were plentiful. Butter sold generally at 38 cents a pound and eggs at 35 cents a dozen. Young chickens might be purchased all the way from 30 to 45 cents a pound.

The fish dealers had fresh trout, glistening with fine silver scales, at 20 and 25 cents a pound, and fresh little white fish two for two bits.

Little pigs were $12 a pair on the open market this morning, and a small, lively Scotch collie pup was priced at $1.00.

SUNDAY WARNINGS.

Chief Newhall Draws Attention to Breaches of By-laws.

Several complaints have reached the police of the numbers of weeds growing on vacant lots in various parts of the city. The keeping of plots of land in this condition, says the Chief, is contrary to law as well as causing an unsightly appearance. Summonses may be issued next week to owners disregarding the Noxious Weeds Act.

Fast driving of automobiles across intersections is still too frequent, adds the Chief. Delivery truck drivers and some lady drivers are persistent offenders, who are facing the risk of being called upon to confront His Worship the Magistrate in the near future.

All owners of gasoline tanks and air pumps on the streets within the city have been notified that licenses of $25 per gasoline tank and $5 for each air tank must be paid at once. Many owners have so far failed to comply with the by-law under which the license tax is levied.

It is understood that some of the owners contemplate disputing the authority of the Council to impose the tax.

"TOO MANY KISSES" NEW DIX STARRING PICTURE

The story of "Too Many Kisses," Richard Dix's latest Paramount starring picture which will be shown at the Royal Theatre next Monday to remain three days, is chock-full of interesting situations, has more than its share of humor and is a delightful romance in addition.

Picture for yourself Paramount"s new star (this is his third starring picture) working in his father's office in New York City. Gaylord, Sr. thinks his son pays entirely too much attention to the women and not enough to the business at hand so he sends him abroad, presumably to search for an unknown valuable metal—in reality to make him forget about his many girl friends for a while and, perhaps, get a little work out of him.

Immediately upon his arrival in the little town of Potigny in the Pyrenees, Bob meets and, true to form, falls desperately in love with the beautiful Yvonne Hurja, while Simmons, a faithful old fellow sent by Bob's father to keep the youngster out of trouble, does his best to break up the affair.

More interested in young Gaylord however, is one Julio. He looks upon the American as a person to be gotten out of the way as soon as possible and with as little trouble as possible. Julio claims Yvonne as his "woman" and Bob retaliates with "may the best man win."

Julio stops at nothing, even has Gaylord kidnapped and carried a captive to the mountains, while he goes on about his love-making with Yvonne, who despises him. Dix escapes, appears on the scene, wipes the streets with Julio and carries the girl off in triumph.

Here's a real story for Dix and he's said to fairly revel in it.

Frances Howard, who first appeared on the screen in "The Swan," is featured in support of the star, William Powell plays the unfortunate Julio and Frank Currier, Joe Burke, Albert Tavernier, Arthur Ludwwig, Paul Panzer and Alyce Mills play in support—not to forget "Harpo" Marx, of stage fame, who has the role of the village half-wit. Paul Sloane directed the production.

COUNTRY STORE NITE AT ROYAL MONDAY

In addition to Richard Dix in "Too Many Kisses," Country Store Nite will be held as usual on Monday night.

AT THE CAPITOL

COLLEEN MOORE'S "SALLY" COMPLETE.

Dainty Star Here Soon in Film Version of Ziegfeld Show.

The final scenes of this, her newest First National starring vehicle, have been completed under the direction of Alfred E. Green. The picture will be shown at the Capitol Theatre next Monday.

"Sally" was adapted from the noted Ziegfeld hit of the same name by June Mathis and enacted before the camera by a cast of more than ordinary excellence. As "Sally," Colleen Moore is declared to have eclipsed any role she has portrayed in the past. Her "Sally" is fraught with originality, charm and hoydenish humor.

Chief in her support is Lloyd Hughes, playing the foster son of a multi-millionaire, who first meets "Sally" when she is an inmate of an East Side Foundling Asylum. Fate links the lives of the two and carries them through the vicissitudes of struggle to final success and happiness.

Leon Errol, who created that inimitable comedy role, the Duke of Checkergovinia, in the original stage version, appears in the film version in the same character. Other important players are :Myrtle Stedman, John T. Murray, Ray Hallor, Eva Novak, Dan Mason, Carlo Schipa, E. H. Calvert and Louise Beaudet.

"Sally" is one of the most pretentious productions that First National has attempted. It has been lavishly staged, the settings being designed by E. J. Shulter. T. D. McCord, who photographed Colleen Moore's previous triumph, "So Big," was the cameraman on "Sally."

Those who have witnessed "Sally" during the making predict that the screen version will more than outdistance in popularity the colorful production that Ziegfeld gave to the stage.

UNITE VETERANS.

Col. Bradburn Thinks Amalgamation the Logical Step to Take.

"It certainly seems the logical thing to do," said Col. Bradburn, when asked his opinion of the amalgamation of the War Veterans' Associations. "One large association is more likely to get something done on behalf of the returned men than half a dozen. While the men are divided into several associations they will not get very far. And on the face of it, Earl Haig and the others who are pressing for amalgamation are more likely to know exactly what is best for the returned man than any one else."

LAWLESS PERSONS WILL NOW BE SHOT

According to a Proclamation Recently Issued in Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, July 18.—(Special by United Press.) — Chang Tso Lin's firm intention to end the chaos in Shanghai at all costs is evidenced in an order issued to General Shing Szlin, his commander here, to shoot lawless persons and undesirables in the native territory adjoining the foreign settlement.

A proclamation issued says:

All lawless persons or undesirables of any organization who dare to transgress the law will be shot in accordance with martial law."

Intimidation of Chinese activities virtually have ceased, propaganda has lessened and an increasing number of strikers is reported willing to resume work. Many employees of foreign firms are eager to discuss terms.

FRENCH LEAVE RUHR.

Evacuation Under Way in Full Swing and Troops Are Withdrawn.

BERLIN, July 18. — (Canadian Press).—The evacuation of the Ruhr appeared to be under way in full swing this morning. French were departing from Recklinghausen. To-morrow they will leave Colsenkirchen, and Monday Hattingen will be evacuated.

SOLDIER DEAD

Another feature will be the presence of three bands: the band of the Peterborough Rangers, the Salvation Army band, and the Caledonian Pipe band. The Rangers and Salvation Army bands will play a selection at the Cenotaph at 2 o'clock, and at the cemetery the pipe band will play "Lord Lovat's Lament."

Everyone Invited.

While the Decoration Day is under the auspices of the Veterans of the Great War, it has in past years and will tomorrow be of a cosmopolitan character. Little Lake Cemetery has always on this day been transformed into a bower of flowers nearly every grave being decorated by some who remember. The soldiers, and the relatives of those soldiers who are buried there, will decorate the graves of deceased soldiers, but graves of civilians also will be buried under a wealth of bloom. The name "Decoration Day" does not convey the full meaning of the occasion; it is a day of remembrance, an act of devotion, a grateful thought of mothers and fathers, tender memory of children, who have crossed the Great Divide. It is a self-respecting gesture to the world: "We have not forgotten these men with whom we fought and who fought for us; we have not forgotten these parents who sacrificed for us; we have not forgotten these children on whom our love was lavished."

The Military Programme.

All war veterans, whether members of the G.W.V.A. or not, are invited to parade at the Cenotaph on Murray Street at 1.45 p.m., in uniform when this is available, and wearing decorations. There will be a very short ceremony at the Cenotaph.

At Little Lake Cemetery there will be a departure from the usual order, it being planned to decorate the graves before the service is held. Veterans will then muster at the soldiers' burial plot, and the following will be the programme:

Hymn.—Nearer, My God, to Thee."
Address.—Captain R. E. Layfield.
Address.—Mayor J. J. Turner.
Anthem.—"Meditation."
Address.—Rev. Captain Paul Costello.
Roll Call of Peterborough's 450 Soldier Dead.
Address.—Rev. J. D. Paterson.
Hymn.—"Abide With Me."
Pipe Band—"Lord Lovat's Lament."
Last Post.
Reveille.

TORONTO, July 18.—(Canadian Press.)— Benjamin Winerip, aged 35 years, is dead and Mrs. Catherine Frost, Leslie Frost aged 19, Mrs. Martha Atchison, Mrs. Wilda Reid, Miss Evelyn Reid, are seriously ill, from inhaling acid fumes used in fumigating an adjoining house, at 82 McGill street. All the victims lived in houses on either side of the building which had been fumigated. The tenants of the house fumigated had been warned to leave the premises. The people in the house at either side, it is alleged, were not informed of the deadly poison being used in the place.

James Hills, fumigator, has been arrested on a charge of criminal negligence.

LIGHTNING STRUCK HYDRO SUB-STATION

Chimneys and Trees Also Struck When Storm Visits Norwood.

Norwood was visited by a very severe electric storm on Thursday, during which lightning struck a chimney on Mrs. B. Howson's house on the Hastings Road. The Hydro-Electric sub-station was struck about three times. Trees were also struck, but no serious damage done.

On account of the storm the Presbyterian Sunday School picnic, which was to have been held that day at Stoney Lake, was postponed, and will, weather permitting, be held on Wednesday afternoon next at Birdsall's Landing, Rice Lake.

United School Picnic.

The first picnic of the Norwood United Sunday School was held on Wednesday afternoon at Birdsalls Landing, Rice Lake. Cottesloe and South Dummer Schools were also in attendance. About three hundred enjoyed one of the most successful and pleasant picnics ever held by a Norrwood congregation. Swimming, races and a series of softball games were indulged in by old and young, and every one went home feeling the benefit of an ideal day spent on the lake shore.

Grandfather Muskalunge Apprehended This Morning By T. Curvin at Clear Lake

Tom Curvin looked like an ad for Cod Liver Oil when he got back from Clear Lake to-day with the healthiest 'lunge that has been caught in local waters in some time. This monster measures 48 inches in length and 20½ inches around, and weighs 35 pounds. It was caught with a Buffalo spoon and small hooks on an ordinary line, fighting twenty-five minutes before resigning its freedom at 8 o'clock this morning.

On July 4, 1923, Leo Tobin landed a 'lunge that measured 52 inches, but it was 4 inches less in circumference, and did not weight nearly as much as Tom Curvin's catch.

REPORT DENIED.

Admiralty is Not Constructing a Naval Base at Esquimault.

LONDON, July 18. Canadian Press Cable. — There is no truth in the report that the British government is establishing a naval base at Esquimalt, B. C., according to an announcement made by the Admiralty to-day.

The Admiralty says that the report is presumably due to the fact that a large dock is in process of construction at Esquimalt, but this dock, the Admiralty states, is a purely commercial undertaking, and in no wise does it concern the British government.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fletcher, of Bensfort, Celebrate Event.

Saturday last was a very happy day in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. John Fletcher, Bensfort, South Monaghan, when they celebrated their golden wedding.

During the afternoon and evening they received their many friends.

The home was tastefully decorated with flags and golden colored flowers.

The bride and groom were recipients of letters and telegrams of congratulations, also flowers and gifts, including a handsome French cut glass perfoume bottle set in a musical bronze stand, which was engraved "1874, Mother and Father, 1925."

Rev. Mr. Foley of Fraserville after giving a beautiful and touching message, read Psalm 91, followed by prayer, and announced that their grandchildren little Doreen Banks and Master Gordon Ryan would present the gifts to the bride and groom, after which the bride cut the three storey wedding cake.

After refreshments, Mrs. R. Ware sang sweetly, "Long, Long Ago."

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher were united in marriage at Middlesborough, Yorkshire, England, in 18— and came to Canada in 1879. FINANCIAL NEWS.

Gains. Led By American Can Characterize Street Sales

Gains Led By—C ....

NEW YORK, July 18 (Canadian Press)—Expansion of general business was shown by the weekly trade reviews, optimistic predictions that a half year's earnings by industrial companies would uphold the good showing already reported and the buoyancy of the recognized market leader—American Can — in connection with recapitalization rumors contributed to a general rise in stock prices today. New high records were achieved by many investment shares with outstanding exhibitions of group strength provided by railroad, equipment, merchandise, gas electric power, independent steel and tobacco issues. Among the striking individual movements were spurts of more than four points in American Can to record top at 208 7-8 and gains of three points by Sears - Roebuck, 4 1-2 points by Fairbanks Morse and 6 1-2 points by General Railway signal. The closing was strong. Sales approximated 650,000 shares.

General Advance Continued On Toronto Stock Exchange

TORONTO, July 18.— (Canadian Press.)—The Toronto stock exchange continued the advance this morning which set in at the latter half of the week. There was a tendency during the closing session, however, to concentrate heavy trading in leaders, which were Atlantic Sugar, Brazilian, Fishing, Canada Bread and City Dairy. Sugar common eased from sessions high at 33 3-4 to 33 1-4, a quarter point gain; preferred climbed 2 1-2 points at 80 1-2. Close on Brazilian was an eighth advance at 58 1-8 and British Columbia fishing closed a point and a half higher at 46 1-2. Canada Bread common, heavily dealt in, touched 46 and eased off from that half point, showing a point gain. City Dairy closed 5-8 higher and Smelters 3-8 at 97 1-4.

Reports of Crop Damage Send Wheat Prices Down

CHICAGO, July 18.—(Canadian Press).—Under the influence of general selling on the part of commission houses, the wheat market took an early swing downward today. Most of the selling appeared to be of the profit-taking character.

An ulooked-for decline on Liverpool's quotations was also more or less of a bearish factor. On the other hand, reports of crop damage in the spring wheat states, and in Canada as well, continued to flow in. Chicago opening prices ¼c to 2¼c lower, September 160¼ to 160 3-4 and December 156½ to 157, were followed by moderate additional downturns and then by rallies which at times carried the market back to slightly below yesterday's finish.

Lack of any aggressive buying allowed corn and oats to sag with wheat. After opening at 5-8c to 1 3-8c off, Sept. 106½ to 107, the corn market underwent a further decline, September touching 103.

Oats started at 3-8c to 1 3-8c lower, September 45½c to 46c and held near to the initial range.

Provisions were responsive to weakness of hog values.

U. S. Department of Labor Tries to Avert Coal Stoppage.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 18 (Canadian Press)—The Government has decided upon positive steps to be taken in case of a coal strike, Secretary Davis declared yesterday after a brief conference with the President. He declined to indicate to what extent the Government would go to cope with such a situation and said that the Department of Labor and other government departments were doing everything to avert a strike through mediators now active at Atlantic City negotiating between miners and operators.

SEVERE LOSSES HALTING RIFFS' DRIVE FOR FEZ

Attacks of Tribesmen Repulsed With Heavy Casualties, French Report.

PETAIN'S ARRIVAL.

French and Spanish Applying Pressure to Bolster Prestige With Natives.

FEZ, Morocco, July 20.—Abd-el-Krim's Riffian offensive against the French is diminishing in the Ouezzan region, yesterday's official French communique declares.

The enemy attacks are decreasing because of heavy Riffian losses in recent attempts to capture positions leading to Fez, officials believe.

The French communique speaks of a 'most friendly Spanish attitude' and refers to recent exchanges of courtesy visits by French and Spanish high officials in Morocco.

It says concentration of French colonial reinforcements against the Riffians are continuing, and that several battalions of recently-arrived troops from Madagascar are entering the active zone.

The communique adds that the enemy renewed attempts against Ain-Aicha and Ain-Matouf during the night of July 16-17, but with less violence than preceding attacks. All of the enemy's advances were repulsed, and on the following day the aviation forces bombarded the dispersed bands of Riffians that had made the attempt upon the French position.

TO MAINTAIN PRESTIGE.

PARIS, July 20.—The French, by sending Marshal Petain and General Naulin to Morocco, and the Spanish, by their action north of Loukkos and in the Larache section, are bringing all possible pressure to bear in order to heighten their prestige in the eyes of wavering tribesmen. At the same time they are organizing the situation so as to be ready to reply vigorously in case the Riffian chief's answer to pending peace terms is in the negative.

Rabat despatches affirm that Marshal Petain's arrival has greatly impressed the natives, as his record in the European war has made him almost a legendary hero. Marshal Petain spent a busy day conferring with Governor-General Lyautey. He was received in audience by the Sultan, to whom he gave assurances that France would do everything necessary to secure peace in Morocco. The Sultan thanked him cordially, and declared that his people were united with the French in defence of the country.

At Fez the Sultan caused to be read a communication in all the mosques adjuring the faithful to eschew politics and putting them on guard against mendacious rumors regarding the Riffian operations, ending with the warning that the mountain tribesmen following Abd-el-Krim would soon be punished.

A further sign of the extension of French activity against the Riffians is seen in the arrival of a hospital ship at Casablanca to evacuate the wounded and transport them to France.

TOURIST CAMP IS APPRECIATED

Toronto Man Writes Letter of Thanks For Facilities Provided.

STAYED FOUR DAYS.

Appreciation of the facilities provided at the Peterborough Exhibition grounds for tourists who camp there is expressed in a letter received recently by President Roland Denne. The courtesy and kindness of the caretaker, Mr. Gillespie also call forth grateful remarks from W. A. Weir, of Toronto, who spent four days there recently. The letter follows:

Dear Sir,— In behalf of Mrs. Weir, our two children and Mrs. Ross and her daughter and myself, I wish to thank you for the good time we have had camping in the grounds for the past four days. We have enjoyed a camp life here, with the added protection and convenience of the buildings opened for our conveniences.

Then, added to this, your superintendent, Mr. Gillespie, has been attentive and kind, taking an interest in our welfare, which we certainly have appreciated.

We will not attempt to compare your tourists' camping privileges with other towns, but perhaps the length of our visit speaks for itself. Kindly accept our thanks and deep appreciation.

Yours very truly,
W. A. WEIR.

CHICAGO, July 20.—(Canadian Press). Another ray of hope, that one of the amazing last hour developments which saved him from death on the gallows last Friday would become tangible enough to prove his innocence during the seven-day respite, has been extinguished for Russell Scott, erstwhile Canadian promoter. James M. Ball, a Detroit telegrapher, who last Friday declared that he witnessed the shooting of Joseph Maurer, Chicago drug clerk, and that Russell was innocent of the slaying, has admitted that the story was a romance, concocted "for the sake of humanity."

BURGLE STORE THEN FIRE IT

$100,000 LOSS.

COLLINGWOOD, Ont., July 20 (Canadian Press).—Fire which was not discovered until it had gained considerable headway, practically butted the lower floors of a large drygoods store of R. S. Brown here about 5 o'clock yesterday morning, entailing a loss to contents of about $75,000 and to building of $25,000. An inspection of the premises later revealed the fact that the fire had been started by burglars to conceal their depredations. A window upstairs had been forced and a number of iron bars that protected it were saw through and the majority of new ladies' costumes carried away.

300 PETERBOROUGH VETERANS REMEMBER 450 WAR COMRADES THEY LEFT ON BATTLE-FIELD

Biggest Decoration Day Parade in History of City Held Yesterday.

FLAG UNFURLED.

"The Dead Are Always Young to Us," Said Rev. J. D. Paterson.

Yesterday's decoration day parade of the War Veterans to Little Lake Cemetery was a colorful spectacle, marking a new era in veteran activities in Peterboro. Nearly three hundred men took part, headed by the Caledonian Pipe Band, the Peterboro Rangers Band, and the Salvation Army Band, and followed by a score of cars carrying the Women's Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A., war veterans unable to march, and civilians. In the van of the column were G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons; W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., Mayor J. J. Turner, Alderman Joseph Crowe, Rev. J. D. Paterson, Rev. Captain Paul Costello, Captain James Abraham, in command in absence, through illness, of Captain R. E. Layfield; Captain S. Whatley, secretary of the G.W.V.A., and other officers.

Yesterday's was the best parade the veterans have had on an occasion of this kind, and the ceremony at the cemetery was the most impressive. Not only the sixty-eight graves of ex-soldiers in Little Lake Cemetery, but the more than four hundred graves in France and Flanders where lie Peterboro's soldier dead, were remembered, and beyond that was the thought of Canada's sixty thousand dead, and the legions of the Empire with whom they fought and fell.

After a short service at the Cenotaph on Murray Street, erected by the G.W.V.A. and bedecked yesterday with many flowers, the parade marched down George Street, men greeted here and there by friends just as they were ten years ago when they marched off on the Great Adventure. In the ranks were represented Canada's five divisions and all arms of the service—cavalry, artillery and infantry. There, too, in the men who rode in cars and in those who limped at the end of the march, were seen the marks of the conflict. And at the cemetery was called to mind the tragic toll of war.

Flag Presented.

Mayor J. J. Turner presented the veterans with a Union Jack, to be flown at the soldiers' plot in Little Lake Cemetery. It is mounted on a pole surmounted by a spear-head, symbolizing the part the Canadian army played in the Great War, proud to be called by Foch his "spearhead troops."

In unfurling the flag, His Worship referred to the object of the parade, to keep green the memory of the men who died. "They led in the fight to uphold the ideals and institutions of the Empire," he said, "and others have followed and taken up the torch. We can best follow them by reverencing God, honoring the King, and loving the brotherhood."

Honor to the King was treated by His Worship under two heads; patriotism and loyalty. "A country is no greater than its people," he said. The resources in soil and minerals don't measure the greatness of country. The people who live in the country and develop the resources are what is measured. Uatriotism is a word loved by all true patriots. It signifies a love of country. The great British ideals of Freedom and Justice are set up and it is necessary to further these ideals to truly earn the name Canadian.

"It is hard to understand the price paid to protect these ideals. The watchword "Service" was given by His Worship as a means of handing down a nobler patriotism to the generations to come.

Sterling principles and character are needed to withstand the attacks on loyalty. There can be no wavering, and loyalty should be given, not only to Canada and the Empire, but to the Governor-General, the Lieutenant-Governor, and also to those chosen to direct the affairs of the country in the Legislature and Parliament, and in the muncipality. For the officers appointed to direct the

Paint Pots Brought Out Preparing For Tournament

When Martin Chenhall gets out his paint pots, white and green, and starts touching up the posts at the bowling green on Brock Street, everyone knows there's something big coming.

He's at it today, and his decorative activities show that Wednesday is the opening day of the annual open tournament of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, when rinks come from all over the district and from far away points to compete.

This is the big event in local bowling circles, and the three days are colorful in the extreme. Decorations have been ordered to carry out the scheme started by Mr. Chenhall, who is almost as well known as an expert bowler as musician.

Director Would Pep Up Hymns and Fill Churches

NEW YORK, June 20.—(United Press).—Ernie Golden, director of the orchestra of a large New York hotel, spoke from the pulpit of the West Side Religious Forum yesterday and told the congregation that jazz was so well on the wane that it would be extinct within a year.

While Golden would tone down jazz music, he advocated the "pepping up" of church music. His plea was illustrated by his orchestra, which played the hymns during the services in dance time.

"I would rather play a hymn in a church to dance time to inspire proper reverence ad appreciation than put a congregation in a state of lethargy with the usual monotonous pounding," he declared.

Hymns contained the best in music, Golden said, but they needed that "pepping up."

"Put hymns to dance time," he said, "and the converts who pack the jazz place will return to the church halls."

DARROW IS CITED FOR CONTEMPT IN SCOPES TRIAL

Attorney Made Unjustified Criticism of Court, Says Judge.

APPEARS TUESDAY.

Trial Proceeded After Bail Had Been Arranged For Darrow.

COURT ROOM, DAYTON, Tenn., July 20 (Canadian Press).—Clarence Darrow, one of the counsel for the defence in the Scopes' evolution trial, was cited for contempt of court today by Judge John T. Raulston. The attorney was ordered to appear tomorrow and show why contempt proceedings should not be instigated.

As soon as the Scopes' case opened this morning, Judge John T. Raulston began reading a statement in which he declared one of the responsibilities of a judge is to avoid exciting passion or prejudice among any persons, particularly among the jurors.

He then said that a colloquoy occurred last Friday between Judge and Clarence Darrow of the defence counsel.

"Men may become prominent but they should never feel themselves above the law," he went on.

"Unwarranted and unjtstified criticism of the court shows disrespect for the court and the state:

"In the face of what is considered an unjustified criticism of the court made by Clarence Darrow, I feel that I must protect the dignity of by court."

The judge then directed that Clarence Darrow be requested to appear in court Tuesday morning to answer to a charge of contempt directing that the "said Darrow" make a bail bond of $5,000.

The court received a guarantee of Mr. Darrow's surety and the trial proceeded with the defence endeavoring to introduce documentary evidence in the absence of the jury.

BRITAIN HEARS ECONOMY PLEAS

'Either the Budget or the Government Will Come Down."

GARVIN'S COMMENT.

LONDON, July 20.—The strong move for economy is now making itself felt in British political circles. Among the younger Conservatives in the House of Commons quite as much as an the Opposition benches there is a feeling that the Cabinet must cut the country's expenditure or be exposed to a most damaging attack.

"During the next session or two either the budget or the Government will come down," says J. L. Garvin, in The Observer.

The Sunday Times' political correspondent urges that the Government departments must be submitted to a drastic supervision, no matter how much they may protest.

The rumors of the fight within the Cabinet concerning the Admiralty's demands for a large cruiser building programme are the immediate cause of the present outburst, but the country at large has been watching for some weeks with great anxiety the prospect that the calculations for a reduced expenditure, made by Winston Churchill in introducing the budget, cannot be fulfilled.

The continuous campaign of the Rothermere - Beaverbrook press against the increased insurance proposals the Government then put forward; last month's trade returns, with its heavy increase in imports and decrease of exports; the danger of a coal strike, with the steady decline of that industry even if the stopping of production is avoided—have thoroughly alarmed large sections of public opinion.

It is impossible, says Garvin, for the country in its present condition to go on spending £115,000,000 annually for fighting services. It would merely result in depleting Britain's financial resources, which in time of war would be necessary to use for the armament the country possesses.

The Sunday Times asks how taxation can be reduced next year, as Churchill has promised, if the Admiralty's demand for the adoption of its definite programme of construction, beginning with five cruisers, is conceded.

"Obviously, the proposal," it says, "cuts right into Churchill's idea of a £10,000,000 retrenchment in national expenditure, and the Chancellor at once entered a protest."

The majority of the Cabinet, however, says that newspaper, sided against him and the difference in opinion is so strong that Premier Baldwin decided to postpone his decision until after the Cabinet has another chance of discussing it next Wednesday.

Another point which the economists are attacking is the amount spent by the departments on their staffs. This is considerably greater than it was before the war, partly because of the more rigid systems of supervising expenditure, which may save money, but undoubtedly cost cash. The demand is likely to be made that the departments be required to cut down whether they like it or not.

There can be do doubt that the suddenpassion of economizing will govern the policy of the Government for some time to come.

CARDINAL BEGIN DIED ON SUNDAY; SON OF QUEBEC

Archbishop Diocese of Quebec Stricken With Paralysis Week Ago.

BORN ON FARM.

Ordained Priest in Rome in 1865—Was in His 86 Year.

QUEBEC, Que., July 20.—(Canadian Press). — Cardinal Begin, Roman Catholic Primate of Canada and Archbishop of the Diocese of Quebec, died Sunday morning at 12,30 o'clock.

Born in the quaint atmosphere of a Levis farmhouse ,the romantic rise of Louis Nazaire Begin, Archbishop of Quebec, and Prince of the Church, finds few parallels in Canadian history. Despite the high position he held, the distinguished prelate never forgot the early lessons of his childhood. He retained to the last the same kindliness of heart and simplicity of manner so characteristic of the French Canadian farmer. He won everybody by his native modesty, a stranger, noting him at the funeral of Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore said, "he has the kindest face of all."

Cardinal Begin was born at Sarosta, in the parish of Levis, across the river from Quebec, the son of Charles Begin, a farmer, and Luce (Paradis) Begin, on January 10, 1840. The hamlet of Sarosta gave another distinguished son to the Church in Mgr. Halle, a former canon in the diocese of Quebec, and Bishop of the Apostolic Vicariate of Northern Ontario, with his see at Hearst.

The late Cardinal Begin was educated at the Levis Model School, the College of St. Michael of Bellechasse, the Little Seminary of Quebec, and at Laval University, Montreal, where he took the degree of B.A. with honors, winning the Prince of Wales medal. He studied theology at the Grand Seminary of Quebec and later attended the lectures of the Jesuits in the Gregorian University, Rome. He was ordained in the Holy City in 1865. After receiving the degree of Doctor of Divinity from the Gregorian University, he remained two years longer to take a special course in Ecclesiastical history and orintal languages to fit him for teaching at Laval. From Rome he went to Innsbruck to continue his studies under the

Spiritualists Seek Reward For Message From Wife But Communications Lack Code Word Agreed Upon

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 20 (United Press)—Before Mrs. J. Allen Gilbert of Portland, Oregon, died she and her husband, both students of spiritism arranged a "pass word" whereby he, would know that she was communicating with him after death.

In today's issue of the Scientific American, Gilbert revealed that out of 139 "spirit messages" purporting to come from his wife in another world, not one contained the proper signal.

Mediums, friends, persons with ouija boards and genuine spiritualists all have advised Gilbert, who offered $500 for a message from his wife that they have talked with her, heard from her or been directed to communicate with her. They describe her dress and appearance in minute detail, (usually with ludicrous mistakes, Gilbert says) and they transmit to the waiting husband all manner of messages, such as "Jim, old boy, here I am," when his name is Joshua.

But not one has given the code word, which is locked in a safe under triple seals and Gilbert, sfill a firm believer in communication with dead, renews his offer.

BALLOONISTS ARE RETURNING HOME

Two Who Landed Near Concord Won Prize in Akron Race.

TORONTO, July 20.—(Canadian Press).—Porter D. Collins and John Boettner, of Akron, Ohio, who landed from a balloon near Concord, Ontario, last night, left Toronto today by train for home. Their balloon was dismantled and shipped back last night. The Akron pilots to-day received a copy of a Cleveland newspaper, which said they were the winners of the Akron balloon race for gas bags of 35,000 feet capacity. They were 28 hours in the air.

DROWNING OCCURS IN SIGHT OF FRIENDS

His wife was on the beach when he went to his death. Harris was a prominent real estate dealer and insurance broken in Windsor.

DECISION PENDING ON NAVY PROBLEM

Admiralty Wishes Cruiser Building Sustained Against Wishes of Exchequer.

LONDON, July 20 (Canadian Press).—The coming week is expected to see a decision on the British navy problem, which the more sensational press asserts is likely to involve a ministerial crisis, possibly through the resignation of W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Sea Lords, including Admiral Earl Beatty, in the event that the admiralty's demands for new construction are unduly cut down.

Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, desires to keep estimates at a low point, and the Admiralty wants the cruiser building programme extending over a period of years.

Bite Of Pet Rat Caused Amputation Of Fingers

The bite on her finger tip did not pain her until a week later. Part of her hand had been amputated but that has not relieved the condition.

CHICAGO, July 20.—(Canadian Press).—A watchman was killed and damage and panic was spread over a mile radius yesterday when 135,000 gallons of gasoline and oil in a Texas Oil Company Barge exploded and sent a flood of flaming oil down the North branch of the Chicago River.

LITTLE BOY IS REPORTED LOST SUNDAY MORNING

Douglas Reid, 8, Left Home to Go to Army Sunday School.

NOT SEEN SINCE.

Searching Parties Are Out, But No Word Has Been Received.

Lost somewhere about the city or the district is a little boy of eight years of age. He is afraid of the dark and afraid of the water.

Yesterday morning, about half-past 9 o'clock, small Douglas Reid, who lives with his mother and father on Mr. S. A. Oke's farm in Smith Township, near Jackson Park, left his home to go to the Salvation Army Temple for the morning service. He has not been seen or heard of since, except by neighbors, who saw him shortly thereafter, apparently on his way to church.

He wore a white jersey, navy blue pants, brown socks and brown Oxfords and a tweed cap.

The little chap is reported to be afraid of the water and afraid of the dark, and his parents are at a loss to account for his non-arrival home.

The police were notified yesterday and searching parties also have been doing their bit since last evening, but no trace of him has so far been found. It is thought that he has either wandered away for some distance or else that a passing motor car picked him up.

When a very little child, Douglas had a habit at times of staying away for a few hours from school, but this is the first time he has been so long absent from home.

BOY IS FOUND.

Douglas Reid, who was not heard from after leaving for Sunday School yesterday morning, was found today among the bushes in Jackson Park.

COOLIDGE WILL TRY TO PREVENT MINERS' STRIKE

Plans Publicity Campaign to Give Facts to People if Negotiations Fail.

CALL CONFERENCE.

Owners Will Contest All Claims By Miners at Tuesday's Meeting.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 20.—President Coolidge is determined to prevent a coal strike. It was confirmed in official circles Saturday that he would not intervene between the operators and miners unless their negotiations came to a deadlock; but the moment it is seen that the negotiations have reached an impasse he will summon both sides to White Court and attempt to persuade them to adjust their differences, so that the mining of coal will not be interrupted after September 1.

The first step proposed by President Coolidge is to bring the two sides together here. Then he intends telling them just what the Government plans to do if they cannot get together and a strike results.

The President declines to indicate the course he will pursue if a strike comes. He knows that he has no law to use effectively and must depend upon the influence of his office on public opinion to force an adjustment in the interest of the coal consuming public.

Publicity Campaign Expected.

If the negotiations do not show progress toward a settlement President Coolidge is expected to start a campaign of publicity through Government agencies having all the facts as to wage scales and prevailing coal prices. The report of the United States Coal Commission, made less than three years ago and not yet published, will be spread before the public in its essential details in the hope that the facts set forth will form public opinion against a strike.

It is known that Mr. Coolidge agrees with John Hays Hammond, who was chairman of the United States Coal Commission, that if a strike occurs it cannot be of long duration, because the selfish interests of miners and operators will operate against it. He reasons that the hard coal market will be lost and the public, which educated itself three years ago to use substitutes, such as coke, oil and soft coal, will adjust itself to the absence of hard coal. Such a development is foreseen by both workingmen and owners of mines.

MINE OWNERS STAND FIRM.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., July 20. — An assault by the anthracite operators on every position hitherto maintained by the miners will mark the deliberations of the Joint Conference Committee when sessions looking to a new agreement are resumed on Tuesday.

The operators will seek to prove that the anthracite miners are seriously curtailing production, that the labor costs of coal production are as high as they can go without causing the consumer to be charged higher prices, and that not one penny of officials' salaries and legal expenses is represented in labor costs.

The operators will place before the Joint Sub-committee figures to prove their contention that 75 cents out of every $1 received by them is paid to labor. They view the miners' demands for details showing the salaries paid to officials of operating companies and the legal disbursements of the companies as intended to muddy the controversial waters and confuse the real issues in the case.

The attempt of the miners to find out the aggregate pay of company officials and legal expenses, as well as their desire for an investigation of foreign rates, is viewed by the operators as an attempt to confuse the real issues in the controversy.

J. H. THOMAS SEES LABOR STRUGGLE

Hopes For Sincere Effort to Avoid Strike in Britain.

LONDON, July 20. — (Canadian Press Cable).—Right Hon. J. H. Thomas of the Railwaymen's Union, speaking of the mining situation, thinks that, now within a few days of the expiration of the employers' notices, that all symptoms indicate a bitter and prolonged battle, but that it would be a crime if a real effort were not made to bring both sides together. He hoped that neither pride nor dignity would stand in the way, for everybody with any knowledge of the country's financial and economic position was bound to be gravely apprehensive of the consequences of a great upheavel.

Secretary Bromley of the Enginemen's Union said he hoped the new alliance would be a useful body, but at Friday's conference of the unions a deliberate attempt was made to stifle it at birth. He trusted that the rank and file would rise superior to such attempts. In his opinion all unions ought to throw in their lot with the miners at the start.

COBOURG FINDS 4.4 HARMLESS

American Visitors Have to Simulate Intoxication After Drinking.

CUSTOMS VIGILANT.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

COBOURG, July 20.—When the new beer was first put on sale in this town the temperance forces, anticipating a general orgy of revelry, were on the alert for specific cases. Like those workers in all parts of the province, their vigilance revealed nothing out of the way. The beverage was as harmless and the beer with which the temperance people had been satisfied ever since the Ontario Temperance Act was given effect nine years ago.

Tourists From the U. S.

The beer that had been given so much free advertising lured to Cobourg a large number of American visitors who crossed on the ferry from Rochester, under the delusion that there was at least one section of the North American continent, convenient of access where prohibition had become a dead letter. Many youthful visitors who indulged in the beverage, in a spirit of bravado, simulated intoxication, a performance that, lacking the spirituous inspiration, required considerable histrionic art. Some of the temperance people, regarding these cases as genuine, made a demand that official action be taken, that all showing signs of intoxication in the town be arrested, and that none giving evidence of the same condition, be allowed to land from the ferry boats. It was pointed out that this would be only justified reprisal as the same action was taken with regard to Canadian visitors, by the American authorities at the Genessee dock. There was also a rumor that a petition was to be drawn up asking Mayor McArthur to take official action.

No Cause For Alarm.

All such alarm was groundless. The "little grey town" still remains as a model of law and order. The tourists from the United States, as a rule, whether they come by ferry or auto, are such as any town or city would be pleased to entertain. For all evidence Cobourg has to the contrary the prohibition laws in the United States are drastically enforced.

Immigration Officer Skitch.

W. J. Skitch, the alert young immigration officer on duty at the dock here, permits no person to land from the ferry boats if he shows any signs of intoxication and since the opening of the tourist season only two such visitors from the American side have been turned back. There are plenty of people on an excursion, who, temporarily relieved of all their cares, display unusual spirits and are inclined to indulge in horse play, but for these allowance is made. No harm comes of their antics either to themselves or any one else. It may be a difficult matter to decide when a man should be regarded as intoxicated, but official experience makes an officer expert in this line. Even if an American visitor boasts that "We won the war," that is not an infallible sign as the average American on a holiday, filled with patriotism, even if other inspiring fluids are lacking, is inclined to voice their delusion under any and all conditions.

No Smuggling Either.

There may be smuggling at other Canadian lake ports but there is none in Cobourg. Customs Officer Bulger is on to every trick of the trade. The Canadian lady who, on a visit to Rochester, buys a new hat or other article of attire, and brings the old raiment back in her suitcase is an easy mark for the official. The old garments are all the evidence required. Another trick of the would-be smuggler, to wear old clothes or shoes to the American side, so worn that they are practically worthless, and can be abandoned in the United States without loss—can no longer be successfully worked. Canadian excursionists are as carefully watched going as returning. No man or woman can come back with a new outfit and escape making an explanation even if they not carry clubbag or suitcase. The eagle eye of the customs official notes all such transformations.

DAMAGE BY STORM.

Silos Blown Down, Trees Put Lines Out of Order, Grain Suffers.

BURNBRAE, July 20.— One of the worst storms in the history of this district swept over Burnbrae and the Petherick's Corners locality on Thursday morning. A severe electrical storm was followed by a blinding rain and very heavy wind, resulting in considerable damage to property. Several silos were blown over, telephone poles upset and trees blown across the wires, while some parts of the electric lines were put out of business. Some grain was beaten down, but most of this will come back to normal again, as it is still quite green. No damage from fire is reported here, although some barns were burned in the surrounding districts.

A congregational meeting was held at St. Andrew's on Wednesday evening for the purpose of organizing into the Continuing Presbyterian Church. New officers were appointed to fill those vacancies caused by the withdrawal of the Unionist members. Newly elected managers were: Wm. McKenzie, Wm. Matthews, Geo. Wallace. Auditors: Roy Walker and Chas. Johns. Mr. W. A. Milne is secretary-treasurer of the congregation.

Rev. D. A. McKenzie, pastor of Burnbrae congregation, has obtained the consent of the Presbytery to continue his services at Rylstone United Church until other plans are made.

A number of Burnbrae young people attended the meeting of the People's League at Zion on Thursday evening.

300 PETERBORO WAR VETERANS

affairs of the veterans' organization, the speaker asked a united following, as the officers needed loyal support to legislate.

In days of old gladiators and athletes contended in the games for the honor of contending. So the soldiers had followed a piece of colored bunting for honor and to protect and keep unsullied the ideals for which that bunting stood.

The Mayor then unfurled the flag which he had presented and asked Captain Whatley to accept it on behalf of the veterans, whom he urged to carry on.

Flag Ensures Freedom

Captain Whatley, in acknowledging the gift and thanking His Worship in behalf of the G.W.V.A., and ex-service men of the city, hailed it as the symbol of liberty and the symbol of sacrifice.

The Union Jack, he said, is the common property of each unit of the Empire, he said, and is today recognized as the flag of the British Commonwealth of nations.

It has been endeared to us, not only for the privileges we enjoy under the protection of the triple cross on its crimson background, but it stands to all the world as a symbol of majesty, power, truth and honesty in public and national dealings.

It insures our freedom to come and go where we will, with the assurance that the whole power of the British commonwealth of nations guarantees our protection.

To us, as ex-service men, it means even more, having given active service to guarantee its continuance as the symbol of British power and majesty, sixty thousand of our dearest friends and comrades died on the fields of Flanders happy in the thought that the old flag was still proudly floating on high. How many have been wrapped in its folds and laid at rest midst a fanfare of trumpets; how many times have we, standing at attention or bareheaded, cheered its passing by.

"With all these remembrances, Sir, let me assure you that we as veterans both past and present, would never stand idly by and see a single step taken, that would in any way, lessen the significance or majesty of our flag, with all its sacred memories."

Other Cemeteries.

Rev. Captain Paul Costello, in opening his address, complimented the shareholders and the board of management of Little Lake Cemetery on the beauty of the place, and on the splendid way in which this "God's Acre" is cared for. More especially, he said, does he appreciate this because here are laid so many of his comrades, Canadian war veterans. "When it comes to speaking of Canada's dead," he said, "it strikes me to the heart. This cemetery brings back to me memories of many occasions when I as Chaplain had the duty of stopping by the wayside to offer a prayer to God, a last prayer for the souls of our good Canadian soldiers who had paid the supreme price. It is a privilege for me to be here, to bring my tribute with fellow-citizens and veterans to those who brought freedom to Canada. I love to see the old khaki turn out. These men who wear it are men to be honored. I know what that old khaki has done; had its wearers not done so nobly we would now be paying the price. I have the greatest respect for the war veteran, the war widow and the war orphan."

Captain Costello expressed approval of the idea of unification of all veteran organizations to form a great body of men seeking to care for each other in need, and to look after their widows and orphaned children.

"My prayer," he concluded, "is that God may have mercy on the souls of all our good Canadian soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice."

"We Cannot Forget."

Rev. J. D. Paterson, of All Saints' Church, said he counted it a great honor to stand beside the flag on the veterans' burial plot, where he has so often stood beside an open grave as the earthly remains of a war veteran were laid away at the end of life's little span. The cemetery recalled to him those 2,000 cemeteries in France and Flanders, ever forming part of the British Empire. "The French and English are gathering flowers to decorate in our name the graves we would long to see and care for," he said.

Rev. Mr. Paterson recalled the tomb in the most central part of Westminster Abbey, where lies one of the Empire's soldiers. "We do not know who he is, only that he is a British soldier. He may be any one of those whose names have been read here to-day." It is a wonderful sight, the speaker said, at that tomb, and at the Cenotaph in Whitehall. Never on any single occasion is an opportunity passed over when these places are not saluted. "And that is representative of our gathering here. What does it mean when we decorate these graves? What does it mean that a King's daughter stops at the soldiers' monument and lays her bouquet there before she goes on to be married?

"It means that we dedicate our talents and powers to those who are in need, as these men did. It is not enough that the Government acknowledge the good work done by the men of our armies; the people must reach out their thanks to the soldier and widow whenever thanks and help are needed. There are many men and women in the class who don't care. In the name of those who have gone and those who remain, let each one's hand be reached out to grasp that other. We cannot forget those who have gone. When they went away we called them boys, and to-day we still call them our boys. They will never grow old. We will forever look on their pictures as they left; age shall not weary them. It is because we remember our boys what we gather here on this decoration day."

The Roll Call.

Captain S. Whatley called the roll of all known Peterboro soldiers who died on war service or since the war ended, and to every name Lieut. Nicholls answered "Missing." The naming of these 450 men brought home to those who listened the magnitude of Peterboro's loss. These men fell on the front line of every advance on every battlefield on the western front, from St. Julien to Mons, and every cross and stone and mound where lies a Peterboro soldier marks an outpost of the city. There are unknown graves, too, where lie men from Peterboro.

As the roll call ended, the pipers played "Lord Lovat's Lament," and the last wailing note had scarcely died, when "Last Post" was sounded, in turn followed by the stirring "Reveille" sounded from the hill west of the plot.

Wreaths at the Cenotaph.

Among the two-score wreaths that decorated the Cenotaph were the following: from W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., from Mr. and Mrs. W. Stanley; from Mrs. W. W. Hall; from Mrs. Hartshorne; from Mrs. Slaughter; from Mrs. Darling; from Mr. and Mrs. Cuffe; from the Ladies' Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A.; from the Great War Veterans Assn.; from G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P.; in memory of Private Alfred Alsept; in memory of Private H. J. Scollie; from Mayor J. J. Turner; in memory of Private Edward Payne; from His Honor Judge Huycke and Mrs. Huycke; in memory of Private Fred Cooper.

At the cemetery, the Ladies' Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A. decorated the graves of deceased members of the Auxiliary.

CHILD LABOR IS A PROBLEM IN CHINA

Proposal to Regulate It Within the Foreign Settlement of Shanghai.

The first attempt to regulate child labor in China failed when foreign taxpayers in the International Settlement neglected to attend the annual taxpayers' meeting in sufficient numbers to obtain a quorum. The failure occurred despite a long campaign to arouse interest by American and British women's clubs and social welfare groups. In a recent publication of The International Labor Review an account was given in the article on "Labor Conditions and Labor Regulations in China" of (a) The position of China as a member of the League of Nations and the International Labor Organization in relation to problems of factory law and its administration within the republic; (b) the significance of the provisional factory regulations promulgated at Peking in 1923 for the foreign settlements in China and particularly for Shanghai —one of the most important industrial areas in China; (c) the report and recommendations of the Child Labor Commission appointed by the Muncipal Council of the Foreign Settlement of Shanghai.

The following article, by a co-opted member of the Child Labor Commission, who was first a member of the Industrial Committee of the National Christian Council of China, and thus traveled to many industrial centres for local study of conditions of labor and for conferences with central and provincial authorities, manufacturers and others, attempts to make clearer the present position and prospects of of the movement of reform. Especially the writer aims at further elucidating the relation to each other of (a) the proposal to regulate child labor within the Foreign Settlement of Shanghai; (b) the Peking provisional regulations for factories, and (c) the attitude of provincial authorities to the problem of securing some protection for child labor under the factory system.

After the Ancient Manner.

In this country, of the size, in area and population, of Europe, by far the greater part of the immense business of employing manual labor by way of trade or for purposes of gain, in the marking, altering, repairing, ornamentation, etc., of any article or part of an article, and kindred occupations, is still carried on as it has been no doubt for thousands of years, in small semi-domestic ways and workshops of ancient or medieval character with much ancillary help from children. In places where transport is reasonably available, and therefore to a considerable extent in or there, by an apparently inevitable development, the modern industrialized system of production has been growing up, in parts on a great scale, within twenty to twenty-five years.

"Twelve years ago," says V. K. organizer of the Geological Survey of China, "there were barely 500,000 spindles owned and operated by Chinese companies. These were practically confined to treaty ports. At present there are about 2,500,000 spindles in operation in 180 Chinese mills scattered through fifty cities, many of which are right in the interior. The silk filatures have a similar story. These represent only one phase of of the general tendency of industrialization. There are, for example, more than 100 flour mills and 70 oil mills in operation. The Yungli Alkali Works represents the beginning of a chemical industry with promising possibilities. We now refine our own sugar and salt, wash with home-made soap, light our cigarettes with home-made matches, saw our wood and hull our rice with steam power.

"The extensive influence of the new system is seen in numerous semi-industrialized work places, where rough devices carry power to parts of the processes. All three stages of production are flourishing together in many places, e.g., Yangtze and Wuchang. In the latter old walled city across the Yangtze from Hankow, one can pass down the streets of the chop-stick handworkers or umbrella makers to a big Chinese cotton-spinning mill, fully equipped with machinery and motor plant dated 1922 that bears the name of a well-known British firm. And in Tiensin, in quarters near large factory industries, the rug making trade, employing young boy labor, is changing—although as yet mechanical power is not employed—from a small and domestic to a large-scale industry for foreign markets, with tragic health results for the boys.

This new way works wonders on cloudy teeth

Modern science, by perfecting a new way of combating the stubborn film that covers teeth, now opens the road to whiter teeth, safely.

THAT cloudy teeth, yellowish, discolored teeth can be made whiter is now an accepted fact. Foremost dentists of the world are widely urging this new method. You can have cleaner, prettier teeth if you will start today.

This is accomplished by combating a viscous film that covers teeth. A stubborn, hard to remove film that old type dentifrices do not fight successfully.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel this film. Under it are the clear, attractive teeth you envy in others. Combat it, and your teeth become many shades whiter—more glistening. This offers you a 10-day test free. Mail the coupon.

The great enemy of teeth

Film is the great enemy of teeth beauty. And a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the common cause of pyorrhea. It holds food in contact with teeth, inviting the acid that causes decay.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth; you can't have healthier teeth unless you combat that film.

Ask your druggist or mail the coupon for Pepsodent. Don't expect the same results from old time dentifrices. Begin beautifying your teeth today.

RUPTURE RELIEF

Appliance Expert Coming

Rupture(as defined) is not a tear but a dilation of the muscles and the distention of the membrane into the form of a sack (caused in the first place by weakness, and pushing force of internal weight and finally developing an external swelling in the groin through strain or violence) therefore subject to retention. Don't wear a truss pad where the lump is ,but be fitted where the rupture is. It's different, so says Thos. Y. Egan, Appliance Specialist, 1057 College Street, Toronto, who will visit Peterboro, White's Hotel (173 Charlotte street) Friday (hours 8 a.m. till 9 p.m.) 1 day only, July 24.

NO REASON FOR IT.

The platform of the Ku Klux Klan, furnished by a correspondent hiding behind the pen name of "K.K.K.," contains nothing that does not serve to reassure the Examiner that its original opinion of the order was perfectly sound.

There are many harmless and admirable planks, but the first three named by our correspondent leave no doubt of the real purpose of the movement—a purpose that is inspired by racial and religious intolerance, no matter how much sugar coating in the form of high sounding phases is used.

The Border Cities Star, in an article published by this paper Saturday, expressed the Examiner's views exactly in the following declaration:

"There never has been, there is not now or will there ever be any good reason for the existence of the hooded order in this country."

That covers it all in one expressive sentence.

"STOP" STREETS."

Ald. Crowe's suggestion of having Peterboro designate a number of the leading thoroughfares as "stop" streets, all cars entering which from side streets must come to a stop, receives additional strength by reason of the fact that his plan has already been adopted by a number of municipalities and is being considered in others.

Oshawa is preparing to name its two main streets as "stop" thoroughfares, and Owen Sound has gone a step further by passing a bylaw which went into force the first of July.

The idea that Peterboro is not large enough for such legislation is thus answered by two municipalities, one of them considerably smaller than this city, adopting a stop street plan.

The Examiner believes that Ald. Crowe's suggestion could as a test be effectively applied to George street and Charlotte street, and that such a regulation compelling all cars entering upon these thoroughfares to stop at the intersection, would materially lessen the hazzard of motoring and appreciably reduce the number of accidents.

It is significant that in Hamilton, one of the first cities in Ontario to try the plan, the professional chauffeurs and the men who do the most driving are as enthusiastic in favouring it now as they were in opposing the idea when first mooted.

HONOURING THEIR MEMORY.

The number of veterans of the Great War taking part in yesterday's Decoration Day parade and the very large attendance of citizens at the ceremony in Little Lake Cemetery provided gratifying evidence that the duty of honouring the memory of war heroes who have passed on is each year becoming more generally recognized.

The parades this year to Peterboro's cemeteries have been larger than ever before, and to the relatives and friends of the men whose memory was honoured by their comrades of the World War the thought that each year there is a more general desire on the part of the veterans to carry out this loving duty instead of a dwindling interest as was feared by many must bring consolation.

If there are differences that keep ex-service men sometimes at arms length, they disappear in the face of this duty toward the comrades that will not return.

As time passes the Examiner trusts that more and more ex-soldiers will realize that they owe it to the memory of men by whose side they fought to each year fulfil this sacred trust.

"If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep though poppies grow
In Flanders' Field.

SAVING THE ROADS.

The advertisement from the Ontario Department of Highways which appeared in Saturday's Examiner appealing for the preservation of the roads of the Province doubtless attracted more than usual attention locally, because it was embellished with a splendid Stoney Lake scene sketched by the well-known Canadian artist, C. W. Jefferys.

It will have failed in its purpose, however, if it does not succeed at the same time in interesting motorists generally in the thought that fast driving is not only dangerous, but that it is costly in addition.

Most people have probably not realized that speed laws are meant to preserve road surfaces as well as to save life and limb.

The man who owns a powerful car and is a skilful, steady driver is wont to disregard the speed limit on long stretches of good road where his judgment is that travelling at a fairly fast rate is not particularly dangerous under the conditions.

He usually fails to take into consideration the fact that when he drives over twenty-five miles an hour his car is causing needless damage to the road by grinding away the surface.

The department illustrates this effectively by pointing out that a motorist who drives 98 miles to his summer home on Friday and the same distance back on Monday at the rate of three hours per trip pays out $5.20 each round trip for gas and oil—and at the same time the damage done to the road surface will cost the people of the Province more for road repairs than it does the motorist for gas and oil.

The point is one that should be remembered.

We are gradually developing a splendid road system in the Province; it whould be a pity if we destroyed it almost as fast as the contractors finished their task.

PUBLIC SAFETY.

Modern factories are steadily nearing success in their campaign to cut accidents to a minimum, simply through education in safety methods and practices. This is being accomplished through organization and concerted effort with a definite end in view, says the Border Cities Star.

But within the past few weeks it has been brought home to people of the Border Cities that the great need now lies in education in what is technically called "Public Safety." Our streets must be made safe.

Almost every day has seen an accident of a more or less serious nature, the victims mainly being children. In some of these cases, probably a careless motor car driver was to blame, but it is safe to say that the majority of street accidents to children are due to the carelessness of the children themselves. The little tots cannot be blamed, because they simply do not know any better. They do not realize that by running straight out from the curb they are endangering life and limb.

Our schools are doing much to educate the children, but many of those who are hurt are under school age. This is where the responsibility of parents comes in. From the time the child is old enough to go out to play, he should be subjected to intensive safety education. He should be taught that the only place to cross a street is at a corner, and there only after he has carefully looked in both directions before leaving the sidewalk. Such education is not difficut if it is approached in the right way. Countless parents have inculcated into their children's minds the idea of constant safety, and all others could do the same.

The most effective way of teaching such lessons is through personal example. One has only to walk a block in the Border Cities to see several flagrant examples of "jay-walking" on the part of adults. Grown men and women, who should know better, step out into the roadway in the centre of the block, without a glance for the approaching traffic. What can we expect of the children when such things are before their eyes every day?

No mercy should be shown the reckless driver who wantonly imperils human life, but the most careful motorist will have to cope with situations beyond his control at times, until everyone—man, woman and child—learns the simple laws of safety which will protect him from injury, and observes them religiously.

ENLARGING OUR TRADE.

The Canada-British West Indies trade treaty, if ratified by the respective Parliaments and Legislatures, will be another important extension of the system of Imperial preferences, and should add greatly to the volume of business between the Dominion and the colonies. The fact that the products of this country are different in the main from those of the West Indies has facilitated an agreement, because there is no opposition in either from interests which look for protection against external competition. The West Indies want our flour, cheese, butter, lard, fish, beef, apples, cement, boots and shoes, cordage, lumber, potatoes, and other commodities which they import, buying more largely from the United States than from Canada. On the other hand Canada buys every year about $100,000,000 worth of tropical fruits from the United States, a large part of which she will probably buy from the West Indies if the treaty becomes law, because of tariff preferences and better steamship communications. Many of these products originate in the West Indies, and Canadians pay tribute to American brokers, shipping companies, and business organizations—especially the United Fruit Company, which controls a large part of the West Indian export trade.

In the year 1924 the British West Indies—including the Bahamas, Barbados, Bermuda, British Guiana, British Honduras, Grenada, Jamaica, the Leeward Islands, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, Trinidad and Tobago—had total imports of $34,013,352 from Great Britain, $30,537,780 from the United States, and $17,366,808 from Canada. The figures show that there is a great field for the expansion of Canadian trade, which has not been cultivated as it might have been. When Mr. Hance J. Logan, M.P., visited the islands recently on a trade mission on behalf of the Dominion Government he found that the Americans had been making determined efforts to capture the trade of the tropical countries about the Caribbean. "Everywhere," he said, on his return, "I found American Consular Agents, Vice-Consuls and other representatives of the United States, all of whom are really trade agents, housed in splendid offices, with efficient secretarial and other clerical staffs. I also found American commercial travellers hustling for trade. But in all the vast domain, where the total population amounts to some 14,000,000 people, and where the trade of the countries visited amounts to $375,000,000 annually—outside Cuba, which has a vast trade, particularly with the United States—I found only two Trade Commissioners of Canada, each with a staff of one person. I met only two Canadian commercial travellers." And this despite the fact that the United States has raised almost unscalable tariff walls against British West Indian products, excepting bananas. The Fordney tariff has been the main factor in impelling the West Indians to take a keener interest in trade relations with Canada.

An essential part of the agreement is the provision for an improved steamship service. A fortnightly freight, passenger and mail service from Canadian ports to the Eastern group of colonies will be supplied by vessels of 5,000 to 6,000 tons gross with a speed of not less than 12 knots. In addition, there will be a fortnightly freight service with vessels of 4,300 tons and a speed of 10 knots, sailing from Canadian river ports in summer and ocean ports in winter. The Eastern group of islands will contribute £29,000 annually to these services, which will be provided by the Canadian Government. The Western group of colonies will provide £18,000 annually toward a fortnightly mail, passenger and freight service by steamships equal in capacity and speed to the largest vessels on the Eastern route. There will be cold-storage facilities for bananas, meats, fish, butter, cheese, and other perishable products shipped in both directions. Rates will be controlled by the Dominion Government. In order to grant preferential tariffs it will be necessary for Canada to put duties on bananas, grapefruit, and a few products now imported duty-free, but in regard to sugar and other products there will be a reduction of existing duties, so that it is unlikely that a greater burden will be thrown on Canadian consumers. The advantages to the export trade of Canada will be so marked that it is unlikely that any Canadian Parliament will reject the treaty. Its fate at the hands of the West Indian Legislatures will be known before Parliament meets again at Ottawa.—The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Peterboro in the matter of Civic Holiday, as in its weekly half-holiday, must be exclusive. Hence, in answer to inquiries, it may be stated that Civic Holiday will be on the second Monday in August, as usual.

Belleville and Kingston are staging big celebrations early next month. When will this city's turn for something of that kind arrive?

At least William Jennings Bryan will have to admit that he has frequently been made a monkey of in politics.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 18. — Although surprising strength developed at times today in the wheat market, general selling to realize profits acted as more than a counter-balance. Forecasts of cooler weather tended to ease down values, notwithstanding official advices at hand that sections of Canada are facing crop failure owing to recent burning temperatures. The wheat market closed heavy 1 5-8 to 2 1-2 cents net lower, Sept. 1.55 7-8 to 1.56 and Dec. 156 to 156 3-8, with corn 1 3-4 to 4 1-4c down, oats 1 to 1 3-8c off and provisions varying from unchanged figures to 15c decline.

CHEESE PRICES ADVANCE.

MONTREAL, July 19.—The competition between local exporters for the offerings of cheese on the boards thorughout the country was keener and in consequence the highest prices of the season were paid. The advances recorded ranged from 7-8c to 2 1-4c per lb., as compared with the previous week, the highest being 22 3-4c per lb., at Brockville, and the lowest 21 1-8c per lb., at Madoc.

CREAMERY BUTTER AUCTION.

MONTREAL, July 18. — The offerings of creamery butter at the Quebec Federated Co-operative Society Auction Sales for the week ending July 18, 1925, were 7,000 packages as against 4,400 packages for the previous week, and 6,325 packages for the same week last year. At the opening sale prices ruled 1c per lb., lower with sales of 2,400 packages No 1 pasteurized at 33 1-2c per lb., 1,600 packages No. 1 creamery at 34 1-2c per lb., and 600 packages No. 2 creamery at 33 1-2c per lb., but at the closing sale the market was much stronger and 1,000 packegs No. 1 pasteurized sold at an advance of 2 3-8c per lb., at 37 7-8c per lb., while the prices bid for No. 1 and No. 2 creamery were 1 3-4c and 1 1-2c per lb., higher and refused. The latter figure for pasteurized creamery was 4 3-8c per lb., above a year ago.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, July 18. — The receipts of eggs in Montreal on Saturday were 996 cases, as against 1297 cases for the same day last week, and 1,044 cases for the corresponding day a year ago, while the arrivals for the week ending July 18, 1925, were 5,840 cases, as compared with 9,542 cases for the previous week, and 9,631 cases for the same week last year. The total receipts from May 1, 1925 to date were 155,200 cases as against 193,747 cases for the same period of 1924. The receipts last week showed a decrease of 702 cases as compared with the previous week, and a decrease of 791 cases with the same week last year, while the total for the season to date have been 38,547 cases below a year ago.

A moderate trade was reported in Prairie Province eggs, and a sale of a car containing ten per cent of extras was made at 34 1-4c fifty per cent firsts at 32 1-4c and forty per cent seconds at 28 1-4c per dozen, f. o. b., Manitoba in new cases. Sales of Ontario fresh extras were made at 37c per dozen, and firsts at 35c per dozen, delivered cases returned.

BUTTER MARKET.

The receipts of Butter in Montreal for the week ending July 18, 1925, were 32, 376 packages which show a decrease of 2,596 packages, as compared with the previous week, and an increase of 111,008 packages with the same week last year, and the total arrivals from May first to date have been 9,054 packages in excess of the corresponding period for 1924.

The feature of the trade since this day week was the stronger feeling that prevailed in the market and prices closed with a net gain of 1 3-4c to 2c per lb. This was attributed principally to the renewed demand that developed from English importers at advanced prices which resulted in a fairly large business being done and the market was considerably more active than the previous week. There was also an improved demand from local buyers for supplies.

The receipts of cheese in Montreal for the week ending July 18, 1925, were 67,368 boxes which show a decrease of 6,121 boxes, as compared with the previous week, and an increase of 2,255 boxes with the same week last year, while the total arrivals for the season to date have been 37,800 boxes larger than the same period of 1924.

Owing to the renewed demand from foreign buyers for supplies at the high prices bid a stronger feeling developed in the market the past wek and spot prices scored a net advance of 1 1-4c to 1 3-4c per lb.

LUMBER COMPANY STARTS MILL AGAIN

Oldest Firm Has Big Drive Ready at Stoney Lake for Cutting.

The Peterboro Lumber Co., Limited, Peterboro, Ont., which was established in 1846, has been in continuous and active operation for over seventy-five years, being the oldest wood industry in that section of the province says the "Canada Lumberman." This historic and well-known organization recently decided upon a change of policy and will again bring its logs and timber to Peterboro to be manufactured into lumber and other forest products. During the war, owing to unsettled conditions, and up to the present season, the Peterboro' Lumber Co. has been sawing the output of its log drives at a small mill close to its timber limits from which the lumber was scowed down the Trent Canal to Peterboro' where it was sorted and piled out preparatory to its being dressed and delivered to the many customers of the firm in Peterboro' and various points in Ontario. The directors of the company now feel that with the return of normal conditions and with confidence in Peterboro' as a manufacturing centre, they can concentrate all their milling activities at their splendid mill property on Burnham's Point in that portion of the city formerly known as Ashburnham and frequently referred to as East City. The situation is an ideal one for such a purpose, the site being bounded on three sides by water and being high and dry the location is an excellent one for piling and drying lumber. A siding directly from the mainline of the Canadian Pacific Railway runs into the yard and railway tracks run right up to the sawmill as well as to the planing mill of the company and may also be seen fronting practically every pile of lumber which reduces the cost of handling the product to a minimum.

Millwrights and workmen have been busy for several weeks installing modern machinery and putting the sawmill, which had not been in operation for some years, in readiness for the logs when they arrive to be sawn. The drive which is the largest that will come down to Peterboro' this year, is now in Stoney Lake and the first lot of logs is expected to reach the mill about July 20th. The company controls extensive timber limits in Burleigh, Anstruther, Cavendish and Methuen townships and has many years of cutting ahead.

Dickson Davidson, a grandson of the late Samuel Dickson, founder of the business, who died in 1870, is president of the company and is widely known in lumber circles, being one of the most progressive citizens of Peterboro'. After the death of Mr. Dickson, the business was managed for a number of years by the late T. G. Hazlett and subsequently by the late J. C. Shook. In 1906, the Peterboro' Lumber Co. Limited, was incorporated. Fred J. Overend, who has been with the organization for the past seventeen years, is segretary of the company. Previous to taking up his residence in Peterboro', he was connected with J. R. Eaton & Sons, Limited, of Orillia.

The Peterboro' Lumber Co., whose offices are in Hunter St., does a wholesale and retail business in all kinds of lumber, principally in hemlock, pine, spruce, lath and shingles, as well as doors, frames, sash hardwood floloring, ready roofing, Gyproc,—in fact everything in the line of builders' supplies. Its splendid stock and service has gained for it a leading place in both wholesale and retail circles in the forest products industry.

CORRUPTION IN DRY LAW RANKS

Half of Forty U. S. Federal Prosecutors Circularized Report Dishonestly.

GUIDE TO CHIEF.

WASHINGTON, July 20.— Reports received at the Department of Justice are said to disclose a state of corruption among Federal, State and municipal officers which calls for a change in system such as is provided under the Andrews plan of prohibition enforcement that is to become operative on Aug. 1 in accordance with orders issued by Secretary Mellon.

The reports came from forty Federal District Attorneys in various States throughout the country and were submitted in response to a circular soliciting information sent out by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General in charge of prohibition enforcement.

Of the replies received, it was said to-day, 50 per cent. allege that corruption exists in at least 40 per cent. of the districts in which the inquiry was conducted.

The results are to be submitted to General Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in control of the prohibition unit, and will be used by him as a guide in passing upon the candidacies of prohbition agents for re-appointment in the new organization.

The Federal Prosecutors included in their reports information bearing on the integrity of officials in their judicial districts, the attitude toward enforcement of the local authorities, the names of offenders against the law and the extent to which political influence has been brought to bear.

It is the understanding that as a result of the information compiled by the representative of the Department of Justice many State directors and regional chiefs who looked for reappointment Aug. 1 will be forced out.

In the opinion of Department of Justice officials these reports constitute the most elaborate data on the subject of dry law enforcement assembled since the passage of the Volstead act.

The inquiry made by Mrs. Willebrandt was undertaken with a view to assisting and developing local enforcement, and is in harmony with the purposes of Secretary Mellon, who announced, upon the promulgation of the Andrews plan, that the Treasury Department "would work in closest possible co-operation with the Department of Justice and its agents, both at headquarters and in the field."

Whether any enforcement officials who have been reported for alleged irregular practices will be called upon to face prosecution in the courts is not known. Upon this point authorities here decline to express opinions until they have further examined the information in hand. They go so far as to say, however, that, if certain Federal prosecutors are correct in their conclusions, such officers as Sheriffs in certain States have been more helpful to bootleggers than they have been to those charged with responsibility for prohibition law enforcement.

CARS COLLIDE ON MILLBROOK HILL SATURDAY NIGHT

Car Turning Around Forced Two Other Cars Into Ditch.

FEW INJURIES.

Minor Cuts and Shock to Occupants—One Car Badly Damaged.

MILLBROOK, July 21.—An accident, involving three cars, occurred on King Street East, on Saturday evening, about 9 o'clock.

F. Patton, of South Monaghan, accompanied by his wife and three small children, one of them a baby ten months old, in driving down Allen's Hill, was obliged to turn out sharply to avoid a car belonging to Ben Olan, Cavan, which had backed into the driveway in front of Mrs. J. Widdis' property, and was turning to proceed toward the village again. A sedan car, driven by H. Finigan, of Toronto, containing four occupants, which was coming up the hill, also swerved to avoid Olan's car, and to avert a head-on collision with Patton, went into the ditch, which is four feet deep at that point, turning over on its side, and shattering the glass.

Patton's car, which went part way down the bank, struck the sedan on the right side, splintering the running-board, tearing off its own bumper, putting the engine out of commission, bending the left fender and headlight, and flattening a tire. His boy, about three years of age, was thrown against the windshield, breaking the latter, but escaped with only a few slight cuts on his head. The fact that the child was wearing a hat probably saved him from worse injury.

Olan, who had evidently not seen the car coming up the hill, and so continued to turn, had his little daughter with him, but occupants and car escaped unhurt.

It seemed practically a miracle that the young people in the overturned sedan came off unhurt except for the nervous shock, the latter in the case of one of the occupants being particularly severe, and requiring medical attention.

Several men in the neighborhood gave assistance in pushing Patton's car back on the road, and also in righting the one over on its side. The lights on the latter remained burning through the accident, and two or more of them being enclosed in red glass, gave the impression for a time that the car was on fire. Finigan drove his car out of the ditch, two wheels having to run on the pavement, until a convenient culvert gave opoprtunity to turn on the roadway again.

The Toronto car was the only one carrying insurance against accident.

TEAPOT REVOLT HALTED QUICKLY

Checked Without Firing a Shot and Leaders Placed Under Arrest.

PALACE PROTECTED.

LISBON, July 20. — (Canadian Press). — Another military revolt broke out in Lisbon at an early hour yesterday morning. It was quickly suppressed and the leaders were placed under arrest.

Unlike the revolt in April, the movement was checked without the firing of a shot. In the April revolt many were killed and still more of the mutineers were wounded.

By 10 o'clock in the morning, Captain Baptista, leader of the uprising, and four other officers, had already surrendered. The cruiser Vasco da Gama supported the revolt which was effected principally by forces commanded by the officers arrested after the revolt of April 18 and who recently escaped from the San Juniao Prison.

Since the land movement proved a failure, the Vasco da Gama capitulated. The officers who surrendered have been imprisoned and a heavy loyal guard protects the Presidential Palace.

QUARTETTE STEALS WHISKEY AND CASH

Dock at Liquor Barge, Tie Up Guards and Make Get Away.

WALLACEBURG, Ont., July 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Four men in a speed boat, believed to have been stolen from Detroit Saturday morning, docked at Port Lambton at the export liquor barget conducted by two men, Studor and Huegill. The visitors proceeded to tie up the two men and, after having cut the telephone wire, loaded on their boat about forty-five cases of whiskey and stole between five and six hundred dollars in cash. Thieves then made their escape. Police on both sides of the St. Clair river are searching for them.

Studor and Huegill managed shortly after to get out of the rope and give the alarm.

COTTAGE BURNS AT PERCY BOOM

Fire of Unknown Origin Destroyed Fine House and Car.

HURRIED DEPARTURE.

CAMPBELLFFORD, July 20—Early Thursday morning the fine Moore-Vermilyea cottage at Percy Boom was completely destroyed by fire. Mr. Moore who, as was his custom, had motored down to spend the night, also lost his car by fire.

The fire, the cause of which is a mystery, is thought to have started in the ice house and spread so rapidly that the inmates were forced to get out hurriedly, the roof collapsing soon afterward. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Malcolm and family of town were also occupying the cottage at the time of the fire.

The cottage was perhaps the finest at the Boom and will be a distinct loss to the owners although insured for about $750.

CARDINAL BEGIN

Jesuits. He later visited the Holy Land, where he remained for some time seeing the sacred places and studying Holy Script.

Taught Theology.

Returning to Canada in 1867, after the completion of his studies, Father Begin, as he was then, taught theology at Laval University. He then became Prefect of Studies in the Little Seminary, Quebec, following which in 1882 he was appointed director of the Grand Seminary, and still later Principal of the Laval Normal School.

His Eminence attained the rank of a bishop in 1888, when he was appointed head of the diocese of Chicoutini, then just a village. Three years later he vacated that see to become coadiutor to Cardinal Taschereau, with the title of Archbishop of Cyrene, and in 1894 was made administrator of the diocese of Quebec. The late Archbishop Begin presided over a tribunal in 1898, constituted to try the case of Mgr. de Laval, the first Bishop of Quebec, for canonization.

On the death of the first Canadian Cardinal during the same year, Mgr. Begin succeeded to the Archbishopric of Quebec, being invested with the Pallium in 1899. He attended the Plenary Council held in Quebec in 1909, and the memorable Eucharistic Congress at Montreal the following year. His Holiness Pope Pius XI. elevated him to the Sacred College at the Consistory held on May 25, 1914, at which Pope Benedict also received the Cardinal's hat.

The distinguished prelate paid many visits to Rome, preached in solemn occasion at Rheims, and at Notre Dame de la Guadeloupe, Mexico. He attended the consistories of the Sacred College in connection with the election of Pope Benedict in 1914, but arrived too late for the election of his successor, Pope Pius XI. in 1922.

The late Cardinal was in the habit of making annual visits to all the parishes of the Quebec diocese, one of the largest in America, making the first in the spring and concluding the last in September. There were 253 parishes in his diocese, which extends from Cacouna to Batiscan, and from Lake Edward to Coleraine, in the Eastern Townships. Cardinal Begin usually travelled by motor or carriage, and only boarded trains and boats when absolutely necessary.

Valuable Books.

The late prelate was a great reader and a distinguished scholar. He wrote many valuable books, among them being "The Bible and the Rule of Faith." His pastorals were frequent and remarkable for their fervor and accuracy of thought.

unions. He frequently acted as arbitrator between capital and labor, and usually managed to secure amicable and satisfactory settlements.

He was a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and a patron and member of different Catholic societies. He invariably manifested a deep interest in the working class, and was a patron of many Catholic

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING.

Facilities For Secondary Education Among Best in Province.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 20—The annual announcement of the Campbellford High School, a neat little pamphlet, has just been issued and is now ready for circulation. Again the claim is made, a claim sustained by the records of the Departmental examinations year after year, that this High School is one of the finest and most up-to-date in the province. With one exception the same experienced staff of seven teachers is retained for next year, I. Groh, B.A., having been engaged in place of Miss M. Gourlay who goes to Brighton.

The new school building is modern in every respect, well heated and lighted and the equipment of every department is complete. The library contains 1504 volumes and these are at the disposal of the pupils. Pupils from outside the municipality are reminded that the town has a very fine Carnegie Library where they may have access to the daily papers, magazines and a large carefully selected list of books. A museum has been started and now contains specimens of Canadian minerals and rocks, pressed plants, birds and animals, a collection which is being added to form time to time.

The object of the High School is not only to give a sound, liberal education that will fit the students for every walk in life, but also to promote bodily health and vigor, by encouraging exercise in field sports.

Students have the opportunity of competing for the following scholarships:

The school has a Literary Society, and the meetings are held about every two weeks in the assembly hall. There is held annually, the Field Day, the Commencement Exercises, and the "At Home." In the gymnasium there will be splendid opportunities for Basketball, Indoor Baseball, and gymnastics of various kinds. The grounds outside will be available for football, baseball and tennis. The boys have an excellent Cadet Corps, and this is a splendid training in itself.

The woods are full of comical doings. It is very nice to watch all these things and to wonder at times just how much human intelligence birds and animals have.

Sometimes I wonder just what these interesting wild creatures think about us. Instead of arguing, as some folks do, about whether birds can think and reason like human beings, I am always wondering if the wild folks ever argue about how very silly we are at times.

It is far more entertaining to observe wild things and wonder what they think of our comical doings than it is to try and decide how much brains they have.

Some people claim that cows have brains,
Because they give good milk.
Whereas, the stupid worm takes pains,
To give away fine silk.

I wonder what the wild things say.
About some stupid folks;
I'm sure they laugh at us all day,
And think we're comic jokes.

Some men are stupid, some are bright;
The wild folks are the same,
And when we can't agree, and fight,
They wonder if we're tame.

A friend of mine has a tame crow. This crow is not very old, but he can fly all about the farm and spends his spare time stealing spoons and such like. He knows enough to look very innocent when my friend is near, but starts the mischief just the minute he is sure nobody is looking.

This tame crow flies out and in, roosts in the trees or on the door in the kitchen. He is very wise, apparently, and chatters away to his human folks, then flies on to the barn roof and meets the wild crows, who come and gossip with him, and they can be heard talking in low and endless chatter.

The crow is tame. He seems wise. He meets wild crows and gossips with them. Now, what does he tell those wild crows?

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DOTTY MEETS A NEW LITTLE WEATHER PROPHET.

"My goodness, such a screamer," laughed Dotty when the queer noise began in the tree above her head. "Dear me, I wish I could understand what that little fellow is singing about. I always did——." Here Dotty almost held her breath with astonishment. She could make out what the merry song was all about.

"Shoo," whispered a tiny voice and Happy Giggles, the merry little elfin from Make-believe Land, hopped down beside Dotty. "That's Daddy Cicada and he's more than happy today."

"Oh, he-high, ho-he, will you listen to me?
It's going to be so hot you can't see,"

chirped the merry singer. Dotty laughed, and Mr. Cicada, hearing, turned as if to fly away, when Happy Giggles called him.

"Don't be frightened, Mr. Cicada," he laughed merrily, waving to the singer. "Come on down and meet Dotty. She is one of the best friends you meadow folks have."

"Sure enough," chirped Mr. Cicada, and he spread his gauzy green wings and sailed down beside the elfin and Dotty. "I'm mighty glad to meet you, Dotty. Better keep in the shade all you can, for the weather is surely going to be terribly hot. I can just feel it in my bones. I love this kind of weather, don't you?"

"Well, yes, I do," replied Dotty, "if it doesn't stay hot too long without any rain."

"That's just what it's going to do," said Mr. Cicada, wiping his funny little face with his front feet. "It's in for a long, dry, hot spell."

"Sure enough," laughed Happy Giggles. "I should have introduced Mr. Cicada to you by his professional name, Mr. Hot Weather Prophet."

"That's just me," chirped Mr. Cicada. "I can always tell when we are going to have a long, hot, dry spell, and I always warn my meadow friends. My wife felt it, too, this morning. She can't sing, so she said she would get her eggs buried before the wood got too brittle. There she is now," as a second Cicada crawled down the side of the tree nearest them. "Come over and meet Dotty," Mrs. Cicada wiped the little knife she held in her mouth and bowed politely to Dotty and the elfin

"Excuse me, but I must be sure my knife is all cleaned and ready for the next time," she chirped. "When Daddy Cicada began singing this morning I knew we were in for a long, hot, dry spell, so I thought I'd better get busy and bury my eggs. I don't believe I ever cut into a nicer tree."

"You see, Mrs. Cicada cuts little grooves in the trees and places her eggs in there to hatch," explained Happy Giggles. "Now how long will it be before they hatch—very long?"

"No. Time flies so fast when the weather is hot like this," replied Mrs. Cicada. "Picked out the limb that had been dead the longest, too, Daddy. You see," she laughed, "my eggs do better in a dead branch than in one running with sap. Someway the sap soon spoils the eggs. Come, Daddy, we must be on our way." And bidding Dotty and the elfin good-by, Mr. and Mrs. Cicada spread their wings and sailed away across the meadows.

There are all sorts of ways of putting things, and some sound much better than others. For example, there is the case of the man of whom Lord Coleridge used to tell, whose father was hanged for highway robbery. Some one asked him how his father died.

A LINE-O-TYPE.

Eleven years ago today, Monday, July 20, 1914, was the beginning of the most momentous fortnight in history. When we Canadians look back upon the world of that day it seems the landscape of a dream.

Eleven Years Ago

On that day, if we looked upon Europe at all, it was like a traveller who looks from the shore up the long slopes of a mountain, noting the white towns, the gray green olive groves and winding roads of peace, noting the blue sky but not the ominous cloud gathering over the crater or the vague echoes of subterranean thunders.

The crime at Sarajevo three weeks before had flashed upon us, but faded almost as quickly out of our consciousness. We had other things to think about, the stirring foreground of our crowded and hurrying Canadian scenes, and kings or princesses had been murdered before; Elizabeth of Austria, Humbert of Italy, George I of Greece, and there was the slaughter of a few years before among these very Serbians of their king and queen and court. These crimes, like others of the sort, furnished brief bursts of romantic color down the long reaches of the old world's history, but for us in our new land of morning hopes what were they but crimes, crimes it is true of great eclat but seeming more of the stage than of any reality touching us.

So if we had been warned by some prophet that this killing of an Austrian prince in an obscure town we had never before heard of was a fateful link in an inexorable chain which presently was to draw thousands of Canadian citizens into European war, we should have given no heed. During the weeks following Sarajevo the pages of our newspapers gave as little attention to Europe as was usual in that time, which now we think of as an epoch long ago. It was, of course, different in Europe. A profound and widespread disquiet grew in spite of reassurances that war would be avoided. On July 6 the kaiser had gone cruising, a comforting sign, but exchanges were going on among the governments. The Serbian and Austrian press were raving, but on July 21 the Serbian government told the powers it would accept Vienna's demands if they did not go beyond "judicial co-operation" for the ascertainment and punishment of the guilty.

But two days later the Austrian ultimatum shook Europe into full consciousness of the impending crisis. It was not until July 25 that the situation broke upon the front pages of newspapers on this side of the Atlantic, and even as the Canadian people were reading the tardy report, the period of the ultimatum was ending and the Austrian delegation departing from Belgrade. Serbia's humble reply to Austrian demands had been delivered and Vienna had refused it. Russia and England, informed tardily, were urging upon the Austrian government extension of the time for Serbia. Russia had begun to mobilise. On the twenty-seventh Austria declared that she did not intend permanent territorial compensations, but the next day she declared war upon Serbia.

We cannot follow the complicated exchanges among the monarchs and prime ministers, the foreign offices and ambassadors and general staffs, partly because there is not space to describe them, partly because the published documents, the vari-colored books of official explanation which were put forth by the warring governments eager to conciliate the opinion of their people and the world, were garbled and incomplete. But while the anxious counsels of moderation, the efforts at mediation and localization and all the hasty devices of diplomacy were beating against the ruthless advance of fate, the armies of Europe were gathering under their banners. On July 24, Britain foremost in the counsels of peace had ordered the mobilization of the fleet, announced three days later. On the 29th the Russian army mobilized at Kiev, Odessa, Moscow and Kazan, and on the 31st Petrograd ordered a general mobilization. [illegible] mobilized on the same day and France, withdrawing ten miles from her northern frontier, was massing her troops for the impending blow. The next day, August 1, both France and Germany ordered general mobilization. Austria had ordered it on the day before, and on August 2 Germany declared war on Russia, issued on ultimatum on Belgium, and took Luxembourg. On the 3rd Germany declared war on France. On the fourth her armies advanced upon Belgium, and England issued an ultimatum to Germany upon that action and followed the next day with a declaration of war. Belgium protested the invasion and declared war and on the sixth Austria declared war upon Russia, while Germany and Serbia severed relations. Four days later France and Austria severed relations and on the twelfth Great Britain declared war upon Austria. A week later Japan delivered an ultimatum to Austria, which was ignored, and on August 22 the latter rounded out the formalities by declaring war upon Belgium.

Before this, on August 8, Liege had fallen before the battering German or Austrian guns and the German armies had swept on to Brussels, taken August 23, while the Russians had entered East Prussia on August 17 and on the 19th gained a victory at Gumbinnen which, though promptly followed by the great victory of Hindenburg, was to have a decided influence upon the whole conduct and military result of the war. Belgian neutrality had been violated and her ordeal had begun. That, too, was registering its influence on a people 3,000 miles away, whose government had already pledged itself and whose sons were already waiting in lines at recruiting stations, but a people who a month before had little dreamed of the unseen current carrying them toward the flaming vortex at which they looked in amazement and horrer.

Thus opened the great tragedy, in those days which seem so far away. The traveller gazing at the mountain with its great bulwarks, solid, they seemed, as mother earth, at the quiet villages on its slopes and peaceful vineyards under a serene sky, suddenly beholds the mountain burst into thunder and flame, the sky is hidden, the foundations of the earth shake, and peaceful villages and vineyards are gone. Hell has fallen upon the friendly earth.

So it seemed to the naive thought of far distant Canadians at that hour. Now we know that the great catastrophe was not the incredible manufacture of an assassin or the sudden accident of a day or year. We know that it was the culmination of forces long at work, some of them as old as Europe and some as old as the warring soul of man. Nevertheless their work still astounds us and fills our soul with dark uncertainties. Looking back at the Europe of July, 1914, who could have dreamed of what it is eleven years later. a moment in the vast score of time? The German empire towered over the human scene in continental Europe. Her army was the most powerful on earth. Her navy and merchant marine grew apace, even threatening the mistress of the seas. In industry, in science, in the arts, in ordered government she rivalled all nations, and her commerce spread a widening web around the earth. Russia loomed as a vast empire of immeasurable possibilities, backward, but of titanic power. England, mistress of the ocean ways, benign mother of mighty dominions, august giver of laws to myriads of the earth's peoples, sat secure on her mighty throne, prosperous and spreading. The Austrian empire, threatened from within but still a strong fabric; Italy with her aspiring nationality; the Balkan peoples, entering a new era of independence and progress; France, cultured and progressive, appearently forgetting old feuds; even Turkey under her new influences seemed all a part of a structure destined to stand for generations.

Now all that vast edifice has disappeared. The mighty walls of imperial Germany are in the dust. Her shining armour is broken, her masterful dynasty is a family of subdued citizens, and a Socialist republic struggles desperately to preserve the remains of her nationality under the leadership of a defeated war general. Her great navy lies under the waves of Scapa Flow. France has taken the watch on the Rhine, and now as she withdraws the powers are wrangling over mortgaged future. Russia is dismembered and in the clutches of communism; her Czar lies in a bloody grave. England has experimented with a Socialist government and has returned to the old order; her rich are beggared by unbearable taxes, collected by a government hounded by a mighty creditor, but refusing to bleed her allies of the borrowed money she advanced for the prosecution of the war. Austria and Hungary have dwindled to petty states, struggling for bare existence. Italy, escaping from the communist morass, hopes for a new life under the dictatorship of a man unheard of outside of Italy in 1914. Montenegro has disappeared; Jugo-Slavia, Czecho-Slovakia, Latvia, Esthonia, Lithuania are new nations struggling to be born. Poland restored finds her new status a desperate venture. Finland is free. The balance of power is no more. The great alliance and the great entente have vanished. Europe is in confusion. Its former ties and relations are torn to pieces. Old barriers are down and new have arisen. Internal and foreign problems, finance, trade, armament, are in a state of flux. Classes have been wiped out, great stores of wealth dissipated. It is the making of a new world.

And then, in the midst of this travail, Asia arises, a menace on the eastern horizon. China is in eruption. Japan is unsettled and, like a mischievous child, must be watched. Blood has been shed, and the friends are crying out for vengeance.

Here in Canada we have a land of peace and plenty, compared with the state of Europe and Asia. Yet we, too, find ourselves in a new world, with new problems and responsibilities. The wealth and power of a mighty neighbor cast their shadow over our border. Tariff problems, unemployment, immigration, and a rumored general election stir us up within.

Our wish, deep in the Canadian nature, is for peace and independence that we may enjoy the untold benefits of our Dominion, and of all the peoples that came out of the holocaust that broke eleven years ago, we have most reason to rejoice in our present condition.

HAL COCHRAN'S DAILY POEM

I'd like to read the mem'ries of a lady, old and gray. I'd like to know how diff'rent were the things of yesterday.

What fun 'twould be to echo back and thus, to really know how turned about our doings are as changes come and go.

I've heard folks speak of horse cars and of good old buggy days. I've read of real old-timers and their quaint old-fashioned ways. It's hard to really realize that hoop-skirts once were worn, but grandma says they were, before much newer styles were born.

Imagine days when autos, and when movies were unknown. And think, in just the past few years, how great these things have grown. The wonders of the present day were once not even dreamed. No wonder we all wonder just how queer things must have seemed.

And yet, I'll bet our grandfolks often have that little ache, that likes to play around their hearts, perhaps for old-times' sake. There must have been real restfulness when life was calm and slow. I wonder, are we better off today, than years ago.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

The solution will appear in to-m orrow's paper.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Poor Doctor Osler always felt unhappy over the excitement following his statement that a man lost his usefulness at 40 and should be chloroformed at 60! It was said as a joke and never was intended to be taken seriously.

Burgess was joked so much about his quatrain of the purple cow that he was sorry he ever wrote it. "I'd rather see a purple cow than I would to be one," he would have been glad to change "I'd rather be a purple cow than to hear about one."

I read the other day about a group of men who have proven effectively that Osler's joking statement was not well founded. There are 72 employees who have been with the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad for fifty years or more. They continue in active work, having given a combined service of more than 3600 years.

Discovery of this fact came from the statement of the New York Life Insurance Company that it has eleven employees in active service each of whom has been with it at least fifty years. This caused other corporations to investigate along similar lines.

One man has been with the New Haven road sixty-one years. He has served as a clerk since he was sixteen years of age. The treasurer of th road has been with the line for more than fifty years.

The reason these men are alive and active is because they kept at it. Had they retired after thirty or forty years of service they would have rusted out soon after putting aside active work. Nothing is more productive of illness and breakdown of the body than to give up the routine of the daily work, whatever it may be.

We make a mistake to think we are saving our lives by not using our bodies. Quite the opposite is the truth.

Many a pensioner who has retired after completion of the years of service plan has started on a business career and carved out for himself fame and fortune. It is foolish to "quit work." Any man will be happier, kinder and live longer by staying on the job.

The reason why we hear of so many suden deaths of persons who have gone to bed with trifling ailments is because the frail organs have been running along on a very narrow margin of safety. Just as soon as unusual demand is made upon them they break down. They would run indefinitely in the accustomed groove, but over a new route they go to pieces.

There is no need to submit to a life of deadly monotony. I would be the last person on earth to suggest it. But I am confident that regularity in life, the systematic carrying out of a set program, will add materially to the expectancy.

On cannot do the strenuous work in advanced years, of course, but by systematic control of the activities the service rendered at seventy can be about as effective as that rendered by the youngest and most active associate. Work and live.

Answers to Heath Querles

MISS A. D. Q.—What would you advise for a very dry skin?

A.—Apply a good cold cream at night before retiring. Perhaps you are using too strong a soap, which is dryngi your skin.

MRS.A.T.H. Q.—What is a good remedy for eczema?

A.—Correct the diet and be sure to have regular intestinal elimination. For further particulars kindly send a self-adressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

MRS. A. Z. L. Q.—What can I use to remove callouses from the feet?

A.—Soak the feet in warm water at night before retiring and then apply warm linseed oil. The next morning soak the feet again and then scrape the callouses off.

READER. Q.—How can one avoid appendicitis? Is olive oil helpful? How should it be taken?

A.By keeping the intestinal tract clear. Yes, it acts as a lubricant. It may be taken before retiring, but is not as effective for this purpose as a mineral oil.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally of a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. MY EUROPEAN EXCURSIONS

A PATH OF LIQUID LEGEND

Wars may come and wars may cease, but the Rhine will ever be a path of liquid legend and history. From the Zuyder Zee with its story of the sunken city of Stavoren, up to Cleves with its legend of the Swan Knight, to Elberfeld with its Angel Page, to Cologne with its many legends of the Devil's Stone, the Eleven Thousand Virgins, and the Priests' Gate, to Bonn with its Three Sleepers, to Dattenburg and its Spectre Wedding, to Laach and its Sunken Castles, to Brey and its Water Nymph, to Bacharach and its Lorelei, to Mainz of the Golden Shoes, on to the Cathedral legends of Strassburg, and scores of similar haunts, it all seems like a childhood mystery-land that I discarded years ago when I became a man. It feeds today the springs of youth in the oldest hearts.

SUMMER TIME IN THE GRISONS.

What a difference June makes to the topography of Switzerland! To see the Grisons in February and then in June when the white coverlet has been thrown back and the beds of nature's garden are bare, makes it all a new country. Instead of the skis and toboggans, I found here last week, the motor horn waking the sleeping chalets and golf driving through the valleys. The fishing rod has taken the place of skates, for angling for trout is the gift of summer. One of my companions recently wrote truthfully and beautifully, "The forests, which make the path to St. Moritz from Pontresina a woodland pageant, sweep down into the valley like a dark green lava flood from near by Piz Languard."

Common sense in an uncommon degree is what the world calls wisdom.—Coleridge.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, JULY 21.

According to the generally adverse positions of the planets, this day may be complicated and lacking in progress. There is likely to be contention and strife as well as danger of subtle attack, fraud or duplicity. Guard against these in heart and home affairs as well as in the business associations. Removal and travel are not encouraged by the lunar activities and the health should be given proper attention.

Those whose birthday it is should keep on guard against all manner of adverse conditions, guarding against fraud, caring for the health, and not inviting trouble through bad temper and rash deeds. A child born on this day, should be given early training and discipline to develop fortitude and calm attitude toward vicissitudes in life.

Mr. Walter Brien has purchased a touring car recently.

The ladies of St. John's Anglican church held a meeting recently for the purpose of laying plans for a ham supper, and they decided to hold it on Wednesday, July 22, at Ken Hill Beach, just opposite Thurstonia Park. There will be a musical programme on the grounds afterwards.

Riches—Will You Be the One?

Here Are the Figures

Out of 100 men now 25 years old, at 65 years of age this is what will have happened:—

54 actually dependent on others
5 self-supporting

Your health will decide which you will be.

INSURANCE statistics show that out of 100 men, only one ever becomes rich. A prominent authority directly attributes this astounding fact to failure to take care of health. Too little exercise, too much food, faulty elimination often cause a break down of physical powers. Irregular habits sooner or later lead to the inevitable crash.

VACATION DREAMS

By Mary Lawson

His head is in a whirl! Vacation time is here and, as usual, his thoughts turn to a pal for the time. And poor Dan Cupid is in a quandary. For the dream girl swims, rides, angles, drives like a little fiend, plays ball like a regular fellow, enjoys a picnic—and, in addition, is the dearest, sweetest, most lovable, person in the world. Oh, well, dreams are sometimes shadows of coming events, and who knows but that he will find just the girl around whom his dreams center. And then—the laugh will be on Cupid and the dreams will be realities.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Will you please give me a list of gifts that would be proper for a girl to give to the young man she is engaged to marry? HAPPY.

HAPPY: Really, there is no limit to the kind of gift you can present to your fiance, my dear. Anything that is personal and individual will be appropriate—and appreciated. Here are a few things which make lovely gifts: Wallet or billfolder, gold or silver pencil, gold or silver fountain pen, gold or silver knife, cuff-links, short gold keychain with gold tag for monogram, gold keyring, long silver keychain, watchchain, belt buckle, card case, walking stick.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are two young girls and are much in love with two nice young men, who are five years our senior. Would it be wise to continue their friendship? WONDERING.

WONDERING: If you have tastes in common with these young men, if you are happy in their company and you know they are sincerely interested in you, the difference in your ages is very unimportant. Friendship, real friendship, depends for its duration on these qualities and not on superficial things like age and appearance.

IN THE KITCHEN

HOW TO MAKE GOOD ICES AND CREAMS.

Homemade ices and creams are within the possibilities of all housekeepers who own freezers. They make the most acceptable desserts for hot weather and can be enjoyed by the children as well as the grown-ups. A mallet and canvas bag is handy to prepare the ice, and the rule of one part rock salt to two parts ice is a good one to follow. If the small vacuum freezer is employed, the cover must be removed after carefully wiping away all salt. With a long knife or wooden spatula the cream must be scraped down from the sides so that the center will also freeze entirely. This is easily done when one gets a little experience.

The water-ices are cheaper to make than creams and freeze more quickly.

Strawberry Cream.

Wash, top and put a basket of ripe berries into a saucepan with a cupful and a half of sugar, stew to a puree, then put through a puree sieve. Put a quart of rich milk on to heat, and mix a tablespoonful of cornstarch in a little cold cream. When the milk is hot, stir in the thickening and add a quarter cupful of sugar. Remove from the fire and add the beaten yolk of four eggs. Stir while it thickens, then add the puree. Stir in a little coloring and the juice of one lemon. When cold, add the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and a quarter cupful of cream. Freeze as usual.

Cherry Water Ice.

Wash, stem and stone a pound and a half of good cherries. Chop them, then add the juice of a lemon and a pint of sugar syrup. Let stand for one hour, then freeze. Or if liked better, add to the cherry mixture a little thickening of cornstarch and cook for five minutes. Then put through a sieve, cool and freeze.

Melon Ice.

Take the pulp of two ripe, good-sized canteloupes and cut in pieces. Put the pulp in a saucepan, with six ounces of sugar, the juice of two lemons, two oranges and a quart of water. Simmer for ten minutes, then put through a puree sieve, add a tablespoonful of maraschino, and when cold, freeze as usual. Decorate with the cherries.

Fresh Peach Sherbet.

Peel, stone and chop seven large, juicy peaches. Add a cupful of sugar, a pint of syrup and a pint of water. Stew gently until the peaches are all soft, then put through a puree sieve. When cold, freeze to a frappe consistency and serve in glasses. Top with a teaspoonful of whipped cream if desired, with a little powdered pistachio nuts on top.

Sickness is early old age; it teaches us diffidence in our earthly state and inspires us with thoughts of a future. —Pope.

PETERBOROUGH FANCIES

By Jeannette.

The "bloom" is on the coat this year.

Although local buyers have not yet departed on their annual trips New York-ward, in search of stocks for Fall wear, a few stray models have drifted into the shops, for showing later in August. Whispers from advance notes on "the thing to wear" in the colder months show a return to the older mode in dressmaking, or at least a modification of the present styles, when a short lady can get a nice little one-piece frock out of a yard and a half of goods, made in the straight-line fashion. For fall and winter, it appears, we must put on more cloth. There will be godets and flares of all kinds, uneven lines and a few pleats to give width to the skirts, especially around the feet, as a contrast to the present straight, narrow models. Also, the sleeveless dresses of summer will give way to the long, tight sleeves, with or without cuffs, or to long puffed and "bishop" sleeves.

The coat will be one of the principal items in the fall wardrobe, with the ensemble suit—combined long coat and dress—taking precedence over the suit. The coats also will have a long, straight lines with flares, preferably at the side, with panel flares shown to a great extent.

Fur trimmings will predominate on the coats, principally furs of the long, fluffy type.

What is called "needlepoint" goods will be shown almost exclusively, that is, cloth woven on needles, and having the "bloom" or velvet sheen on the surface which has been coming into popularity during the past few seasons. The short-pile fabrics will be very good, with duvetyns and suedes in the mode.

A new note to the sports or general utility coat is the velvet cuff which will be worn with it.

Let's Talk It Over

We quite frequently meet the misguided young miss who thinks the boss is in love with her. How about the Boy in the swivel chair who thinks the little stenog is in love with HIM? Too long has this bimbo escaped publicity. Here's where he gets his and he did it with his own little fountan pen.

Last month one of the young ladies in my office went away for a vacation. We have worked together for the past five years. While she was away she wrote me a letter about the weather and dances she went to, etc., but embodied the following oprtion, which I cannot seem to define:

"I hope everything is going along nicely at the office. I won't say that I hope you don't miss me, because I want you to miss me."

Now, I am married and my home life is very cold. I am commencing to grow the same as the other side.

This young lady knows that I am married, but she doesn't know the rest. She is engaged to be married, but for the last two months I have thought a great deal about her. I have dreamed of her on several occasions. I have not explained by feelings to her. I would would like you opinion on all this. PUZZLED.

My explanation is very simple, brother. It has nothing to do with the Freudian wish, the fourth dimension or why girls leave home. If I thought you'd take any stock in it, I'd warn you to have a sofa handy and ask your wife to be ready to treat you for shock. A damp towel for the head, hot water bag for the feet and a little spirits of ammonia are all good. The first-aid kit being ready, we will now proceed.

Hard as it is to believe, I do not think the girl is dying of love for you. I might go so far as to say that in all probability she is content with that fiance of hers that she has a sweet smile and a good word for the whole office force. Engaged girls do. It's a little trick they have of being sorry for the rest of the women who aren't going to marry Henry, and all the other men who look so plain and pudgy compared to Henry. I don't mean that you are really plain and pudgy, of course. I just mean that you probably LOOK THAT WAY TO HER.

If you feel strong enough to listen to any more, I'd be pleased to add that she isn't the first stenog to keep her memory green while she's on hr vacation by sending a picture postcard of Big Falls and hoping the office manager has missed her.

Does she hope he has missed her because she has missed him? No, no, dearie. She has not missed him, neither has she missed her shorthand notebook nor the time clock, but she's got to have a job to come back to, hasn't she? You can't blame her if the poor fish goes and swallows her wee bit of blarney, postage stamp and all!

Much has been said about the silliness of the girl who works, but not nearly enough about the silliness of the boss. That there are some silly girls who think everything in pants, from the first vice-president down to the office boy, is in love with her, I admit. But the average girl who has brains enough to learn shorthand or bookeeping has no such notion.

It's the "misunderstood" married man who knocks her ideals of comradeship and honest friendship in the head. What's she going to do—call the police or quit her job because the bald-headed office manager thinks he is a heart-breaker? Nope—she just lets him go on thinking.

All is not gold that glitters; neither is all infatuation that wries a postcard.

GOOD MANNERS

After an introduction, when you have talked for some time to a stranger whom you have found agreeable, and you then take leave, you say, "Goodby, I hope I shall see you again soon." The other person answers, "Thank you," or "I hope so, too."

That is accounted provable which has better arguments producible for it than can be brought against it.—South.

HOME TOWN RECIPE

Something quite out of the ordinary, and recommended by one who has made it as being a delicious dish for luncheon or dinner is a Spanish meat loaf, from a recipe supplied by Miss Jean Foulis, 315 Rubidge Street:

Use any portion of meat left from chops or roast. Chop very fine and to three cups of meat add one cup of stale bread crumbs, 1 cup of stock, 4 eggs, 1 tablespoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 green pepper (chopped), 2 tablespoons chopped celery, ¼ teaspoon sage. Mix thoroughly and pour into greased moulds. Set in hot water and bake for one hour in a moderate oven.

The sauce which accompanies this meat loaf is made as follows: 1 Can tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 onions, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 green peppers (shredded), 1 tablespoon dripping. Boil all together slowly for one hour.

TODAY'S FASHION

This Scarlet Jersey Bathing Suit is Edged with White.

The suit which most of the younger set approve because of its straightness of line, and because of the freedom of movement which it allows, is shown above.

This wool model is made on straighter lines than ever. Instead of the abbreviated skirt which is sewed on about the line of the hips, it is a straight tunic affair, with the little trunks showing beneath.

The waterproof bandanna in this case shows a yellow ground with little printed figures of scarlet.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By Lucrezia Bori

IF YOUR SKIN NEEDS FOOD.

Do you always keep cold cream among your toilet accessories?

One time I would not have asked this question, because I took it for granted that every woman in the country was as jealous of her beauty as a few of my friends, whom I knew kept cold creams always near them.

But investigation showed that there are still many women who do turn every stone to keep themselves in beauty trim. Many of them remember that their faces were scrubbed with soap and water when they were young, and they have done this ever since, and feel that it will suffice for the rest of their lives.

Soap is cleansing, of course, and cold cream is equally so. Now there may be a few with very oily skins who really need the drying influence of soap to keep their faces looking best, but I know such cases are few compared to the great numbers of women who do need cold cream to be beautiful.

Perhaps you have always used soap as a cleanser and that you do not notice anything really wrong with you complexion, and thus are satisfied. If you do feel this way, you might experiment by trying the cold cream way and seeing if you can notice an improvement. Perhaps instead of simply having skin that there is nothing wrong with, your complexion will blossom into great beauty.

I recommend the following cold cream, to be used at night when you go to bed:

Spermaceti	½ ounce
White wax	½ ounce
Oil of sweet almonds	2 ounces
Lanolin	1 ounce
Cocoanut Oil	1 ounce
Tincture of benzoin	12 drops
Orange flower water	1 ounce

This not only cleanses your face, but it also possesses the quality of a skin food, or you may use it for both purposes.

When you use it to cleanse, simply rub it into your face, allow it to stay on a few minutes, then rub it off with a soft old towel.

Now, if you want to feed your face with the cream, rub it lightly under your eyes, about the base of your nose and wherever your face needs feeding, and leave it on at night while you sleep.

The best way to tell whether or not your face needs skin food is to put it on and wait for awhile. If the cream is taken in by the skin beneath, you will know that this is what it has been needing. On the other hand, if the cream simply stays on the surface, this means that your skin is not in need of nourishment at the time.

If you sleep with skin food on your face, you should apply it lightly, so as not to stop up the pores. Examine your face next morning, and if the food has not absorbed you will not need it for the present.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

GIVING NATURE A DOSE OF CITY-MADE JAZZ.

They are going to the mountains for their vacations—way up high in the mountains, too, pa and ma and sister and Junior and Jim and Kitty.

And later in the Summer Jim's sister-in-law and Kitty's cousin and her husband are coming along, too.

They have been weeks getting ready—Oh, yes, they are going to drive all the way and they have made the back-seat of their car into a bedroom with a sort of folding bed and they have an ice chest on the side and camp stove on the other side and camp chairs and, Oh, you can't imagine how many handy things.

Of course the car doesn't look particularly smart. But what care they. They are off for the wild woods and the wild life and they are going to forget all about cities and city streets and city noises and city crowds and city dirt and city fatigue.

Of course they are taking the phonograph—and a lot of new records. No, none of the great music—the sort that would blend with the sighing of the deep gorge below. Oh, no, nothing like that—the latest jazz. 'Molly the Hot Tamale"and "Ada, why don't you Fade-ah" and a lot of cute things like that. And the radio set! Why, sure, half the fun of going will be sitting on the top of a peak way off from nowhere and hearing Miss Tottie Coughdrop in her latest success, "Gee ain't I the sweetest sweetie you know."

Well, every man to his taste, but dear me how do people stand it carrying the same ideas along with them everywhere?

What's the use of going to the Yosemite Valley at all if you are going to carry Broadway and State Street along with you?

What's the use of going fishing and hunting and camping if you are not going to change your records at all?

Just think of camping somewhere, far from the madding crowd, and waking up in the morning to the tune of "Lets go stepping tonight." All very well in the Winter in town when you can't get outdoors anyway, and have to console yourself through the dark and the cold 'til Spring. No wonder we want the jazz, whether we get it on the radio or the phonograph then. But in the Summer, with nature's heart wide open—in the wind and the brown river crawling right by the campfire and the impudent squirrels, scolding from the trees and the moon rising above the far peaks—ah, well every one to his taste.

I hope ma and pa and sister and Junior and Jim and Kitty and the in-laws and all the in-laws'-in-laws will have a glorious time in the mountains—even if they do take as much of the town along with them as they can conveniently carry.

Ministry of Labor Made Inquiry Which Reveals Conditions

Eighty-six per cent. of the men claiming "the dole" in England, and ninty per cent. of the women would in normal times be either "steadily" or "fairly well" employed, according to a Ministry of Labor report.

An inquiry was made into the personal circumstances of nearly 11,000 claimants to unemployment benefit, who were selected to constitute as nearly as possible a representative sample of the whole body of claimants.

Employment exchange managers or their deputies personally interviewed the claimants, and placed them in various categories of "employability."

Sixty-two per cent. of the men and 77 per cent. of the women were classed as persons who would normally be in steady employment.

Only 3.6 per cent. of men and 1.4 per cent. of women were "verging on the unemployable." These were mainly elderly persons, more than two-thirds of the men and nearly half the women being sixty years old or older.

"A heavy proportion of those classed as 'verging on the unemployable' suffered from poor physique, poor health, or some physical defect.

"Male claimants with no dependants represented 44.7 per cent., and those with dependants 55.3 per cent."

Less than half the men, but three-quarters of the women, were under thirty-five. The report observes that as a rule the average age of employed women is younger than of employed men.

The largest number of men and women of any one age were in the group between twenty and twenty-four.

UNMARRIED.

Three-eighths of the men were single and five-eighths of the women single or widowed. Four-fifths of the men between twenty and twenty-four were single and seven-tenths of the women of the same age.

Twenty-three per cent. of the men had been apprenticed and 24 per cent. trained; 53 per cent. had been neither apprenticed nor trained.

Of the women, 11.1 per cent. had been apprenticed and 53.3 per cent. claimed to have had some training.

Eleven per cent. of the men were casual workers, 75.6 per cent. were definitely out of a situation, and 12.9 per cent. were suspended or "stood off."

"AWFUL WORDS" OF ATHANASIAN CREED

Sir Edward Clarke Declared They Spoilt Happiness of Services

"....which faith, except a man keep whole and undefiled, without doubt he will perish eternally."

These words in the Athanasian Creed were condemned as "the most terrible sentence that had ever appeared in all history," by C. Marston, when the New House of Laity and the Church of England resumed consideration of the Revised Prayer Book (Permissive Use) Measure. He moved that the words be deleted from the Creed, and his motion was carried after a remarkable address by Sir Edward Clarke.

The Athanasian Creed, said Sir Edward, had spoiled the happiness of services for him on the great festivals of the Church for years and years.

"I have never said it," he added, "and would never dream of saying it. It has been a distress to me to hear choirs singing at the top of their voices these awful words, which I do not believe, and which I am sure ought not to be in our service."

Though Mr. Marston's amendment was carried, the question remains open, and will come up before the House for final approval.

SHIPWRECK BRINGS FRIENDS TOGETHER

Captain of Glasgow Steamer Found Shipmate on Colliding Boat

The Glasgow steamer Burnside arrived in the Tyne with seven survivors of the Newcastle steamer Norseman, with which she reported having been in collision on the previous day in a dense fog off Yarmouth.

The Norseman sank in about three minutes, and the Burnside picked up all except two of her crew—Second Engineer Jonathan Phillpotts, of Goole, and Fireman Robert Wilson, of Dundee.

It is stated that Wilson lost his life through running into the forecastle to fetch some property. Phillpotts was seen clinging to a boat, but disappeared before he could be rescued.

The Norseman was a vessel of 352 tons and the Burnside's tonnage is 916.

Captain Turnbull, of the Norseman, recognized in Captain Mackaskill, of the Burnside, a shipmate whom he had last seen thirteen years ago.

LONDON BANK GETS SOVIET PLATINUM

Two great chests, weighing together three tons, stood on a wharf near London Bridge, under close guard awaiting removal to one of the London banks. They had been landed from a Russian steamer, the Lieutenant Schmidt.

The chests contained platinum worth £950,000, and had been sent to a London bank by the Russian Soviet Government. The chests were really great safes cased over with wood.

KING AND QUEEN GREET CENTENARIAN

Bristol Woman Realised Long Cherished Ambition in Handshake

FIRST TAXI RIDE

King Also Chatted With Crimean Veteran and Other Medal Wearers

The proudest woman in Bristol recently was "Granny" Jarrett, aged 104.

The great ambition of her very old age was realized one afternoon, when the King and Queen, visiting the city to open the new University Buildings, shook hands with her, and Queen Mary inquired about her health and happiness.

She has 100 living grandchildren and many great and great-great-grandchildren.

When she completed her century the King and Queen sent her a shawl, of which she is very proud. She received a further mark of kindness from their Majesties on her last birthday.

Riding for the first time in a taxi-cab she was driven from her modest home in a working-class district and given a special place on the route, with a good view of the Royal procession; but as the selected spot proved too hot, she was taken to the shelter of the portico at the Victoria Rooms. There both the King and Queen shook hands and spoke with her. She was taken home extremely happy.

While inspecting the local branch of the British Legion, His Majesty noticed standing a little girl, named Gladys Seasey, wearing her father's medals, and spoke a few words to her.

He also chatted with a Crimean veteran, 91 years old, now blind, who joined the Royal Artillery 71 years ago; Sister Needham, wearing the Red Cross medal, who was in a torpedoed vessel and was wounded during the war; and a little boy, Jackie Legg, the crippled son of the late secretary of the Bristol Mons Club, who was wearing his father's medals and dipped a small flag in salute.

FROM SHIP'S BOY TO INDIAN VICEROY

Lord Reading Discloses Circumstances of First Voyage to Calcutta

How a poor ship's boy, who made his first voyage to Calcutta before the mast, holy-stoning decks and cleaning brasses, returned there as Viceroy and Governor-General of India, was told by the Earl of Reading to the Reading Chamber of Commerce.

"On the day I was appointed Viceroy, I recalled," he said, "the day when after being two months moored at the quay in Calcutta awaiting a cargo of jute, I stood under the fo'c'sle head taking my small part in heaving away on the acapstan bar."

It never occurred even in the wildest dreams to that lad, he added, "toiling barefooted on the deck and moving among the hands of the fo'c'sle that the time might come when he would live in India as head of the administration, the representative of the King."

BIG SUM IS PAID FOR FAMOUS MEDAL

Collection of War Decorations Being Sold in London

The sum of £950 was paid for a medal at Glendinings — the notable Peninsula medal, which was in the £10,000 collection of naval and military decorations formed by W. Phillips, of Aberdare Gardens, Hampstead.

The collection is now being dispersed. It contains several Victoria Crosses, but the outstanding feature is the gold medal for Vimiera with clasp for Maida. Other rarities in gold include naval medals for Trafalgar.

The group of decorations awarded to Colonel Sir John Elley was sold for £140. Sir John commanded the rearguard of the cavalry at Talavera. Other decorations sold were the gold medals for Talavera, the Waterloo medal and the badges of the Orders of the Bath.

CRICKETER HAS FIGHT WITH SHARK

A desperate fight with a thresher shark took place off Highcliffe, Southampton. Philip Mead, the famous Hampshire batsman, was fishing from a rowing-boat, and he and his two friends cast their lines when less than a hundred yards from the beach.

Suddenly there was a violent disturbance in the water, and a shark rose to the surface lashing furiously with its powerful tail. Mead seized an oar and attacked the shark, which, after a violent struggle, was landed and killed.

It measured eight feet long and weighed more than a hundredweight.

JURY KICKED AT POOR LUNCH SERVED

A protest against the "disgraceful lunch" served to them was made to the judge by the jury during a murder trial at Monmouth Assizes.

"We are really worse off than before we had it," said the spokesman of the jury. "Sorry," said Mr. Justice Horridge. "I am afraid it is not my fault."

FAMOUS ORDER FOR GLENCOE MASSACRE OFFERED FOR SALE

National Library at Edinburgh Trying to Secure Document

FRIENDS' REWARD

Effort to Wipe Out the Macdonalds in Seventeenth Century

An effort is being made to secure for the National Library at Edinburgh a document said to be the original order for the massacre of the Macdonalds of Glencoe, which is to be offered for sale at Christie's

The order seems to be the one which Col. Robert Duncanson sent to Capt. Robert Campbell, who was already installed at Glencoe, passing on to him orders which had been given to himself by Lieut.-Colonel James Hamilton.

Historians credit Duncanson with a certain squeamishness, and infer that while conniving at the massacre of the Macdonalds, who had received Captain Campbell as a friend, he preferred that the deed should actually be done by someone else.

Advocates of the day wanted an inquiry into Duncanson's conduct, but the matter was allowed to drop, and he was afterwards killed in battle abroad.

"THE OLD FOX."

The tragic message is contained on a single sheet of much-worn paper, and the writing has faded to a pale brown. The letter runs:

You are hereby ordered to fall upon the Rebells, the McDonalds of Glenco, and putt all to the Sword under Seventy. You are to have a speciall care that the old Fox and his sones doe upon no account escape your hands. You are to secure all the avenues that no man escape.

This you are to putt in executione att fyve of the clock precisely; and by that time or verie shortly after it, I'le strive to be att you with a stronger party; if I doe not come to you att fyve, you are not to tary for me, butt to fall on.

This is by the King's speciall command, for the good and safety of the Country, that these miscreants be cutt off root and branch.

See that this be put into executione without fouq or favour, else you may expect to be dealt with as one not true to King nor Government, nor a man fitt to carry Commissions in the King's service. Expecting you will not faili in the fulfilling hereof, as you love your selfe, I subscribe these with my hand att Babichebis, Feb. 12, 1692.

(Signed) Re. Duncanson.

YOUTHFUL IDEAS OF FAMOUS PEOPLE

George Robey Had Aspirations to Be An Astronomer

"In the day of my youth I aspired to an unearned income of £1 a week," writes W. H. Davies, the poet, who is among contributors to a symposium, "Aspirations of My Youth," in T.P.'s and Cassells' Weekly."

Others who confess to early ambitions are:

Sir John Lavery: I cannot recall any desire of my youth other than that of being a jockey.

Sir Landon Ronald: When I was six I longed to be an entertainer like Corney Grain or George Grossmith. When I was ten I wanted to be a commercial traveller. At 12 I wanted to be a conductor, a composer and a critic; at 14 I thought of becoming a clergyman.

George Robey: My youthful aspiration was to become an astronomer; so far my only success has been in the theatrical firmament.

WIDOW WON APPEAL IN BREACH CASE

Privy Council Upholds Indian Court in Unusual Action

Judgment in the first breach of promise appeal to come before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council was delivered by Lord Darling in a case brought in India by Mrs. Lucia Jacob, a German by birth and widow of an English barrister, against David Alexander Wills, a member of a Calcutta firm. Mrs. Jacob was interned in India and Belgium and not released until 1920, when she learned that her former fiance had married another woman.

Mr. Justice Buckland in the Indian Courts gave judgment in her favor, awarding her over £2,000 as damages, but this decision was reversed on appeal by the High Court of Calcutta.

The judgment of the Privy Council restored Mr. Buckland's decision, and granted costs.

LONDON ZOO NOW HAS AN OCTOPUS

The finest and most reliable shudder in the London Zoo Aquarium is that produced by the octopus.

But there has been no devil-fish in the Zoo for months, and small boys are bitterly disappointed. Therefore the superintendent, Dr. G. M. Vevers, has just made a special journey to Guernsey to ensure a regular supply.

The old method of bringing them in tanks of aerated water is to be dropped. The new supply will be transported in damp seaweed and hosed down with salt water from time to time in the ship. Dr. Vevers tried this method with some giant spider-crabs, lobsters and anemones which he has brought back to the Zoo. It worked very well.

CANCER CELLS ARE KILLED BY SERUM

Dr. Lumsden Makes Important Experiments with Animals

CRUCIAL TEST

Lister Institute Seeking to Ascertain if it is Cancer Curative

At the Lister Institute of Preventive Medicine, Chelsea Bridge road, London, experiments which give some indication of a successful line of attack are being made to find a cure for cancer.

A serum has been found that destroys cancer cells which have been taken from cancerous animals and propagated in glass capsules.

The problem to be solved is: Will this serum destroy cancer in the living animal and without seriously damaging the tissues of the body?

With the aid of a grant from the British Empire Cancer Campaign, Dr. Thomas Lumsden, who discovered the serum, is carrying out investigations on animals. His research had its origin in the discovery by Ehrlich, the German pathologist, that if a mouse cancer were inoculated into a rat it grew for some days and then died out. After that the rat could not be infected again, which showed that some substance defensive against cancer was produced. But it was found that serum taken from such an immunized rat had no curative power when injected into a cancerous mouse.

CANCER CELLS DIED.

Carrying Ehrlich's method a step farther, Dr. Lumsden repeatedly inoculated rats and rabbits with cancer cells and then collected the serum (fluid part) of their blood. This he put into glass capsules and added cancer cells taken from mice.

All the cancer cells died within 24 hours, while others placed in the serum of healthy rabbits survived.

Other agents can destroy cancer cells, including heat, cold, radium and ultra-violet rays, but they also cause the death of the normal tissues of the body.

To test whether the serum can kill the cancer cells without seriously damaging the healthy tissues of the body a further experiment was carried out. Fragments of heart, kidney and spleen, containing cancer cells, were propagated in the serum. All the cancer cells quickly died while the healthy parts of the heart, kidney and spleen survived and grew, the heart fragment continuing to beat for days.

THE CRUCIAL TEST.

In this way it was proved that the serum is directly destructive of cancer cells while sparing the tissues of the body.

Up to this point the test had been carried out in vitro, that is in glass vessels.

The crucial test in vivo (in the living body) as to whether the serum may be a cure for cancer is now being made at the institute.

"Most research work on cancer is directed to ascertainment of the cause with a view to finding a cure," said a cancer specialist. "It seems possible that we may discover a cure before we have found the cause, as we found a preventive of small-pox more than a hundred years ago and are still ignorant of the causative agent."

SARGENT'S WILL

Bequest of £5,000 to Friend of Famous Painter

He left £5,000 to his friend Alice Barnard.

MAN WHO MADE COUP MUST PAY

Famous Deal in Government Linen Recalled by Tax Claim

A CAMPAIGN

Court Orders "Linen King" to Pay Percentage of Profits

An income tax assessment of £1,900,000 on Leonard James Martin for his famous deal in 45,000,000 yards of Government linen was disputed in the King's Bench Division.

The deal was carried out in 1919. Mr. Martin thereby earning the title of the "Linen King."

An appeal was brought against the assessment on the ground that the deal was a gamble and not the proceeds of trade.

It was explained that Mr. Martin, since 1910, had carried on the business of a wholesale agricultural machinery merchant in London.

In May, 1919, he went to see Government surplus stocks at Shepherd's Bush.

He then had no intention of purchasing any of the goods himself, but after discovering that the Government had over 40,000,000 yards of unbleached linen for disposal, he declared he would take the whole of it.

By June 19 he negotiated a contract with the Government for the purchase of about 45,000,000 yards of linen at 1s. 8d. a yard, the total amount of the purchase being £3,733,625.

Immediately after the signing of the contract Mr. Martin refused an offer to relieve him of the whole or part of his responsibility because there was no profit offered.

He started a great advertising campaign and established a selling organization with such effect that by December 18, 1919, only 700,000 yards of the linen remained unsold.

An assessment was made on Mr. Martin for the year ending April 5, 1920, in the sum of £1,900,000, against which he appealed to the Commissioners, and from them to the Board of Referees, for a special percentage standard. On their decision the Commissioners reduced the assessment to £908,989.

Mr. Justice Rowlatt said it was overwhelmingly clear that Mr. Martin was carrying on a trade.

He embarked upon a very bold coup because he bought a vast supply of linen which was available under circumstances of the most extraordinary character.

The appeal would be dismissed with costs. Judgment was entered accordingly.

STRAYING TORPEDO DASHES ON SHORE

Honeymoon Couple and Boatload Had Narrow Escapes

A Whitehead torpedo went astray in Weymouth Bay after it had been fired, struck the rocks just below the Nothe Fort, and scattered a number of visitors who were picnicking at the spot.

A young man and his wife, said to be a honeymoon couple, who were taking snapshots, narrowly escaped being struck by the torpedo, which crashed into the rocks with terrific force, shot up in the air, and was smashed to pieces.

The woman fainted, and was afterwards attended by a doctor. She is still suffering from shock.

The torpedo had been fired from the Admiralty range, and it is supposed that gyroscope trouble was responsible for it going out of control.

A number of spectators noticed the missile zig-zagging after it had been fired. Almost as soon as it altered its course it narrowly missed a boat with four people in it.

HEAT DRIVES SEA CAPTAIN TO KILL WHOLE FAMILY

Couple Were Devotedly Attached But Brainstorm Brought Tragedy

PET DOG, TOO

Five Bullets Found Billets in London Flat Occupants

Madness brought on by the heat wave is believed to have been the cause of a death drama in a Willesden-Green flat, London, where a family of four and their pet dog were all found shot dead.

Police officers, who crawled along a balcony and climbed through a bedroom window, entered the house of death in the High road and found the bodies of John William Miskin, 42, a captain in the Mercantile Marine; Alice Annie Miskin, 46, his wife; Dorothy Jane, 14, and Walter William, 11.

Mrs. Miskin was lying in bed with a bullet wound through her left temple. Her little boy had been killed in the same way, while he was asleep in a cot by her bedside.

Dorothy, who was in a small back bedroom, had been shot in exactly the same way—through the left temple at point-blank range—as she lay in bed, and Captain Miskin was stretched full length on the landing outside with a bullet wound in his right temple.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A five-chambered revolver was lying by his side. Scotland Yard officially describe the case as one of murder and suicide. It is believed that Captain Miskin first shot his son and then his wife, and afterwards went into the room where his daughter was sleeping and killed her with a third shot.

With the fourth bullet in his revolver he killed their pet dog, a cross-bred Pom, named Floss, which was curled up in a basket in the kitchen. The last bullet he used on himself.

It was about 1.30 a.m. that the death drama was enacted. Awakened out of their sleep by the sound of shots, the people in the flat below heard a cry in the night, more shots, then silence.

No clue could at first be obtained by the police to throw light on the tragedy. Relatives could offer no explanation of the mystery. Neighbors and friends all agreed that the couple lived on terms of great affection.

Captain Miskin, who had lived with his wife for twelve years in the flat, came home April 23 after a long sea voyage as master of the Ceuta, a cargo boat owned by the Stuart Line.

He had not obtained another appointment, but it was not unusual for him to be home for much longer periods.

Detectives made widespread inquiries, but so far have been unable to discover any explanation of the tragedy other than that Captain Miskin had been in ill-health. He had contracted malaria on more than one of his sea voyages, and he had suffered severely from the climate on frequent visits to the tropics.

HEAT "BRAINSTORM."

It is believed that he must have had a "brainstorm" at the time when he took the lives of his wife and children, and that the heat wave may have been primarily responsible for his mental abberation.

Captain Miskin was a London man, who came of a seafaring family. His wife was a Willesden girl.

"Captain Miskin was a man who was intensely fond of his wife," said a neighbor.

"On the last trip he made he was away for about three years, though once or twice during that period he managed to get home for a week-end. On one occasion, I remember, he flew from Hamburg, where his ship was coaling, so that he might spend a single day—a Sunday—with his wife and family."

MASTER BUILDER IMPALED ON RAILS

Called to Rescuers to Look After His Mate First

"Don't bother about me. I'm done for. Look after my mate," were the brave words of George Cartwright, aged 45, a master builder of Hampstead, who was impaled on spiked railings after falling 30 feet.

Cartwright and Charles Mills, aged 21, a laborer, were re-pointing a three-storey house in Litcham street, Kentish Town, when a brick broke away from the face of the wall, throwing scaffolding and men to the ground.

Cartwright fell full length on to the railings, but Mills broke his fall by clutching at a window-ledge. He lost his grip and came down on the top of Cartwright.

The younger man picked himself up from the pavement, but the effort was too much for him, and he fell unconscious.

Both now lie in St. Pancras Infirmary. Cartwright in a grave condition; Mills' condition is favorable.

CARPET MAKER LEFT MUCH TO CHARITY

Mr. Peter Adam, senior partner of Messrs. Tompkinson and Adam, carpet manufacturers, of Kidderminster, and a Congregationalist speaker, who died last March, left £260,000. Bequests to servants, Kidderminster Infirmary and Baxter Church are made in the will, a third of the estate being divided immediately between ten children.

Estate duties amount to more than £50,000.

Mr. Adam was a member of the council of the Congregational Union of England and Wales, and for thirty years treasurer of the Kidderminster Baxter Church. He was a Justice of the Peace and a County Councillor.

WOMAN'S PULSE WAS SO FAST DOCTOR COULD NOT MAKE THE COUNT

Dr. Maughan, the police divisional surgeon, apologized to the Marylebone magistrate for not being able to give the pulse rate of a woman he had examined for drunkenness.

He had counted up to 192, then could not keep pace with it any longer.

He did not remember such a rapid beat before. The normal pulse was 72.

At the National Heart Hospital it was stated that pulse rates of 175 to 180 were within their experience.

WILL OF HAPPIEST MAN ON EARTH

Three Quaint Bequests are Disallowed by Chancery Judge

PIG BONUS

Read Will to Casual Public in Park and Gave Advice

Three of the quaint bequests of the quaintly-worded will of Mr. G. L. Norris, a well-known Penarth character, were disallowed when the will was discussed before Mr. Justice Russell in the Chancery Division. These were:

"With the object of killing the silly and stupid and ridiculous restrictions on pig-keeping, the testator gives £5 for the best and heaviest pig raised every year in Penarth, Cogan and Llandough.

"Prizes to Sunday School scholars for thrift.

"Five pounds a year to the young couple who are arranging or thinking of getting married who live in Penarth, Cogan or Llandough, and whose joint bank-books show the largest amounts saved."

In disallowing these his lordship remarked of the prizes for young couples who had saved money that this was not a charity, as the couple with half a million would get the prize.

He directed that a scheme should be prepared for the administration of the valid bequests.

WILL READ IN PARK.

Counsel said Mr. Norris was a local philanthropist who read his will in public in the local park to all the children, nursemaids and others of the leisured classes who happened to be present.

He desired that an inscription should be cut in a monument over his grave saying that he lived and died the happiest man on earth, always busy and doing good, advising those in trouble, and had never known his advice to go wrong.

Making a bequest for the prizes for allotment holders, he wrote:

"I would punish all persons who import German horse-radish or Spanish onions, and would doubly punish the members of the Government who in future allowed these vegetables to come into the country."

It had been his intention that the Mayor of Penarth should wear his gold watch and chain, but that bequest had been disclaimed.

There were gifts for cigars, cigarettes and light refreshments for members of the Urban Council present at the distribution of the various prizes.

BRITISH FILMS ARE DOOMED INDUSTRY

Sir Oswald Stoll Says Block-booking is Killing Theatres

The British Empire would soon be completely Americanized, said Sir Oswald Stoll yesterday—presiding at the shareholders' meeting of Stoll Picture Productions, Limited, at the Coliseum—simply because we were allowing British life and ideas to be gratuitously wiped off the screen.

Discussing a net loss of £46,638 in the company's profit and loss account, Sir Oswald said their films contained a vast amount of unexpended entertainment value for a vast public which had not yet been given the opportunity of witnessing them.

They were kept off the screen by the overwhelming forces in favor of the preferential exhibition of non-British films.

THEATRES MAY FOLLOW.

As non-British films were coming to be controlled in blocks, theatres also might yet be controlled in blocks, and the exhibitors would then have their theatres as well as their films controlled by block-booking, or would find themselves deprived of films altogether and their theatres useless.

British pictures were a mere drop in the ocean compared with the numbers of non-British pictures that flowed into this country with all their costs covered in the home market.

The picture technique of America was not superior to British technique. It appeared to be so only because America could afford to make 211,000 feet of negative to extract from it 13,000 feet for exhibition.

Unless British pictures could get their costs back in the home market by a Government scheme or a private scheme willingly supported by the exhibitors, it seemed to him that the British film industry was doomed.

NEW DUTIES TO HELP.

The McKenna duties, in not being based on the exhibition value of the films in this country, afforded no help to the production of British films.

Discussions were going on between the different sections of the film industry from which the Government hoped to obtain a lead. There were, however, too many conflicting interests in the industry to enable them to speak with a single voice.

T. Coutts Elder said in Germany 50 per cent. of the pictures shown on the German screen had to be German.

The King of the Belgians, Colonel-in-Chief of the 5th Dragoon Guards, was represented at the unveiling of the memorial to all ranks of the regiment who fell in the great war, in the Garrison Church at Aldershot, by General Count de Jonghe D'Ardoye, who laid a wreath from his Majesty at the base of the memorial.

CRUSADERS START NEW CAMPAIGN FOR HEART HOSPITAL

Picturesque and Impressive Ceremony Witnessed in Marylebone Church

SELF-SACRIFICE

Inspiring Catechism by Grand Seneschal at Stone Laying

With robes such as the old Crusaders wore and the watchword "Service" in their hearts, 250 young men recently embraced within the scope of a new crusade the support of a needy hospital—the National Hospital for Diseases of the Heart, Marlebone, N. W., whose patients, in the 68 years of its history, have increased from 437 to 34,000.

A moving service in Marylebone Parish Church called forth all the fire and faith of the crusading spirit of the past, and the almost passionate avowals made around the foundation stone of a new wing of the hospital proved the sincerity of the new crusade.

Few more beautiful church services have been seen in London. The Most Noble Order of Crusaders, wearing white surcoats, with the Crusaders' Cross at the breast, over long cowled robes, were met at the church door by the choir and clergy. While the processional, "The God of Abraham Praise," was sung they proceeded to their seats in a slow march.

By the outer aisles went the Freemen, in brown robes; the Esquires, in grey; and the Yeomen, in green. Along the central aisle passed the Companions, in blue, the Pro-Grand Master, Lieut.-General Sir Edward Bethune, and other high officials, wearing scarlet and gold mantles.

Last of all came the Grand Master, Col. Walter Faber, preceded by an ensign and a gleaming sword and followed by his esquires.

CRUSADERS' WAR CRY.

Past the choir he walked to the chancel, and as he reached it the first chord of the National Anthem sounded. Three versus were sung with an unforgettable fervor, while the ensign, bearing a sword and war chevrons enclosed by the words of the ancient Crusaders' war cry, "It is the Will of God," was dipped in salute.

Sword-bearers preceded the crimson-robed readers to the lectern, and esquires followed them. The Abbot of the Maryiebone Conclave, the Rev. H. Burne, was escorted to the pulpit to give his address with the same ceremonial.

The service ended, a picturesque procession proceeded to the hospital through crowded streets, behind pennons that marked the various conclaves. A red sword was the symbol of the City men and a portcullis that of Westminster, while an old ship marked the men from Dockland.

Coins of the realm, with the first and last annual reports of the hospital, having been deposited in the place prepared for the foundation-stone of the new wing, the Grand Master held aloft the sword and said:

"Our sword shall ever be used to the glory of God, the defence of the right, and the maintenance of equity and justice."

AN INSPIRING CATECHISM.

The stone was lowered, and the Grand Seneschal, Major Henry Lygoe, then struck a blow with the sword at one corner of it, and asked: "For what doth our Order stand?"

"Service," came the answer from all the Crusaders.

The sword-hilt struck another corner.

"What is the essence of service?" was asked.

"Self-sacrifice," came the reply.

"How is that attained?" was the next question accompanying a third blow with the sword.

"By loyalty," was the answer.

The last corner of the stone was struck. "And by service, self-sacrifice, and loyalty, what do we attain?"

The voices, with increased volume, replied: "Brotherhood."

Tapping the stone with the sword-hilt the Grand Master said: "By virtue of service, self-sacrifice, loyalty, and brotherhood, in the name of the Most Noble Order of Crusaders, I declare this stone truly and duly laid for the service of humanity."

After purses had been presented to the hospital the Crusaders, in various accents, explained why they wore their long gowns.

NEVER HAD DOCTOR AND 100 YEARS OLD

Miss Eliza Saxby, of Fairlight road, Hastings, who has just celebrated her 100th birthday, proudly boasts that she has never had a doctor in her life.

Her age is verified by an entry of her baptism in the register of the little church of Wartling Hill, Sussex.

Miss Saxby walked to church, a quarter of a mile from her home, last Sunday, and she declared "I'm going next Sunday."

She reads daily to an invalid cousin, who is blind, and has a passionate desire to be amongst the gaiety and brightness of the Hastings Promenade.

She is also interested in the forthcoming railway centenary celebration, since she remembers the old open coaches and old engines which used to run on the first lines laid down in Sussex.

STUDENTS BURNT SHIRTS IN "RAG"

Students of Jesus College, Cambridge, tore off their shirts and threw them on a great bonfire, round which they danced like frenzied Indians preparing for war, in the course of astonishing scenes at a celebration of the retention of the headship of the river by the college after the May races.

The large white wooden screens from the cricket field were also hurled on the fire, and before they were alight some of the students balanced them flat and raced over them across the flames.

A large crowd of townspeople watched the spectacle from the roadway outside the college grounds, and when they began to rush through the gates the students formed a long chain and, shouting "Out the 'Townies,'" forced the people back to the roadway.

BETHANY WON FROM LOCK WORKS TEAM

Defeated Visitors 11-4 at Garden Party—Presentation to Bride and Groom.

BETHANY, July 20.—The annual garden party of St. Paul's Anglican Church was held on Wednesday evening on the athletic grounds. The weather was grand which added to the evening sports and programme, and a very large crowd attended. The baseball team of the Peterboro Lock Works met the Bethany Boys and a good game was staged, the score being: Lock Works 4; Bethany 11.

In some way, some of the Peterboro players lost their way to Bethany, but they were sports and put in a few rooters to help play the game.

The gate receipts amounted to $139, and proceeds from the ice cream and the fish pond were $39. The programme was put on by the Circle Girls, and a play, "The Old-Fashioned Album," was given. The Bethany Band provided music for the evening.

Surprise Party.

On Friday evening, about forty friends and members of the Bethany Baseball team gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Sisson, who have returned from their honeymoon in England, for the purpose of giving them a present. The evening was spent in cards and dancing and at luncheon time the bride and groom were called to take their chairs, and Bruce Ryley read the following address, while Walter Price, president of the association, made the presentation:

To Mr. and Mrs. Sisson:
We've come to pay you a visit
We hope to have a good time,
We know you didn't ask us
To enjoy your bliss sublime.
But we vote you and your Missus,
As the very best of sports
And trust that after all the fuss
You won't be out of sorts.
We wish you heaps of happiness,
And a multitude of joys;
Now please accept these dishes
From the Bethany Baseball Boys.

The presentation consisted of a beautiful pair of silver candlesticks with green and white candles and a silver entree dish. The groom, although entirely taken by surpise, made a suitable reply on behalf of himself and his wife and thanked the friends for all their kindness.

WOOLLENS LOST LEAGUE POINTS TO THISTLE 4-0

Richmond Opened Scoring —Nice Combination by the Forwards.

HILLMAN BRILLIANT.

Browell an Artist— Chambers Injured—Woollen Attacks Failed.

The best game played in local soccer circles for many seasons was the league match between the Canadian Woollens and the Thistle on Saturday afternoon at Nicholls Oval. It was a hard fought battle the whole ninety minutes. There was no differences in the team-play because all gave a brilliant and superb account, in every department. The two junior players—Lindsay and Warde —were in proper company. Richmond had the hat trick and Warde got the other goal which made four clear goals to nil.

Opening Very Fast.

In the opening stages, the league leaders bombardment was terrific against the opposing defense which brought the left wing into prominence as Blowers first-time drive skimmed the cross-bar, then Burgess was adjudged offsides. Frank Wade sent his left wing down into Woollens area where offsides again prevailed. Richmond came back again on the right wing but Chambers held him until Sayers set his forwards moving. Clark beat along the wing, outwitted the defense, then ripped a fast one at Edgar who cleared in nick of time.

Slippy Ground.

Both teams had difficulty in keeping their feet, owing to the wet terra firma. Lindsay, a De Laval junior, completed the "Jags' eleven. Warde, at outside right, made the first impression upon the stalwart full backs when he drew them out then slipped the ball forward to Hutton who tapped it to the waiting centreforward and shouted "goal" before it was in the rigging. 'Twas a battle royal after this reverse, because the full quota indulged in clever manipulation of the sphere to their advantage. There was no choice in the respective forward lines as they frequently introduced the close-passing and long swinging passes to their own satisfaction. The extreme wing men —Clark and Browell— were the artists of the day. An individual effort by the former was frustrated by Williams but Dawson handled.

Read's Great Drive.

From the free-kick, the half-back placed the sphere in the corner of the far upright. All of a sudden, Edgar came into view when opposing forwards tried to gain the equalizer but it dropped to Wade who kicked up-field. The alert left wing came back again to gain inside the defense. Mitchell baffled the opposition when he trapped it across to Blowers for a wide range attack. This was followed up by two successive corner-kicks in Burgess favour. He landed the ball in below the bar and it was only the tall figures of the defense that held the attack fruitless.

Hillman Brilliant.

At last, the attack changed to the Woollens goal where Bidwell was master mind in manipulating for position and dangerous attacks. He gained the verdict in close-tackling, in the corner, run close into the desired area but shot the ball out to his pivot who made Hillman put off a great save and round of applause to both contestants. Just before half time, Burgess had the upper hand of the attack as he made opening for his team mates to test Edgar's ability but it was sky-high attepmts. Thistle 1. Woollens 0.

HALF-TIME.

On resuming, an arrangement in the Woollens attack was made which was much in evidence against Thistle's goal-keeps. A repeated bombardment brought out futile reward to the Woollens. Edgar was kept busy stopping all kinds of shots ranged at him. After trying the ground shots, the Woollen forwards reverted to the high ones which gave the goal-keeper a lot of anxiety, more particularly the dropping shots by Blowers, then Burgess deserved credit for the shot that was intended for below the cross bar but Edgar threw himself with outstretched arms to divert over the bar. Two corners in succession gained nothing but a defense that never gave-up amidst the onslaught.

Faded Away.

The raid was continuous for solid ten minutes until Jack Wade carried the tactics vice versa along with his inside left who missed the upright by inches with a left foot drive. During one of these raids Art Read tried a new stunt in local soccer when in his endeavours to punt over-head, his foot lacked the twirl to do so but the ball shot past Hillman like a flash for a corner kick.

Chambers Injured.

The flag kick was a perfectly placed in centre of goal, Hillman punted clear, then the ball was returned again for the full-backs to nullify, until Browell worked inside the defense to give the goal-keeper some work. He shot for the inside of the cross-bar, the goal-keeper grasped the ball in masterly fashion, just as Richmond headed out of his fingers into the net. A few minutes afterwards, Warde on solo run down the wing collided with Chambers to compell the later to retire for rest of the tussel.

Browell Prominent.

To give credit where its due, Browell on the wing was the most prominent player throughout the whole period. He was always dangerous on the run, a nice artistic dribbler at all times and never failing to test the goal-keeper when opportunity presented itself. From one of his crosses, Richmond got the full strength of a right footer rattled into the net. Hillman stopped the ball with one hand but not enough to prevent it jumping up into the rigging inside the cross-bar. A break away by the Thistle forward line resulted in Warde adding to the total of a hard fought game. Thereafter, play deteriorated, and Woollens missing many chances to score in the last moments. Full time: Thistle 4. Woollens 0.

Goal-scorers: Richmond 3 and Warde.

Woollens—Hillman, goal; Chambers and Cridland backs; Read, Mann and Blowers half backs; Clark Griffine, Mitchell, Blowers and Burgess forwards.

Thistle—Edgar goal; F. Wade and Anderson full backs; Lindsay, J. Wade and Williams half backs; Warde, Hutton, Richmond, Dawson and Browell forwards.

Referee:—W. Rickard.

Linesmen— A. Mitchell and Wm. Barry.

BIG ZIEGFELD HIT HERE IN FILM.

Colleen Moore Enacts Role of 'Sally' in Latest Picture.

Those who enjoyed the stage version of Ziegfeld's noted musical success, "Sally," in which Marillyn Miller made her permanent success, will find added joy in First National's screen version of the same piece, starring Colleen Moore, which comes to the Capitol Theatre to-day.

Colleen Moore brings to the role of 'Sally,' a genius for sympathetic interpretation that unquestionably will make this role an outstanding hit of her long list of successes. "Sally" calls for much human interest, pathos, fire of temperament and delightful sentiment.

Miss Moore possesses all of those qualifications as she ably demonstrated in "Flaming Youth," "The Perfect Flapper" and "So Big."

June Mathis, who has transferred to the screen such successes as "The Four Horsemen" and "Blood and Sand," did the adapting of "Sally" and also was editor-in-chief of production.

The major incidents of "Sally's" obscure origin, her struggle up the ladder of life and love and fame are all there. But Miss Mathis has gone further. She has looked behind the scenes, so to speak, taken the playwright's story and, utilizing the plot thread, embroidered it in a manner that undoubtedly will win her the praise of the stauchest of the admirers of the stage version.

AT THE ROYAL.

COUNTRY STORE NITE TO-NIGHT.

To-night is Country Store Nite at the Royal Theatre.

"TOO MANY KISSES" BIG DIX ROUGH PRODUCTION.

Better than "Manhattan!"

That's what Paramount claims for Richard Dix's new starring picture, "Too Many Kisses," which will be the feature at the the Royal Theatre to-night.

There were a lot of laughs in "Manhattan," but there are more in "Too Many Kisses."

There were good fights in the former, but they don't come up to the battle Dix and William Powell put up in this latest picture.

The picture has a most colorful background — a little Spanish town in the Pyrenees where Dix goes to search for turidium, a valuable mineral of which little is known.

He meets and falls in love with the beautiful Yvonne, a part played by Frances Howard, and forget all about what it was his father sent him abroad for.

William Powell has the role of Julio in the picture. He also is in love with Yvonne and Dix has to beat him up, along with a couple of his knife-throwing henchmen, before he is convinced that it is bad business to interfere where the American's heart is engaged.

Paul Sloane, who made Dix's second starring picture, "A Man Must Live," directed the production, which was adapted for the screen by Gerald Duffy from John Monk Saunders' story, "A Maker of Gestures," which ran in Cosmopolitan Magazine.

AT THE REGENT

"LADY OF THE NIGHT," A PICTURE OF SOCIETY AT BEST AND WORST.

No matter in what station of life one lives, emotions remain pretty much the same, according to the thesis of 'Lady of the Night,' which somes to the Regent Theatre to-night.

Monta Bell, director for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, has brought to the screen a powerful story of society at its highest and lowest levels.

He has filmed the lives of two girls —one at the top, the other at the bottom of the social ladder — who fall in love with the same man.

That it is love of the deepest kind is shown when the spirit of sacrifice moves both of these girls when in the climax they have to choose between what they regard as their happiness and their duty.

Both elect to sacrifice their happiness.

Brilliant social balls, receptions and country club dances set with the lavish hand of wealth are contrasted against the squalid home life of the slums and its only outlet of pleasure —the Bowery dance hall.

And Norma Shearer playing the dual role of Molly, daughter of a convict, and Florence, daughter of the Judge who sent her father to prison, is said to give one of the finest performances of her career. She is supported by an exceptional cast, including Malcolm McGregor, as a young inventor; George K. Arthur, Fred Esmelton, Dale Fuller and Betty Morrissey.

Miss Shearer's double part calls for something more than is usual in dual roles. For one thing she has to look entirely different, for there is little of facial resemblance in the two girls. The picture is made from an original story by Adela Rogers St. John, adapted for the screen by Alice D. G. Miller.

The picture is said to be the best of the three excellent pictures which Monta Bell has directed, with Miss Shearer in the leading role—'Broadway After Dark" and "The Snob" being the other two.

MASTERSON WAS JUVENILE STAR

Fanned Eleven Kiwanis and Clouted For Extra Bases in First Play-off.

K. C. WIN 8-7.

The Knights of Columbus nine won the first game of the city play-off in the Juvenile series when they defeated the Kiwanis team 8 to 7 at Riverside Park Saturday afternoon.

The game was a dingdong affair throughout, much good and bad baseball being in evidence, but being equally divided between the two teams and working together to make a close game.

Casey Masterson's long clouts and fine pitching was the deciding factor in the K. of C. victory. Masterson hit a homer, a triple and a double all into deep right in four appearances. He struck out eleven batters and seemed best in the pinches. Leo Rishea's work at second was a high light in the play of the winners.

The play in the outfield was poor, many flies being dropped and badly misjudged.

The game opened when Ted LeBarr smashed the first ball pitched into deep centre for three bases. Following this good start the Kiwanis got three runs without another hit all coming in on K. of C. misplays. The Knights got one back when Rishea came in on Masterson's double. The Caseys got a cluster of four runs in the third on two errors and two hits. In the fourth Masterson struck out the three batters in order. A double play nipped any chances the Knights had to score in their half.

The Kiwanis tied it up in their half of the fifth but Masterson's homer put the Knights again in the lead. The batters after this began to hit the pitchers more freely and there were generally runners on the bases in every innings.

SETTLE CASE 11 YEARS OLD

Cobourg Man Has Paid Taxes After a Long Dispute.

CLAIMED DAMAGES.

COBOURG, July 20. — A long drawn out case was brought to a conclusion here by Col. W. H. Floyd's solicitors, having paid to Treasurer A. W. Young, of the Town of Cobourg, the full amount of Col. Floyd's taxes for the year 1914. This disposes of the Division Court case brought by the town against Col. Floyd to recover the amount of these taxes, which were not paid, because Col. Floyd adjudged the town to be financially responsible for the breaking of a window in a store, then conducted by him, by a stone thrown from a passing automobile. As the matter now stands the town will not try to collect interest and Col. Floyd waives all claims for damages for the plate glass broken in his store window.

Tax Money Still Owing.

Over $10,000 are still owing in back taxes from 1914 to 1923 and the collector has been advised to take steps to collect all of this.

Many Excursions Here.

Cobourg has had many excursions this week. On Tuesday the Catholic Women's League of Rochester ran an excursion here; on Wednesday a Masonic lodge held an excursion. On Thursday the members of a colored church at Rochester visited Cobourg and Saturday the Kodak Club came over from Rochester.

PETES HAMMER DAINTY OUT OF THE BOX AND BEAT OSHAWA BY 9-5 IN AN IMPORTANT FIXTURE

Jeff Hardill Pitches Johnstonites to Victory in Oshawa Saturday While Petes Play Great Ball.

SOME TIMELY HITTING.

Herb Wolfe and Jimmy Hall Contribute Home Runs to Assist in the Downfall of Oshawa's Veteran Southpaw.

(By F. D. C.)

The Petes maintained their hold on the top rung of the Central Ontario League ladder and shoved Oshawa down a peg on Saturday afternoon by beating the Dainty-Tyson gang 9 runs to 5 in the Motor City.

Hitting with commendable gusto the southpaw slants of Duke Dainty and playing snappy defensive ball behind steady, effective pitching by Jeff Hardill, the Johnstonites acted like league leaders and their victory was clean cut and without a flaw.

The veteran Dainty has never had such a mauling at the hands of a Peterboro team as he received Saturday. They opened on him in the first inning, kept hammering at him confidently as the game progressed and finally forced him to walk out of the box in the eighth inning when seven Peterboro batters in a row cracked out seven perfectly good hits, sending in four runs and leaving the runways densely populated.

Herb. Wolfe's home run with two runners on was the climax in this vicious assault upon Dainty, the Petes' centre fielder whaling the ball hard and far over Fair's head for a clean circuit clout.

Wolfe was not the only Peterboro batter to hit for a four cushion play, Jimmy Hall slashing one to deep right field in the second inning, with the bases empty. Hall had two other hits and a sacrifice fly while Ash, the youngster in the outfield, cracked out a double and two singles in five trips to the plate.

Jeff Hardill was Manager Johnston's pitching choice and the young right-hander justified the leader's judgment in selecting him for this crucial game by holding the Oshawa hitters in check in great style. Hardill had plenty of smoke and a good curve and he worked confidently throughout.

Both teams fielded like big leaguers and the game was a snappy exhibition. Ash and Harrison contributed the feature plays for the Petes, the former grabbing a long fly from Saunders' bat in deep right, and the first baseman going over to the Oshawa dug-out for a high foul. Rose handled eight chances at second and Johnston seven at short, without a skip. For Oshawa Fair's running catch of Johnston's short fly in second inning stood out while the losers pulled off two fast double plays, one started by Toots Ward, who nabbed a high roller with one hand to start the twin execution. Rowden was the pivot in both double plays and altogether took care of eleven chances in fine style during the game.

All the home run honors did not go to the Petes for Alger, Oshawa's right fielder smashed one down the left field foul line in the third inning. Alger later on kicked in with a double and was the only Oshawa player to get more than one hit.

A Good Start.

The Petes started right to work upon Dainty. Rose worked him for a pass and Johnston sacrificed the lead-off man to second. Swanston bounced a double over second, scoring Rose and Harrison singled to right, sending Swanston in. Helson walked. Ash rolled to Dainty, forcing Harrison at third and Wolfe struck out.

For Oshawa Rowden rolled to Rose. Roddick struck out. Tyson singled to centre, but Ash went back and made a spectacular catch of Saunders' long drive to right.

Hall opened the Petes' second with a clean homer to right field. The youngster cracked one over Alger's head and the ball rolled to the fence, Hall being across the plate before the outfielders got to it. Hardill bounced to Dainty for an out at first. Rose rolled to Morrison and Fair tore in fast and made a beautiful running catch of Johnston's fly to short centre.

Morrison, first up for Oshawa, rolled to Rose. Dainty was thrown out by Johnston and Ward struck out.

In the third Swanston drew a walk but Harrison fanned and Helson hit into a double play, Ward spearing his high bounder with one hand and starting a twin killing with Rowden as the pivot.

An Oshawa Homer.

Alger, the first batter to face Hardill in Oshawa's half of the third, slashed one down the left field foul line for a homer, the ball rolling between the cars. R. Fair bounced a single of Johnston's chest but was forced at second, Rose to Johnston, on Rowden's roller to the second baseman. Roddick rolled to Rose and Johnston made a fast play to throw out Tyson.

Ash opened the Petes fourth with a single to centre, moved to second on Wolfe's sacrifice bunt, ran to third on a wild pitch and easily scored when Hall boomed a long sacrifice fly to right centre which Alger nabbed. Hardill flied to Fair. Saunders was tossed out by Rose. Morrison walked. Dainty flied to Hall. Ward's roller to Rose forced Morrison at second

Rose led off in the fifth with a single to left but was out at second, trying to stretch it. Johnston walked and stole second as Swanston struck out. Harrison was tossed out by Rowden

Alger drew a walk in Oshawa's end of the frame and stole second. Fair fanned. Hardill tossed out Rowden and Roddick struck out.

In the sixth Helson popped to Rowden, Ash was thrown out by Ward and Wolfe rolled to Rowden.

Oshawa closed the gap by scoring two runs. Tyson hoisted to Johnston. Saunders singled to left and Morrison lined another single to the same field Dainty cut a fast one on the ground into right, scoring Saunders and sending Morrison to third. Morrison scored while Helson was throwing out Ward, there being no chance for a play at the plate. Dainty was caught off second, Hardill to Rose.

The seventh was scoreless. Hall gave the Petes a good start by singling sharply to right, Alger saving a home run by a jumping one-handed stop of a high bounder. Hall went to second on Tyson's bad throw to catch him off first and reached third on Hardill's out to Rowden. Rose hoisted one to Morrison and Alger snared Johnston's fly to right.

For Oshawa Alger w thrown out by Johnston. Fair struck out and Rowden flied to Johnston.

The Big Innings.

The Petes cracked the game wide open in the eighth. Swanston rolled to Rowden. Harrison rifled a single to centre, Fair saving a homer by a jumping stop. Helson singled to right. Ash cracked a double, the ball bouncing off Ward's shoulder into left centre. Harrison scored on this play. On the first ball Wolfe smashed a homer over Fair's head in centre, the ball rolling to the track while Helson and Ash trotted home ahead of the Petes' centre fielder. Hall beat out a roller to Ward, for his third hit. Hardill singled to centre and Rose crossed up the opposition by dropping a perfect bunt down the first base line for a hit, filling the bases. This was enough for Dainty and he walked off the field, Lennox taking his place. He stopped the fun, getting Hall at the plate when Johnston bunted while Swanston, up for the second time, hit to Rowden, forcing Rose at second.

In Oshawa's half Roddick fanned. Tyson walked. Saunders cut a liner at Hardill who knocked the ball down and threw the runner out. The pitcher's left thumb was injured in the play but he went back to the mound after a short delay. Rose took Morrison's fly back of second to wind up the inning.

The Petes got to Lennox for three hits and a run in the ninth. After Harrison had flied to Morrison, Helson singled between short and third and Ash crashed his third hit through the same port. Wolfe followed suit, singling past Ward to send Helson in. Hall hit into a double play, Rowden touching second forcing Wolfe and tossing the runner out at first.

Oshawa started a belated rally with two out in the ninth but it did not get far. Lennox was out on a high foul which Harrison took on the run near the Oshawa dug-out. Ward lined to Ash in right. Alger doubled to left and Fair was hit. Rowden singled to right, scoring Alger and sending Fair to third. Fair scored when Roddicks' bounder got away from Helson. Helson then tossed out Tyson and it was all over.

MOTORISTS HERE WEDNESDAY TO BATTLE PETES

Twilight Game at Riverside Park Has Oshawa as the Attraction.

MUCH AT STAKE.

Win For Petes Would Put Them in Fine Position in the League Race.

With the Central Ontario League teams now in the home stretch—only seven games being left to play—and with the Ponies and Petes tightly locked at the top and Oshawa a game behind the clash at Riverside Park on Wednesday evening between Oshawa and Peterboro is about the most important of the season. A win for Peterboro would mean that Oshawa would be two games behind with only six fixtures to be played so that the Motorists will put up a desperate fight to trim the Johnstonites and climb up on even terms with them again.

The game will be called at 5 o'clock with George Sullivan of Kingston and Ken Colling of Belleville as the officials.

It is likely that Lennox will pitch for Oshawa while Manager Johnston's selection has not been announced.

On Saturday Belleville play their last game of the season here.

ROSENEATH WIN UPSETTING DOPE

Frankford Let Down With Two Runs and Lucky to Get Them.

HEAVY HITTING.

ROSENEATH, July 20.—Roseneath sprung a surprise in the Northumberland League when they defeated Frankford to the tune of 11 to 2. Roseneath showed some of their old time form on Saturday, the same that carried them to the championship last season. They fielded in almost perfect style and walloped two Frankford pitchers unmercifully. A. Jufelt got 2 three-base hits and his brother, Kary a two-bagger and 2 singles. Davey led with a two-bagger and three clean singles in five times up. Dawson and Varcoe got two hits apiece while Wilson, Keagan and Armstrong got one each. Davey also led his team mates in run getting, making the circuit 4 times. A. Jufelt had 2 to his credit while Dawson, Varcoe, Wilson, Keagan and Armstrong made one each.

Dunnett, the young southpaw, pitched the full game for Roseneath, striking out 5, passing none and hitting one. He had the situation well in hand during the entire game, pitching his best with men on. He should have had a shutout to his credit, holding the visitors scoreless for five innings. In the sixth, with one on and two out, Varcoe let a hard drive get away from him and Jufelt in right field dropped a fly—either would have retired the side before any runs were scored. Dawson, in left field, pulled off a sensational catch in the eighth with two on bases. It looked like at least a three-bagger, but he went back fast and grabbed it over his shoulder. Turner fielded perfectly at third, but he had lost his batting eye and, after Varcoe the first man up in the eighth had bunted safely. Armstrong was brought into the game, and he came through with a nice single. In this inning the entire team came to bat and Varcoe twice, when he delivered his second hit in the one inning, but Jufelt was called out at the plate trying to score from second.

Snider started in the box for Frankford and was lucky to last into the fifth inning when he was relieved by Roberts, but in justice to Snider it must be said that he was the best of the two. It was a sore touch for Frankford, who had aspirations of overtaking Hastings for second place in the league. Umpires Royce and Murphy gave perfect satisfaction to both teams.

Line Up.

Roseneath.—Dawson, lf; Davey, ss; A. Jufelt, rf; K. Jufelt, 1b; Varcoe, 2b; Turner, 3b; Wilson, c; Keagan, cf; Dunnett, p; Armstrong, 3b.

Northumberland League Standing

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Brighton..	6	0	1.000
Hastings..	4	2	.666
Frankford....	2	4	.333
Roseneath	1	4	.200
Colborne..	1	4	.200

Brighton can afford to lost their remaining two games and still be in the play off. Hastings have to win their remaining two games or at least one of them or they are apt to be tied for second place and the right to play off the first team. Should Roseneath, Colborne or Frankford win their remaining three games, while Hastings are losing it would mean a three-cornered tie for second place. Brighton are well away, having failed to lose a game this season, and yet they are no faster than any other team in the league, they just simply get all the breaks and the other teams all say that many of the breaks are bold robbery on the part of the umpire, but we will leave this for the fans to judge. Colborne, like Roseneath, were late in hitting their stride, but they may make it interesting for someone yet. Frankford is a nicely-balanced team, but has not enough experienced players on their lineup, to be very serious contenders in the last race. Hastings, while starting strong, are apparently falling, and it would not be a surprize if they were tied for second place. No matter how it goes, it promises to be a lively tilt when the first and second teams meet to decide the championship, and the right to enter the O.B.A.A. play-offs. The end is only three weeks away and as yet any team in the league has a chance to get in. Next Wednesday's games will go a long way in eliminating some of the teams. Roseneath go to Colborne, and the losers are out of the race, while Brighton journey to Frankford, and Frankford will have to win to be a contender.

LACROSSE DREW FINE CROWD BUT PETES LOST 7-4

Havelock - Norwood Team Came Through When Campbellford-Hastings Defaulted at Last Minute.

HALF TIME 3-3.

Doug Brennan Featured as Goal Getter With Three of Visitors' Total.

Substituting for the Campbellford-Hastings combines, who defaulted at not only the eleventh hour but nearly the twelfth, the Havelock-Norwood aggregation put another Peterboro nick in their lacrosse sticks by beating Johnnie Sutherland's team 7 goal to 4 at Riverside park Saturday afternoon. It was a fair sample of the intermediate brand of the national game, with plenty of action, a few thrills, and more than a few disappointments for the patient crowd that waited almost an hour after the scheduled starting hour for Havelock to arrive. However, without the Easterners, the Petes would have been helpless in a hole of Campbellford-Hastings making, out of which the local management would have had a slim chance of digging themselves back to the good presence demonstrated their desire to help revive and restore lacrosse to the popularity it deserves in this city. For their coming, therefore, whatever their motives may have been, (and of that more perhaps some other time) the Petes are grateful to the Easterners. They saved a situation that would have seriously embarrassed the Petes' executive.

Peterboro was shy a regular at each end of the field, McKinnon being missing from the defence and Pete King from the home. They are not offering any excuses for Saturday's beating. They had chances and failed to make the most of them. Their forwards gummed the kind of plays that Havelock carried through, and once again, as at Norwood, they manoeuvred their attack with an odd man that left the local defense just about helpless. And their chief advantage was manifested in their smoother system in the home field. It was their experience that accounted for those extra goals. However, the Petes are learning and their scoring machine will show more results when the players learn finally not to bunch in front of their opponents' goal.

The teams were as follows:

Havelock — Goal, Albert Armstrong; point, Jim Hooper; cover point, Charlie Brennan; 1st defence, R. Scott; 2nd defence, Alex Weir; centre, H. Kitchen; 2nd home, Doug Brennan; 1st home, L. Plunkett; outside home, Alex Kempt; inside, L. Jack; spares, H. Baker, Ted McGee and H. Plunkett.

Referee — Ernie Doyle, Newmarket.

Bailey started the first rush and the Petes worked inside on a combination by Ranger, Miller and Dundas, who shot straight at Armstrong's breast pad, and that was one chance blocked. In the next play Doug Brennan broke into the limelight and dominated the whole period. He scored the first goal from a difficult angle and with two men checking him, whipping a low bounder into a corner of the net. He got the next one by boring through the defense in an individual effort, and beating Jack LeBarr at close range.

Bailey and Lefty White opened the second period with a nice rush, but Armstrong blocked White's shot. The play shuttled up and down several times. Ira Dundas scored the Petes' first after swinging around the defense and firing through. Armstrong blocked a shot from Bailey, and on the next play Doug Brennan bumped his way through and passed to Kitchen who was uncovered. That was Havelock's third.

Scott put the combines in a hole by cutting Bailey down and drawing a major penalty. After repairs, Bailey bounced the ball off Armstrong's chest protector and Lefty White picked it out of the tangle of upraised sticks and tossed it into the net. And a few minutes later Dundas tied the score.

The Petes had their chance right there. Havelock were in the air and groggy, but they pulled through to the half time bell. D. Brennan buzzed one at LeBarr who saved splendidly, and at the other end Lefty White hung on to the ball and shot wide instead of passing to Miller who was inside and uncovered.

The teams started the third period with the score three all. Ranger broke through the Hooper defense, but Armstrong saved, and from then on Alex Weir took a big hand in deciding the game. In fact this period resolved itself into a duel between Weir and Bailey, and the Norwood man won the decision because his reinforcement were seasoned veterans compared with most of the Petes. Weir led frequent raids down the field and only the spectacular work of J. LeBarr kept the scoring down. Two got by him, but Referee Doyle disallowed them because of Havelock's invasion of the goal crease. H. Plunkett shot twice in succession without effect, and then Doug Brennan dodged through the outer defense and passed to Baker, who scored. Weir and Baker worked and easy odd man combination giving Weir a fat chance and he didn't waste it.

Bailey rallied his home field and with Ranger, Killoran, Dundas and O'Toole buzzed around the Havelock net. Armstrong blocked a couple and his defense were making good use of the hickory. Dundas rolled a fast one from outside but Armstrong scooped it out. Bailey gave the crowd a thrill with a display of footworks as he circled, pirouetted and tried to get past Weir and Hooper. His effort was wasted when Doug Miller took a pass and tossed the ball wide of the net. Scott, Brennan and L. Jack relieved the pressure and LeBarr stopped on from Jack's stick, but the Petes returned the attack. Ranger swung up against the defense and Miller missed the pass out in front of the goal. Jack O'Toole blazed the next at Armstrong, and then on the transfer of play Doug Brennan eased himself inside for a soft goal. And the game was practically decided when the third quarter bell rang with the score 6-3.

O'Toole and Killoran were prominent as the last period opened, but it was Bailey who scored the Petes' last counter. Lefty White gummed his shot on a pass from O'Toole. Lou LeBarr and Dundas tried hard on passes from Bailey but Havelock had lined up a full defense. The last goal went to the Plunkett brothers "Hitney" scoring.

Doug Brennan was the most effective player on the field. Weir, Hooper and Armstrong also made a good job of their positions, and L. Plunkett and Scott were conspicuous. For the Petes, Jack LeBarr kept the score out of double figures by his excellent work in the nets. Doug Miller missed several chances, Jack O'Toole should have had a goal or two to his credit, Ranger did a lot of work around centre field and Lou LeBarr had a full share of the play. Ira Dundas made a fine impression on the fans, and Captain Bailey set the pace for the Petes, took a rather stiff drubbing, and generally turned in a fine performance. The game was strenuous, but Ernie Doyle was strict and impartial, and kept both teams in check.

AMERICANS AND BRITISH CLASH ON SPORT FIELD

Harold Osborne, of Illinois A.C. Best Athlete in London Championships.

TWO DAYS' GAMES.

Britons Win Ten of Nineteen Events at Stamford Bridge.

LONDON, July 20. — (Canadian Press).—England and Scotland won ten of the nineteen events of the annual two-day track and field carnival of the British amateur athletic championships which concluded Saturday afternoon. A crowd of many thousands filled the seats and standing room of the Stamford Bridge Stadium to see the south of England champion, O. R. Griffith, narrowly defeat the northern champion, W. Nelson, in a stirring half mile.

A second thrill was furnished by the struggle in the 120-yard hurdles when the English champion, F. R. Gaby, had to equal his own record of 15 1-5 seconds to defeat Ivan Riley, a United States invader.

The quarter-mile was run by H. B. Stallard of Oxford in fine style to an easy win.

Australia showed when R. S. Honner leaped 23 feet 11 inches in the broad jump.

Other events which fell to British competitors were the hammer throw, four-mile run, two-mile steeplechase, one mile relay and two mile walk.

The dashes and some of the field events went to trans-Atlantic competitors. Loren Murchison, Newark sprint star, scored two firsts, doing the century in 9 9-10 seconds and the 220 in 21 3-5.

Murchison did not receive his trophies because of dissatisfaction with his status as an amateur. Murchison's amateur standing, already disputed in Germany when he recently raced, is being investigated by the British Amateur Athletic authorities.

Harold Osborne of the Illinois A. C. was the best all-round athlete on the field. He won the high jump with a leap of six feet four inches was second in the hop, step and jump; cleared eleven feet in the pole vault six inches below the winning mark, and did 21 feet 10 inches in the broad jump.

P. W. Jones, of the Illinois A.C. contingent won the pole vault.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

Complete hand-leading of the golf club can never be attained without a right-hand grip that is maintained throughout the entire swing. This does not imply that the right hand must grip with a vise-like hold; on the contrary the pressure from the right should be only equal to that of the left hand. Since the left hand is so dominant, however, in the back swing, it is a common practice for players to let the right hand sluff off the shaft or at least off the job. Especially does this occur at or near the top of the back swing. The club is then pulled down too much with the left hand and the pulled ball often results. Watch the right hand and keep it closed against the left hand and the shaft all the way through Shorten your back swing if neeessary—chances are that won't do you anything but good anyhow..

ROYAL OAK WON FROM NICHOLLS

Selected Team Was Defeated by 4 Wickets and 24 Runs.

FIELDING GOOD.

A good game of cricket was enjoyed on Saturday last at the Exhibition grounds when the Royal Oak met a team selected by A. Nicholls, the former team winning by four wickets and 24 runs, rain causing the stoppage of the play but not before a decision had been reached. The Nicholls team was un-fortunate owing to the absence of two bowlers who were being depended upon to take up the attack, and thus the team was considerably weakened, although some of the regular players strengthened the battery end.

Coutts, for the Nicholls XI carried his bat through for 19 runs and for the Royal Oak C.C., Thorpe scored 19 not out, and F. Dyer with 17, including one hit across the boundary line for 6 runs, were the top scorers. The bowlers for the Royal Oak were W. Mann with 6 wickets for 12 run and C. Duggan, jr., with 3 wickets for 12 runs. For the Nicholls aggregation Manning got 2 wickets for 19 runs, Jones one wicket for 15 runs, and R. Dyer one wicket for three runs. The fielding all round was excellent and if the Nicholls aggregation had been stronger on the attack no doubt a different story would have been told. The following is the complete score:

A. Nicholls' XI

Nicholls, E.E., bowled Mann	2

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

The Petes got the edge on Oshawa in the final brush for a place in the play-off series by beating the Motorists on their own ground Saturday afternoon, and if Manager Johnston's crew, who have won six out of their last eight starts, can repeat the trick on Wednesday when Oshawa will play a twilight game at Riverside Park, the home talent will have a two-game advantage over the Reeves men. Wednesday's game, which will start at 5 o'clock, should be one of the most exciting tussles of the year, as Oshawa, needing a victory in the worst way, can be depended upon to put up a tough fight for the decision. Lennox, the southpaw who beat the Petes here 2 to 1 some weeks ago, will undoubtedly get the pitching assignment in this week's twilight fixture.

As a result of Saturday's games the Central Ontario League standing is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Peterboro	10	7	.588
Kingston	10	7	.588
Oshawa	9	8	.529
Belleville	5	12	.294

Games this week—Wednesday, Oshawa at Peterboro and Belleville at Kingston; Saturday, Belleville at Peterboro and Kingston at Oshawa.

The showing that is being made by the younger players on the Peterboro squad is particularly gratifying. Whitehouse, although still under the junior age limit, has won five games on the mound for the Petes. Jeff Hardill, eligible this year for the juvenile ranks, for he was not eighteen on May 1st, has shown some splendid stuff in the game he has worked. Jimmy Hall, still young enough to play junior, has been hitting steadily, his three hits Saturday enabling him to climb into the .300 class, and Fred. Ash, just too old for the junior series and a member of last year's champion Laweviews, has hit himself into a place in the Petes' outfield, hammering out seven hits in the last three games.

* * * * * * * * *

In addition to the homers registered by Wolfe and Hall, the Petes were within an inch of a circuit wallop on two other occasions on Saturday. Hall's second hit was a sharp drive to right which hopped high on the hard ground, and Alger saved a homer by a jumping stop with his gloved hand. In the eighth Harrison hammered one on a line to right centre, but Reg. Fair tore over, and leaping into the air, speared the ball on the first hope with his gloved hand, a fine play by the centre fielder.

* * * * * * * * *

It's a shortstop in baseball who goes from the hero's role to that of the goat. When Dainty cracked out a hit in the sixth to drive home a run he was wildly cheered. Two innings later when the Petes were slamming safe hits all over the sward the wolves in the grandstand howled for the southpaw's scalp. The Duke finally concluded he had had enough and walked off the field.

* * * * * * * * *

Belleville trotted out a junior pitcher, Gerow, on Saturday, and the youngster delivered a nice brand of stuff, holding the Ponies to eight hits. He is with the Belleville junior team who expect to make a good showing in the O.B.A.A. series this season.

* * * * * * * * *

It is a long time since Peterborough has had so many hitters in the .300 class so late in the season. Right now Wolfe, Swanston, Harrison, Rose, Ash and Hall are all hitting over the .300 mark, and Heckman and Helson are crowding it close.

* * * * * * * * *

The whole Peterboro squad was delighted when Jeff Hardill turned in a victory on Saturday. In his last start against Oshawa the youngster was outlucked and lost a 2 to 1 decision, and his teammates were tickled when he came through with a win before an alien crowd and against a veteran like Dainty.

The Peterboro Hockey Club are running a series of dances at Rye's Pavilion, the first a week from tonight, that promise to be popular not only from a social standpoint but as a means of assisting the club financially in preparing for next season's operations. The tickets, which go on sale at once, will no doubt be in demand. —F. D. C.

JUVENILE WOOLLEN TEAM DEFEAT VETS

Mitchell Scored Only Goal Before the Final Whistle.

The Young Vets met the Woollens on King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon in the Juvenile Football League, and a very close game ended in a win for the Woollens by one goal to none. It looked as if it was going to be another draw, when Mitchell and Saunders made a nice run and Mitchell scored the only goal of the game just as the whistle sounded for time. The De Laval are now, barring accidents, the winners of the first Juvenile League.

Mr. W. Downer refereed the game.

BRITISH TRACK TEAM'S VICTORY GREAT TRIUMPH

Oxford-Cambridge Athletes Overwhelm Princeton-Cornell Combination at Atlantic City.

WON NINE FIRSTS.

Lord Burghley and Douglas Lowe Each Carried Off Two Events.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 20. —A combined Oxford-Cambridge track team scored a smashing triumph over a Princeton-Cornell combination in an international track and field meet on Saturday 9 1-3 to 2 2-3. Under the English system of scoring, the rules of which governed this meet, only first places counted, the Britons winning nine outright and splitting the pole vault with their rivals.

British Blue Blood accounted for a double triumph for the invaders when Lord David Burghley of the House of Cecil, won the two-hurdle events, the 120 high and the 220 low.

Douglas G. A. Lowe of Cambridge accounted for two more victories for the visitors when he won his specialties, the half mile and the one mile.

The defeat of the United States collegians was overwhelming. Lowe walked in in the half-mile while Stevenson won with ease in the quarter. In four of the events both British entrants finished ahead of their rivals.

Lowe's Sportsmanship.

A bit of British sportsmanship was inserted in the picture in the mile Both Lowe and his team mate, Starr were 25-yards ahead as the field neared the tape. Lowe slowed almost to a walk and nodded to Starr to pass him, thus giving his team mate credit for a first place victory. Starr, however, declined the honour and trailed his benevolent team mate across the tape, while Gallagher of Princeton and Prytherch of Cornell struggled for individual supremacy far in the ruck.

On the main court a thrilling battle was staged between Captain J. J. Lesard and Jimmie Van Alen, Cambridge, and the Williams pair, Captain Mills P. Baker and C. B. Marsh. It was only after they had played their limit that the invaders were able to win 6-3, 3-6, 8-6.

MARMORA, July 20.—Deloro on Friday outplayed the Raybestos of Peterboro, 8 to 2, on the local enclosure. Armstrong served them up for the Petes, whilst opposed to him was Shea of Deloro. The Petes opened the scoring in the first inning through a walk to O. Nicholls and a single to centre-field by Moore. Deloro failed to equalize in their half. The second innings, the Petes were robbed of further scoring by Brown's throw to home from left field; Deloro against went out in order. The third innings was scoreless for both teams. NORTH DUMMER AND MASSEYS IN TWO GOAL DRAW

Roberts Saved City Team From Defeat in Junior Soccer Game.

HALF TIME 1-1.

North Dummer met the much improved Massey Team on King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon in the Junior Football League, and a very well contested game resulted on a draw of 2 goals each. The Township men introduced Taylor, a new comer at back, and he fully justified his inclusion in the team. Massey's had the assistance of Mayette, lately of the Quaker Oats team. He gave a great display; his running and shooting, with Hilliard Jory's display at back, formed the features of the game.

Massey's won the toss and had the advantage of sun and wind in their favour. Mayette was soon in evidence, grazing the cross bar in the first minute. From the goal kick, H. Jory sent well down to R. Payne, who gave to H. Batten. Fowler, who seemed quite at home in his new position and blocked Batten's shot. R. Walker again sent Mayette away, Garfield Little just robbing him when he was well placed. H. Munroe passed to R. Payne, who drew first blood for the Township men. From the Centre Kick Massey's aided by Roberts, who played very well, were very dangerous. Taylor relieved by sending out to H. Batten, whose final effort went just wide of the mark. From the goal kick Roberts made a nice run and sent out to Mayette who beat Jory and put the teams half time with the score standing 1-1.

Second Half.

Upon resuming, the Township had the advantage of the wind and began to force matters. R. Walker and Underwood had their work cut out to keep the Township men at bay. Munroe tested Fowler with an old-timer, which he fielded like an artist. A. Jory fastened on to the ball and sent to H. Batten, who beat Fowler with a nice shot. This put new life in the Massey's, and H. Walker kept feeding Mayette to advantage and looked as if Mayette would score. H. Jory, coming to the rescue with huge kick. Munroe and S. Payne were next prominent by a nice movement and sent to R. Payne, whose shot Fowler saved in fine style. A penalty was given against the Township men. Roberts took the kick and Jory saved. There was an infringement of the rules and it was retaken. Roberts made the game two all. It was now very fast, each goal was visited in turn. There was no further scoring and the game ended in a draw of 2 goals each.

The Teams.

North Dummer.—Goal A Jory; backs, H. Jory, Taylor; halves, G. Little, E. Batten, A. Jory; Forward. H. Batten, R. Payne, S. Payne, R. Hamilton, H. Munroe.

Massey's—Goal, Fowler; backs, R. Walker, Underwood; halves, McGraw' Roberts, Batley; forwards, Mayette' Fenner, Williams, H. Walker, Marston

NAB BANK BANDIT WHILE MOTORING

Former Motor Car Salesman Caught After Vacation at Fenelon Falls.

TORONTO, July 20.—(Canadian Press).—Leslie Hathaway, 27, of London, Ont., was arrested in Toronto Sunday afternoon on a charge of robbing a branch of the Bank of Montreal at Thorndale, near London, on July 3 last, and escaping with seven thousand dollars.

Hathaway was taken into custody as he was driving along the street in a motor car with his wife, local police having received the license number of his car from London police.

He reached Toronto on Saturday night from Fenelon Falls, where he had been holidaying for a week. Yesterday he went for a drive around the city, and was on his way to apartments which he had rented when apprehended. Mrs. Hathaway was not held, her explanation satisfying the local police that she had no knowledge of the robbery. Detectives searched the apartments and found $3,800 secreted in an old kit bag under the bed.

The suspect had recently been employed as a motor car salesman by a London firm.

Binder Twine Higher

In preparation for the heavy harvest which is in prospect the local dealers are stocking up heavily with binder twine, the majority of which comes from the factory at Brantford. The price is 17 1-2 cents for twine that runs 600 feet to the pound and 18 1-2 cents for the kind that goes 650 feet. This is three cents a pound higher than last year's price, this, too, in spite of the fact that there is no duty on this commodity. The price of all rope and cordage has also increased in a like proportion.

It is estimated that it will require from six to ten pounds of twine to bind an acre of wheat this year as the crop is excellent.

Fear Note Unsatisfactory.

PARIS, July 20. — (Canadian Press.)—From what is known about the contents of the Germany reply to a French communication making known the views of the Allies with respect to Germany's suggestion for a western security pact, it expresses the wish of the government to have the security question discussed in an international conference. But it is feared that portions of the note dealing with guarantees for the countries on Germany's eastern borders and with Germany's entry into the League of Nations will prove unsatisfactory, and that at best the note will only lead to a continuation of negotiations.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

"By their fruits ye shall know them," was the text of the sermon delivered at the morning masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday, by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien.

"The good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, as long as it is good, nor can the evil tree bring forth good fruit. We should often ponder over our future life, for in it we will receive the reward we have merited by our good actions here or reap the punishment which we have brought upon ourselves. God did not create anyone to be lost. He is the principal agent in our salvation, and to His grace can be attributed our redemption, far more than to our own efforts. But even Divine grace avails us nothing, unless we make use of it. If the fruits of our daily lives prove to be good, then we may know that we are in the state of grace, but if, on the contrary, they are evil, then we are not living according to the Divine will in our regard.

"It matters not so much what we have been in the past. The great question is: What are we going to be in the future? We are not going to gain salvation by spasmodic prayer, or by saying "Lord, have mercy on me." God said "Not all who say 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter into the kingdom of heaven. Let us examine our actions and see if we are living as God wants us to live."

Speaking of the many sudden deaths and accidents that descend on the heads of unsuspecting mortals, His Lordship said: "It was the intention in the mind of God when he created us that we should be here for a few years to observe His commandments, to encounter difficulties in which He will assist us, and to merit here the reward of eternal life. We should hope in God, because He is the principal agent in our salvation, and love Him because He has given us the means of saving our souls. In the words of Christ is embodied the Divine promise: "He that doeth the will of My Father, he shall enter into the kingdom of heaven."

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Standard Mining Trade Lively With General Advance Shown

TORONTO, July 20. —(Canadian Press). — After the week-end holiday, trading on the Standard Mining exchange was active this morning, transactions numbering 123,960 shares Keora with over 20,000 shares advanced 2 1-4 points to 14 1-4 while argonaut was 1 1-2 points up to 26. Dome Mines was up 1,10 to 15.30 and Kirkland Lake displayed strength at 40 3-4 an advance of 2 1-2 points, McIntyre advanced 80 cents to 13.50 and Teck Hughes was 16 points up to 160.

Grain Prices Drop With Favorable Weather Report

CHICAGO, July 20.—(Canadian Press).—With reports at hand that the cutting of wheat had begun in North Dakota and that weather conditions in the north-west were favorable, the wheat market took a decided early swing downward to-day. Many traders were apparently acting on opinions that the recent sharp advances in price had discounted the crop damage advices, and that a reaction was to be looked for. Rain in parts of Alberta had some further bearish influence, opening unchanged to 1 3-8c lower, September 155¾ to 156, and December 155 to 155½, was followed by set-backs all around with September touching 153 3-4 and December 154¾.

Favorable weather over the corn belt led to lower prices for corn and oats. Starting at 3-4c decline to 1-8c advance, September 105 3-4 to 105 7-8, corn underwent a material drop that carried September down to 104¾. Oats opened unchanged to ¼c off, September 45 5-8. Later the decline became general. Lower quotations on hogs weakened the provision market.

Active Trading and Some Gains On Toronto Market

TORONTO, July 20 (Canadian Press).—The Stock Exchange continued fairly active at the opening session this morning. Atlantic Sugar Common dominated in volume of transactions, and improved a half point at 33 3-4, but Brazilian was the feature, going to a new high at 58 7-8, and closing at noon at 59 3-4, a net gain of 5-8. Twin City and Winnipeg each strengthened a point at 65 and 50, and B. C. Fishing was up a point at 47 1-2. Smelters advanced 7-8 at 97 3-4, and Bread Common and B Preferred, continuing prominent, strengthened fractionally.

Vigorous Buying Gave Upward Trend To Prices

NEW YORK, July 20.—(Canadian Press).—Sporadic profit-taking failed to check the market's upward trend and vigorous buying operations continued in many parts of the list throughout the forenoon. With railroads approaching the period of normally heavy traffic, following record-breaking car loadings in the first half of the year, the accumulation of standard dividend-paying issues, such as Atchison, New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio, was renewed, lifting prices a point or so. The revival of merger talks accounted for rallies in Wheeling and Lake Erie Preferred, which jumped almost three points before noon, and in Rock Island, which advanced 1 1-8. Plant expansions by several motor companies coincident with the introduction of new models and the announcement of higher tire prices contributed to strength of motor, accessories and tire stocks. Mack Trucks crossed 190 to record high price. U. S. Steel and American Can, receded fractionally from their early highs. Call money renewed at 3 3-4 per cent.

ROTARY HEARS ABOUT WORK OF PUBLIC SERVICE

Mr. G. N. Gordon Tells Some of the Things Done By Various Departments.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

Deputy Speaker Approves of the Abolition of Patronage For This Organization.

Mr G.N.Gordon, K.C., Dep. Speaker of the House of Commons greatly interested the members of the Rotary Club at to-day's luncheon as he told them something of the activities of the various public services that are maintained under administration after administration at Ottawa and about which the people generally know little or nothing.

There was a large attendance, the visitors including Mr. T. F. Matthews of Toronto, well-known former local resident.

President J. H. Seels informed the members that although a definite statement could not be made yet that the net proceeds from last week's carnival would be as high as last year's and it was hoped that they might be even better. President Seels expressed his appreciation of the action of His Lordship Bishop O'Brien in having the carnival announced from the pulpit of the local Roman Catholic Churches. He, also, thanked the Kiwanis Club most heartily for the splendid help given by the Kiwanians and expressed his sincere thanks to all members of the Rotary Club for their fine support.

Mr. Gordon in his address, first dealt with the Department of Agriculture and referred briefly what had been accomplished, accredited herds, the discovery of Marquis wheat by Dr. Sanders, the Fife wheat originating from the township of Otonabee, the Canada Grain Act and the other similar measures.

The Deputy Speaker then dealt with the disastrous effect on trade that had followed the development of smuggling on a gigantic scale. This he explained followed the adoption of prohibition by the United States resulting in the building up of a huge traffic in liquor with that country and naturally in the smuggling in to Canada on the return trip of silks, tobacco and other commodities easily carried. This smuggling was costing Canada many millions of dollars and Mr Gordon explained the steps that have been taken by the two countries to deal with the situation.

Of the Civil Service, Mr. Gordon said that although some politicians who did not see very far ahead of them were not favorable to the abolition of patronage and the assurance given Civil Servants promotion on merit was a splendid contribution to efficiency.

The speaker referred to what was being done by the Pensions Board and the Soldiers Land Settlement Board and showed that these bodies had dealt with a big problem in an efficient manner.

Incidentally, he paid a warm tribute to the work of the G. W. V. A. in assisting in dealing with problems affecting the returned soldier.

ROTARY'S THANKS.

The Rotary Club of Peterborough expresses its grateful appreciation and thanks to the citizens of Peterborough and district, for the splendid support given them in this year's Rotary Carnival.

In the face of adverse weather conditions it was an even greater success than last year. Without this fine spirit of co-operation Rotary's efforts would be in vain.

The net result of this year's Carnival will be assistance for many a suffering child.

The Rotary Club is particularly grateful to Kiwanis who encouraged and assisted the different committees in every way possible—The Rotary-Annes and all the other ladies of the city who lent a helping hand—the Fire Department, the Rangers' Band, the Salvation Army Band, the Boy Scouts, the Utilities Commission, Messrs. Archibald and Richmond, Mr. Harold Fry and his carpenters, those taking part in the street parade, the merchants who contributed advertisements in the programmes, in cash, and prizes for the events; the Police Department, who so ably contributed their services; Mr. Doug. Loomis, for assistance in running off the sports; and The Peterboro Examiner, whose sympathetic and practical articles helped to bring the aims and objects of the Carnival before the public.

As the account are not all in, the exact figures cannot be given, but they will be published at an early date.

J. H. SEELS, President.
Peterboro Rotary Club.
